OLIVE STREET PAVING WILL BE STARTED WITHIN A FEW DAYS

Supreme Court Decision Makes It Possible to Go Ahead With $11,800,000 of Public Works.

WILL PROVIDE WORK FOR THOUSANDS

Charter Amendments Upheld Provide That Benefit Taxes Shall Pay Bulk of Expense.

Workmen will start within a few days on the paving of widened Olive street and other thoroughfares, as a result of the decision by the Missouri Supreme Court yesterday, upholding the validity of seven city Charter amendments adopted by the people last April to facilitate public improvements.

This ruling in a friendly test case, makes it possible for the city to go ahead with $11,800,000 in street, alley and sewer projects which have been delayed since the litigation began last August.

The widened section of Olive street, between Twelfth boulevard and Channing avenue, was the principal project affected, and its unfinished condition was an eyesore throughout the autumn and winter. The Bridges Asphalt Paving Co., which has a $314,552 contract to lay a smooth surface on this 100-foot traffic artery, expects to have the first men on the job tomorrow or next day, and to be in full swing with it in two weeks.

A dozen other contractors likewise are planning to get started speedily on numerous other street, alley and sewer contracts, and the remaining projects will be taken up as quickly as possible. The improvements will be in all sections of the city. The chief sewer work is the $950,000 Southwestern joint sewer, draining the eastern Lindenwood section south of Arsenal street. A contract for this will be awarded soon.

Work will be provided for several thousand men including those directly employed by contractors and those engaged in supplying materials. City officials believe this will have a noticeable effect on the present condition of unemployment.

Test Suit.

The Supreme Court decision was in a suit brought by the Harry L. Hussman Refrigerator Co., attacking special tax bills in a benefit district set up for the completed improvement of Leffingwell avenue, between Cass and St. Louis avenues. Judge Atwood wrote the opinion, Judges Walker and Blair concurring, Judge White concurring in a separate opinion and Judge Ragland in the result, while Judges Graves and Gantt dissented.

At the same time the Court dismissed a suit on the same law points brought by the Rosebrough Monument Co. in the Olive street matter, Judges Graves and Gantt dissenting from the one-paragraph opinion on this of their five associates. It had been hoped when the litigation was started that it would be settled by last September.

The chief contention was a close point of constitutional construction over the legality of Charter amendments, which, like these involved, were submitted to the voters by the Board of Aldermen rather than by the initiative.

A provision in the State Constitution of 1875, authorizing a special Charter for St. Louis, clearly provided the method of amending the Charter, which was ratified in 1876 in connection with separation of the city from St. Louis County. But the Constitutional section provided no means for later adopting a new St. Louis Charter. Subsequently in 1902, a new Constitutional section was adopted, to correct this omission.

Basis of Attack.

It was contended that the language of this constitutional amendment of 1902, concerning charter amendments, was such that it could only apply to the then existing Charter of 1876, and could not apply to a charter adopted later, such as that of 1914. On this basis, it was contended that the 1914 Charter could not legally be amended by the method used, and that the amendments were invalid.

Judge Atwood overruled this contention, holding the new Charter of 1914 superseded the one of 1876, and that every provision of the constitutional amendment that related to the old Charter also ap-

EARTHQUAKE CLOSE TO CITY INDICATED BY SEISMOGRAPH

No Report, However, of Shocks Which St. Louis U. Locates 12 Miles Away.

Slight earthquake tremors, thought to have centered about 12 miles from St. Louis, were recorded by the St. Louis University seismograph yesterday. The tremors began at 3:15 p. m. and continued for three minutes, with the main tremor at 3:16.

Father Joliat of the department of geophysics of the university said the disturbance may have been either east or west of the city and he thinks it was of sufficient intensity to have been detected possibly through the quivering of window panes and dishes. No reports of any earthquake, however, have been received.

EAST ST. LOUIS AGAIN TALKS OF DROPPING THE "EAST"

Chamber of Commerce Head Revives Proposal to Change the City's Name.

The Downtown Business Men's Association of East St. Louis is again considering a proposition to discard the "East" from the city's name and call it St. Louis, Ill.

The suggestion this time comes from A. C. Johnson, president of the East St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, and although no action was taken by the Business Men's Association, several reasons for the change were indorsed by a majority of the members at a midweek meeting.

A proposal to change the name of East St. Louis was publicly debated two years ago. The "Nos" won.

POLICE CHECK UP ON ALARMS; 95 PCT. OF CALLS ARE FALSE

Reports of Holdups and Shootings Must Be Confirmed Before Flying Squad Starts.

Chief of Police Gerk has made a new rule to verify reports of robberies and other trouble reported by telephone because about 95 per cent of emergency calls for the police flying squad have turned out to be false alarms.

All reports of robberies hereafter, at banks or other places, will be verified by telephone before the "flyer" is sent to the scene, said Chief Gerk, and similar reports of shootings will likewise be checked. The purpose is to lessen the hazard to police officers and the public from quick runs by automobile on every report.

ROBBERS SET FIRE TO SCHOOL

That Is Theory in $2000 Bank Holdup at Amherst, Neb.

By the Associated Press.

AMHERST, Neb., March 17.—Robbers are believed to have fired a $10,000 schoolhouse late today to attract attention of citizens while $2000 was taken from the First National Bank. The two men known to have entered the bank escaped.

While the villagers were fighting the fire, which destroyed the school building, the pair entered the bank, held up A. T. Reynolds, president, and three clerks. Scooping up all the cash in sight, they fled, overlooking a large amount of currency in the open vault. Both were masked.

G. L. EDWARDS IN SUIT CRITICISES BANKER'S ACTIONS

Former General Counsel of National Bank of Commerce Attacks J. G. Lonsdale's Methods.

SAYS THEY CAUSED $500,000 LOSS

Alleges $4,000,000 Charge-Off of Assets Was Made in 1913 on Order of Examiners.

In a reply filed in Federal Court yesterday in the suit for legal fees of George L. Edwards, former general counsel for the National Bank of Commerce, Edwards asserted that the bank, in 1913, charged off $4,000,000 from its assets, and also lost approximately $500,000 in 1922 through the purchase of trade acceptances of a Havana sugar brokerage concern. The $4,000,000 charged off was in addition, he said, to one of $5,748,729, which the bank announced in July, 1912, after an examination of the bank's assets by national bank examiners.

Edwards declared that the bank had been ordered by the examiners to charge off the additional $4,000,000 within 18 months after the first amount had been written off. No announcement of the writing off of the $4,000,000 was made public.

The bank explained, in charging off the $5,748,729, that it had made several loans to concerns which, prior to the financial panic of 1907, were prosperous and had splendid prospects, but that it could not collect the debts without causing the debtors irreparable harm. It was these loans, and a reduction of $800,000 from the book valuation of the bank's real estate, that made up that total. The details of the loans were not announced.

Edwards is seeking $25,000 from the bank for legal services for defending the injunction proceeding by H. Clay Pierce to prevent the collection by the bank of a judgment obtained in the State courts against him for $700,000 growing out of the promotion of the Tennessee Central Railroad enterprise in 1901.

Criticises Lonsdale's Action.

The bank entered the Cuban transaction, Edwards declares, on the insistence of John G. Lonsdale, president of the bank, and over the repeated protests of himself. Final decision to enter the transaction was not reached by the board of directors of the bank, Edwards avers, until Lonsdale had threatened to resign unless his wishes in the matter were followed and in the face of the fact that Edwards had expressed the opinion to the board and Lonsdale that participation in the syndicate was not only unwise but illegal.

Large losses were suffered by the bank as a result of its participation in the Cuban deal, Edwards declares, and following a report by him to the board of directors that in his opinion Lonsdale was responsible to the bank for losses incurred, an open break occurred between him and the bank's president and the breach was never healed.

Cites Bixby Case.

In his report, which is set out in full in the reply, Edwards told the board that Lonsdale occupied exactly the same position toward the bank in the Cuban deal that W. K. Bixby occupied in the transaction which resulted in the purchase by the bank of $217,000 of annuity certificates and $2,666,000 of bonds of the Railway Exchange Building Co., for which the bank is now suing Bixby.

"I had been studying an analogous case, the Bixby case," Edwards asserts, "and held that in that case it was ultra vires for the bank to have invested its money in the annuities and first mortgage bonds of the Railway Exchange Building Co., pursuant to syndicate agreements creating these securities, on, among others the ground that it was a speculative investment and the transfer of a portion of the assets of the bank from the control of the directors to the control of syndicate managers. I believe this is a sound view and so far this view has been sustained by Judge Faris of our district court in the Bixby case."

Arriving at this conclusion Edwards declares he advised the board of directors of the bank that they might be held liable for the losses sustained collectively and severally, but pointed out that, as in the Bixby case, Bixby alone was sued, so they might in this case proceed only against Lonsdale. No suit on this transaction, however, has ever been instituted.

The conclusion by Lonsdale in a letter to Bixby set out in Ed-

DUMMY ENTRIES CONCEAL MORE OF SINCLAIR'S BONDS

Republican Records Show Contributions to Party by Persons Who Say They Made None.

SENATORS CLOSE CHICAGO INQUIRY

Wilbur Marsh, Democrat, Who Denies Concealment Bargain With Upham, Subpenaed.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 17.—After questioning seven more witnesses, the Senate Teapot Dome sub-committee closed its hearings here today without finding further trace of the Continental Trading Co. Liberty bonds which Harry F. Sinclair turned over to Will H. Hays in 1923 to help extinguish the deficit of the Republican party.

Seeking to trace the item of $25,000 appearing on the records of the late Fred W. Upham, once treasurer of the Republican National Committee, and credited as a contribution from the Cook County Republican Committee, the Senate investigators interrogated Alexander Fyffe, "harmony chairman" in Cook County in the 1924 campaign, but he knew of no such gift from the county organization to the national body.

Homer Galpin, chairman, and Charles V. Barrett, treasurer, of the regular Cook County committee have testified they had no knowledge of such a contribution, and the Senators are proceeding now on the theory that $25,000 of the $60,000 of Harry F. Sinclair Liberty bonds which Hays sent to Upham were sold for use in wiping out the deficit and the Cook County committee credited with the donation.

Discrepancies Are Found.

Several other discrepancies in the Upham records have been found by the subcommittee which, during its sitting here, found that $2000 of the Sinclair bonds were turned over by Upham to B. A. Eckhart, assistant treasurer of the Republican committee, for a like contribution in cash. Eckert sold them. Several witnesses who testified here said they made no political contributions at the time they were credited on the Upham records with having done so, and the investigators assume that some of the Liberty bonds were sold in small blocks and the transactions concealed through "dummy" entries on the records.

Irl G. Hipsley and A. V. Leonard, former associates of Upham, reiterated at the last session their statements that Upham had told them that Wilbur W. Marsh, of Waterloo, Ia., treasurer of the Democratic National Committee at that time, had suggested in 1923 that neither party make a report of contributions for that year since none was required by law.

Marsh has emphatically denied that he entered into any such agreement with Upham. A subpena directing him to appear before the entire committee at Washington next Wednesday has been issued by Senator Nye (Rep.) of North Dakota, the sub-committee chairman, who wants to question Marsh about the Democratic contributions in 1923.

Testimony that Phillip D. Armour and F. Edson White, president of Armour and Company, meat packers, contributed $4000 each to the Republican campaign fund in 1924 was given by them. They said Eckhart, had solicited them, and that they had not been reimbursed for their subscriptions by Liberty Bonds or otherwise.

Witness Fails to Respond.

One witness, F. L. Siddons of Chicago, failed to respond, when called today. Senator Nye indicated Siddons might be called later after further inquiry.

As a result of the testimony of James P. Connery, Chicago coal dealer, the committee may recall Will H. Hays. Connery acted as intermediary between Sinclair and Hays in the return of $85,000 which the former chairman of the Republican National Committee paid to the lessee of Teapot Dome to complete the return of the $160,000 in securities which Sinclair advanced in 1923 to help wipe out the Republican party deficit.

NEW APARTMENT BUILDING BOMBED

About $1200 Damage at 5815-17 Roosevelt Place — Nonunion Labor Was Employed.

An explosion, apparently of dynamite, damaged a new four-family apartment building at 5815-17 Roosevelt place, in the northwestern part of the city at 8:20 o'clock last night.

The building was being put up by Philip Siteman, a contractor and builder, of 5330A Ashland avenut. Siteman said he had employed non-union labor exclusively on this as well as on other buildings, but had never had trouble. He estimated the damage at $1200. The loss is insured.

Workmen were busy putting finishing touches on the building yesterday and Siteman did not leave until 6 o'clock. The explosive, planted near the rear steps, blasted a four-foot hole in the basement wall, which is 18 inches thick, and blew away the porch. Most of the windows were shattered.

THREATENS TO ABANDON TEAPOT DOME PIPE LINE

Sinclair Co. Says Nebraska Tax Is Too High on "Almost Idle" Oil Conveyor.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OMAHA, Neb. March. 17.—The Sinclair Pipe Line Co. is threatening to abandon its oil pipe line from the famous Teapot Dome oil field of Wyoming through Nebraska to Kansas City unless Nebraska reduces the tax assessment on the line. The reason given is that there is not sufficient oil flowing through the pipe line to make it profitable according to a letter just received from the attorneys of the company by the Nebraska State Tax Commissioner.

The letter says the line is almost idle with an average flow of but one-eighth its capacity, referring to the cut in the expected source of supply when the Federal Courts canceled Harry Sinclair's lease on the Teapot Dome field. The line cost millions of dollars and operates through 12 counties of Nebraska with a tax of $680,000 on an assessment value of $3,841,000.

HOUSE WAR VETERANS OPPOSE DISABLED OFFICERS' PAY BILL

Two Declare Legislation for Army Scale Would Discriminate Against Enlisted Men.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—A group of House members who are world war veterans plan to oppose the Senate bill making disabled emergency officers of the world war eligible for regular army retired pay when the measure is brought before the House for consideration.

Two of the group, Representatives Simmons (Rep.), Nebraska, and Rankin (Dem.), Mississippi, characterized the measure as "discriminating against the majority of war veterans in favor of a few former officers." The legislation would affect about 3000 emergency officers, they said.

Senators Won't Fly With Lindbergh

WASHINGTON, March 17.—A few days ago, when the invitation of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to the members of the Senate to fly with him was read, there was a rush to get on the list of those who had accepted. Today the Secretary of the Senate said but one—Senator Frazier of North Dakota—is now on the program. Senator Ashurst, who wants to fly, will be away on the days designated by Col. Lindbergh. After serious, sober thought many Senators have decided to stay on the ground.

LINDBERGH'S FEET FLAT; ONLY DEFECT, ARMY TEST SHOWS

Flyer Unquestionably Underweight, Says Major Who Conducted Examination.

By the Associated Press.

MITCHEL FIELD, N. Y., March 17.—Flat feet was the only defect found when Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took the rigorous "609" today, the physical examination every service flyer must pass twice a year. He was declared as near the hypothetical normal as any flyer in the air corps.

The examination was conducted by Maj. I. P. March and P. D. Moulton and lasted two hours. When it was over March complimented the aviator on his physical condition and Lindbergh replied: "A lot of newspapers will be disappointed about that."

The New York-to-Paris flyer qualified his answer to the question whether he used liquor or tobacco. "No," he answered, and then as though on second thought, "Not that I don't approve, but I just don't like the taste."

In announcing that Lindbergh had been found to have flat feet, March said this "went with his build." Although otherwise in perfect physical condition, March said Lindbergh unquestionably was underweight, being six feet, two inches tall, and weighing only 159 pounds.

200 PATIENTS CARRIED TO SAFETY FROM HOSPITAL FIRE

Several on Lower Floors of Albany Building Jump Into Street; No Serious Injuries.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 17.—Two hundred patients were carried to safety down ladders, fire escapes and elevators here today within 20 minutes after fire started on the upper floor of the Memorial hospital. A nurse, failing to strike a life net squarely in her leap from an upper floor, was injured seriously. One patient leaped into the net without injury, while several jumped from lower floor windows. The latter were believed to have sufered little injury.

The fire originated in the x-ray room on the top floor of the 5-story building. Thick, suffocating fumes rolled from the room and through the upper floors, handicapping the work of the corps of nurses to rescue the rcharges.

Firemen and police, reaching the hospital, found the nurses and patients leaping from windows to escape the heavy smoke. Patients from the lower floors already were being hurried from the building on stretchers and in the arms of hospital attendants. Firemen swarmed up ladders and made many rescues. A fleet of ambulances carried the patients to other hospitals.

'MR. RUTH ELDER' FIGHT CHAMP

Lyle Womack Has Defeated Every Middleweight in Canal Zone.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PANAMA, March 17.—Lyle Womack, husband of Ruth Elder, has beaten all the middleweights, professional and amateur, in the Canal Zone. Under the name of Jeff Ross he has fought many times, winning in every bout. Womack is considered an amateur but he has beaten professionals, mostly army and navy sluggers.

When he is not fighting he works in his uncle's distillery in Panama. The uncle has the biggest bourbon trade in the republic.

$320,000 for Stock Exchange Seat.

NEW YORK, March 17.—Value of membership on the New York Stock Exchange has risen to $320,000, sale of a seat having been arranged at this new record figure, an increase of $5000 over the pervious transaction.

TWO COUPLES ROBBED ON COUNTY HIGHWAY

Six Men Take Auto and $10,000 in Jewelry on Natural Bridge Road.

Six masked men, armed with sawed-off shotguns, robbed Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Licklider of 6 Sunset Court, Normandy, and Mr. and Mrs. Roman Pfarrer of 404 North Hills drive, of between $10,000 and $12,000 in jewelry and $200 cash and drove away in Licklider's Packard sedan, leaving them stranded on a roadside in St. Louis County, last night.

Licklider was driving on the Natural Bridge road, near Lucas and Hunt road, at 9:30 o'clock when a Cadillac touring car occupied by six men crowded him to the roadside.

They forced him to drive three blocks west to Salome avenue and there robbed the two couples of their jewelry and cash.

The stranded victims of the robbery later were picked up by passing motorists and brought into the city, where they reported to the police.

Mrs. Pfarrer reported the loss of a diamond bar pin valued at $450, a dinner ring set with 21 diamonds, valued at $500, and a solitaire diamond ring valued at $2500.

Pfarrer, a broker, was robbed of $80.

Mrs. Licklider's loss included a diamond bar pin valued at $1100, a ring set with a cluster of 30 diamonds value at $5000, a dinner ring set with 29 diamonds valued at $1000 and a necklace valued at $40.

She also reported loss of a platinum wedding ring valued at $275.

Licklider was robbed of a diamond ring valued at $175, a diamond stick pin valued at $100 and $135 in cash.

SINCLAIR'S TIP TO HAYS COST CHICAGOANS $1,000,000

Passed On to Speculators in 1923 With Disastrous Results, Brokers Recall.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, March 17.—Gossip in brokers' offices along La Salle street has it that H. F. Sinclair's tip to Will H. Hays on Sinclair Consolidated Oil in 1923 cost Chicago speculators more than $1,000,000. Hays passed the tip on to James F. Connery. Connery has wealthy relatives and the "buy Sinclair" whisper was circulated until it caught many politicians.

The stock was selling around $35 at the time. No buying could hold it, though it had already dropped 30 points. It lagged under $20, whereas the tip was that it was going to $75.

GERMANY'S DEFENSE BUDGET THIS YEAR $140,000,000

Gen. Groener Tells Reichstag Increased Costs Result in Greater Outlay for Army.

BERLIN, March 17.—Germany is spending on her defense forces this year $140,000,000, or roughly $5,000,000 more than in 1927.

This appears to be much money for the small army and navy she is allowed to keep under the Versailles treaty, but everything is dearer nowadays, Gen. Groener, the new Minister of Defense, explained in the Reichstag in reply to criticism.

The present German army of 100,000 men, he said, now costs as much to keep as 300,000 men before the World war.

Germany, he added, was spending only 7 per cent of her budget on army and navy, whereas England spent 13 per cent, the United States 16 per cent, France 21.7 per cent and Poland 31.5 per cent.

S-4 RAISED; IN TOW WITH EIGHT BODIES TO DRY DOCK

Submarine, Sunk in Collision, With Crew of 40, Three Months Ago, Being Taken to Boston.

SALVAGERS WORK THROUGH WINTER

When Craft Reaches Navy Yard Today Search Will Be Made for Messages From Dead.

By the Associated Press.

PROVINCETOWN, Mass., March 17.—Just 15 minutes short of three months from the time she was sunk in collision with the coast guard destroyer Paulding off this port, with the loss of her crew of 40, officers and men, the submarine S-4 was brought to the surface today by a naval salvage crew. The submarine was sunk at 3:37 o'clock on the afternoon of December 17 and her conning tower broke water at 3:22 this afternoon.

Shortly after 5 o'clock the S-4 was on the way in tow to dry dock at the Boston navy yard, where doctors will enter the torpedo room and after compartment to remove the eight bodies still remaining in the vessel. Thirty-two bodies were recovered during the salvage operations.

A search will be made for letters or messages which may have been left by the six men who were imprisoned alive in the torpedo room and tapped out messages to divers for several days after the submarine had been sunk.

It was estimated that, under ideal conditions, the trip to Boston might be made in 12 hours, but from 22 to 24 hours was set as the outside limit. The tow at the start was drawing 27 feet.

Diver Leads Burst of Cheering.

A dramatic demonstration on the deck of the salvage ship Falcon greeted the culmination of three months of grueling effort in winter weather on the part of the salvagers. As the conning tower appeared above the surface, Diver Tom Eadie, who won the Congressional Medal for saving a fellow diver the day after the S-4 went down, led the crew of the salvage ship in a burst of cheering.

The men on board eight other vessels clustered about the scene joined in the shouting and officers on board the Falcon hurried to congratulate Capt. Ernest J. King and Commander Harold S. Saunders, who were in charge of the operations.

Although divers had braved winter frost and rough water for three months to get the hull ready for raising, the final operation lasted about four hours. At 11:05 a. m. the water was blown from the control room of the submarine and one by one the other compartment were rendered buoyant.

Then came the six great pontoons which had been lowered and arranged in pairs along the hull. Commander Saunders, watching the air valve, had hoped to time the raising so that the S-4 would come up at the same minute of the day that she had gone down. As the submarine emerged he exclaimed:

"We made it 15 minutes before she was sunk just three months ago today."

All of the 24 Navy divers who worked on the S-4 were on the deck of the Falcon as the submarine came up. In the 91 days since the collision these men had had 44½ days suitable for diving and had made 566 dives to the ocean bed, 102 feet down. Although no serious accident occurred, there were 10 cases of "bends" or caisson disease.

Sister Ship at the Scene.

With favorable weather in sight, the salvage crew had worked nearly all last night lowering and making fast the last pair of pontoons. In addition to the Falcon, the submarine tender Bushnell, the mine sweeper Mallard, the tugs Wandank, Sagamore and Iuka, the submarine S-6, sister ship of the S-4, and the destroyers Maury and Mahan were gathered at the scene.

The second compartment to be blown was the motor room, which was cleared of water at 11:57 a. m. Then came the engine room, the torpedo room and the battery compartment. The main ballast tanks, the fuel and safety tanks were blown at 2:15 p. m. At that time Commander Saunders decided that the submarine had enough air and

HOUSE APPROVES $274,000,000 NAVAL PROGRAM

Butler Bill Passed on Standing Vote of 287 to 57; Measure Goes to Senate.

15 CRUISERS AND AIRCRAFT CARRIER

Attempt by Representative Blanton to Obtain Record Vote on Final Passage Is Lost.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Strengthening of the American Navy by the construction of 15 new 10,000-ton cruisers and one aircraft carrier of 13,800 tons, was approved today by the House. The cost of the proposed ships, exclusive of aircraft equipment, has been estimated at $274,000,000.

The House action came with passage by a standing vote of 287 to 57 of the Butler bill to authorize the building of the vessels. The measure now goes to the Senate.

An unsuccessful effort was made by Representative Blanton, a Texas Democrat, to obtain a record vote on final passage. Under House rules this is possible only by the consent of one-fifth of the members present and less than that number supported the Texan's motion.

The bill as passed carried an amendment by Representative Sproul (Rep.), to request the President to urge the "necessity" for a further international conference for naval arms limitations. It also would give the President power to suspend any or all of the construction in the event of such an agreement being reached

Another amendment, sponsored by Representative Dallinger (Rep.) was written into the measure to provide that half of the ships must be constructed in Government navy yards.

No Definite Completion Date.

The cruisers, the largest that can be built under terms of the Washington naval pact, would be laid down at the rate of five a year during the fiscal years 1929 and 1931, inclusive. The aircraft carrier, less than half the size of the carriers Lexington and Saratoga, would be started prior to June 30, 1930.

The measure fails to propose a definite completion date for any of the vessels, but the Naval Committee which drafted the program argued that the provision that the Secretary of the Navy annually submit estimates to the Budget Bureau to carry on the construction would insure building of the ships and prevent them from becoming only a "paper fleet."

The bill also would direct the Secretary of the Navy to submit to Congress by Dec. 10, next, specifications and the estimated cost of two salvage ships for use in submarine or other ship disasters.

Program Is Not Competitive.

Supporters of the bill argued that the program represented the original American proposal to the unsuccessful Geneva naval parley; that it was designed to meet the needs only of the American navy and was not competitive with the naval building programs of other nations.

Twenty of the 21 members of the naval committee concurred in the statement that completion of the 18 ships still would leave the United States second to Great Britain in sea power.

Opposition to the program was headed by Representative McClintic of Oklahoma, a Democrat, on teh naval committee, who sought unsuccessfully to provide for the construction of 15 submarines in place of the chuisers, and also by Representative La Guardia, a New York Republican, who argued that there was no danger of war within a generation and that the ships would outlive their usefulness without ever firing a shot in battle.

After passage of the bill La Guardia issued a statement declaring that he, like Blanton, felt that action should have been taken by a record vote adding that it was "indeed significant" that it had been refused.

"The dissatisfaction expressed by the sponsors of the bill to the amendment providing that one-half of the ships be built in Government navy yards," he said, "reveals the principal reason for this vast building program which is to give work and profit to private shipyards.

"If private shipyards are to be indirectly subsidized it would be far better and productive of better results if Congress could appropriate money for the building of new up-to-date ships for the Shipping Board to replace the old and obsolete ships now in commission."

La Guardia said that in citing figures yesterday in proof of his contenton that the United States was on a parity with Great Britain regarding a number of classes of ships that he had been misquoted by the press. He said the figures were obtained from the Navy Department itself and had not been supplied by Frederick J. Libby of the National Council for the Prevention of War.

Representative Black, a New York Democrat, also issued a statement declaring that "I understand that the Committee on Appropriations does not now intend to appropriate for cruisers."

"It is quite evident that the Republican controlled committee," he added, "was concerned more with private shipyard profits than with building a navy."

The naval program approved by the House represents a material reduction over that proposed by Secretary Wilbur and represented at the time of its submission to Congress as in line with the fiscal plans of President Coolidge. In its original form the program proposed 25 cruisers, five aircraft carriers, nine destroyer leaders and 32 submarines. The estimated cost was placed at $740,000,000.

OLIVE STREET PAVING WILL BE STARTED WITHIN A FEW DAYS

plied to the new. He held the intent of the section was clear and that the method of amending the Charter was lawful.

He overruled several other attacks on the manner in which the Charter amendments were printed on the ballot, and legality of the method of publishing notice of the special election.

Special tax bills have not been issued yet for the Olive street job, but payment for clearing the 40-foot strip added to that thoroughfare and laying a new sidewalk has been made with bond money out of the city's share of the cost. The Leffingwell pavement has been completed, and the contractor has collected most of the special tax bills from benefited property owners, who did not wait to see whether the Supreme Court would uphold their validity.

Charter Provisions.

Summarized, the charter amendments which were attacked in the test case are:

Eliminating as unnecessary the 30-day period for a referendum before an improvement ordinance becomes effective; providing for the use of bond money for a revolving fund, to be reimbursed as special taxes are collected, the idea being to permit the city to pay cash to contractors instead of making them discount special tax bills at banks, thus enabling them to omit financing costs from their bids; providing for authorization of an improvement and establishment of a benefit district in one ordinance, as a time-saver; changing the ratio of expense of street and alley improvement so that abutting property bears one-fourth and the benefit district three-fourths; permitting the city to share the cost of sidewalks with abutting property owners denying credit on special tax bills for the cost of improvement of public highways by private interests.

Only about three weeks of this year's normal paving season has been lost by the delay in getting the Supreme Court's decision. This loss will not hamper the program materially, Chief Engineer Horner said.

Work That Can Be Done.

There are 278 street paving and 182 alley paving projects, with total estimated cost of $7,250,000, which the city can proceed with this year. They are divided in the following categories:

Under contract but held in abeyance pending outcome of the suit—43 streets and 15 alleys, estimated cost $1,122,450. This includes widened Olive street.

To be let to contractors between March 27 and April 10—29 streets and 30 alleys, $640,265.

To be advertised next week for April letting—24 streets, $438,500.

To be let somewhat later, ordinances having been passed—61 streets and 52 alleys.

Pending in Board of Aldermen—75 streets and 50 alleys.

Hearings on proposed ordinances to be held shortly by Board of Public Service—25 streets and 25 alleys.

Bond issue projects, not affected by the suit—nine streets, $250,000.

Delayed projects under old procedure, not affected by the suit—12 streets and 10 alleys, $405,000.

How Expense Will Be Met.

The greater part of the cost of the foregoing projects is to be met by special taxes on benefited property, although in some instances part of the cost will come from bond issue money.

The city has under contract, or about to be contracted, the greatest sewer construction program in its history—amounting to $9,500,000, of which $4,555,000 can be expended this year. Of the total for this year, $1,400,000 of the work was affected by the litigation but the rest would have gone on anyway, being under bond issue or old special tax procedure. The contracts for the part affected by the suit aggregate $2,500,000.

Four of the sewer projects, with total cost of $70,000, have been under contract since last autumn and have been held in abeyance till the suit was settled.

If the Supreme Court had knocked out the Charter amendments, the city would have been able to carry out a $5,100,000 or $6,340,000 street, alley and sewer program this year, the amount depending on whether procedure with one set of projects was considered legal under the circumstances.

PUBLIC SERVICE CO. TESTING COST OF ELECTRICAL HEATING

One Street Car Equipped to Creck Amount of Current Required; Others to Follow.

The Public Service Co. has installed electric heat in one car to check the amount of current and cost of electric heating of cars against the cost of heating with coke in stoves.

It is planned to equip two additional cars with the electric heaters and conduct the experiment through the remainder of this winter and possibly through next winter in order to get accurate costs.

General Manager Greenland said yesterday that it has been the experience of some cities with weather conditions similar to St. Louis that heating street cars with electricity requires about as much current as to operate them, in which case it might be too expensive to heat with electricity in St. Louis. He said cars can be heated with coke for about 12½ per cent of the cost of electricity.

HOUSE COMMITTEE HOLDS J. M. BECK SHOULD BE SEATED

Six Republicans and One Democrat Sign Report on Pennsylvania Congressman-Elect.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Holding that men who have been chosen representatives in Congress should not be excluded unless their cases present a clear violation of the Constitution, a House Elections Committee today recommended that James M. Beck, Solicitor-General of the United States under the Harding administration, be permitted to retain his seat as a Republican Representative from Pennsylvania.

Beck was elected to succeed William S. Vare, whose right to sit in the Senate has been bitterly contested on the ground that his campaign expenditures were excessive.

The Beck report, signed by six Republicans and one Democratic member of the committee, was accompanied by a minority report which presented the contentions of two Democratic committeemen that the Pennsylvanian was not an inhabitant of Pennsylvania in the constitutional sense at the time of his election.

Must Rely on the Electors.

The majority report declared that "we must rely upon the integrity, the patriotism and the good sense of the electors in the various districts with respect to the choice of a fit membership in the House of Representatives.

"This is a part of the very genius of representative government," it continued. "And we do not think that it is proper to seek for strained and captious interpretations of this paragraph of the Constitution to find reasons for rejecting men who have been chosen through the deliberate will of their constituents as indicated at the polls."

The right of Beck to take his seat in the House was challenged by Representative Garrett, Democratic House leader, at the opening of the session. The House permitted him to take the oath and referred the case to an Elections Committee.

The committee decided that Beck is a "citizen" of Pennsylvania.

"We do not think this can be disputed," it added. "Born in that State, after having left it, he has returned, and maintained a legal residence more than sufficiently long to satisfy the constitutional provision of that State as to citizenship therein."

"Mr. Beck is a legal elector in the State of Pensylvania. We do not think this can be disputed. Having maintained a legal residence in that State for more than sufficiently long to qualify him for the electoral privileges, he attended to the formalities thereof, paid the pol tax required, offered himself to the Registration Board for registration, was registered as a voter without challenge, and thereafter and before election performed the privilege of voting in an election without challenge.

Minority Files Objections.

The minority report, signed by Representatives Browning of Tennessee and Wilson of Mississippi (Dems.) declared that while any constituency should have the right to choose its representatives in Congress, that choice "must be within constituitonal bounds."

"Our charter of liberties, the Constitution," it asserted, "should stand above the aspirations of an individual who would subvert it or the action of constituencies who ignore it. If Mr. Beck is to retain his seat we view the precedent, not as a part of the general 'erosion' of the Constitution, but as a frontal attack on it, a blasting process which is to weaken the foundation of the great American dream of 'representative Government.'

"In a day when a political machine can select any individual it chooses to put into the House, there are multiplied dangers to those the fathers knew when they made this inhibition. Without reflection in the least on the personal desirability of Mr. Beck, it is clear that, if his contention is to prevail, an all powerful, though it be an unscrupulous combine in control of a distinct machine, can select anyone they need for any special purpose, and the House would be powerless to resist it."

RICE-STIX CO. SUES FOR $243,400 PAID ON INCOME TAXES

Concern Had Net Earnings of $4,000,000 in 1919, Suit Filed in Federal Court Discloses.

Suit against the United States Government for $243,457.76, with interest from Nov. 15, 1920, was filed by the Rice-Stix Dry Goods Co. in Federal Court yesterday. This amount, the company alleges, is due on excessive income taxes paid for 1919.

The suit discloses the dry goods company, in 1919, had a net income of $4,007,006.64 and paid that year, under protest, taxes allocated to the month of December, 1918, amounting to $194,701.01, or 58.39 per cent of its net income for that period. The petition also sets forth that the company, on its net income of $3,667,681.09 for the 11 months ending Nov. 30, 1919, paid an excess profits tax amounting to $949,005.75, or 25.87 per cent of its net income, making the total tax assessment by the Government for the 12 months from Dec. 1, 1918, to Nov. 30, 1919, $1,153,706.76.

The dry goods company contends that under the 1918 revision of the income tax law adopted for relief of corporations which had paid excessive taxes, it is entitled to a refund. An appeal made previously for this refund, it is stated, was denied by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Among the reasons set forth to show why the company is entitled to such a refund, the petition cites failure of the government to consider the firm's large expenditures for good will; failure to consider the fact that a large part of the firm's business has been done on borrowed capital; failure to take account of a serious disproportion between the company's income and the fact that the company is largely a closed corporation with officers drawing salaries out of proportion to value of their services as compared with officers in other corporations, and failure of the government to provide a special assessment, under provisions of the 1918 relief clauses.

The government's omission of all these considerations, it is contended, works a severe hardship on the company and places it at a disadvantage with its competitors.

Upon these showings, it is set forth, the commissioner of Internal Revenue granted its appeal for relief for the year from November, 1917, to November, 1918, but denied its appeal for a special assessment for the fiscal year of 1919. Conditions in that year, it is declared, were the same as in the year preceding and the commissioner's action in denying its petition is termed illegal, unjust and arbitrary.

HOLDUP MAN RETURNS DIMES AFTER ROBBING MAN OF $32

Two Other Robberies Reported; Woman Loses $147; Total Loss at Grocery $115.

A robber held up Joseph Norwood, 4537A Page boulevard, in the 5000 block on Goodfellow avenue last night, took $32 from his pockets, but returned a small bank partly filled with dimes.

Mrs. Ethel Urban of 4638 Heidelberg avenue, St. Louis County, reported to police she was robbed of $147 by a man who held her up on McNair avenue between Lynch and Sidney streets shortly before 9 o'clock.

At 8:55 a robber held up Philip Lehr, grocer at 4418 Connecticut street, took $37 from the cash register, $69 from a cigar box and $5 from Lehr's pockets and escaped.

LOUISIANA WILL FAVOR SMITH AS FIRST CHOICE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March . Out of the bitter controversy over the method of selecting the delegates to the Democratic National convention one fact is plain—Louisiana will be for Gov. Al Smith of New York as long as he has a chance to be nominated for the presidency. If the time comes when his backers release their supporters, many of the delegates, if not all, will go to Senator James A. Reed of Missouri because of his aid to the State and the whole Mississippi Valley in the fight for permanent flood control.

No instructions were given the delegates elected by the State Central Committee. The election itself overthrew all traditions of the State. Since the State sent its first delegation to a Democratic National convention, the delegates have been elected at a State convention, which was guided by action of parish and district conventions. Having control of the committee, the incoming faction, headed by J. Huey P. Long as Governor, threw tradition aside and pushed through a slate prepared in advance. Protest on the part of the minority was overruled.

The fact, however, and the controversy which has waged since, with threats at first of a contesting delegation to the convention, show that the delegation now elected would make a fight for the seats of Louisiana in the convention, does not change the position of Smith in the State. The New York Governor will get the votes, if for no other reason than this: The leaders of the delegation are for Smith outright and in the open, and the other delegates will follow them.

The newly elected Governor got only 18,000 votes out of 80,000 in New Orleans, but practically all of these votes were for Smith for President. Back of this Smith support there is a leaning toward Reed as second choice, this sentiment being held by the leaders who opposed Long and by some scattering sentiment out in the State. If the time comes when a second choice has to be made, it is not unreasonable to predict that it can be swung to Reed.

Long, although he never has made a definite statement, is believed to be for Smith. Col. Robert Ewing, who supported him for Governor through two large daily newspapers, is for Smith. Col. John P. Sullivan, Long's principal backer in the city, is for Smith.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Supporting the views of Edward P. Costigan, who has resigned in disgust from the packed United States Tariff Commission, Alfred P. Dennis, a Maryland Democrat appointed to the commission by President Coolidge, said today that he too would get out except for his hope that something will be done to improve present conditions.

"The commission has been confronted with enormous difficulties in the administration of the law, difficulties which have been emphasized by the presence on the commission of members with political axes to grind," Dennis said.

"I have repeatedly stated in public and again reiterate that the commission is not run on the level. We grind out cases here involving higher duties, but when it comes to lower duties, we have done nothing outside of a few cases of despicable unimportance, such as paint prushes, handles and live bob white quail.

"We have spent years in obtaining the facts in some of the important lower duty cases, the cost ranging from $25,000 to $75,000, only to have euthanasia decreed in the latter stages of the investigation by the special interests represented by the high protectionists wing of the commission.

"The flexible tariff is thus used as a cover to prevent the very things it was intended to do. Mr. Costigan, feeling that the case was hopeless for an impartial scientific administration of the tariff act, has voluntarily sought retirement. I am not quite so hopeless about the situation as Mr. Costigan, since I think the attitude of the President is distinctly sympathetic to clearing up the difficulties which have embarrassed the commission.

SEATTLE WOMAN WEDS EX-PRINCE WITH HINDU POMP

Miss Nancy Miller, 35, Becomes Wife No. 3 in Harem of Deposed Maharajah of Indore.

10,000 GUESTS AT MARRIAGE FEAST

Garments of Bridegroom Loaded With Jewels, Bride in the Dress of a Mahratta Princess.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BARWAHA, India, March 17.—Miss Nancy Ann Miller, 35 years old, of Seattle, Wash., and Tukoji Rao, former Maharajah of Indore, were married here today with the prolonged but richly picturesque ceremonials of Hindustan. Devi Sharmista is the Hindu name bestowed on Miss Miller before her marriage. She is wife No. 3 in Tukoji's harem.

Tukoji Rao told newspaper men he expected to proceed with his new wife to Indore Monday, stay there for a few days and to leave for Europe at an early date in order to enable the former Miss Miller to undergo an operation for appendicitis.

As a ruling Prince Tukoji Rao III was a powerful personage, but as an ex-maharajah he is an ordinary Hindu subject who receives no official recognition. He has an immense personal fortune of money and jewels. As ruler of the state he was accorded a salute of 19 guns anywhere in India and a salute of 21 guns within the Province of Indore, but now the arrival and departure of his suite at Indore is marked by no official demonstration.

Preliminary Ceremonies.

The elaborate wedding ritual of Hinduism was supplemented by several preliminary ceremonials which were necessary to bring Miss Miller into the same caste as the bridegroom and otherwise conform to Hindu practice. She was first admitted to the Dhagar caste—then adopted by Princess Tarabai, who in turn gave her in adoption to Col. Lambhate so that he in turn might give her in marriage.

The various rituals were accompanied by all the wealth of lavish display that has been characteristic of Indian life for centuries. There were beautiful clothes galore on men and women; opulent displays of jewelry by both sexes, elaborate decorations of the streets, gaudily bedecked elephants and every accessory to make the ceremony uniting the American girl to the deposed ruler attractive to the native population.

And natives of high and low degree flocked by thousands to participate as spectators or guests in the event. They seemed to gather fresh enthusiasm and interest, although the ceremonies began early in the day and continued far into the night.

A wedding feast for 10,000 guests concluded the ceremony.

Adopted Into Dhangar Caste.

When admitted to the Dhangar caste the bride sat at meat with women of the caste after accepting food such as had been previously served to Tukoji Rao. This act made her a Mahratta as well as a Hindu.

Next among the preliminaries came two ceremonies called "magani" and "tila.' The former began with the planting of a pole near the bridegroom's residence. After this a deputation from his household accompanied by a guard of honor marched to the bride's residence to formally ask her "parents" for her hand.

Prior to this the adoption ceremony was gone through at the bride's residence. Sharmista appeared for this part of the program in a gorgeous sar with lace border, a pink bodice and a gold embroidered shawl. She wore a pearl necklace ornamented with diamond bangles.

She was taken as daughter by Princess Tarabai and then given in adoption to Col. Lambhate, a member of the bridegroom's household, while Hindu priests chanted hymns and showered blessings upon her.

The "magani" concluded with worship of the 'letter of consent" from the bride's "parents" with which the procession returned to the bridegroom's residence.

There the "tila" ceremony was performed. It was of a highly elaborate nature, but was mostly a ladies' affair. The ex-Maharajah was supported in it by his sisters and other immediate female relatives. He wore his wedding clothes and after he had been presented with the letter of consent from the bride's parents, vermillion powder and tumeric powder which had been used by the bride were applied to his forehead by several ladies. These ladies received presents from him.

Religious ceremonies followed, including an invocation to the gods to witness the ceremony and insure a successful marriage.

The bride and bridegroom set forth in separate processions for the pavilion, where the ceremony was held, the former ruler in full state dress and wearing blazing jewels and the bride wearing the dress of a Mahratta princess.

The only European touch was an engagement ring with a magnificent diamond.

The procession, which included elephants, traversed the densely crowded streets of the city and converged on a huge gorgeously bedecked pavilion where an enormous crowd had gathered.

Barwaha was transformed by multicolored buntings and festoons adorning the roadsides. The palace grounds was ablaze with electric lights. Two pavilions had been erected, one for the performance of the marriage ceremony, the other for the reception of the guests. Both were hung with rich tapestries. An elaborate ritual lasting for two hours was performed before the ex-Maharajah and the American woman formally proclaimed themselves husband and wife.

BORAH COLLECTS $1601 TOWARD SINCLAIR FUND

Contributions Run From $1 Up to $1000 Check of Senator Cutting.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The first deposit of the Sinclair repudiation fund was made today by Senator Borah of Idaho in a bank here. It totaled $1490. The day's returns ran the collections so far to $1601.

Confident that he would receive the full $160,000 from Republicans throughout the country in answer to his appeal to repudiate the contribution of this amount to the Republican campaign deficit of 1920 by Harry F. Sinclair, lessee of Teapot Dome naval oil reserve, Borah declared tonight "we will raise it and we must raise it before the next campaign."

The $1000 contribution of Senator Cutting (Rep.), New Mexico, is the largest single contribution so far. William M. Calder of Brooklyn, former Republican Senator from New York and one of the lieutenants in the campaign of Secretary Hoover for President, sent $200 today.

Gifts From $1 Up.

Other contributions ranged from $1 up. In addition, the Senator said he had received a promise of $1000 from a person in Chicago.

Borah only smiled when asked what steps he would take if the contributions failed to materialize as rapidly as expected, but some believed he would go personally before the Republicans of the country in a campaign for funds if necessary.

One check for $5 was returned by the Senator. It was from Representative Boylan, Democrat, New York, who contributed this amount with a suggestion that Borah amplify his prohibition questionnaire to Republican presidential candidates by asking them if they favored "ridding the party of the odor of oil." The Senator replied that the check "seemed to have been "rather reluctantly given" and therefore it was returned.

List of Givers to Fund.

Among the other contributors to the Sinclair repudiation fund were: S. O. Levenson, Chicago, $100; George A. Schriener, Washington, $10; William G. Simpson, Detroit, $10; C. P. Connolly, Newark, N. J., $10; J. H. Yost, Winchester, Va., $5; James W. Remick, Concord, N. H., $10; James H Hamilton, Washington, $5; Herbert Rosenberg, New York, $2; Leo H. Hirsch Jr., Princeton, N. J., $5; Harry L. Benedict, Boston, $5; J. A. Reinhart, Patterson, N. J., $5; Roy Harris, New York City, $2; B. P. Grunauer, Cleveland, $1; J. F. Youz, Charleston, W. Va., $1; Harry W. Younger, Athens, N. Y., $5; Rev. BANKERS SEEK FOR MEASURES TO THWART ROBBERS

Madison County Association Calls Meeting Following Death of Cashier, Slain in Holdup Friday.

Following the death yesterday of Elmer G. Baltz, cashier of the First National Bank of Madison, from a bullet wound inflicted Friday by robbers who escaped with $23,500, the Madison County Bankers' Association announced a special meeting would be held in a few days to adopt protective measures against robbers.

Baltz, shot through the abdomen, died in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Granite City, after four persons gave their blood for transfusion in an effort to save him. Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the home of his father in Millstandt, with burial in Mount Evergreen Cemetery, Millstadt.

The cashier's guard, Frank H. Smith, who was shot in both hands by the robbers, is recovering.

A police character, brother of an Italian gang leader, was arrested yesterday for questioning in connection with the Madison holdup. Detectives said he would also be questioned concerning a bank robbery in Kansas City several weeks ago.

Standing Reward of $1000.

The Madison County Bankers' Association has a standing offer of $1000 reward for the apprehension of bank robbers. Recommendations that a reward of $5000 or $10,000 be offered for the arrest or killing of any bank robber in Madison County will be made at the next meeting of the bankers' association by the chairman of its Committee on Protection, D. E. Aylward, a banker of Livingston.

At the time of Friday's holdup, which took place in front of the Madison Postoffice as Blatz and Smith were taking $23,500 from the Postoffice to their bank, two field representatives of the Illinois Bankers' Association, R. C. Saunders and Joseph Schrader, were in Granite City urging bankers there to adopt a protective, program, which has been taken up in many Illinois counties.

Protective Arrangements.

The program calls for the appointment by the Sheriff of three special deputies for each bank. The deputies are men employed in stores adjacent to the bank and located strategically. When robbers appear, a bank employe can notify the deputies by pressing a buzzer connected with their stores. The deputies are then expected to pick up shotguns and capture the robbers, dead or alive.

Until Friday's robbery, banks in the Tri-Cities—Granite City, Madison and Venice—had not been bothered by robbers since 1924, when a series of holdups was committed. Most of the men implicated in those robberies were captured and sent to prison.

In the belief criminals driven out of Chicago were moving southward and operating in and around Madison County, farmers of that county met recently at Edwardsville to demand protection. Complaints were made that criminals were operating with increasing abandon on the hard roads, holding up motorists, molesting women and looting stores and farmhouses.

G. L. EDWARDS IN SUIT CRITICISES BANKER'S ACTIONS

wards, —report was "after a most thorough consideration of the subject and the many views of those interested, I have concluded that the loss should be made good by you. I reached this conclusion because you, more than any other, influenced the purchase of these securities by the bank."

Edwards asserts that his report to the bank's directors on this deal caused Lonsdale to become prejudiced against him, and in 1925 he severed his connection and removed to Kansas City, Mo., where he is now engaged in law practice.

Due to this alleged prejudice, Lonsdale caused the bank to make the defense it is making in his suit, Edwards asserts, for the purpose of punishing him for their differences.

Bank's Reply to Suit.

In its defense against Edwards' claim for a fee of $25,000 for handling the Pierce litigation, the bank offers a letter written to Lonsdale by Edwards, then in California, July 19, 1920, in which he suggested, if he were successful in the Pierce suit, that by way of damages in the injunction suit the bank would be entitled to a reasonable attorney's fee, and suggested that he be given such a fee in the amount of $10,000, pointing out that if unsuccessful he would have been paid for his labors out of his salary from the bank.

He wrote, "I suggest that you and I have this understanding. If we are not successful it will be our further understanding that nothing will be due to me. It will be necessary that this latter part of the agreement be known only to us. I am sure you will understand."

This letter was later shown to Edward J. White, an attorney associated with Edwards in the litigation, whose claim to half of the $25,000 alleged to be due under the contract with the bank, dated Sept. 28, 1920, has been assumed by Edwards, who suggested that was the condition on which Edwards was to be paid.

Began Career With Bank in 1898.

Edwards in reviewing his career with the Bank of Commerce, which began in 1898, tells of the formation of the syndicate of officers and directors of the bank to build the Tennessee Central Railroad from Hopkinsville, Ky., to Harriman, Tenn., of the manipulation of finances in promoting that project, in which, he declares the bank loaned millions of dollars to the enterprise, largely on the securities of the road. He asserts the final loss in the collapse of the Tennessee Central enterprise was in excess of $12,000,000.

Lonsdale could not be reached last night. His attorney, T. W. Jones, said he had seen a copy of Edwards' reply and that all of its allegations would be denied.

150,000 ACRES OF U. S. LAND IN WEST OPEN TO SETTLEMENT

Secretary Work Announces Reclassification of Public Domain by Geological Survey.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—More than 150,000 acres of public land in Western states are open to settlement, Secretary Work of the Interior Department announced today on the basis of a reclassification of the lands by the Geological Survey.

More than 45,000 acres in California were made available under the enlarged homestead act and subject to entry as homesteads of 320 acres or less under the reclassification. Nearly 45,000 acres in Montana and South Dakota were classified under the stock-raising homestead law and designated for entry in tracts of 640 acres or less.

Approximately 20,000 acres of land in California, heretofore withheld as public-water land and about 700 acres in Montana and Nevada were added to the open land. Forty acres in Wyoming previously included in public-water withdrawal, were restored to entry by settlers.

Nearly 50,000 acres of land in Colorado, which had previously been classified as coal land were reclassified as noncoal lands and were reopened to settlement.

S-4 RAISED AND IN TOW, WITH 8 BODIES, TO NAVY DRY DOCK

the air was turned on the stern pontoons.

At 2:58 the stern pontoons broke water, and the men on the Falcon began to haul in the air lines which were attached to the pontoons. The other pontoons were blown at 3:20 and two minutes later the conning tower of the submarine came up. It rose to a height of about four feet above the surface and the twisted ladder, one of the periscopes and the radio mast were visible, as well as three riding lights. The gray paint appeared as fresh as before the vessel sank.

Eight air lines had been attached to the compartments of the S-4 from the Falcon during the operation and two to each of the pontoons, a total of 20, aggregating 6000 feet in length.

As soon as the raising was completed, Capt. Henry Hartley of the Falcon started to get out the towing lines. The air valves were regulated and the air lines lashed together and the tugs lined up for the tow. The Sagamore and Wandank took the lead and the Falcon followed the submarine, maintaining a pressure of 50 pounds on the 20 air lines. Commander Saunders said that the S-4 probably had sufficient positive buoyancy to float her, but the air pressure was kept up for safety. The tow was then put on its way to Boston.

Salvage officers said the weight of the S-4 now was 1600 tons and the pontoons are of 80 tons each.

Men Whose Bodies Will Be Taken From the Raised S-4.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, March 17. — When the submarine S-4, which was raised today from the ocean floor off Provincetown, is drydocked tomorrow at the Boston Navy Yard ,the bodies of eight members of her crew will be removed from the hull, where they have been imprisoned since the submarine was sunk Dec. 17, last, in collision with the coast guard destroyer, Paulding.

Among the 40 men who perished when the S-4 made her last dive were two members of a board of inspection and survey, which was superintending standardization trials of the vessel.

The six men who were in the torpedo chamber when the S-4 sank, and who lived to communicate with the surface by rapping signals for several days thereafter, but whose bodies were not among the 32 brought up by divers, were: Lieut. Graham Newell Fitch, Washington, D. C.; Torpedoman Roger Leslie Short, Boonville, Mo.; Frank Snizek, Ridgfield Park, N. J., and Russell Archibald Crabb, San Diego, Cal., and Seamen Joseph Leighton Stevens, Providence, R. I., and George Pelnar, South Omaha, Neb.

Two men, not accounted for, whose bodies are believed to be in the engine room, are Machinist's Mate William Dempsey, Walkerville, Ont., and Engineer Joseph William Sternman, Riverside, R. I.

MISSOURI GROUP WITH NORRIS ON MUSCLE SHOALS

State Delegation in House Prefers Bill for Government Control to Willis-Madden Plan.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The Missouri delegation in the House prefers the Norris plan for Government operation of Muscle Shoals to the Willis-Madden proposal to turn the project over to the American Cyanamid Co., a poll of the delegation today, disclosed. The Norris plan has been adopted by the Senate and has been referred to the House Military Affairs Committee, which is expected to report on it within two weeks.

The poll revealed that four Democratic members are definitely in favor of the bill as it passed the Senate, two Democratic members favor it in principle, and four Democrats are undecided, although not pledged to the Willis-Madden plan. The four Republican members of the delegation said they were undecided, but added they were not committed to the Willis-Madden bill. Two of the Democratic members are out of town.

Cochran for Norris Bill.

Representative John J. Cochran (Democrat) of St. Louis said: "I am for the Norris bill as it passed the Senate. The people are demanding settlement of this Muscle Shoals problem, and there is no way to get a settlement at this session of Congress except through approval by the House of the Senate bill. The decisive vote in the Senate for the Norris measure proves the futility of any effort by the House to substitute the Madden bill, whihc is on entirely different lines.

"Government operation would be given a fair test under the Norris bill. If after this test it should appear more advantageous to the public to have the Shoals privately operated, then I would be for a leasing bill. At present the sensible thing to do is to put the Shoals to work for the production of power and fertilizer under the Norris plan."

The other Democrats who favor the immediate enactment of the Norris Bill are Representatives Ralph F. Lozier, Second District; C. C. Dickinson, Sixth District and Clarence Cannon, Ninth District. These who favor it in principle are Representatives M. A. Romjue, Third District, and Thomas L. Rubey, Sixteenth District.

Lozier to Vote For It.

Lozier stated that he would vote for the Norris bill, although he did not consider it perfect.

"However," he added, "it is superior to the Madden bill in that it safeguards the rights of the American people."

Dickinson, the dean of the delegation, and a member of the powerful Ways and Means Committee, said: "I am for the Norris bill and I believe it will pass if allowed to come to a vote in the House. Of course the power interests will do everything they can to block a vote. They've been at this game for seven years and had it not been for the indefatigable efforts of Senator Norris, they would have won. Norris deserves great credit for his wonderful fight to save this great plant for the people."

Cannon, who succeeded Speaker Champ Clark as the Representative of the Ninth District, based his decision to support the Norris bill on his experiences as a farmer.

Urges Cheap Fertilizer.

"I am a dirt farmer," he said, "and I've lost as much as anybody during the last five years. I am interested in cheap fertilizer, and I think we can get it through the Norris bill. In addition to this, I think the Government should own this great plant in the event of a war. I am not a pacifist or a militarist, but I feel we should keep this great resource for any emergency that might arise."

Rubey, a member of the Committee on Agriculture, stated he would vote for the plan that appeared best for the farmer. He added that while he had not studied the two propositions, it seemed to him the farmer would get more from the Norris plan than from the Willis-Madden plan.

Romjue said that, in principle, he considered the Norris plan superior to the other.

The four Democrats who were non-committal indicated they were inclined to favor the Norris plan, although they did not want to go on record at present. The members in this group were Representative Jacob L. Milligan, Third District; Samuel C. Major, Seventh District; Clyde Williams, Thirteenth District; and James Fulbright, Fourteenth District.

George Combs, Jr., Fifth District, and W. L. Nelson, Eighth District, were the two not reached for their views.

G. O. P. Men Lean Toward It.

There were indications that the four Republican members might vote for the Norris bill, although each stated that he was usually fundamentally opposed to any plan that would put the Government into a business enterprise. This group was composed of Representatives L. C. Dyer and H. F. Niedringhaus, of St. Louis; Charles L. Faust of St. Joseph, and Joe Manlove of Joplin.

Faust stated there wasn't much choice for one of his political philosophy between the Norris and the Willis-Madden plans.

"I am against Government ownership," he said, "and yet I don't see why we should let this valuable property get out of our hands. I want to see the committee report before I make up my mind."

Niedringhaus said he was not committed to either plan, and that he would make up his mind after he had listened to the debate on the floor.

Dyer and Manlove said they wanted to see the House Committee report before they made statements for publication.

they had words

Women's vocabulary is supposed to be smaller than men's—but the turnover is greater. Therefore, when they "have words" she usually has more than he.

And, speaking of EASTER, as she probably will, what about that new suit of "GLEN ADDIE" woolens you intended to order? There is still plenty of time for it, if you don't wait TOO long.

You'll remember — "GLEN ADDIES" are very Scotch—wool, weave, designs, colorings. Thirty patterns to choose from—made to your measure to fit both mind and body—and only $60 the suit. Note the THE — that's very English.

Other suits $50 to $70.

Process of Creation Still Going On, Scientist Says

Dr. R. A. Millikan Offers Evidence for Interstellar Birth of Elements and Against Disintegration of Earth.

By the Associated Press.

PASADENA, Cal., March 17.—Discovery of evidence tending to show that the process of creation now is going on in the heavens, and that the earth, instead of disintegrating, as long has been believed, is going through an endless cycle of evolution, was announced here last night by Dr. Robert A. Millikan, noted scientist.

Millikan's announcement, made at a meeting of the California Institute of Technology, said that while his experiment had not been completed and should not be taken as final, "we may have some confidence in the conclusion."

The findings of Millikan indicated that the atoms which form oxygen, silicon, magnesium and iron—the elements which make up about 95 per cent of the mass of meteorites and a similar proportion of the earth—are being constantly created in the heavens and shot with terrific speed into the body of this planet.

The cosmic rays are held to be energy which escapes during the process of formation of these atoms.

In explaining the birth of a helium atom, Millikan pointed out that the atomic weight of that element was 4.00054 grams. The atomic weight of hydrogen is 1.00778 grams. The helium atom is made up of four hydrogen atoms. But four units of hydrogen atom weigh 4.03112 grams—.03058 of a gram more than the same number when converted into helium.

This difference—.03058 of a gram —according to Einstein's equation showing the relation of mass to energy, escapes into space in the form of energy. In measuring the cosmic ray Millikan discovered that the most conspicuous wave band in it had approximately the same co-efficient of absorption power as the amount of penetration power of a monochromatic ether wave originated in the formation of helium atoms.

"Putting together, then," concluded Millikan, "the quantitative and qualitative evidence, we may have some confidence in the conclusion that the heretofore mysterious cosmic rays which shoot unceasingly in all directions are announcements sent out through the ether of the birth of elements."

His foot slipped when he was repairing the roof.

"LOST AT FOLEY'S"; LEAPS TO DEATH

David F. Hishon Jumps From Eads Bridge—Passer-By Tries Vainly to Dissuade Him.

The Mississippi River holds the body of David F. Hishon, 28 years old, of 5029A Wells avenue, who jumped from Eads Bridge early yesterday, leaving a note in which he said: "I did this because I lost all my money at Foley's."

Frank Larmer, a passerby who vainly attempted to dissuade Hishon from ending his life, and two city detectives summoned by Larmer, saw Hishon's body rise to the surface of the water once after his leap. Hishon had left behind on the bridge his cap, his membership card in a railway express drivers' union, and the note signed "Dave" in which he mentioned "Foley's"—a reference, St. Louis police think to be one of the two St. Louis County gambling establishments hondurted by Tony Foley, without hindrance by county authorities. Yesterday was Hishon's pay day.

Hishon was a son of Policeman Dennis Hishon, who died in 1924. He lived with his mother and sister. They identified the cap, card and handwriting on th note as that of their son and brother.

Larmer, who is a salesman, living at the Downtown Y. M. C. A., was walking across the bridge from East St. Louis about 3:30 a. m. Hishon, a stranger to him, climbed over the south rail near the middle of the bridge.

In response to Larmer's inquiries, Hishon said he was going to drown himself. Pressed for his reason, he answered: "Everything's wrong at home.

Larmer spent salf an hour trying to dissuade Hishon from self-destruction. Larmer thought of seizing Hishon and pulling him to safety, but feared his strength was not equal to the task and also that "it might look as if I was pushing him off the bridge."

Finally when Hishon announced he was ready to jump, and asked Larmer to give his note to police, Larmer went for the two city detectives stationed at the St. Louis end of the bridge. As Larmer and the detectives came toward him, Hishon leaped to his death.

G. O. P. CORRUPTION THE ISSUE, GEORGE SAYS

Party Can't Escape Responsibility, Senators Assert—Names Georgia Delegates.

By the Associated Press.

MACON, Ga., March 17.—With the declaration that he stands "now and always against the repeal of the eighteenth amendment and any weakening of the enforcement act," United States Senator Walter F. George today selected the State's delegation to the National Democratic convention at Houston June 26. The delegation of 56 men and women, with half a vote each, is under instructions from the State Executive Committee to place Senator George before the assembly as a candidate for the presidential nomination.

"It is not for my purpose to hold in the hollow of my hand this delegation or atempt to deliver them to any other candidate in the event my name should be withdrawn from consideration for the nomination," the Senator said.

"The issue of 'corruption in the Republican party' is the great, outstanding one in the campaign," he recited that in 1924 when Democrats assailed the Republicans for corruption, the answer was that "any guilt was purely personal and had no application to their party organization."

Recently, however, said the Senator, "we have found the chairman of the Republican National committee using stolen funds to finance campaigns responsible for the Harding and Coolidge administrations."

Asserting that "the guilt is no longer personal," Senator George declared the Republican party stood "indicted and convicted before the people of responsibility for the blackest page in the history of American politics."

Georgia delegates-at-large include Senator George's colleague, William J. Harris, and Mrs. Mary Harris Armour of Eastman, temperance lecturer. Clark Howell, publisher of the Atlanta Constitution, a George supporter, declined you, and since the State delegation in a letter in which he said:

"Since there is no opposition to you, and since the tSate delegation will stand by you to a man, my participation as a delegate would do you no good, but in view of possible complications that may arise in the convention might put me in a position where I could not discuss the action of the convention, whatever it may be, with such freedom as I could if not personally involved. I want to see you nominated and I will do everything in my power to that end."

IRISH NIGHT CLOSES WOMAN'S EXPOSITION

Cornd Beef and Cabbage Club and Others Observe St. Patrick's Day.

Verdant cravats, green carnations, buttonhole shamrocks were worn yesterday in honor of St. Patrick's day. The night celebration of the patron of Ireland centered at the Coliseum, where young men and women newly come to this country from Irish towns and villages did their native dances.

In addition, the Corned Beef and Cabbage Club held a St. Patrick's banquet at the American Annex Hotel. At Washington University undergraduate engineers gave their annual St. Patrick's masque.

A special high mass was held yesterday morning at St. Patrick's Church, Sixth and Biddle streets. Archbishop Glennon and 200 priests joined Mgr. Timothy Dempsey in the ceremonies. Mgr. Dempsey, in keeping with his annual practice, greeted priests and parishioners on the front steps following mass.

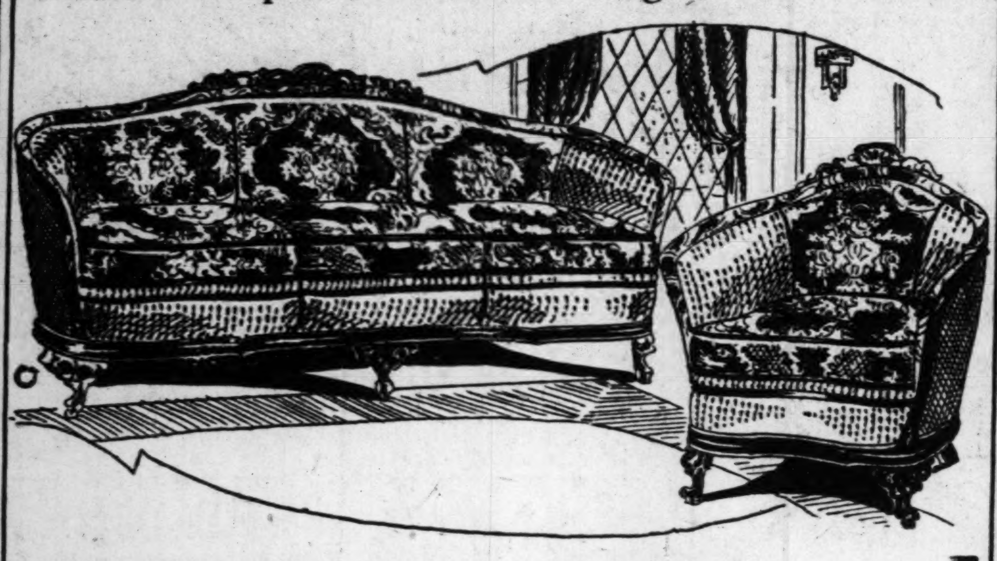
Dr. Robert Emmet Kone and the Rev. Dr. John Ryan of Washington, D. C., were the speakers at the Coliseum celebration. There was also an elaborate musical program featuring Irish songs. Miss Marie McCabe played "Believe Me if All Those Endearing Young Charms" and "Mother Machree" on the harp.

A civic pageant given by the Business and Professional Women's Club in the Coliseum concluded the Women's National Exposition which opened there Monday.

Accused of Shooting Miner.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., March 17.—Charged with shooting [illegible] McConnaughey, a non-union miner at Rouge, in the Broadtop soft coal fields, Albert Rogers and [illegible] Clark were held in $1000 bail each today. They are charged with lying in wait for McConnaughey and firing two loads of shot at him as he passed by to the mines. Sixty-two shot were extracted by a surgeon from the victim's neck, body and legs.

Tucker-Shapiro Custom Built Living-Room Furniture



One of 14 Styles to Choose From... $239.00

Let's Get to the Bottom of the Price Question

WHAT makes a suite expensive? What makes a suite not expensive? The question isn't "how much?" but "what will I get for my money?" The sensible family will gladly pay a little more if it can be sure it's going to get a lot more. Most people would rather have a Tucker-Shapiro Custom Built Suite than an ordinary one. And they should!

In our Suites there is everything that can be put in good furniture except extravagance. Inside it has hardwood frames, doweled and glued for strength. It has all-web construction. It has deep coil, properly tempered steel springs, tied eight ways so they'll stay in place. It has all curled hair and moss filling. And it has PERMANENCE of construction. It has hand-covered solid mahogany outer frames.

These Suites are made to your own cover selection. Fifty patterns to select from.

and When You Want the Very Best in Sodas or Sundaes

naturally you stop at the fountain serving the best Ice Cream in town . . . . . .

The better the Ice Cream, the better the soda or sundae.

That is why Hydrox Sodas and Sundaes and Malted Milks are so tremendously good. The very finest Ice Cream that money can buy goes into them. And if you don't think Hydrox can make such a wonderful difference, that's because you haven't stopped at a Hydrox Fountain lately.

Hydrox Sodas and Sundaes cost no more than ordinary sodas and sundaes, but they give you a whole lot more for your money.

Drop in at a Hydrox Fountain today and see for yourself. And take it from Hydrox, you will be asking for a full quart brick to take home with you before you've half finished your sundae.

Accused of Shooting Miner.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., March 17.—Charged with shooting Walter McConnaughey, a non-union miner, at Rouge, in the Broadtop soft coal fields, Albert Rogers and Forrest Clark were held in $1000 bail each today. They are charged with lying in wait for McConnaughey and firing two loads of shot at him as he passed by to the mines. Sixty-two shot were extracted by a surgeon from the victim's neck, back and legs.

TOTAL DEAD IN CALIFORNIA DAM DISASTER NOW 244

Tractors in Military Formation Cover Ground—Governor Appoints Investigators.

LOS ANGELES, March 17.—A battery of 55 tractors traveling in formation like military tanks so as to leave no ground uncovered, today rolled through the Santa Clara River Valley in a final search for victims of the St. Francis Dam disaster of last Tuesday.

One additional body was found, and those directing the search expressed the belief that all bodies visible on the surface or partly buried in the silt and debris left in the wake of the flood had been recovered. The total known dead, as compiled from official and unofficial sources, reached 244.

Other tractors, steam shovels and teams were at work throughout the valley on the job of rehabilitation, the cost of which, Mayor George E. Cryer of Los Angeles announced, would be borne by that city which had owned the destroyed dam.

Unconfirmed reports of epidemics in the affected section were current, but health officials of Los Angeles and Ventura Counties denied this, declaring that every possible measure was being taken to prevent an outbreak of disease.

Gov. C. C. Young at Sacramento appointed a state investigating commission which he instructed to "ascertain the facts" in connection with the collapse of the dam.

STATE'S DUTY TO AID LAND OWNERS, M'CAWLEY SAYS

Democrat Seeking Governorship Also Defends Own Party Loyalty Against "Whispering Campaign."

DRAINAGE TAXES ALSO DISCUSSED

Candidate Speaks in Southwest Missouri Where Half Dozen Counties Bear Heavy Levies.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BLOOMFIELD, Mo., March 17.—State Senator A. L. McCawley of Carthage, speaking here this afternoon in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for the governorship, replied to a "whispering campaign" by supporters of his opponents that his party loyalty was a matter of question, and that if elected Governor he could not be depended upon to recognize a party obligation.

McCawley denounced the "behind stairs gossip" type of campaign and said that anything worthy of consideration should be said openly.

Cites Record in His District.

"The Democrats of my senatorial district have placed the stamp of approval on my party record," McCawley said. "They have done so twice and I have been elected twice to the State Senate in a district in which the normal Republican majority is from 3500 to 5000.

"I believe in political parties, and that the best guarantee of good government is definite party responsibility. No party can serve itself that does not at the same time serve the people.

"It is my conviction that the best interests of the public will be conserved by the appointment of those who come bearing the tongue of good report as to their party service and their sense of party loyalty both in the case of appointments required by law to be bi-partisan in character, and appointments belonging wholly to the party in power."

Assails State Administration.

In the main McCawley's speech followed the general lines of the one he delivered a week ago at the opening of his campaign in Rockport. He assailed the Republican administration in Jefferson City for the graft and corruption exposed in State Senate investigations of the Finance Department, the state penitentiary and the eleemosynary institutions, and said the waste of state funds through uneconomical management was appalling.

Being in Southeast Missouri, where a half dozen counties are resting under the burden of heavy taxation for drainage districts as well as under general state taxes, McCawley discussed the drainage tax question and repeated his previous pledge that if elected there would be no increase of taxes for any purpose, and that there would be a more equitable assessment of farm property.

Urges Relief for Land Owners.

"In many of these districts," he said, "land owners are hard pressed to meet the heavy taxes required to pay the principal and interest on their improvement bonds, and many farmers now are almost compelled to abandon their farms on that account.

"It is the duty of the state by appropriate legislation to provide a method by which improvement bonds, now constituting an almost unbearable burden upon the owners of land in drainage and levee districts, can be refunded to mature through a long period of years, and at a low rate of interest.

"Such a plan can be devised as will operate to reduce drainage and levee taxes from one-third to one-half their present rates, thus making possible the further improvement and development of reclaimed agricultural lands in this wonderful section."

Outlines Constructive Program.

Concluding, McCawley said that while he denounced the waste, extravagance and corruption in the State Government, he believed the Democratic party should go before the people with a constructive program, and that it could return to power if in good faith it promised efficient administration of State affairs, no increase in existing tax rates, that assessed valuations would not be increased, that no class, group or business would be singled out as a special object of taxation, that one-third of the revenues would be applied to the free public schools, that school funds would be equitably distributed, that wasteful duplications of State functions would be eliminated, and that none of the present road revenues would ever be used for any purpose other than to build roads and maintain them.

WILBUR POUNDS TABLE IN ANSWERING CRITICS

Secretary Comes to Defense of Admiral in Hearing on Arms Embargo Plan.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—For the first time in three consecutive days that personal charges have been directed at him in the House, Secretary Wilbur today was in a position to reply. He emphasized his resentment by pounding his fist on a committee table.

Foreign Affairs Committee members challenged the accuracy of statements in a letter from Wilbur assailing the Burton arms embargo resolution. Addressing Wilbur, who appeared today as a witness before the committee, Representative Moore, (Dem.), Virginia answering the statement that the bill would interfere with the 1922 law for presidential control of arms shipments, said:

"The Burton resolution has no more relation to the 1922 law than the moon has to a bullfrog. The man who wrote that prepared it in ignorance."

Wilbur jarred the table as he brought down his fist.

Resents Slur at Admiral.

"I resent that," he exclaimed, defending Rear Admiral F. H. Schofield, who had drafted the letter. "I deny it and I won't stand for it. I do not think this is a courteous way for a Congressman to treat a naval officer and I resent it."

An even-tempered man, Wilbur plainly was riled by the continuation of face-to-face biting attacks. Thursday, while within his rights in sitting on the floor of the House during debate on the navy building bill, he was assailed by Huddleston (Dem.) Alabama and McClintic (Dem.) Oklahoma as violating good taste and attempting to influence legislation. Yesterday, Blanton (Dem.), Texas continued the attack on the floor. The Secretary was prohibited from answering. His chance came today and he took it.

Committee members began with the fervor of interrogating a schoolboy and received such vigorous replies that members' disclaimers of any intention to be discourteous quickly paved the way to decorum.

Opposes Burton Plan.

In the letter, Wilbur said that adoption of the Burton resolution would handicap National defense, wipe out the President's control over arms shipments to American countries, and invite embarrassing international complications. He criticised an attempt to make the United States institute an embargo alone and said this country should not bind itself to forbid shipment while other nations hold aloof and take industrial advantage of the situation.

Chairman Porter (Rep.), Pennsylvania, challanged the Secretary to show how an embargo would interfere with naval preparedness.

"It would interfere by injuring the American munitions industry," Wilbur replied. "If the industry is reduced then, it will not be able to aid us so much in war time."

"I can't agree," Porter said.

"I'm not asking you to," rejoined Wilbur.

MRS. LESLIE J. BLACKMORE FUNERAL TO BE TOMORROW

The funeral of Mrs. Leslie J. Blackmore, who was the sole surviving member of the immediate family of the late Col. Edward Butler, millionaire Democratic political boss in St. Louis until his death in 1911, will be tomorrow at 8:30 a. m. fro mthe St. Louis Cathedral, Newstead avenue and Lindell boulevard. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery, where Col. and Mrs. Butler and three sons and another daughter are buried.

Mrs. Blackmore, who died Friday at her home, 4522 Lindell boulevard, had been in ill health for several months, suffering from a complication of diseases. She had returned only a week ago from Florida, where she had gone in an effort to recuperate. She was 53 years old.

When hed mother died in 1916, Mrs. Blackmore inherited about $800,000 of the $4,000,000 estab- of her father. Col. Butler had left the bulk of his estate to his widow, with a proviso that one-fifth of it should go to Mrs. Blackmore at the death of Mrs. Butler. Col Butler had bequeathed the daughter half of his personal property at his death.

Seeks Missing Daughter.

Walter R. Kimbrel, an engine foreman employed by the Missouri Pacific railroad at Kansas City, is here searching for his 13-year-old daughter, Mary Louise, who left home last Nov. 13, with another Kansas City girl. This girl returned and said Mary Louise was working in a department store in St. Louis.

DO YOUR KIDNEYS PURIFY YOUR BLOOD?

The function of the kidneys is to filter and purify the blood. If you are troubled by bladder weakness, sleepless nights, backache, headaches, tired, worn-out feeling, your kidneys may need stimulating and a diuretic such as the Cystex 48 hour test.

Just step into any drug store and ask for Cystex. Put it to a 48 hour test. If you soon feel like new, full of pep, able to sleep soundly, with pains alleviated, it will cost you only 60c, otherwise nothing.

Don't give up. Don't wait. Feel better tomorrow. Learn the joy of healthful living. No need to risk a penny on unproved things because you are the sole judge of your satisfaction under the Cystex legal, binding, money-back guarantee.

MISSOURI'S SENATORS FREQUENTLY DIFFER

Reed and Hawes on Opposite Sides of Many Important Issues Voted on Recently.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The Senate vote on the Norris bill providing for Government operation of Muscle Shoals directed attention again to the frequency with which the two Missouri Senators, Reed and Hawes, both Democrats, have divided on important issues. Hawes voted against the bill. Reed, who was absent when the vote was taken, announced later that he favored the bill and had left instructions before going on his recent speaking tour that he be paired for it.

Soon after Hawes came into the Senate in 1926, he split with Reed on the Lausanne treaty with Turkey and the nomination of Cyrus E. Woods of Pennsylvania to be a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Hawes voted for and Reed against the ratification of the treaty, which was defeated. Reed voted against and Hawes for the confirmation of Woods. The nomination was rejected.

Reed voted for and Hawes against an amendment by Senator Howell of Nebraska proposing that the price to be paid by the Government for the Cape Cod Canal be reduced to a sum equal to the earnings of the canal, capitalized on a 3 per cent basis.

On the passage of the McNary-Haugen bill, Feb. 11, 1927, Hawes was recorded in the affirmative and Reed in the negative.

Hawes voted for and Reed was paired against the application of cloture to the debate on the prohibition reorganization bill, Feb. 28, 1927.

Hawes voted with the majority which referred the Walsh power resolution to the Interstate Commerce Committee. Reed was absent, but later criticised the effort of Hawes in the committee to limit the scope of the proposed investigation. After the resolution had come back into the Senate, Reed and Hawes were together in their opposition to referring the inquiry to the Federal Trade Commission.

ZIONIST LEADER COMING HOME

Dr. Chaim Weizmann Heads National Drive for $7,500,000.

Dr. Chaim Weizmann, leader of the world Zionist organization, will visit St. Louis early in April in connection with the United Palestine campaign, a nation-wide drive in which a fund of $7,500,000 is being sought for rehabilitation work in the Jewish homeland. The St. Louis quota in the campaign is $75,000.

The second week of solicitation will open tomorrow. Barney Grosberg, chairman of the local organization, announced yesterday that half of the St. Louis quota already had been pledged and a large portion of it colletced.

COURT REBUKES JURY FOR FREEING SLAYER OF WIFE

Edward Wetzel Should Be in Penitentiary, Judge Rutledge Tells Men Who Acquitted Him.

Edward Wetzel, 59-year-old night watchman accused of second degree murder for shooting to death his wife, Carrie, 43 years old, Jan. 8, was acquitted Friday night in a sealed verdict that brought a protest from Judge Rutledge when it was opened yesterday morning.

Wetzel and his wife quarreled at their home, 1841A North Eleventh street over a man mentioned only as "Joe" in the evidence, with whom Mrs. Wetzel had promised to go to a motion picture show. Wetzel said his wife caught up a revolver which he tried to take from her. In the scuffle the weapon was discharged and Mrs. Wetzel suffered a fatal wound in the back.

Judge Rutledge blinked in amazement when he heard the verdict. He leaned over the bench, frowning and said to the jurors: "Gentlemen, I want to know how man yof you really believe this shooting was an accident? Will each of you who believe it was raise his hand?"

Judge Rakes the Jury.

Twelve jurors raised their hands. The Judge then singled out the foreman, Julius J. Ebbinger, a coal dealer.

"The woman was shot in the back," said Judge Rutledge. "How could you possibly believe she was shot accidentally when the wound was in her back?"

"Stranger things than that have happened," Ebbinger said.

Alvin Wolff, counsel for Wetzel, jumped to his feet to remark that Judge Rutledge's observations were "highly prejudicial." Judge Rutledge silenced him.

"You have set free a guilty man," the Court told the jurors, "a man who should have been sent to the penitentiary. That is all. You are excused."

Boy 11 Tells of Killing.

Edward Wetzel Jr., 11-year-old schoolboy, took the stand Friday. He was in the kitchen washing dishes on the day of the killing, he said, and his parents were in the dining room. A former roomer at their home named "Joe," he said, had arrranged to take his mother to a motion picture show that afternoon and his father objected.

"Joe used to take us all to the movies," the boy testified. "He'd take my mother and William, my older brother and my little 5-year-old sister and me. That was when my father was away."

In reply to questions, the boy said he had seen "Joe" kiss his mother and that she had sat on "Joe's" lap.

"Mother and father argued about Joe and the movies and then I heard a sound like a shot. I heard a gun landing on a porch outside the kitchen. I picked up the gun and I ran upstairs. I put it in a tool box up there."

Later, the boy found his mother sitting on a stone in the alley behind the house, he said.

"She looked sort of white," he declared. "She told me she was shot. I said she better go to the hospital and I got two men and they called an ambulance. Then she told me Joe was waiting for her down at the corner and asked me to tell Joe she couldn't meet him. She said Joe would have to meet her at the hospital."

Wetzel, a grey-mustached figure in worn clothing and a hickory shirt, wept on the stand as he described the quarrel with his wife. He said he had come home on one occasion to find "Joe" in a bed and that he had been forced to sleep on the floor. The night before the shooting, his wife, 16 years his junior, had come home intoxcated after a "date" with Joe, he declared.

Slayer's Story.

His wife wanted to go to the movies with "Joe" and he told her not to leave the house. She became angry and said he was "too old" for her, he said. "Then she said, 'I'm going to get rid of you right now,'" he testified. "She reached for my revolver that was in back of the clock. I grappled with her. Then the gun went off. It was in her hand. She threw it into the kitchen."

Mrs. Wetzel lived two days, dying at City Hospital Jan. 10.

100 MOTORISTS IN COURT FOR NOT HAVING NEW TAGS

Two Fined $10; 23 Pay Costs; 55 Discharged and 20 Get Continuances.

Of 100 motorists in Police Court yesterday charged with failure to have new city licenses for their automobiles, 55 were discharged, 23 were permitted to pay court costs, 20 had their cases continued and two were fined $10 and costs.

Police have filed 900 complaints against motorists for failing to have State licenses with the Prosecuting Attorney, on which 160 warrants thus far have been issued. The warrant cases are scheduled to be heard by Judge Butler of the Court of Criminal Correction.

Arrests of the motorists began last Thursday.

KILLS FOUR IN FAMILY QUARREL

Turk Finds Bickerings of His Two Wives Unendurable.

SOKIA, Turkey, March 17.—This Anatolian village furnishes an example of the disadvantages of polygamy. Hakki Bey, 35 years old, became so exasperated by the bickerings of his two wives and their relatives, who dwelt with the hen-pecked husband, that he settled matters with a gun.

He began by shooting to death the more jealous of his two wives, the father of his other wife, the mother of the first wife, his 13-year-old daughter, whom a third departed wife had left him and an old uncle of wife No. 3. Hakki Bey fled to the mountains but was captured.

KEWANEE

A Smoking Chimney Means Lost Fuel

Every time you see a big, black column of smoke rising from a chimney, you can make up your mind that the boiler beneath it is loafing on the job, and is not burning the fuel as it ought to burn it. Smoke is nothing but unconsumed fuel, and unconsumed fuel is downright waste.

Moreover, it proves to you, if you know anything at all, that your boiler is a mighty expensive luxury and more of a hindrance than a help. If it can't burn your fuel economically and efficiently, then you owe it to yourself to tear it out and put in a KEWANEE SMOKELESS FIREBOX BOILER for the sake of the years to come.

PROGRESS
KEWANEE SMOKELESS BOILERS

Throughout the country now, there is a crusade against smoking chimneys. Big cities are arousing to the fact that smoke is a destroyer—a blot on civilization—a menace to civic beauty and public health. And they are enacting ordinances which carry severe penalties.

Aside from that is the absolute truth that smoke is a waste of fuel and operates distinctly against the economic maintenance of any plant. Bear this in mind—that the only way to combat WASTE and PUBLIC ORDINANCES is to install the KEWANEE SMOKELESS FIREBOX BOILER which will burn any type or grade of fuel without smoke.

It will interest any good business man to know that the KEWANEE will even burn the cheapest grades of soft coal without smoke. To you men who own big buildings, and burn vast quantities of fuel, this fact is of paramount importance. Sit down right now and estimate what a saving this means to you. It means the difference between LOSS and PROFIT.

Think this over, then write to "The Old Man Behind the Boiler" and ask him to prove all these assertions. His answer will be a revelation. And incidentally, it will prove mighty well worth while.

WHY WET GROUP IS CLIMBING INTO HAY BANDWAGON

Purpose Is to Get Support of St. Louisan's Dry Followers for Wilson for Governorship.

HOPES TO CUT DOWN M'CAWLEY'S VOTE

Nothing in the Nature of an Actual Deal Is Suggested but the Motive Is Apparent.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.

Through the almost impenetrable mists concealing the reasons for the stampede of wet Democrats in St. Louis and throughout the State to Charles M. Hay, dry leader, for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, there is coming to observers of politics a revelation of the practical politics of the move.

It means that the old Reed crowd, the organized wets among the Democrats and the professional political element, the three constituting for all general purposes one faction, have concentrated their efforts on nominating Francis M. Wilson of Kansas City for Governor. The stampede to Hay is a trial at cultivating the dry Hay following in an effort to wean from State Senator McCawley the support of the drys and to carry it to Wilson.

Yoking Hay and Wilson.

It would be absurd to suggest that there is anything in the nature of a deal between the Hay organization and the anti-Hay element now rushing to his banner, but there is no question that the anti-Hay Democrats are attempting to create the impression that the Hay and Wilson campaigns are running neck-and-neck; that Hay is certain of nomination, and that Wilson, running along with him, is equally certain of success.

The friendship of this element for Wilson is not because he is a wet, his official record not according him such a position, but principally because of his close association with Reed, and his service for Reel in the fighting days of 1920. Wilson was Reed's personal representative before the Democratic National Committee and the Credentials Committee of the National Convention at San Francisco in 1920 in the futile effort to have Reed seated as a delegate in the convention.

McCawley, while friendly to Reed, has no such record of personal service, his only action in that respect having been a vigorous fight that year before the Jasper County Democratic convention to prevent the adoption of anti-Reed instructions for the county delegation to the State convention.

McCawley has been an active dry, having been the author of the State dry enforcement law. Wilson has had no record in recent years on prohibition. However, many years ago he cast the deciding vote in the State Senate for the drys in their efforts to obtain local option legislation, which was opposed by the wets.

Pendergast's One Aim.

Wilson entered the campaign with the vigorous support of the Pendergast organization in Kansas City, which is modeled somewhat on the lines of the Tammany organization in New York, and through that influence the St. Louis Democratic group has been brought to Wilson's aid. Pendergast has told friends that he was interested in no candidate except Wilson, and the word has gone out to those organization politicians throughout the State who follow Pendergast's lead that everybody is to be sacrificed for Wilson.

Undoubtedly there would be large gains for Wilson if his supporters among the anti-Hay element could form alliances with the dry elements supporting Hay in the various counties, and throw the two campaigns together with McCawley as the object of attack.

It is conceded by almost all Democrats that Hay's nomination is a certainty and that his opponent, James A. Collet, will be defeated overwhelmingly if he remains in the race. In this situation the anti-Hay crowd has nothing to gain by continuing the fight. They might gain a lot for Wilson by showing a strong spirit for harmony by shouting for Hay.

Hay Keeping Out of Fight.

It may be said that Hay has not indicated any personal choice among the candidates for Governor, and that none of the leaders in his organization has made any overtures to Wilson's supporters. The overtures have come from the Wilson group and so far as anyone in authority in the Hay organization is concerned, there has been no response other than that Hay is remaining entirely clear of the fight over the governship.

Hay by primary day will have the support of virtually the entire wet Democratic City Committee of St. Louis. Members of the committee have begun to announce their support of him, three going on record at a meeting of the committee Friday. A member of the committee who is in a position to know said Hay would have almost the undivided support of the committeemen.

According to Chairman Mestres, the Democratic City Committee will not make the political mistake the Republican Committee made when it indorsed the candidacy of Henry S. Caulfield for Governor and thereby aroused much resentment out in the State. Mestres said the Democratic Committee would not indorse any candidate for any office, and that every member of the committeee would be free to act as he pleased.

Wilson will have the general support of the St. Louis committeemen, probably at least 25 of the 28 being friendly to his candidacy. McCawley is credited with the friendship of two or three, but must get his real strength in the country if he is to win.

Rumor Denied

For the past few months a report has been circulated, that Steinberg's... (St. Louis' leading and finest women's specialty shop) has been sold to another local institution. These rumors are positively without foundation and should be branded as an absolute untruth. Mr. Herman Strauss, President for the past 35 years, is continuing in that capacity.

WHEAT CLOSES HIGHER AND CORN LOWER

ST. LOUIS MERCHANT'S EXCHANGE, March 17.—Wheat closed higher on the local market but down materially from high while corn finished lower after a higher early range. The Government report on wheat stocks in domestic country mills and elevators showed a reduction of 12,000,000 bushels below last year and were reported to be about 16,000,000 under the estimates of private experts. Corn met profit taking.

In the local cash grain market Saturday soft wheat was in demand, but no No. 2 red was offered, and little of the lower priced grades. The market was generally firm. Hard wheat was ½c to 1c up. Demand was good and from elevators largely. Mills were in the market and export bids were near a workable basis. Corn was steady to 1c lower. Shipping and local demand was only fair and offerings were not quite all taken. The basis was slightly higher. Oats were steady to 1c off, although offerings were not heavy, still they were not cleaned up, as the demand was limited.

Wheat opened fractionally higher and gained more in the early trading. Liverpool closed ⅜d higher.

The U. S. Government report on stocks of wheat in country mills and elevators was the latest news for consideration of traders.

Winnipeg early was ¾c up on May and ½c on July.

May corn sold up a full cent early and then reacted some.

Hard May wheat opened at $1.38¼. July wheat $1.34¾. May corn $1.03⅜ and July corn $1.05.

Local wheat receipts, which were 126,000 bushels, compared with 112,000 a week ago and 99,400 a year ago, included 67 cars local and 23 through. Corn receipts, which were 98,000 bushels, compared with 142,800 a week ago and 54,600 a year ago, included 50 cars local and 20 through. Oats receipts, which were 54,000 bushels, compared with 24,000 a week ago and 70,000 a year ago, included 18 cars local and 2 through. Hay receipts were 1 car local.

The three Northwestern markets combined had 522 cars of wheat, compared with 836 a week ago and 647 a year ago. Minneapolis receiving 140 cars, Duluth 98 and Winnipeg 384.

GOVERNMENT REPORT IS WHEAT RISE FACTOR

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 17.—Unexpected scantiness of wheat supplies in country mills and elevators brought crowds of brokers back to the wheat pit today and swung the market upward. Meanwhile, corn rose to fresh top price records for the season fell off under heavy profit taking. Rye finished at the highest level yet for the present crop.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ⅛c to 1c net higher with corn ⅜ to ⅝c down. Oats unchanged to ⅛c lower and provisions at 5c to 20c advance.

In addition to stimulus given to wheat buying as a result of the United States Government report showing comparatively meager stocks of wheat on hand at country mills and elevators, new report was current from Chicago crop observer pointing to likelihood of size of abandonment of winter wheat acreage both in the Central West and the Southwest as well. Meanwhile special emphasis was given in one quarter to the fact that official figures telling of 12,000,000 bushels reduction of country mill and elevator stocks as compared with last year, were about 16,000,000 bushels under the estimates of private experts.

A special aspect of the Government report, one unofficial commentator said, is that there is 40,000,000 bushels of wheat unaccounted for after allowing for increased seed requirements for winter wheat. He added that it is evident that either the original supply was over-estimated or else that there has been a domestic disappearance upon a much greater scale than last year.

The outstanding feature of today's trade in feed grains was that export business was done both in corn and oats, with prices also on about a working export basis for barley, an unusual situation.

Provisions owed their strength to buying of July lard for Europe.

Cash wheat market finished firm today. Trading basis unchanged on winter and spring grades. Local sales 9000 bushels and receipts inspected for the day 11 cars. Cancellations 2336 bu. Sales to go to store 45,000 bu. Deliveries on March contracts 34,000 bu. Demand for cash corn good. Prices and basis irregular. Limits showing 1c gain to ½c loss. Prices ½c off to ½c up. Receipts 192 cars. Local sales 85,000 bu., included 25,000 bu for export. Deliveries large at 575,000 bu for the day. Local cancellations 22,536 bu. Demand for cash oats moderate. Basis for choice grades steady to ¼c higher. Ordinary to poor steady to ½c easier. Local sales, 290,000 bu., latter includes 200,000 bu worked late yesterday for export and not previously reported. Receipts 56 cars and cancellations 5000 bushels.

Wheat in Country Mills and Elevators.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Wheat stocks on March 1 in country mills and elevators in all sections of the United States except the Western States were smaller than a year ago, and were estimated today by the Department of Agriculture to have been 74,086,000 bushels. This is 12,000,000 bushels, or 14 per cent less than last year, and slightly less than the 75,333,000 bushels held two years ago.

Wheat held in the important states was: Pennsylvania had 2,030,000; Minnesota, 2,782,000; North Dakota, 13,747,000; South Dakota, 4,137,000; Nebraska, 2,838,000; Kansas, 3,340,000; Montana, 7,910,000, and Washington 8,535,000.

Continental Baking Omits Dividend

NEW YORK, March 17.—Directors of Continental Baking Corporation have omitted the quarterly dividend of one dollar a share on the class A common stock. A year ago the annual dividend rate was reduced from $8 to $4. The action followed belief of the directors that earnings for 1928 would be satisfactory, said M. Lee Marshall, chairman, but that a large amount of cash could be spent to advantage in rehabilitating existing plants and continuance of this program should improve earnings. The quarterly dividend of $2 on the preferred was declared. Amos L. Beaty, former chairman of the Texas Corporation, was elected a director.

WAGNER ELECTRIC UP 7 POINTS FOR WEEK

Maximum Range for Period Over 10 Points—Transactions Total 5913 Shares.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, March 17.—Wagner Electric common stock with more than 10 point advance on transactions exceeding 5900 shares was the outstanding feature on the local market the past week. A top price of $5 was recorded. Profit taking caused reaction to 52 at close of week. On one day more than 1600 shares changed hands and an upward range of 5 points was feature on another day.

Between March 1 and the top price of the past week the range was 14½ points, representing, as has already been told, an appreciation of more than $1,000,000 in market value of the stock. There are 78,277 shares of no par common stock outstanding.

The annual report recently issued stated that "while the sales volume for the year 1927 was approximately same as for the year 1926, the profit of $339,227.16 for 1927 as against $49,480.37 for 1926 shows an improvement in the company's operations.

On April 15 a dividend of $2.50 per share will be paid out of 1927 earnings.

During 1927 the stock ranged between 17 and 38 while in the previous year a low of around 14 was recorded.

Among the other securities to show net gains of point or more were Missouri Portland, Southwestern Bell pfd., Missouri Illinois Stores, Burkart common and Ely-Walker. Scullin Steel participating was down fractionally for the week. Some others, too, showed net declines in last recorded sales for period. As compared with previous week-end.

Bond transactions were a little larger than in previous week.

Prices were mixed at the week-end session with Wagner Electric a feature, selling higher and then lower.

COTTON PRICES MAKE NEW HIGH GROUND FOR MOVEMENT

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 17.—The cotton market was higher today on a continuation of yesterday's buying movement, stimulated by relatively firm Liverpool cables and reports of rains in the eastern belt. Prices made new high ground for the movement, May selling up to 19.28c and closing at 19.23c, compared with 19.07c at the close of the previous day. The general market closed steady at net advances of 13 to 17 points.

The opening was firm at an advance of 15 to 19 points in response to higher cables and the unfavorable view of the weather map. Initial prices attracted much week-end realizing, and there may have been a little Southern selling. Offerings were absorbed on reactions of 8 or 10 points from the best, and the market steadied up in late trading on continued trade buying, combined with covering and a moderate commission house demand. Closing prices were within a few points of the best.

Rains reported in the eastern belt were considered excessive, while more rain would have been considered more favorable in parts of the western belt, where the weather was clearing and colder. These features were probably factors on the advance in Liverpool, which was considerably better than due on the New York close of yesterday.

Private cable said there had been good trade calling with London, local and Indian buying in the English market, also an improved demand for cotton piece goods from India, with a fair business in yarns.

Houses with European connections were credited with buying a little cotton here again today, while there was further price fixing in May, which sold 47 points above October, compared with a difference of 44 points at the close of the previous day. Buying of near months here was accompanied by reiterated reports of steady or firm spot basis in the South and a moderate spot demand in some of the Eastern belt markets.

The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearances at the end of the week was estimated at 121,340 bales, against 184,550 last year.

Spots steady; middling, 19.65c.

CANADIAN MARCONI IS FEATURE ON THE CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 17.—Canadian Marconi for the third consecutive day established a new curb market record for turnover, transactions in this issue today totaling 202,300 shares, the greatest volume of half-day trading in one issue in market history. Total sales were 469,300 shares, also a new high record for a half day. The previous record was 460,100 share on Jan. 7..

Although there were numerous advances to new highs, week-end profit-taking caused price reductions throughout the list. Canadian Marconi, which had opened at 7⅛ and moved to 8, slumped to 7¼ and closed at 7½, off ⅝ net. Marconi Wireless of London, which has been strong in sympathy closed off ⅛.

Keystone Steel and Wire again had a sensational rise, climbing 21 points to a new high at 271 on the strength of rumors of a pending stock split-up and a possible merger. Casein soared 20 points to a new high at 205. Railroad issues showed new activity. Pittsburg & Lake Erie and Atlanta Great Southern common advanced 2 points each and the preferred 5, but New Orleans and Great Northern sagged 4 points to a new low at 28.

Bancitaly had a net gain of 3 points, Chesebrough Manufacturing gained 9 and Glen Alden, which was weak yesterday, advanced 7 points. Firestone Tire and Hood Rubber moved up another 3 points each. Tubize Art Silk touched a new high at 610, up 5 points net, and Celanese and Courtaulds made smaller gains.

Profit-taking caused losses in American Rolling Mills, Melville Shoe, Crowley-Milner, National Sugar Refining, U. S. Finishing, U. S. Gypsum and a few others.

Utilities were irregular, American Light and Traction and Puget Sound were at new highs, but other gains were limited and several issues showed small losses.

Prairie Pipe Line and Illinois sagged, but Cumberland moved up about 2 points and New York Transit touched at a new high at 55.

LEAD, ZINC AND COPPER

NEW YORK, March 17.—Production of copper by countries furnishing about 98 per cent of the world's output, amounted to 145,401 short tons in February against 140,546 in January and 132,870 in February last year, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics reports.

New York Cottonseed Oil.

NEW YORK, March 17.—The cottonseed oil market was moderately active and firmer today, closing with net gains of 8 to 16 points on week-end covering, combined with cotton house buying and support from spot oil interests. The firmness was due to steadier outside markets, especially lard and cotton. Refiners sold, but the absence of pressure generally helped to bring about the rise. Sales 8300 barrels. Prime crude 8.25; prime summer yellow spot, 9.70; March closed 9.70; May, 9.75; July, 10.15; August, 10.34; September, 10.40.

LONDON, TOO, HAS ITS WAVE OF SPECULATION

Special to Post-Dispatch and New York Evening Post.
By ARTHUR W. KIDDY.
(Copyright by New York Evening Post, Inc.)

LONDON, March 17.—A simultaneous wave of speculative activity on both sides of the Atlantic is the outstanding feature of the present economic situation and monetary authorities seem powerless to check the movement. Possibly our movement is more restrained than yours, partly because our credit resources are smaller, but largely because of lessened contango facilities since the war.

Purchasers are divided into three groups; First, the genuine buying out of savings which is moderately large; second, purchases by those able to obtain moderate contango facilities the total of which is probably small; third, a group representing those who pay for stock on bankers' loans, depositing stocks acquired and others as collateral. This last group is probably large but of fairly good class owing to the bankers' discrimination in accepting the collateral deposited and also because of the bankers requiring repayment in a short period. The net result is that as compared with the pre-war period much more stock is removed from the market and the suppply is scarce thus accentuating the upward movement of prices. Moreover, the comparative absence of contango facilities severely restricts bear operations which also accentuates the rise but might make markets difficult on which to sell.

On two dozen big industrial issues alone the capital appreciation in the last two years has been about £250,000,000.

The difficulty of the monetary authorities on both sides of the Atlantic in checking the excessive share speculation has, of course, been increased by a desire not to impose high money rates, which might have the effect of affecting trade adversely, while experience has shown that competition between banks renders restraint almost impossible in lending.

The monetary outlook is uncertain. The budget date is April 24, and considerable uncertainty exists as to whether that date coincides with the fusion of the Bank of England and treasury notes. The best quarters look for a further postponement.

It is believed that the creation of new loans will likely be the outstanding feature during April and May. New Zealand has about £29,000,000 debt-maturing next year and it is scarcely likely to let the present year close without dealing with some of it. Foreign loans are also expected to be fairly numerous, while arising out of the speculation in industrial shares, numerous fresh industrial projects are anticipated.

There is a growing dissatisfaction in your ability to compete for certain foreign loans because, while you gain prestige, portions of the loans are constantly being placed privately here, thus undoing any good effect on the exchange.

Your ability to compete has been greatly helped by our high stamp duty. The general trade outlook is not too bright.

FEWER NEW ISSUES, FIRM TREND TO BONDS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 17.—With the smallest aggregate of new issues since the first week of the year offering limited competition, listed bonds today continued to follow a firm trend. The week's total approximately $75,008,000, compared with $127,000,000 in the preceding week.

Although there were evidences of the customary week-end profit-taking, it did not become general. Missouri Pacific 4s and Wabash 5s were among the few important issues which were depressed by realizing sales. On the other hand, several prominent railway issues were briskly accumulated. New Haven 4½s and Denver Rio Grande & Western 5s sold at their best prices of the year. Further recoveries were made by the Seaboard issues, but the new St. Paul liens ruled at or a little below yesterday's close.

New Orleans Public Service 5s assumed the leadership in the firm utility group, advancing a point to 100¾, duplicating their year's high. Among the convertibles, Andes Copper 7s reached new 1927 high ground on large purchases and gains of a point or more were recorded by Kayser 5½s and Commercial Cable 4s.

Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s, which weakened last week following the announced failure of the project to merge with Inland, were bought in large amounts at advancing prices.

French Government issues continued to advance in new high territory in further reflection of the retirement of the 8 per cent dollar bonds, but other foreign obligations were fractionally irregular.

The United States Government division was quiet at steady prices.

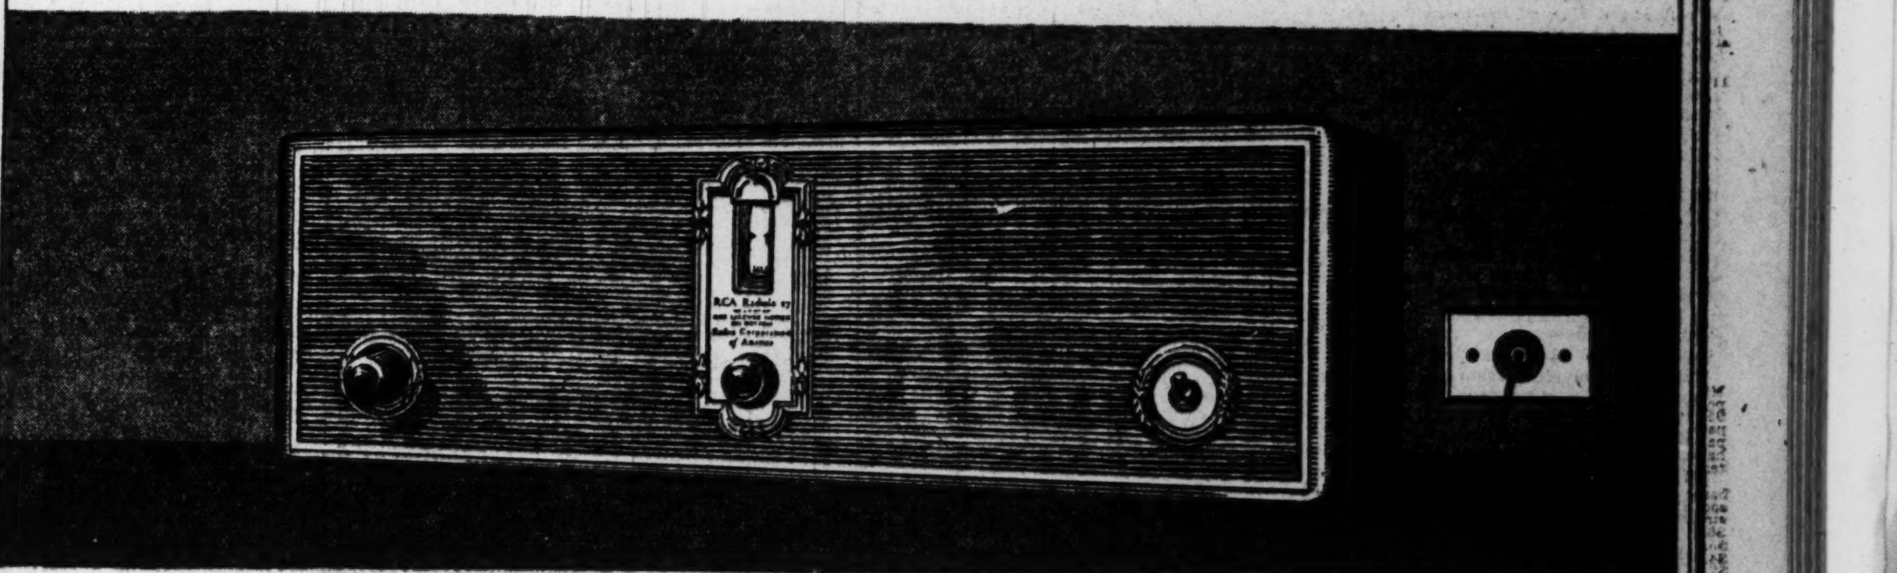
RADIOLA 17



RCA RADIOLA 17. The "wonder box" that operates from the electric light circuit (110 volt, 60 cycle, A. C.) as simply as an electric fan. Wonderfully balanced sensitivity, selectivity and tone fidelity. Built of the finest tested materials. The entire set self-contained in a fine mahogany cabinet. Equipped with Radiotrons, $157.50

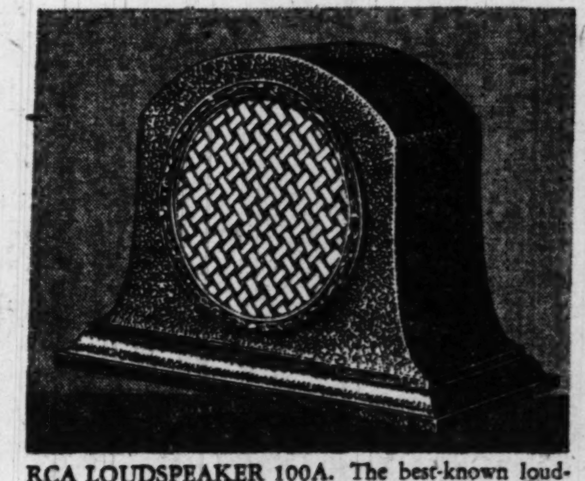
Acclaimed the country over for its marvelous simplicity and performance

A few months ago the Radio Corporation of America, after two years of laboratory tests, announced the perfection of a radically new design in radio receivers to be operated directly from the electric light circuit.

This notable advance in simplified operation was made possible by the development of the new alternating current Radiotrons.

Radiola 17, first receiver of the new design, has achieved a popularity never before accorded any radio instrument in so short a period. It has opened a new era in radio. It has revolutionized the industry.

In a hundred and fifty thousand homes Radiola 17 has brought a new conception of the amazing advance that has taken place in radio set design since the early days of broadcasting.



RCA LOUDSPEAKER 100A. The best-known loudspeaker in the country. Ideal to use with Radiola 17. Its range and realism have made it the most popular of all loudspeakers $35

There are other Radiolas ranging from $82.75 to $895, including the famous Super-Heterodyne in de luxe models. Radiolas may be purchased on the RCA Time Payment Plan from RCA Authorized Dealers.

STOCK RISE AND CHANGES IN INDUSTRY

Volume of Production Up to 118 in February as Against 111 in December—Reports From Different Industries Reveal Uneven Condition — Key Members Show Outstanding Gains.

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES

	20 Industrials	20 R.R.
Saturday	191.00	147.64
Friday	190.86	146.54
Week ago	188.27	140.68
Year ago	148.18	134.11
High, 1928	191.00	147.64
Low, 1928	178.84	138.36

Total stock sales 2,162,200 shares.

NEW YORK, March 17.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted weekly financial review says:

"This week's unbroken succession of record making on the Stock Exchange with transactions approaching 4,000,000 shares, virtually every day, focuses attention on a changed view of the market's future. Up to this week history had recorded only 14 3,000,000 share sessions and the record volume came on days when prices were falling. Transactions have exceeded the 3,000,000 share mark by a wide margin every day this week, with prices advancing as the market broadened. Immediately Wall street's increased courage in the market reflects its belief that nothing will be done further to contract brokers' loans but back of all is a growing conviction that the business fundamentals are sound. Recovery in various branches of industry carried the volume of production from 111 in December to 118 by February. That rapid recovery lifts February to its level of a year ago and brings production within 5 per cent of the 1927 peak reached in March. If anything like the present pace of improvement continues, the current month will top the 1927 high reached a year ago.

Key Industries Gain.

"It takes no very close examination of reports from different industries to see that conditions are unbalanced or at least uneven, but the key industries are the ones to show the outstanding early 1928 gains. Steel ingot production, building contract awards, and if Ford is left out of the calculation of the motor production, all set records last month. These are the three basic industries that have contributed most to prosperity in this country during recent years and their current operations indicate an expansion for early this year greater than normal. Various less important industries do not show up so well, but if improvement persists in the key groups the benefits will be communicated to others. This underlying trend in business toward better rather than poorer levels, when taken in conjunction with the stock market's pronounced upturn, contributes to the more constructive sentiment disseminated in the last week.

Profit Disparities Wider.

"What went on during 1927 by way of adjustments in industry made necessary in the competitive fight still tends to widen the profit disparities between different groups and different individual companies. Some companies made vastly more and some far less money than in 1926. Taking the industrials by groups the gamut reaches from a 943 per cent increase over 1926 in net profits to a 56 per cent loss. Still wider differences naturally appear on a comparison of individual companies. Enough annual reports now have come to hand to warrant generalization on the 1927 earnings trend. If the long list of reports now available may be called typical of the trend, industrial companies earned 3.8 less in 1927 than in 1926, railroads 14.2 per cent less and public utilities 9.3 per cent more. So far the active pace in industry and the general recent firmness in commodities inspire hope that corporate profits during 1928 may exceed expectations at the time the annual forecasts were written. But until the first quarter reports are in no reliable conclusions can be drawn.

"That the pace of industrial progress is quickening may be seen not only from the statistics on production but for the first time in a long while from the demands for funds. Commercial loans extended by member banks have risen substantially in the last month until they now stand appreciably above either a year ago or two years ago. The Federal Reserve banks have not resumed their sales of Government securities as a means of further restricting the volume of credit but the machinery set up by the banks early in the year is beginning to get in its work. Money holds around levels higher than a year ago and discounts have been increased to a total $142,000,000 higher than a year ago. Extensions in the volume of commercial loans doubtless will result in a better proportion as between business and security loans in the member banks earning assets. Whether France will take gold in large enough amounts to affect credit as the franc is stabilized and whether if so the major portion of this metal will be drawn from the United States are questions still undecided in the minds of competent authorities.

HEAVY REALIZING MARKS CLOSING ON STOCK EXCHANGE

Spectacular Advance Which Has Been Under Way, With Few Exceptions, for Ten Days, Checked—Final Prices Irregular.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 17.—The spectacular advance in stock prices which has been under way, with few interruptions for ten days, was checked today by profit-taking. Final quotations were decidedly irregular, a long list of gains ranging from 1 to 7 points being offset by almost as many losses of similar extent. So great was the volume of realizing in the last hour that the ticker was 40 minutes late in recording the final transaction. Total sales crossed 2,000,000 shares, but fell about [illegible],000 shares short of the Saturday record established a week ago.

There was nothing in the week-end news to influence the price movements, but all sorts of rumors involving special stocks were again in circulation. The weekly mercantile reviews emphasized that the Spring expansion in trade had failed to come up to earlier expectations, but a more cheerful view of the situation was taken by some of the bank reviews.

Rails Strong, Then Yield.

Railroad shares were again a bulwark of strength in the early part of today's market, but yielded with the industrials in the late selling movement. New York Central, after approaching within ½ of a point of the record high for all time of 174½ established in 1901, sold down to 171⅞ for a net loss of 2 points on the day. Reading advanced more than [illegible] points to 107⅝, the best price this year, but lost half its gain. Pennsylvania, Jersey Central, Southern Railway, Northern Pacific, Lackawanna, Great Northern preferred and St. Louis-Southwestern all established new maximum prices for the year.

General Motors was again the outstanding feature in the industrial division, touching a new high record at 172 and then falling to 168¼, closing just above that level for a net loss of ½ point on the day. Chrysler, Hudson and Mack Trucks lost a point or so. Radio fluctuated within a range of 6 points, closing 1½ points net lower at 141. American Linseed, another recent spectacular feature, also quieted down considerably, but closed a point higher at [illegible].

Some of Heavy Issues.

Continental Baking "A" fell [illegible] 2 points on the omission of the quarterly dividend. Conspicuous heaviness was shown by American Tobacco, Bayuk Cigars, [illegible] Brothers "B," Freeport Texas, General Cable "A," Houston Oil, International Match preferred, Midland Steel Products, Union Carbide, Vanadium Steel and Wright Aeronautical.

International Telephone and U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, each up 7 points, led a long list of new highs in the industrial group which included Corn Products Refining, Engineers Public Service, Sinclair Oil, Du Pont, Fidelity-Phenix Insurance, Interborough Rapid Transit and Manhattan Electrical Supply. U. S. Steel common closed at a net gain of 1⅜ at 147⅞ after having touched 148¾.

Rally in Escudos.

A brisk rally of 45 points in Portuguese Escudos, which touched 4.25 cents, featured an otherwise quiet foreign exchange market. Sterling cables held steady at $4.87 15-16.

The weekly clearing house statement showed excess reserve of $45,308,160 as compared with a deficit in reserve of $5,021,330 last week. Aggregate reserve totaled $707,268,000. The detailed statement of actual condition this day showed increases in most of the principal items. Loans, discounts and investments gained $58,43[illegible],000; reserve in the Federal Reserve Bank of member banks, $[illegible],000; net demand deposits, $78,[illegible],000, and time deposits, $4,611,[illegible]. Cash in own vaults showed a shrinkage of $3,144,000.

WEEK'S METAL MARKET REVIEW

NEW YORK, March 17.—In some directions during the past week improvement was noted as to contracting for steel for the second-quarter delivery, while mills continued to maintain a steady rate of production, with good deliveries reported against existing contracts. The February statement of the Steel Corporation showed the largest unfilled tonnage since March, 1926. Automobile and farm implement manufacturers were said to have placed some fair-sized orders.

Pig iron was steady and unchanged.

Business in copper for domestic account tapered off during the week, although a fair inquiry for export continued. Some consumers are thought to have covered March and part of April requirements by recent buying, and February deliveries which were heavy. Otherwise, the February statistics were considered a standoff. Producers continue to hold steady at [illegible] cents for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut Valley.

Tin prices declined to new low levels for the year but recovered when consumers turned good buyers. London also advanced.

Lead was steady, but consuming demand showed some falling off. Stocks during February increased 11,170 tons, despite a decrease in production of 3420 tons compared with January.

Zinc demand improved and prices were firm. Ore averaged strong. [illegible] reported not offering freely.

Antimony was steadier, but [illegible]

TRADE VOLUME IN STOCKS SETS NEW RECORD FOR WEEK

Industrial Average Reaches Highest Level Yet Attained and Rail Top for 1928 — Sales Nearly Reach 4,000,000 Shares on Two Days.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 17. — The violent advance in stock prices, which carried the general industrial average to the highest level for all time and the general railroad averaging to a new high for the year in the largest week's trading on record, overshadowed all other developments in this week's financial markets.

There was little in the week's business news to account for the tremendous outburst of speculation. Rumors of "technical corners" in Radio, American Linseed and a few other specialties, which started an urgent retreat of an over-crowded short interest, gave impetus to the buying movement. Circulation of unconfirmed report that President Coolidge had decided to reconsider his decision not to become a candidate in 1928 may also have been a factor.

The credit condition continued unchanged despite the $2,000,000,000 turnover of funds in the middle of the week and the increase of more than $50,000,000 in brokers' loans reported by the New York Federal Reserve Bank. The weekly Clearing House statement showed a big gain in excess reserve which, coupled with the shading of the official 4½ per cent call money rate in the outside market on Friday, led to hope of easier monetary conditions next week.

Bonds Slightly Firmer.

Bond prices were slightly firmer, presumably in reflection of the March investment demand and the rise in stocks. New offerings totaled only about $75,000,000, as against $127,000,000 the week before.

Return of the Canadian dollar to parity, and thence to a slight premium and the collapse of Portuguese escudos to the lowest level in several years followed by a 45-point rebound at week-end divided speculative interest in this week's foreign exchange market. Sterling cables were slightly firmer, selling just below $4.88 as the week closed.

Each day's trading ran above 3,000,000 shares with at least three sessions running close to the 4,000,000 mark. The railroad shares, which had been lagging behind the industrials for several weeks, joined the upswing as the week closed.

Radio Corporation was the outstanding individual feature, scoring an extreme gain of more than 60 points on rumors of a "technical corner" in that issue, which was made the subject of a stock exchange inquiry. No information was forthcoming as to the progress or result of the investigation, which is still underway. The stock dropped from a high of 160 on Tuesday to 138, closing the week at 141.

General Motors to 172.

General Motors, which touched 161 last Saturday and then reacted several points on profit taking, started forward again towards the close of the week, setting a new high record at 172 today. Other motors followed in its wake, Chrysler, Hudson and Willys-Overland all reaching new high ground. Reports of unexpectedly large increases in February and March sales by some producers, partly provided the background for the upward movement.

So extensive was the speculation in radio, American Linseed and a few other pool favorites that the entire capital stock of those corporations was turned over in the week's trading. A flock of new high records was created during the week by such diversified issues as American International Corporation, American Can, Allied Chemical, Baldwin Locomotive, Continental Insurance, Du Pont, Electric Auto Lite, General Cable, Interborough Rapid Transit, International Telephone, International Cement, International Match preferred, Loew's, Inc.; Manhattan Electrical Supply, National Biscuit, Park & Tilford, Sinclair Oil, Stewart Warner Speedometer, United Drug and Wright Aeronautical.

Little News of Influence.

There was little in the week's business news to influence the price movement. The weekly trade review reported that steel production had lost some of its momentum and the February foreign trade figures showed a much smaller export balance than the same month of recent years. An increase of more than $50,000,000 in brokers' loans was disregarded, at least for the time being.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, March 17.—Another advance of 1-16c featured the raw sugar market today on continued buying by operators with spot prices advancing to the basis of 4.58 for Cuban duty paid. Sales reported included 10,000 bags of Philippines and 7000 bags of Porto Rican due early in April at 4.52 and 32,000 bags of Philippines and 40,000 bags of Cuban for prompt and April shipment at 4.58. The firmer spot market and reports of a firmer market abroad, with an increased demand, were responsible for strength in the raw sugar futures, which closed at net gains of 2 to 5 points. The market opened steady at 1 to 2 points advance and although there was a good deal of realizing or liquidation, offerings were well absorbed. On a renewal of covering and buying by houses with European and Cuban connections prices worked higher and closed at about the best of the session. Near months showed the maximum gains. Approximate sales 50,000 tons. March closed 2.89; May, 2.80; July, 2.89; Sept., 2.98; Dec., 3.03.

The refined sugar market was firm but trading was light with prices unchanged at 5.80 to 5.85 for fine granulated.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 17.—Total transactions in bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today amounted to $8,211,000, previous day sales $12,027,000; week ago $6,031,000; year ago $7,031,000; total transactions from Jan. 1 to date were $711,043,000, compared wiht $848,820,000 same period a year ago, and $716,313,000 same period two years ago.

Quotations on all Liberty Bonds are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar; that is, for instance, a sale printed 99—24 means $99 and twenty-four thirty-seconds of a dollar and not $99.24.

The following is a complete list of transacitons with sales highest, lowest and closing prices:

Foreign Exchange

NEW YORK, March 17.—The Evening Post in the copyrighted weekly foreign exchange market review says:

"The foreign exchange market is now so thoroughly stabilized that it presents little news feature in development from week to week. Various transfers in gold in substantial volume have balanced whatever uneasiness existed in the international commercial situation to a large degree and checked movements in rates to important countries governed by various phases in commercial trade. The excess of imports over exports recorded in the reports for the past year have been followed by a proportionate excess since the beginning of the new year and recently importers requirements have furnished a degree of strength toward the end of each week. Sterling indicated this situation to the greatest extent. French held close at 3.93 and Italian was steadily traded in at around 5.28 for cables. There were narrow movements in Swiss and Dutch both those exchanges following sterling closely. German was also well maintained, cables late in week, near 23.91.

"Spanish is about the only one of the important European exchanges to be directed by speculative ventures. Pesetas were in supply early in the week falling from 16.88 to 16.70, but moved up from that level and showed only a slight loss when the week ended.

'A changed position has been created in exchange on Portugal Escudos started a decline early in the week and yesterday quoted as low as 4 cents.

'Canadian exchange changed its market position during the week, moving up to 3-64 premium compared with a rate of ¼ discount or more prevailing for a long time, causing heavy imports of gold from this country, as the exchange on Montreal dropped below 99.85. The market now indicates that an excessive flow of gold occurred at that time throwing the balance against this country, but the commercial situation has already changed and favors Canada especially in view of an unusually large grain movement that may continue for some time to come.

There was a brisk rally of 45 points in Portugese escudos on Saturday, featuring an otherwise quiet market.

LOAN COMPANY SUES S. L. FOX FOR $26,400

Claims to Clifford M. Hicks' Insurance Involved in Action Against Former Officer.

Suit was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by the People's Loan & Investment Co., against its former treasurer, Samuel L. Fox, an attorney, growing out of settlement of insurance policies carried by Clifford M. Hicks, who was mysteriously shot to death April 30 last. The suit is based on two counts for a total of $26,400.

In one count it is charged that on Dec. 15 last Fox, in settlement of one policy calling for $100,000, received $29,333.33 as treasurer of the Loan Company, but accounted for only $17,600, leaving a balance due of $11,733.33. In the other count it is charged that Hicks was indebted to the company for $4000 at the time of his death and to cover this claim a $150,000 policy on his life was assigned for the benefit of the loan company and other creditors.

However, it is alleged, Fox, as treasurer, agreed to accept in settlement two-thirds of the loan company's claim although he did not have authority from the company to make such compromise. The amount sought on this count is $14,666.67.

According to Harry S. Gleick, attorney for the plaintiff, the indebtedness by Hicks was due to the fact he indorsed a large number of notes for supposed clients who had borrowed money from the company. It developed later Attorney Gleick said that the clients were fictitious, Hicks having actually obtained the loans for himself.

Fox told a reporter yesterday that the suit is without foundation. He said whatever money was obtained by creditors of Clifford Hicks was due to the generosity of his brother, Glenn Hicks, who was named as beneficiary in insurance policies totaling over $350,000. The insurance claims were compromised for $247,000 by Glenn Hicks through his attorneys.

"I had nothing to do with this settlement and had to take for the claims I represented what Glenn Hicks was willing to pay," Fox said. "He was under no legal obligation to pay a cent for his brother's indebteness and any amount we received was a donation. Out of about $300,000 in claims Glenn Hicks indicated a certain group of creditors who were to receive the proceeds of some of creditors did not receive anything. the insurance. The remaining Those who were paid received not less than 40 cents on the dollar, but the People's Loan & Investment Co., got 52 per cent of its money back."

HOOVER DELEGATES CHOSEN; BAKER INDORSED AFTER FIGHT

Fifteenth Missouri District G. O. P. Convention Votes Down Denunciation of Governor.

By the Associated Press.

JOPLIN, Mo., March 17.—After naming two avowed Hoover supporters as delegates to the National Republican Convention at Kansas City, the Fifteenth District convention today indorsed the administration of Gov. Baker, after an amendment offered by delegates from Vernon County, denouncing Baker's administration as "inefficient and corrupt" in the conduct of penal and eleemosynary institutions had been defeated. Howard Gray of Carthage and John Taylor of Anderson were chosen delegates, with Mrs. C. E. Maness of Neosho and Mrs. Birdie L. Cook of Nevada as alternates and Frank Curless of Liberal, presidential elector.

Vernon County at its convention several weeks ago attacked the Baker administration.

Others indorsed were President Coolidge; D. E. B. Clements of Macon, National Committeeman, and Mrs. Grace Semple Burlingham of St. Louis; State Senator Larry Brunk of Aurora, candidate for State Treasurer; James A. Tatum of Anderson, candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, and Stratton Shartel of Neosho, candidate for Attorney-General.

Economic Necessity.

JACK DEMPSEY'S third fight with Gene Tunney has now become an "economic necessity," to quote Mary K. Browne's excuse for turning professional.

Tex Rickard and his 600 millionaires have had a hard winter. The eliminations eliminated everyone, even the victors in the heavy tournament. The prospect of a "final" bout between Heeney and Risko is about as interesting as yesterday's newspaper. One wonders WHY, not WHEN it will occur.

The survivor, being the residue of the eliminations, naturally will face Gene Tunney for the title. But can you visualize a seething mob, struggling for sev ringside seats while the ticket sale goes on? Whoever can, the keeper is seeking him.

Therefore, to redeem this lean and slabsided season and recoup the Madison Square Garden bank account, it becomes economically necessary for Jack Dempsey to get his eyes in shape for the "third battle of the century."

The "Peak" Passed?

IT WILL not be surprising, however, if Dempsey refuses to be played with according to the needs of Mr. Rickard and others, and remains content to quit the game, resting his reputation on his "moral victory" at Soldier Field.

In that case Mr. Rickard's income tax will cause him less worry. Boxing will go into a "slump" from that high estate it has enjoyed ever since the "Killer" came out of the West, unknown and unheralded, in 1918.

It will be a sick pugilistic box office the day that Dempsey really means that he is "through."

Shrinkage.

NOT all the "red ink" in the racing world is in the books of the bettors. There's the horse owner. He buys blood lines and conformation and is sold "paper" hoofs, dickey legs, catarrhal fever and other defects, inherited or acquired.

At Lexington, Monday, there was sold a filly by Man O' War-Tuscan Red named "War Feathers." As a yearling she brought $50,500, but as a 4-year-old her value shrunk to $20,000. As a 2-year-old she did not go to the post and as a 3-year-old she ran one race and finished second. She is now a questionable asset. But when first bought she was a fine looker of the bluest blood.

Charge off $30,500, plus oats and attention for two years, Mr. James Cox Brady. You bought some red ink, not a race horse, back in 1925.

BEGGAR BOY, WITH LANDOLT UP, CAPTURES 'HIBERNIAN'

Favorites Have Better Luck at New Orleans — Florinassa Pays Only $3.20 for $2 in Opener.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, March 17.—William Maher's Fly Hawk, with C. E. Allen in the saddle, won the St. Patrick's Day Handicap, feature race of the card at Jefferson Park today. William Penn was second and Twinkling third.

The track was slow and the horses had to buck a heavy headwind.

There were seven starters in the St. Patrick's Handicap and they all were well played, with Fly Hawk the favorite.

Waffles jumped away to a fast lead, while Fly Hawk was rated along next to the last. Allen never made a move with the gelding until the far turn was reached. Here he called on him and the son of Star Hawk responded with a great burst of speed. He took the lead in the stretch and won hard held by four lengths.

William Penn was second by five lengths.

Fly Hawk paid $7.40 for $2 in the mutuels.

Beggar Boy Takes Handicap.

Mrs. R. M. Hoot's Beggar Boy, with a change in jockeys, scored in a sensational finish when he led home a good field of sprinters in the Hibernian Handicap. He was ridden by C. Landolt today and the boy never let him stop. In his previous effort, Jockey F. Horn had the mount.

Beggar Boy was away flying and the black son of Black Toney U See-It made every post a winning one. He won by a head from Brilliant, which was second by a length and a half over Tannic.

Beggar Boy's price was $10.60 for $2.

The favorite players began the day well by selecting Florinassa and she rewarded by romping away with the purse, paying $3.20 for a $2 ticket. Florinassa and Venita M ran head and head for the first three furlongs, but in the stretch Florinassa drew away to win by two lengths. Helen Dean gained the place by half a length from Lasquenet.

Medley Easy Winner.

F. Reuter's Medley, favorite, easily won the second event, a six-furlong sprint. Force finished second and Roycrofter third.

Medley rushed to the front, made all the pace and won by five lengths. Force sliped through on the inside and gained the place by a length and a half.

The Pueblo Stable's Grand Dad, well played, won the third race, defeating the good thing Captain George Foster, with Patuxant third.

Demar Shatters Record in Winning 44-Mile Race

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, March 17.

CLARENCE H. DEMAR, Melrose printer and five-time winner of the Boston Athletic Association Marathon broke all known records for 44 miles today when he won the St. Patrick's day grind from Providence, R. I., to Boston in five hours, 47 minutes and 37 seconds.

Breasting a raw northeast wind and wearing two shirts and a pair of gloves for protection against the cold, the veteran runner clipped nearly half an hour off the best previous mark for a similar distance established in 1882, when W. J. Davies covered 44 miles in New York on Washington's Birthday in six hours, 8 minutes and 25 seconds. Demar was 20 minutes ahtad of his nearest competitor, Leon Yeuell of Wakefield, last year's winner, who finished in 6:15:07.

COOK PAINTERS WIN NATIONAL BASKET TITLE

Defeat Kansas City A. C. in Furiously Played Final of A. A. U. Tournament, 25 to 23.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, March 17.—The Cook Painters of Kansas City tonight won the National Amateur Athletic Union basketball championship by defeating the Kansas Athletic Club, 25 to 23 in a scorching battle, the outcome of which was always uncertain.

Survivors of a national field of 53 teams, the two local clubs waged a bitterly fought game that kept 10,000 spectators on edge throughout. Tonight's game was the first of the tournament in which the powerful Cook squad had been held to less than 40 points.

With but a single exception every man on the Cooks team is a past member of an all-Missouri Valley Conference team. Victor Holt, their center who towers six feet, six inches, was the champion scorer of the conference year with the Oklahoma University team. Roy Lecrone, star guard, also came from Oklahoma U.

Victory for the Cooks came in the first year of its organization after one of the greatest tournament performances seen since the A. A. U. tournament came here eight years ago. Tonight was the first time the Cooks had been held to less than 40 points.

The Cooks went into the final game a favorite and the closeness of the bitterly fought contests came with considerable surprise to the 10,000 spectators.

Both teams presented one of the greatest defensive displays ever seen in a national tournament here, the Cooks enjoying a slight edge in the defensive tactics. The club was effectively repulsed at the basket, and forced to long shots.

The last minute saw a frenzied defensive battle with few shots left open and fewer made. The fierceness of the battle precluded any chance for stalling as the game drew near its end. The Cooks waged a desperate but fruitless attempt to advance the ball to the basket, and establish a safe margin. Not a score was made in the last three minutes of the game.

WORLD RECORD FOR 75 YARDS TIED BY ELDER

Notre Dame Sprinter Equals Outdoor Mark in Winning Illinois Relay Feature—Eight Records Set.

By CHARLES W. DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., March 17.—A world's record was equaled, eight carnival records were smashed and two were established as 850 athletes from 81 universities, colleges and high schools finished their assault in the eleventh annual University of Illinois relay carnival tonight.

Jack Elder, the fleet Notre Dame football halfback, tied the world's record for the 75-yard dash, established by "Hank" Russell of Cornell in 1926, breaking the tape a scant foot ahead of Grady, of Kansas State College in the outstanding race of the carnival.

Illinois Takes 4-Mile.

The University of Illinois' marvelous relay team clipped 17 1-10 seconds off the four-mile carnival record after a thrilling race with the plucky Michigan State College team. The record-breaking performance was largely due to the sterling mile turned in by Dave Abbott, a sophomore, running as anchor man. He ran his relay in 4:25 5-10.

William Droegemueller, of Northwestern, who soared to 13 feet, 2½ inches in the Western Conference meet a week ago for a new American record vaulting off a dirt floor, smashed the carnival record tonight with a leap of 13 feet, ¾ inches. The mark was 2⅛ inches better than the former record established by Dean Brownell of Illinois in 1924.

The Kansas State Teachers' College of Pittsburg, Kan., scored a double-barreled victory in the record-breaking knocking over records in the one mile and the two mile college relays. The Jayhawkers hung up a mark of CHICAGO, March 17. — Ralph Greenleaf of Philadelphia tonight won the National Pocket Billiard championship, defeating Frank Taberski of Schenectady, N. Y., 125 to 101 in 37 innings.

BILL TILDEN ARRIVES AT AUGUSTA FOR DAVIS CUP TRIALS

By the Associated Press.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 17.—William T. Tilden, captain of the Davis Cup tennis team, arrived in Augusta today from New York for the opening here next week of the Davis Cup team tryouts.

Edwards "Bud" Chandler of Berkeley, Calif., a Harvard law student, also reported at Augusta today to take part in the tryout matches. Johnny Doeg, California, is expected tomorrow. A score of the outstanding luminaries of the tennis world are expeced next week when the team to represent America in the Davis Cup matches will be selected.

Wray Brown of St. Louis, one of the team candidates, departed for Augusta Friday night.

JOHNNY LAYTON WINS FROM HOPPE, 50-42, WITH RUN OF ELEVEN

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 17.—Johnny Layton of St. Louis increased his chance for second place in the American Three-Cushion Billiard League tonight by defeating Willie Hoppe, 50 to 42 at the Hoppe Academy in 46 innings. Layton, who played in brilliant form had a high run of 11 against 5 for Hoppe.

Ben Millers Oppose Chicago Eleven in Soccer Cup Match

Winner to Meet Eastern Survivor in National Final — St. Louisans at Their Best in Cup Games.

Preliminary to Soccer Cup Game May Be Canceled

THERE is a big IF hanging over the scheduled preliminary game at Sportsman's Park this afternoon. It will be played only if the field is dry, W. E. Barker, western commissioner, has announced. If the turf is wet or soft as it was early yesterday, the game between the Olympic squad and the Spanish-American club of East St. Louis will be canceled.

If the preliminary is played it will start at 1 o'clock. If it is not played, those spectators who reach the park early will have a long wait with no diversion or entertainment. The cup game is scheduled to start at 2:45 p. m.

By Dent McSkimming.

The soccer match at Sportsman's Park this afternoon has taken on more significance and has developed more interest among Western football followers than any other national cup game played here in the past four years.

The contending teams are the Bricklayers Club of Chicago and the Ben Millers of St. Louis, two of the most consistent "money" teams in the history of the national championship competition. Each is the type of team which plays its best football, fights its hardest and rises to greatest heights in a cup game. The football public appreciates this fact and therefore anticipates a thrilling match.

In the national championship competition, conducted each year by the United States Football Association, the winner in each game advances to the succeeding round and the loser drops out, to forever hold his peace. The series has now reached the stage where only four clubs remain out of an original 117. In the Western division, the Bricklayers today oppose the Ben Millers, and in the East, the New York Nationals oppose the J. and P. Coats team of Providence, R. I., at the Polo Grounds. The winners will meet early in April in the national final, at New York.

Visitors Are Undefeated.

One of the strangest features of today's game here is the comparative records of the two teams. Whereas the Bricklayers have not lost a game all season, the Millers have been repeatedly trounced, once by a score of 7-2 and again by six goals to one. But these defeats were not suffered in cup games. Whenever they engaged a team in a national cup match, the Millers won, defeating the Swedish-Americans of Detroit, 2-0, the Canadian Club of Chicago, 2-1, and the American-Hungarians of Cleveland, 4 to 3. In each case the Millers' opponents were foreign-born players and in each case the Millers won not because they bewildered their opponents with complicated combination play, but because they ran faster, shot the ball harder, and put greater energy

Hussey Defeats Locke and Scholz, Sets a Record

HARTFORD, Conn., March 17.

FRANK HUSSEY, former New York schoolboy, set a new world's indoor record for 70 yards tonight in the Massasoit A. C. meet here.

Leaving behind a field which included Roland Locke of Nebraska, and Jackson Scholz, veteran Olympic sprinter, Hussey broke the tape in 6 4-5 seconds. This was one-fifth of a second better than the former record of seven seconds, made by Loren Murchison in Chicago, Jan. 29, 1926.

Griffin, Detroit, Handball King

23-Year-Old Youngster Adds National A. A. U. Title to "Y" Championship.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., March 17.—Joe Griffin of Detroit, the youthful sensation of the handball court added another jewel to his championship crown today when he wrested the National A. A. U., singles title from George A. Nelson, of Baltimore, 18-21, 21-16, 21-7.

In this victory Griffin, who is just 23, achieved a goal that no handball player had reached before—title to both the A. A. U., and National Y. M. C. A., singles championships.

Two more Detroiters, Albert Schaufelberger and Willis Kamman came through victorious in the A. A. U. doubles and annexed the title by defeating Joe Goudreau and Sam Berko, of Cleveland, 21-18, 21-13.

The final game of the singles was a sensation with both players primed for the joust by a week's practice in eliminating early round contenders. Nelson was defending the title he won last year at St. Paul. He seemed confident of retaining it when he took the first game after a stiff battle but the Detroit youth came back with new found punch to win the second and to nose the Baltimore star out of his title in the deciding game.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 17.—Had today's game between the Browns of Dan Howley and the Newark Bears of the International League been a regularly scheduled league affair, it would have been postponed to prevent the risk of injury to the ball players, high-priced and otherwise, mostly otherwise. But it was a spring exhibition game, there were a few fans in the stand and there remained no other day on which to play and so despite high wind, threatening rain and sand and smoke being whipped across the field, the athletes went to it for nine innings.

Fortunately, nobody was hurt and while the boys were still wiping sand out of their eyes at a late hour, the batting optics were not injured permanently. And so there is no reason for worry over the fact that the Newark Bears defeated the Browns, 2 to 1.

Had it not been for a one-inning atack on Jim Wright, the Bears would not have scored, but there would have been little glory in a Brownie victory inasmuch as they made only one hit.

Al Mamaux, former major league hurler, took off his spats long enough to pitch four innings and the one Brownie hit was off the piano player's delivery, Earl McNeely shooting a single to left in the third inning. Fischer, a young left-hander, pitched the next four innings and held the Browns hitless and in the ninth, a young right-hander named Lyle stepped to the slab and threw a few balls and the Browns went down in order.

Beck's Pitching Real Feature.

Wind or no wind, the pitching exhibition of Walter Beck far outshadowed anything else that happened during the contest.

The youngster who sings about his home in Decatur always was considered a wild young fellow on the hill. But in the six innings he pitched he showed excellent control, despite the howling wind, and gave nary a base on balls. The Bears made three hits off his delivery, but one of the safeties was a pop fly that was blown hither and yon by the wind, so that Kress and Sax, who was playing third,

CARDS BEGIN REDUCING SQUAD, RELEASING SMITH AND GRABOWSKI

TWO PITCHERS DEPART TO JOIN ROCHESTER CLUB

Rain Shortens Workout of Players — Rhem Has Cold, but Says He Is Ready to Start a Game.

By W. J. McGoogan

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

AVON PARK, Fla., March 17.—Hal Smith, right-hand pitcher, has been released by the Cardinals on option to the Rochester club of the International League, and Al Grabowski, southpaw hurler, has been sent back to the same club, to which he has been under contract while getting a trial with the Cardinals. Smith and Grabowski both departed tonight for Monroe, La., where Billy Southworth's team is in training.

Smith made the training trip with the Cardinals last year and was sent to Houston on option. He won five games and lost three in the Texas League and was recalled by the St. Louis team. He is a big fellow with plenty of pitching stuff, but shows a tendency toward wildness.

The release of Smith reduces the number of hurlers on the Cardinals roster to ten. They are: Alexander, Berly, Frankhouse, Haid, Haines, Johnson, Littlejohn, Reinhart, Rhem and Sherdel. In addition, there in Tony Kaufman who is striving to gain a place on the staff, although he is still under contract to Rochester.

If Manager Bill McKechnie follows his intention of carrying nine or ten pitchers, one or two more are still to be released.

Rhem Ready to Start, He Says.

Rain cut short the intensive workout which McKechnie had planned for his men today, but at that the manager was able to get in a fairly long session of bunting, batting and fielding practice. He was disappointed when the downpour started and he saw there was no possibility of work during the afternoon. But the players did not seem to be in the least put out. They rather welcomed the half holiday after the strenuous game against the Yankees.

The latest addition to the hospital list is Flint Rhem who is suffering from a heavy cold. Rhem worked too hard Friday and failed to change his sweat shirt before cooling off.

Rhem stated today that he was ready to start a game at any time and he probably will be used before many days have passed. He says his arm still hurts him a little when he throws curve balls, but that is usually his experience in the Spring and that he expects it to be alleviated soon.

The attitude of the big right-hander is one of the most pleasant surprises of the spring. The troubles he has had with the club are forgotten now and he has set his goal at 20 to 25 victories this year. In the past Rhem has at times tried to collect before he delivered the goods, but he realizes that is the wrong system and henceforth he will try the charge account method.

Five Games Ahead This Week.

This week the Cardinals have five games scheduled. There is a contest for every day, beginning Monday and including Saturday, except Wednesday.

Tomorrow Indianapolis calls at Avon Park, to be followed on Tuesday by the Boston Red Sox and on Thursday by the Athletics. Friday the Cardinals go to Winter Haven to meet the Phillies and the two teams play a return engagement here Saturday.

So far seven games have been played and six of them won. Triumphs were gained over the Yankees, the Washington Senators, Boston Red Sox, Boston Braves and the Baltimore Orioles twice. Only the Athletics have been able to win an argument from McKechnie's men and that defeat was due to a bad inning by one pitcher, Reinhart.

Angelicas Play In Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 17.—The first of a 2-game series for the amateur soccer championship of Missouri will be played at 3 o'clock tomorrow between the Hutchison Electrics, champions of Kansas City, and the Angelicas, St. Louis champions. The second of the intercity games will be played March 25 in St. Louis.

Because the Hutchisons defeated Omaha in an inter-city contest and won from a picked team from Southeast Kansas, the series with St. Louis takes on an aspect of more than a state championship. Soccer followers here believe the winner of the Hutchison-Angelicas games will be the champions of the Missouri Valley.

The probable Kansas City line-up:

Babe Ruth bet Wilcy Moore that he, Wilcy, wouldn't make three hits all season last year. Wilcy made six and now he gets a big kick out of looking at the team of mules he bought for his Oklahoma farm with Babe's 300 bucks. He named one Babe and the other Ruth. But a mule doesn't care what you call him.

A mule doesn't pay any attention to the nice things a mule-skinner calls him, as that would make his ears burn. And burning ears is a serious thing for a mule.

Looks Like First Division.

See where the Browns joined the Cards in the one-hit column when Ernie Nevers and "General" Crowder let Newark down with one hit. After bunching one bingle off Ernie in the second inning, the Bears were through for the day, as the "General" took them along for six innings without ary a hit, as they say in the sticks.

Of course, one one-hit game doesn't win a pennant but two one-hit frolics indicate that the next world series may be pulled off right here in St. Louis between the Browns and Cards.

As a further indication of pennant possibilities the Cards resumed their former occupation of trimming the Yanks. As the Pirates haven't been able to do it yet one can draw one's own conclusions.

WORLD RECORD FOR 75 YARDS IS TIED AT ILLINOIS RELAYS

3:26 5-10 for the mile event, and an 8:09 9-10 for the two miles.

Iowa Sets a Record.

Illinois scored another record-breaking performance by setting a new mark in winning the university medley relay and also added glory by finishing second in the one mile university relay.

The one mile university relay event went to Iowa whose team hung up a new carnival record of 3:24 5-10. Stevenson, the first Hawkeye runner, jumped into a lead, and handed the baton to Stamats with an advantage of about 10 yards. Stamats kept out in front and Baird and Cuhel never were threatened.

THE SUMMARIES.

TWO-MILE COLLEGE RELAY—Kansas State Teachers' College, Pittsburg, Kan. (Cullison, Nicholson, Waner, Winchester), first; Carleton College, Northfield, Minn., second; Western State Teachers' College, Kalamazoo, Mich., third; Coe College, Cedar Rapids, Ia., fourth. Time, 8:09 9-10 (new carnival record; former record of 8:13 made by Haskell Indians in 1926).

COLLEGE MEDLEY RELAY (880, 440, 1320, MILE)—Won by Michigan State Normal School, Ypsilanti, Mich., (Cramer, Taylor, Criser, Potter); Western State Teachers College, Kalamazoo, Mich., second; Kansas State Teachers College, Emporia, Kan., third; Ohio Wesleyan, Delaware, O., fourth. Time 10:43 4-10. (Establishes new Carnival record).

TWO-MILE RELAY, UNIVERSITY—Won by Iowa State (Hornburg, Hoak, Soderburg, Caulum); Wisconsin, second; Iowa, third; Chicago, fourth. Time, 8:05 6-10.

75-YARD DASH—Won by Elder, Notre Dame; Grady, Kansas, second; Bracey, Rice Institute, third; Simpson, Ohio State, fourth. Time, 7 2-5s. (Ties world's indoor and outdoor record).

75-YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Rockaway, Ohio State; Pahlmeyer, Wisconsin, second; Taylor, Grinnell, third; Work, Purdue, fourth. Time, 9 3-5s.

1500-METER RUN—Won by Willis, Rice Institute; Tooley, Ohio State, second; Hanover, Ohio State, third; Banks, Indiana, fourth. Time, 4:13.5.

UNIVERSITY MEDLEY RELAY (880, 440, 1320 mile)—Won by Illinois (Ponzer, Chambers, White, Fairfield); Marquette, second; Iowa, third. Only three starters. Time, 10.42.5. (Establishes carnival record).

300-YARD DASH—Won by Alf, Doane College; Root, Chicago, second; Hursley, Missouri, third; Daniels, Texas, fourth. Time, :31.9.

ONE-MILE RELAY COLLEGE—Won by Kansas State Teachers College, Pittsburg, Kan. (Keithly, Snodgrass, McEnterfer, Titus); College of the City of Detroit, second; Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., third; Ohio Wesleyan, Delaware, O., fourth. Time, 3:26.5. (New carnival record; former record 3:28 2-5, made by Butler in 1925).

High jump—Brunk, Drake; Carr, Illinois; Gitter, Marquette; Sheppard, Texas; All tied at 5 feet, 10¾ inches.

1000-yard run—Won by Gess, Kentucky; Martin, Purdue, second; Moody, Kansas State College, third; Eppstein, Missouri, fourth. Time, 2:16 8-10. (New carnival record, former record of 2:19 4-5 made by C. A. Reinke of Michigan in 1922.)

Shot put—Won by Lyons, Illinois, 46 feet 11¼ inches; Brown, Missouri, 45 feet, 7 inches, second; Nelson, Iowa, 44 feet, 11⅞ inches, third; Forwald, Iowa, 44 feet, 8½ inches, fourth.

BROAD JUMP—McInerney, Kansas, 23 ft., 8¾ in., first; Simmon, Illinois, 23 ft. 2½ in., second; Smith, Texas, 22 ft. 9½ in., third; Sibbitt, Illinois, 21 ft. 9½ in., fourth.

FOUR-MILE RELAY (University)—Illinois (Stine, McElwee, Movak, Abbott), first; Michigan State College, second; Indiana, third; Rice Institute, fourth. Time, 17:56 5-10. (New Carnival record; former record of 18:13 6-10 made by Illinois in 1927).

75-YARD LOW HURDLES—Kane, Ohio Wesleyan, first; Rockaway, Ohio State, second; Spence, College of the City of Detroit, third; Pierce, Ohio State, fourth. Time, :08 3-10.

POLE VAULT—Droegemueller, Northwestern, 13 ft. ⅝ in., first; Heinzen, Illinois; Glaser, Marquette; McAtee, Michigan State; English, Missouri, and Boy, Notre Dame, 12 ft. 9¼ in., tied for second third and fourth. (New carnival record. Former record, 12 ft. 10⅝ in., made by Brownell, Illinois, in 1924.)

ONE-MILE RELAY, UNIVERSITY—Won by Iowa (Stevenson, Stamats, Baird, Cuhel); Illinois, second; Northwestern, third; Notre Dame, fourth. Time, 3:25 5-10. (New carnival record. Former record of 3:25 4-5 made by Georgetown University in 1925).

'PEEWEE' KAISER BOXES MANGUNA IN RETURN BOUT

Local Featherweight Will Be Out to Avenge Defeat He Suffered in New Orleans Ring.

Featherweight and light-heavyweight boxers will swing into action at the New Coliseum Thursday night in three 10-round bouts featuring a program of five contests arranged by the Fred Stockham American Legion Post. The bouts will be refereed by Harry S. Sharpe.

A return match between Johnny "Peewee" Kaiser, local featherweight champion, and Milton Manguna of New Orleans, is the headliner. Kaiser is out to avenge a defeat he sustained at the hands of Manguna in an engagement at Little Rock, Ark., where the Italian-American scrapper was awarded the decision after 10 rounds.

Manguna is 22 years old and has been fighting three years. He has participated in 32 professional encounters, winning all but two, in which he gained draw decisions against Mickey Dugan of Memphis and Frankie Garcia. He defeated both Dugan and Garcia in return bouts.

The New Orleans scrapper has claimed the Southern featherweight title since his victory last December over Claude Wilson of Birmingham, Ala. Manguna is a protege of Pete Herman, former bantam champion. Among the well-known scrappers he has beaten are: Paul Steadman of this city, Eddie "Kid" Wolfe of Memphis, Joe Scully of Chicago, and Young Ross of Syracuse, N. Y. His victory over Kaiser marked the only defeat the local fighter has suffered in his last 21 bouts.

Abad to Box Rivers.

Another featherweight feature will introduce Davey Abad, a former flyweight champion of Panama, who holds a 10-round decision over Tony Canzoneri, present featherweight champion. Abad is paired with Joe Rivers of Kansas City, who claims State championship honors for his division. Rivers made his local debut two years ago when he defeated Chick Saunders in a six-round bout.

The match in which Abad defeated Canzoneri was contested in New York City in November, 1926, before Canzoneri won the crown. Substituting for Joey Sanger in a match with Eddie "Cannonball" Martin at Madison Square Garden in New York Friday night, Abad lost the decision in 10 rounds.

Jimmy Mahoney of Chicago, who decisively outpointed Arthur "Sailor" Maley and knocked out Frankie Monahan in recent tryouts, opposes Tom Pivac in the light heavyweight bout. Mahoney, while in the middleweight ranks stopped Walcott Langford twice. He also holds a decision over Lou Chester, the fighter who kayoed Pivac in New York a year ago.

Pivac will be making his first appearance since his technical kayo at the hands of Chuck Wiggins a month ago. Substituting for Jimmy Byrne, Pivac conceded a weight advantage of 14 pounds to his opponent and took a terrific lacing, being forced to quit at the close of the fourth round.

Joe Baker, a local heavyweight, returns to the ring after a two-year absence to battle Fred Dalton of Chicago in a six-round bout. Efforts are being made to match a pair of Negro heavyweights for the four-round curtain raiser.

East Side Boxing Show Postponed

Ring Program at Ainad Temple to Be Held on March 27.

The professional boxing show in East St. Louis, featuring Eddie Goldberg, Dwight Fryer, Ray Alfano and others has been postponed one week, to Tuesday, March 27. The date was set back through courtesy to Gov. Small, who will be present at a political meeting in East St. Louis on the original date, Promoter A. G. Weissman announced last night. The show will be held at Aiuad Temple.

Eddie Goldberg and Dwight Fryer, of Little Rock, Ark., meet at 140 pounds, while Ray Alfano, former National A. A. U. featherweight champion of East St. Louis, faces Tommy O'Laughlin, of Springfield, Ill., at 130 pounds in the pair of ten-round decision engagements.

Matchmaker Jack Tippett has signed Clarence "Kid" Shaulters, of Scott Field, and Vic Windle, of St. Louis, for the eight-round semifinal at 153 pounds; Jimmy Little and Buddy Schlereth, St. Louis 136-pounders, clash in the six-round preliminary, while Shenny Willie and Jessie James, colored lightweights of St. Louis, entertain in the four-round curtain raiser.

Tickets have been placed on sale at the National A. A. for the convenience of St. Louis fans, the prices for which are 75 cents, $1.10, $1.65 and $2.20.

Streator Beats Champaign.

NORMAL, Ill., March 17.—Streator High carried off the title in the Normal sectional basketball tournament tonight, upsetting Champaign High 32 to 19, in the championship game.

Ben Millers Face Chicago Team in Soccer Cup Game

into every effort. Jack Sharkey was much the better boxer the other night, but Johnny Risko hit harder and won the bout.

There is no getting away from the fact that the Bricklayers are a very good club. They have gone through the season with a surprising record of successive victories, considering the class of their opponents. A climax was reached three weeks ago, when they won from the Sparta Club of Chicago in the Western semifinal, 1 to 0. Sparta is essentially an European team, some of the star players having reached this country as recently as three months ago, imported expressly for the purpose of helping Sparta win the national championship. The Brickies have scored 53 goals, winning 17 games, tying one and losing none. They beat Sparta 2-0 and 1-0.

At Christmas time the Bricklayers played two exhibition games in St. Louis. They won the first, 1-0, beating an all-star team, and they came back the next day and trimmed the Tablers, 2-0.

Millers Know the Brickies.

But all this impressive record is not likely to throw a scare into the Millers for they have seen a great deal of the Brickies and they have come to believe they can beat the Chicago team any time the stakes are high.

In the main, the visiting team is Scotch. Only Pete Quinn, the center halfback, and Joe Phillips, the center forward, are exceptions. Quinn is Irish and learned his football in England. Phillips attained his best form as a member of Chicago teams. He joined the Brickies only two months ago, having been signed to plug the center forward hole which has long been a great problem. It is said that he has fulfilled all expectations.

Among the most colorful members of the team are Willie McLean, the youthful outside right; Tom McEwan, the best goaltender in Chicago, and the fellow who stopped a penalty kick from the foot of Al McHenry; Tom Scott, the burly right fullback who played his first football in America as a member of the Vespers of St. Louis; Bob Thompson, one of the best wing halfbacks in America, and Clem Cuthbert, the inside left who never wastes time when he can make a one-time pass or take a shot at goal.

McLean was especially lively in the Christmas games here when he was at inside right. His peculiar body-sway and feint made the opposing halfbacks look rather awkward, and his ability to square his crosses from the goal line made him very dangerous. If Davey Coutts doesn't dally with the ball too much at his inside right position, the left side of the Miller defense is going to work up a good sweat trying to break up this combination of McLean and Coutts, supported by Tommy Hill.

St. Louis Inside Forwards.

On the home side, much depends upon the work of the inside forwards. The men in all other positions have proved they can play good football in the pinch. Assuming that they play their usual game, the Millers will appear to do a lot of needless running about, especially in the halfback and inside forward positions, because of inaccurate passing, but their raids on the Bricklayer goal will always carry a scoring threat and be accompanied by more dash and force than the forward movements of the Brickies. If the Miller inside forwards will keep between the opposing wing halfbacks and the Miller penalty area when the St. Louis goal is besieged, they will do much to frustrate the Bricklayers' plan of attack which makes great use of the halfbacks.

Center forward Joe Hennessy of the Millers is due to break loose with a good game. He hasn't hit his real stride in months. A dry field is to his liking and he may make up for lost time today.

Millers at Their Best Can Win.

Mulroy, when he is making no effort to dribble the ball, is a valuable wing man, but when he tosses away precious time in stopping the ball, backing up, shifting and toying with his opponent, he is not so great an asset.

Altogether, the Millers at their best have a good chance to win.

The game will be refereed by E. J. Donaghey, of Munhall, Pa., who handled the Western semifinal between the Bricklayers and Sparta at Chicago. He is making his first appearance on a St. Louis field and he comes here highly recommended.

People's Institute Wins in Last Half Minute of Contest, 32 to 30.

SPORT—20—Y W H A.

A field goal by Silverman in the girls' team, representing the Jewish last half minute of play gave the People's Institute of Chicago, a 32 to 30 victory over the Y. W. H. A. five on the Y. M. H. A. court last night. The victory was the twentieth straight for the visitors.

The locals got an early lead and were ahead at the half, 18 to 12, but the Chicagoans forged ahead steadily, overtook the home team in the third quarter, to lead 26-25, and won out just prior to the final gun, breaking a tie.

In a preliminary the Y. M. H. A. Whites defeated the Blues, 32 to 30.

ERICKSEN, FINN, WINS FOURTEENTH LAP OF PYLE MARATHON RACE

By the Associated Press.

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., March 17.—Leading the way over a 36.2 mile course that carried the runners through a mountainous country more than a mile above sea level, Nestor Erickson, Finnish runner from Port Chester, N. Y. won the fourteenth lap of the coast-to-coast footrace today. He covered the distance from Williams to Flagstaff in 5:26:35.

Ericksen's elapsed time for the 515.8 miles left behind since the runners left Los Angeles is 97:05:37. He is sixth in the standing. Andrew Payne, Claremore, Ok., who is second only to Arthur Newton, English runner, on the basis of elapsed time, finished second today.

Newton, who holds a lead of eight hours over his closest competitor, finished third; John Cronick, Saskatoon, Sask., fourth; Voight Houfstater, Manistee, Mich., fifth; John Salo, Passaic, N. J., sixth; and Louis Perella, Albany, N. Y., seventh.

McDougall and Kirksey Enliven Boxing Tourney

Former Sprint Star Wins St. Louis U. Ring Title in Knock-Down Bout.

Only one champion was successful in retaining his title in the intramural boxing championships at St. Louis University gymnasium last night. He was Charles Eaton, middleweight. A fair-sized crowd witnessed the bouts.

Eaton entered the finals in his division by outpointing Ed Jordan in the first bout of the evening. Weber, the other middleweight finalist, shaded Casey.

The first knockout of the evening came in the lightweight championship. Walter Meiers won a technical knockout over Norman Gordan, when Referee "Chuck" Bayer stopped their bout in the third round.

The best fight on the program was the scrap between Maurice Kirsky, a medic, and Bud McDougall, arts student, for the light-heavyweight title. McDougall floored Kirksy for the count of nine in the second round, of their bout, but Kirksy came back and had McDougall out on his feet in the final round. Kirksy is the sprinter who chased Charley Paddock to world's records.

Fred Whalen, law, won the welterwight title by default.

Fred Joseph, freshman in the C. and F. school, outpunched Cy Caldwell, a dent, to take the heavyweight title of the mid-city school.

Each bout was three rounds. The results:

Lightweight — Walter Meier, dent, defeated Norman Gordan, arts.

Middleweight — Chas. Eaton, Law, defeated Bus Weber, Arts.

Lightheavy — Maurice Kirksy, medic, defeated Bud McDougall, arts.

Heavyweight—Fred Joseph, C. and F., defeated Cy Caldwell, dent.

Welterweight title won by Fred Whalen by default.

Prelims of middleweight—Eaton, law, defeated Jordan, arts; Weber, arts, defeated Casey, law.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Loss of sleep must be his great worry today. But several years ago his turf setbacks must have caused him great grief, as when he invested $150,000 in a 2-year-old named Inchcape, which ran two races and then became afflicted with an incurable skin rash that ruined him.

It takes a lot of purses to make up $150,000, Bo.

Back in the days when they had winter races in California, when the late Barney Schreiber was at the height of his career as a breeder and racer of thoroughbreds, he had a fine little juvenile named "Horace E." This horse was raced very young and he won eight straight races at Tanforan. Then, on orders from Paul Rainey, hunter and sportsman, Horace E. was bought up for the then faublous sum of $40,000.

He never won a race afterward.

Here's the "Low Down."

SO, when we read about a horse owner scheming to conceal the real form of a good one until he can cash in with a long price, we can understand his idea, even if we can't condone it. And we know why many a hot thing, that has been pounded down to a short price by a rush of public money, is ridden to defeat when expected to win.

That's because the owner doesn't want some one else to harvest what he himself sowed.

Not So Good.

RUMOR'S ugly head is reared wherever professional wagering exists.

That is natural, because every loser is a potential objector—not always a conscientious objector.

Just now the wise crackers are nodding knowingly over the withdrawal of Justice F, favorite for the Coffroth Handicap.

The rumor is going the rounds that the future book of Jack Atkin at Tijuana was so heavily loaded up on Justice F. money, placed at odds ranging from 20 to 1 down to 2 to 1, that it would go to smash if it paid off on that horse. With a $150,000 possible payoff on Justice F., so the guessers relate, it would pay the book to give the owner of Justice F. $50,000 or more not to start!

That's a little too large to swallow, however. The intent would seem too obvious. Furthermore, it would be certain to leak out, if the horse were withdrawn without being sick, injured or stale. The stable hands would know; and would talk.

If the slickers wanted to pull a trick of the kind, they would run the horse involved, but fill him up with water or oats, or doctor him so that he couldn't win.

Justice F. is in the hands of square people and the insinuation that he was withdrawn for money seems most unfair to everybody concerned.

Gives Boxing Trophy.

A trophy for the most popular amateur boxer in the city has been offered in the name of Richard Barthelmess, screen star, who is appearing here this week in a prize fight film. The award will be made on the basis of votes deposited by fans at 921 Locust street.

Aydelotte Wins Indoor Net Title

Youngster Beats Seligson in Final and Is Also Winner in Doubles.

NEW YORK, March 17.—William Aydelotte, 23-year-old New Yorker, today brought to a culmination a series of brilliant victories in the Men's National Indoor Tennis Champoinship by defeating Julius Seligkson of Lehigh University in the final round 2—6, 6—1, 3—6, 6—4, 6—2.

Paired with Perrine Rockafellow, Aydelotte also won the doubles title by a straight set victory over J. Gilbert Hall of Montclair, N. J., and Elmer Griffin of New York, 6—2, 7—5, 6—3.

By his victory Aydelotte added his name to those of Jean Borotra and Rene Lacoste, the winners for the last three years, William T. Tilden, Vincent Richards and Francis T. Hunter on the list of the holders of the indoor title.

Aydelotte, who had never reached the finals of a major tournament, and was known principally for his doubles play with Rockafellow, was not considered as a contender for the title when the event began. He was not listed among the seeded players or thought of as a possibility for seeding.

Even as a finalist Aydelotte was not expected to win, and at the beginning of the match his play indicated that the predictions in Seligson's favor would come true. The Lehigh star took the first four games before Aydelotte broke into the scoring column. The second set saw the situation reversed with the New Yorker the winner.

The last three sets brought forth some of the best tennis of the entire week. The players settled down to a long duel at the baseline from which Aydelotte emerged the victor in two sets, while Seligson took one.

JARRETT ROLLS INTO LEAD IN A. B. C. SINGLES

Lindsey and Porto Are First in Doubles Event—Servas Bowls 676 for Second in Singles.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 17.—New York bowlers today upset the leaders in both the singles and doubles of the American Bowling Congress tournament here.

Capt. George S. Jarrett, a member of the New York Spartans, took the lead in the singles with a score of 680 on games of 243, [illegible] and 215. H. Servas Jr. of New York rolled into second place with 675, while J. Koster of New York went into sixth place with 661.

Mort Lindsey and Joe Porto, rolling 1286, with games of [illegible], 395 and 499, took the lead in the doubles event, and another New York team, A. Hiltendrand and Barney Spinella, the latter last year's all-events champion, shot into second place with 1277 on games of 402, 415 and 460.

Porto bowled 276 in his last 10 frames, making nine straight strikes, starting with the first frame.

Atchisonn, Milwaukee, and [illegible], Chicago, are tied for sixth in the singles with 654. Older, Chicago, has 650 and Roser, Kewanee, Ill., 647.

Joe Wilman, 22-year-old Chicago bowler, starred on last night's squad. He rolled 1895 to head the all-events, displacing Buck [illegible], also of Chicago, who held the leadership since Sunday last, with [illegible].

Chicago was awarded the [illegible] tournament at the annual Congress convention yesterday. James I. Wilson of New York was elected president, succeeding A. J. [illegible], Huntington, W. Va.

Officials Choose All-Star Quint

General Excellence of Missouri Prep Players Makes Pick Difficult.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 17.—Finding a large number of men on a par as far as all-star teams were concerned, officials and newspaper men who watched 16 State high schools battle through two days of championship play here in the State basketball tournament, last night picked an all-State squad of 11 men.

Following is the selection: Forwards—McIntyre (Oregon), Renfro (Kansas City Northeast), Anderson (Warrenton), and [illegible] (St. Joseph).

Centers—Egbert (Springfield), Williams (Sedalia), and Good (St. Joseph).

Guards—Smith (Springfield), Olds (Kansas City Northeast), Page (Kansas City Central), and Stalcup (Oregon).

JARRETT ROLLS INTO LEAD IN A. B. C. SINGLES

Lindsey and Porto Are First in Doubles Event—Servas Bowls 676 for Second in Singles.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 17.—New York bowlers today upset the leaders in both the singles and doubles of the American Bowling Congress tournament here.

Capt. George S. Jarrett, a member of the New York Spartans, took the lead in the singles with a score of 680 on games of 243, 222 and 215. H. Servas Jr. of New York rolled into second place with 675, while J. Koster of New York went into sixth place with 661.

Mort Lindsey and Joe Porto, rolling 1286, with games of 392, 395 and 499, took the lead in the doubles event, and another New York team, A. Hiltendrand and Barney Spinella, the latter last year's all-events champion, shot into second place with 1277 on games of 402, 415 and 460.

Porto bowled 276 in his last 10 frames, making nine straight strikes, starting with the first frame.

Atchisonn, Milwaukee, and Klatt, Chicago, are tied for sixth in the singles with 654. Oider, Chicago, has 650 and Roser, Kewanee, Ill., 647.

Joe Wilman, 22-year-old Chicago bowler, starred on last night's squad. He rolled 1895 to head the all-events, displacing Buck Flint, also of Chicago, who held the leadership since Sunday last, with 1880.

Chicago was awarded the 1929 tournament at the annual Congress convention yesterday. James A. Wilson of New York was elected president succeeding A. J. Baxter, Huntington, W. Va.

REGGIE WOOD TAKES MAZER'S PLACE ON JUNIOR A. A. U. BOXING SQUAD

MICKEY MOVED UP TO SENIOR ST. LOUIS TEAM

Cliff Doetzel Will Go It Alone in the 112-Pound Class in Detroit Tournament.

By Gerald Holland.

Mickey Mazer, amateur flyweight of the People's Motorbus Athletic Club, has been dropped from the team of eight boxers that will represent the Western District in the National Amateur Athletic Union junior boxing tournament at Detroit next Wednesday and Thursday and added to the group that will compete for the national senior championships at Boston late in April. Reggie Wood, competing in the 135-pound class, will replace Mazer as a member of the junior team but will not be sent to the senior event.

In making the announcement of the change, President Robert Probst of the Western A. A. U. stated that officials had decided that Wood's good record entitled him to an opportunity to compete for the junior title despite the fact that he was unable to participate in the recent district tournament because of a very bad case of boils.

Doetzel's Job Becomes Harder.

Mazer's withdrawal leaves Cliff Doetzel, Western District senior champion as the only flyweight on the team but the clever South Broadway boxer is regarded as one of the district's best bets for a national title.

Reggie Wood will join Jake Graswick of the East St. Louis Knights of Columbus Athletic Club in the 135-pound class. Wood has a long string of victories but he has been unable to defeat Graswick in five meetings.

Probst further announced that officials had decided to send the junior team excepting Wood to the senior championships at Boston with the addition of Mickey Mazer, D. H. Moore of Oklahoma City, Western District 175-pound champion, and Dave Knost, who holds the Western heavyweight title.

The Western A. A. U. is experiencing no financial difficulty this year in sending two teams to the national competitions because of the well-attended district tournament at the Coliseum early this month which netted $1507, twice the profit of last year.

In the matter of sending Olympic track candidates to national trials the association is not so well equipped and a campaign to raise funds is now in progress. Collections for that purpose taken up at the boxing tournament were believed by many in attendance to be for the boxers and an unwarranted bleeding in view of the crowded house. The collections there netted $63 and at last Sunday's soccer game, $97. Another collection will be taken at today's game between the Bricklayers of Chicago and the Ben Millers.

Westminster to Send Eight Men To Local Meet

Fulton School Will Be Represented in Nine Events at W. A. A. U. Carnival.

Coach Brutus Hamilton of Westminster College, Fulton, Mo., filed entries yesterday for a team of eight athletes to represent that school in nine of the 19 events at the annual Western A. A. U. indoor track and field championships at the New Coliseum, March 31.

The Westminster squad will be composed of Ben Dalley, R. L. Sheetz, Louis Bozman, Gilbert Brauilette, Fenton Jones, Clarence Barickman, A. G. Krueger and Lee McAnelly. The school will be represented in the 1200-yard college relay race by Dalley, Barrickman, Krueger and Sheetz.

Other events in which the athletes will compete are: Dalley, 300-yard dash and 600-yard dash; Krueger 60-yard dash and 800-yard dash; Sheets, 50-yard dash and 30-yard dash; Barrickman, 300-yard dash; McAnelly and Jones, one-mile and two-mile runs; Brauilette, running high jump; Bozman, 600-yard dash and one-mile run.

Probst announced that he received a letter from Coach F. E. Denie of the Rolla Miners, requesting entry blanks and indicating that school will send a number of athletes to the meet. Athletic directors of Missouri University, Shurtleff College, Washington University and McKendree College have also indicated they plan to enter representative teams. Athletes of approximately 20 high schools of St. Louis and neighboring towns are reported to be training.

MISS HADFIELD OF MILWAUKEE WINS BELLEAIR GOLF MEET

BELLEAIR, Fla., March 17.—Frances Hadfield of Milwaukee won the annual Belleair women's golf tournament by defeating Fritzi Stifel of Wheeling, W. Va., 5 and 4, today in the final match.

Bear Prospects In Training for Baseball Season

Coach Bullman Has Only One Veteran Infielder Returning to Squad.

Although outfield candidates for the Washington University baseball team have been engaging in outdoor practice, infielders have been forced to confine their work to indoors because of the poor condition of the playing field. Gale Bullman, who is in charge of the work, hopes to get the infielders outdoors next week in order to get a line on the prospects.

Only one regular—Ruehman, shortstop—returns to the squad. Candidates who have impressed in the indoor workouts, are: Gruenlinger and Christensen, at second base; McCarroll and Gutman, first base and Captain Eichler at third. Eichler pitched and played the outfield last season, but because of the scarcity of infield talent, decided to try his hand at the far-corner this season. He was one of the best batters on last year's nine.

Bill Beckman, Bear mound ace last year, will again have first call. In addition to Beckman, the Bears have Eichler and Heist, lettermen, and Tompkins and Leyhe, newcomers. Beckman is working with Chris Bruncamp, sophomore backstop, in practice and it is likely that this pair will compose the Bears' best battery combination.

One Veteran Outfielder.

In the outfield, Wagner is the only letterman returning. Stillman, who also won his letter last year, has not reported, and the Bear coaches are no longer counting on him for a regular position. Beckman will probably play the outfiled when not pitching. Of the new men, Rawdon has apparently clinched a position.

The Bears will open the season early next month with a brace of games against Big Ten opponents. Northwestern U. will call here, April 6 and Iowa U., April 9. In addition to 10 Missouri Valley games, two contests are scheduled with St. Louis U. and a third will be played in case of a tie.

The schedule follows:

April 6—Northwestern U. at home.
April 9—Iowa University at home.
April 13—Oklahoma A. & M. at home.
April 14—Oklahoma A. & M. here.
April 17—Missouri U. at Columbia.
April 19—McKendree College at home.
April 23—Oklahoma U. at home.
April 24—Oklahoma U. at home.
April 27—St. Louis U. at Liggett Field.
April 28—St. Louis U. at St. Louis U. Field.
May 4—St. Louis U. (tentative).
May 9—Missouri U. at home.
May 11—Oklahoma A. & M. at Stillwater.
May 12—Oklahoma A. & M. at Stillwater.

ALLISON AND BELL BEAT SHIELDS AND COEN FOR NET TITLE

By the Associated Press.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 17.—Wilmer Allison and Berkley Bell, University of Texas, today defeated Frank Shields, New York and W. F. Coen Jr., Kansas City, 4—6, 8—6, 6—4, 5—7, 8—6 to win the Southeastern Tennis Doubles championship.

Beck's Pitching Stands Out As Browns Lose to Newark became confused and let it fall between them.

Beck looks better each time he works. He fields his position like a master, covers first when it is necessary, backs up the bases on throws and in all ways conducts himself like a man who knows what it is all about.

The big question mark with Beck always has been his control, it is said, and now that he is displaying the ability to put the ball where he wants it, his prospects of remaining in fast company and of becoming a consistent winner are considered very bright.

Wright Needs Experience.

Wright needs more experience. He knows vaguely where first and third bases are, but when runners are on the sacks he does not know how to keep them put and the opposition takes too many liberties. While he was on the slab the Bears had a double steal clinched, with Fournier one of the runners, when the batter fouled the ball and saved Wright from that disgrace. Wright has plenty of stuff, but he needs a year or two with a smart minor league manager, to learn the fine points of the trade.

Ralph Kress again went hitless, but he played an errorless game, which shows that his two bad days early in the week were just exceptions.

In fact, the entire Brownie team went through the game without any boots, though an error might have been charged at the plate when Manion dropped a throw after slapping the ball on a Bear sliding into the plate.

Manager Howley will send Sammy Gray and George Blaeholder against the Phillies in their scheduled Sunday afternoon game.

MAKES 50 FREE SHOTS WITHOUT AN ERROR

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 17.—George Shaner, of Columbus High School, is the champion free thrower of the state, according to final tabulations of the fifth annual free throw basbetball tournament conducted under the auspices of Indiana University. The completion of statistics today revealed the fact that Shaner scored 50 straight free throws without an error. Last year two high school students were able to reach the perfect mark.

Keeps Your Hair Neat, Rich-looking and Orderly

IF your hair lacks natural gloss and lustre, or is difficult to keep in place, it is very easy to give it that rich, glossy, refined and orderly appearance, so essential to well-groomed men.

Just rub a little Glostora through your hair once or twice a week,—or after shampooing, and your hair will then stay, each day, just as you comb it.

Glostora softens the hair and makes it pliable. Then, even stubborn hair will stay in place of its own accord.

It gives your hair that natural, rich, well-groomed effect, instead of leaving it stiff and artificial looking as waxy pastes and creams do. Glostora also keeps the scalp soft, and the hair healthy by restoring the natural oils from which the hair derives its health, life, gloss and lustre

Try it! See how easy it is to keep your hair combed any style you like, whether brushed lightly or combed down flat.

If you want your hair to lie down particularly smooth and tight, after applying Glostora, simply moisten your hair with water before brushing it. A large bottle of Glostora costs but a trifle at any drug store.

Training Games Stopped by Rain; Rookies Feel Ax

Managers Take Advantage of Bad Weather to Release Young Players.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 17.—Major league training diamonds were drenched and deserted in every section of the Dixie training area today and the day's inactivity provided several managers with time to release recruits.

Jack Slattery, Boston Nationals pilot, released Fitzberger, first baseman, obtained from Providence, and Wright, from the Southern Association.

Manager Bucky Harris of the Washington Senators let a half dozen youngsters go, while bosses of other squads said they expected to follow within a couple of days.

Training has advanced to the point where clubs are beginning to consider breaking camp within the next fortnight, some even earlier. The Boston Red Sox management announced today that the squad would depart from Bradentown next Friday on its homeward journey. Bob Quinn, club president, will leave for Boston Monday.

Seven exhibition games were rained out in Florida today, while the Giants and Athletics were forced into idleness for the same reason.

White Sox Invade Texas.

By the Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 17.—Rallying in the ninth inning, the Chicago White Sox kept their spring training record clear today by defeating Fort Worth's Texas Leaguers, 8 to 4, in the first of a 10-day series against Texas teams. Ted Blankenship took his first turn on the hill and held Fort Worth scoreless for the last half of the game.

Griff Releases Eight.

By the Associated Press.

TAMPA, Fla., March 17.—Clark Griffith, president of the Washington American League ball club cut eight members off the Senators' squad which is training here.

Six will go to Birmingham of the Southern Association. They are Charles Lane and Luther Roy, pitchers: Albert Cooper, catcher; Ernest Smith, shortstop; Ernest (Mule) Shirley, first baseman and Infielder Ralph Cooper.

Tommy Taylor was turned back to the Houston, Texas League club from which he was drafted while Doug Wyckoff, former all-Southern football star at Georgia Tech was sent to the Atlanta Southern Association club.

Harry Rice Steals 2 Bases.

By the Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Tex., March 17.—The Detroit Tigers rollicked merrily through nine innings of hilarious baseball with the Houston club of the Texas League today, slam banging out 18 base hits for 15 runs, while Houston went scoreless. Harry Rice stole two bases, and Gehringer, McManus, Easterling and Woodall one each. Harry Heilman made the day perfect with a home run beside a single and a double.

Yale Wins Swim Meet.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 17—Yale won the Eastern Intercollegiate water polo and swimming championship tonight by defeating the Navy, 50 to 12 in the swimming meet, and 47 to 42 in polo. Yale was undefeated this season.

Boston Braves, With Hornsby in Lineup, Are a Cocky Crowd

Once Meek and Lowly, Today They Carry a Chip on Their Shoulder; Rogers Expects No Pennant but Predicts Lots of Grief for Opponents of Jack Slattery's Men.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

AVON PARK, Fla., March 17.—The acquisition of Rogers Hornsby has changed the Boston Braves from a meek and lowly team to a fighting outfit which is calculated to cause much grief among the higher-ups in the National League race this year.

There is a cocky spirit among the Boston players in their clubhouse. They know that with the great hitter in their lineup there will be a constant threat to the opposition. Hornsby's presence is acting as an inspiration to his teammates.

Rogers himself may be peeved at the treatment accorded him by the Cardinals and the Giants. He may feel that his dismissals by those two clubs were unfair. But he is not thinking of the past now but looking to the future to see what he can do to help put the Braves up in the running.

Teaches the Youngsters.

He takes the younger hitters on the Boston club and suggests changes in their styles of hitting which he thinks will make them better men at the plate, and he is the hardest worker on the field at the training camp at St. Petersburg.

Seated on the veranda of the attractive hotel, which is the headquarters of the Boston players, before the game with the Cardinals recently, Hornsby discussed his club and inquired interestedly after the welfare of his former teammates on the Cardinals.

"We have a ball club which is going to win a lot of games this year," Hornsby said. "We are not talking about a pennant for I do not think we have a good enough team to win, but we will be in there every day and each club we face will have a tussle.

"I am feeling fine myself, except my feet are sore from the soft ground, but I want to do everything I can for the Braves and am sure I'll get my share of base hits."

Slattery joined Hornsby in expressions of confidence in Rogers' ability to help his ball club and the manager apparently is not doing any worrying over losing his job to the great slugger.

Slattery is an old-time catcher, one who played with the Cardinals in 1906. He was later with the White Sox and the Senators. He has been a big league scout and coach for several years and also has coached baseball at Harvard.

A man about 50 years of age, Slattery gives the impression of being a hard driver. But the players say this is not the case, that he is very fair and only asks every man to do his best.

The world's richest handicap, the Coffroth, feature of the winter racing season, will be run this afternoon at Tijuana. All of the crack horses quartered at the border track, with the exception of Justice F, which was withdrawn a few days ago on account of a weak leg, are named to start in the event. The race is at one mile and one-quarter, with 20 horses entered, and the winner will receive close to $100,000 as his share of the purse.

Handy Mandy, W. P. Waggoner's good race mare, holder of the American record for one mile and a half, will face Starter Mars Cassidy a top heavy favorite for the race. The mare, in the last future book odds on the Coffroth, was favored at 3 to 2. Before Justice F. was declared out, her odds were 3 to 1. Other horses considered having a good chance to cop the large end of the purse, are Sun God II, owned by J. H. Macomber, Light Carbine, owned by I. B. Humphries, Jack Dempsey's Dr. Wilson, R. C. Stable's Crystal Pennant and W. T. Anderson's Carlaris.

Sun God Now Hot Tip.

Sun God II was considered an outsider a few weeks ago, but when the English colt trimmed Justice F at a mile and one-sixteenth in easy fashion, the future odds against his chances of winning the Coffroth were reduced to 12 to 1. Sun God II is Macomber's only representative in the race, his Masked Marvel II being withdrawn a few days ago when he split a hoof.

Light Carbine has shown good speed in his trials at Tijuana, but when in competition has not done so well. Owner Humphries has entered the horse solely on his workouts. A day after a bad race the horse galloped a mile and an eighth in excellent time and many work watchers bet heavily on him to win this winter's classic.

Dempsey's Entry Well Liked.

Dr. Wilson, Jack Dempsey's Tijuana Derby winner, is the best of the 3-year-olds in the Coffroth. He was held at 10 to 1 in the last list of future odds and was much in demand. In the Derby he ran over a muddy course and showed great gameness in defeating General Diskin in a driving finish, winning by a scant nose. Dr. Wilson, son of Danger Rock, did not come into prominence until the running of the Derby. During the early part of the season the colt was beaten by a number of cheap horses.

Crystal Pennant is the dark horse of the band. This colt has shown well in competition on various occasions, but was beaten by several lengths in a number of races over a distance. He was slow in rounding to form and ran in only a few races at the Mexican track. He has three victories over some of the best racers at the track to his credit.

COFFROTH ENTRANTS ARE GIVEN FINAL TRIALS AT TIJUANA

TIJUANA, Mexico, March 16.—Eight candidates for the $85,000 added Coffroth Handicap, were given final trials over the course here this morning. Light Carbine, I. B. Humphries' crack colt, did the best work, going three-eighths in the good time of :36 1-5. The track is in fine condition and the workouts were excellent.

The other horses to work and their time were: Alexander Pantages, half mile in :50 3-5; Doctor Wilson, half mile in :48 1-5; Crystal Pennant, half mile in :50 3-5; Handy Mandy, half mile in :48; Port Hole, half mile in :48; Wirt G. Bowman, half mile in :49; Shasta Gold, three-quarters in 1:15 1-5.

THREE SPECIAL BOUTS FEATURE AMATEUR SHOW

West, Senior W. A. A. U. Feather Champion, to Draw for Opponent in Preliminaries Tuesday.

Mickey Mazer meets Dick Costello, Johnny Bush opposes William Judd and Dan Durso engages Stanley Rigdon in three interclub bouts featuring the program for an amateur boxing tournament to be held Tuesday night at the South Broadway A. C. The tourney has attracted 20 candidates for the preliminaries.

Mazer and Costello will be meeting for the second time within two weeks. These speedy flyweight rivals provided one of the interesting preliminaries of the recent Western A. A. U. senior championships, Mazer winning the decision.

The bout between Bush and Judd will bring together a pair of lightweights who have won a majority of their bouts. Both boys were stopped, however, in recent contests with Clyde Taylor, Belleville slugger, who will be offered a return match with the winner.

Durso and Rigdon will furnish a featherweight feature. The bout will mark Durso's first appearance of the season. He was an outstanding star of the Western District a year ago. He is fighting under the colors of the newly organized Flori Olympian A. C.

George West, recently crowned senior featherweight champion of the Western A. A. U., is listed among the boxers slate to draw for preliminary pairings.

Following is a list of the entries filed to date:

SPECIAL BOUTS.

FLYWEIGHT CLASS—Mickey Mazer, People's Motorbus A. C. vs Dick Costello, South Broadway A. C.

LIGHTWEIGHT CLASS — Johnny Bush, National A. A. vs. William Judd, South Broadway A. C.

FEATHERWEIGHT CLASS—Dan Durso, Flori Olympian A. C. vs. Stanley Rigdon, South Broadway A. C.

Queen Towton Wins at Havana

Beats Reputation and Bucky Harris in Handicap Sprint and Pays 3 to 1.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, March 17.—A s[illegible] wind drove over the race co[illegible] today, making it uncomforta[illegible] the large crowd that attended [illegible] next to the last day of the meeting at Oriental Park.

Queen Towton, paying 3 to 1, won the St. Patrick's Day Handicap from four other good sprinters. Reputation was second by a scant head, with Bucky Harris third.

Practice of Barnstorming Around the Circuit Against Handpicked Foes Frowned Upon.

By Dent McSkimming

Ed Lewis, world's champion heavyweight wrestler, and Billy Sandow, his manager, are in bad grace with promoters. A boycott that is virtually nation-wide has been planned and will be put into execution at once.

The day after the Lewis match with Garkawienko at Chicago, promoters from St. Louis, New York, Philadelphia, Columbus and Chicago met in executive and earnest session and declared war against one Billy Sandow. Los Angeles' promoters have agreed to join with the other cities.

"He'll wrestle no set-ups in my town," was the declaration of each promoter. Prior to the Chicago bout, Lewis had met and defeated, in Kansas City, Milwaukee, Texas and Atlanta four men who were either "push-overs" or stablemates, which amounts to the same thing.

So long as he can continue to book Lewis against such setups, Manager Billy Sandow, it is expected, will continue to do so.

Promoters Plan to Check Sandow.

There are two elements which might effectually check such a campaign: The various state athletic boards, and the independent and powerful promoters.

The Illinois State Commission played into the hands of Sandow when its chairman, Paul Prehl, a former wrestler, placed his stamp of approval on the Lewis-Garkawienko farce, but the promoters, possibly for the purposes of self-protection, have taken the initiative. Jack Curley, of New York, Ray Fabiana, of Philadelphia, "Doc" Krone of Chicago, and Tom Packs, of St. Louis, have pledged themselves to force Lewis to meet only legitimate title contenders.

"So far as St. Louis is concerned," said Packs last night, "Lewis will have to meet Jimmy Londos or some other outstanding challenger, or stay out of town.

"This business of exchanging holds with Pat McGill, or Joe Malcewicz, or Toots Mondt, or Rudy Dusek, may be all right for Kansas City, but I won't stand for it here. I have the assurance of the outstanding promoters of the country that they will maintain the same attitude and that means that Lewis' title isn't worth a thin dime. Sandow is waking up to this fact and he is either going to risk a match against a serious contender or he is going to be forced out of the game. The circus stunt of a few years ago, before the Big Munn incident can't be repeated successfully."

New York Takes a Stand.

In New York, the State Commission has gone on record as recognizing Hans Steinke as the champion. In order to wrestle in the State of New York, Lewis must forego his title claims and wrestle as a challenger.

In Philadelphia, Promoter Fabiana is endeavoring to have Richard Schikat recognized as champion, and in Ohio, John Pesek is considered the logical claimant, according to Packs. In St. Louis, Jimmy Londos will be held up as the man to beat, says the promoter.

"But," asked an interested observer, "what is to prevent Mr. Sandow from making a proposition to this so-called outstanding challenger, on the quiet, and thus mulcting the public by agreeing to a match which is already fixed?"

"No power on earth can prevent an agreement of that kind, if the men involved are bent on staging a dishonest match," said the promoter. "We have only the word of the two contestants. If we believe them to be men of their word, we can believe that the match will be on the level. I think Jimmy Londos and several others of the legitimate challengers are men of their word."

Coast to Bar Lewis.

Here, then, if one is to believe his ears, is a novel situation. Robert Friederich, alias Ed Lewis, and [illegible] Bauman, alias Billy Sandow, hold the world's wrestling championship, which they obtained under peculiar circumstances from Joe Stecher and his brother, Anton, at the Coliseum a month ago, but Ed Lewis and Billy Sandow are virtually barred from putting on their show in the biggest wrestling centers in the country.

Even the Pacific Coast is closed to the champion, according to Packs, for Promoter Lou Daro of Los Angeles has given his promise that he will abide by the decision of the Eastern bosses. Thus, the world's championship, a mythical gold crown, has turned to a ring of brass at the touch of Lewis and Sandow.

And, further, there is a rumor that the former wearer of the crown has lost caste as a result of the match held here on Feb. 21. Joe Stecher is not the Joe Stecher of former years. The finger of suspicion has been pointed at the recent match in which the title changed hands and in some quarters it is an assured fact that the Stecher brothers will never live down that bout.

NATIONAL CATHOLIC BASKETBALL TOURNEY TO OPEN WEDNESDAY

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 17.—Five more teams have been invited to play in the National Catholic High School Basketball tournament at Loyola University starting next Wednesday, completing the list of 32 entries except for the winners of the Chicago city championships.

The five are St. Marys, Clarksburg, W. Va.; Most Holy Rosary High, Syracuse, N. Y.; St. Louis University High; St. Ignatius of Chicago, and St. Patrick's of Pueblo, Col.

St. Francis and St. Edward Fives In Parish Final

Will Meet Tonight at St. Louis U. High for Basketball Championship.

The St. Francis Xavier and St. Edward teams will meet tonight at St. Louis University High gym, Kingshighway and Oakland, in the final match of the parochial school basketball tournament, starting at 8:30 o'clock.

Last night the St. Francis squad defeated St. Leo's, 32 to 1, and St. Edward's beat the St. Mark entry, 16 to 15, in an overtime contest.

The losers will play a consolation match in a preliminary tonight, starting at 7:30 o'clock, and trophies will be presented afterwards to the successful squads, to the team scoring the most points and to the most valuable player. Admission charges will be 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children.

BOBBY JONES Says

I once heard a Scotsman say of a certain player whom we were discussing, "Ah, he is a good player, but he is not a good golfer." And there is a fine line of distinction which most of us are slow to draw. We are too prone I think, to look only to results in estimating a man's worth.

I do not mean that what we call "style," without results, is of any great value. We have all seen very fine looking players who simply could not get the figures and were soon forgotten in competition. But there are men who win big tournaments and have compiled creditable records, who employ a form wholly individual and apparently contrary to all accepted ideas of how the game should be played. The success of these men is, I think, dangerous in its effect upon the many who are striving to develop a sound method of hitting the ball. The examples which they furnish are likely to encourage the idea that golf can be played in almost any fashion with equal chance of success, and that there is no need to eradicate extraordinarily unorthodox features.

Uses Unorthodox Style.

To a Scot, a good player is a man who gets results but doesn't look quite right while he is doing it. To one watching that kind of a player it would appear to matter little in what way the shot might be played. But the average observer probably would forget one very important thing, namely, that with all his peculiarities, the man was still managing to bring the club upon the ball in the proper way, counteracting his fault without eliminating it.

The late J. Douglas Edgar's swing and method are illustrative of what I mean. Edgar's grip was most extreme, the right hand being far under the shaft and the left far over the top of it. Few men could have struck a ball holding the club in that fashion. But Edgar's shoulder motion was ample compensation. At address his left shoulder was considerably higher than his right, and as the club went up and down his shoulders worked almost in the same vertical plane with practically no horizontal turn.

The great difficulty with an unusual method is that it is unreliable. The man who has to contort himself to hit the ball may play well as long as he has unlimited time for practice. As long as he can keep his queer mechanism in perfect tune he is likely to go on winning. But when pressure of business or lack of keenness takes him away from his clubs, there must result a considerable loss of effectiveness.

Veterans Still Play Great Golf.

Take Vardon, Taylor, Braid, Sandy Herd—all nearing 60 and all playing superb golf. Not so young as they used to ge, naturally, and Braid suffering from impaired vision, but still consummate artists. Then look at those 15, even 20, years younger who are apparently through, though playing just as much and trying just as hard.

There can be but one explanation. The old masters handle their clubs properly and they do not need to rely upon the vigor and strength and muscular control of youth to co-ordinate the parts of a misfit swing.

So let us not be misled into believing that golf can be played in any way that comes along. There are very definite fundamental principles which must be observed if enduring consistency is to be had. The man with the unorthodox or awkard swing probably won't last very long, and while he lasts, his bad days will be terrible. The player with a simple, straight-forward manner of hitting is usually the best over the long route and can rarely go far enough astray to play really badly.

"Thank You"
Beginning TOMORROW.. telephone users in Greater St. Louis will notice a slight change in the way their calls are handled by the operators.
Under this new practice, when you place a call, the operator, instead of repeating the number you give her, will merely reply, "Thank you," and will set up the connection immediately.
This new, more personal service is coming into use throughout the country, and is designed to furnish better, faster and more courteous service.
"Straightforward" Service—
. . . Another new practice which is being introduced to Greater St. Louis is "straightforward trunking." A "trunked" call is one which originates in one central office area and terminates in another. For example, a call from a Cabany subscriber to a Grand subscriber is a trunked call. A "trunk" is a pair of wires connecting two central offices.
Such a call goes from the Cabany subscriber to the Cabany operator, then through a trunk to the Grand operator; thence to the Grand subscriber. A number of trunk lines connect the two central offices, and it is, of course, necessary for the Cabany operator to route the call over an idle one.
Under the old method, the Cabany operator would signal the Grand operator by pressing a key, whereupon the Grand operator would designate an idle trunk. This operation could not be heard by the calling subscriber.
Under the "straightforward" plan, the Cabany operator herself selects an idle trunk and passes the call to the Grand operator. While this is going on, the Cabany subscriber may hear a "buzz-z buzz-z," which indicates that the Grand operator is ready to receive the call. Then the Cabany subscriber will hear the called number given to the Grand operator.
This new "straightforward" plan of handling trunked calls is faster, and also gives the subscriber the satisfaction of actually hearing his call being handled. He knows that he is being served.

OREGON HIGH WINS MISSOURI BASKET TITLE

Quintet Defeats Springfield, 25 to 16 in Final—Soldan Team Takes Third Place.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 17.—Oregon high school, winner of the Northwest Missouri sectional tournament and conqueror of St. Louis Soldan, Poplar Bluff and Kansas City Northeast in State tournament play, was tonight crowned champion of Missouri interscholastic basketball by virtue of its victory, 25 to 16, over Springfield.

The Oregon team won in the final half after the lead had swung back and forth during the first two quarters. At the end of the first quarter Springfield led, 4 to 3, and at the half Springfield's advantage was 11 to 9.

Second place in the tournament automatically goes to Springfield. It is the first time in 12 years of high school championship basketball play here that a Kansas City team has not figured in the finals.

Oregon was a dark-horse entrant in the tourney.

Eastern Soccer Cup Final Today

Coats Team, of Pawtucket, Rhode Island, Meets New York Nationals at Polo Grounds.

By Leased Wire to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 17.—Tomorrow at the Polo Grounds, the New York Nationals will play the J. & P. Coats eleven of Pawtucket, R. I., for the right to meet the best team in the West to decide the national soccer championship.

Man for man, the clubs are evenly matched, with the Nationals, possibly, having a slight edge in the defensive positions.

The Nationals, contrary to custom, on the eve of such an important game, had a final workout at the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon. Although Henderson, star center, has not gotten over the effects of the deep gash in his knee cap, suffered in the Giants play-off, he expressed himself as confident that he will be able to take his place in the lineup.

Tommy Croft, the other invalid, who was badly hurt in the game with the Brooklyn Wanderers, is the only doubtful starter. Whether Tommy plays inside left or Bob Millar, member of the first championship team many years ago, will take his place, will be decided tomorrow morning.

Bart McGhee will play outside left. Pete Renzulli will remain at goal.

"Cocked Hat" Was Popular Bowling Game Here in '80s

Many Leagues Were Conducted in 90's and in 1902 a Regular Association W as Formed, but Sport Died Out Many Years Ago.

HEREWITH is presented the second chapter of a review of a half century of bowling in St. Louis, compiled by Herman Wecke of the Post-Dispatch sport staff. An installment appears in the Post-Dispatch each Sunday.

By Herman Wecke.

Women were interested in bowling in St. Louis in the early days, as on Jan. 21, 1888, the Jolly Bowling Club held a tournament for women, the first on record in St. Louis.

Even at that time, there was cocked hat bowling, a game in which only three pins were used and the balls were smaller—or on the order of the duck pin ball of today. In 1886, on the Grand alleys, the following scores at cocked hat were rolled: C. Lemon, 34, 48, 51 and 32; T. Morgan, 47, 52, 39, 49, and H. Jost, 30, 29, 50, 48. A perfect score in this game was a 90.

While there were several leagues and cocked hat was the principal game in the late 90's, the first association to conduct this game was not organized until 1902, when the National Cocked Hat Association came into existence. Gus Bengel was one of the principal factors in bringing the game into popularity. Before the sport was finally permitted to die a natural death this city was known to have more good cocked hat bowlers than any other city in the country.

"Aces" of Cocked Hat.

Among the aces of the three-pin game in St. Louis were Arthur "Mag" Mitchell, Harry Hirsch, Gene Clymer, Lloyd Rickart, later secretary of the Browns; Adolph Giessow, Eddie Boyle, Paul Dueker, Eugene Held, D. C. Woods, W. H. Clarke, Otto Schneider, Joe Shaw, Eddie Reyburn, Thomas, Lee, Kicker and others. It was in 1899, in the Mid-City League, that Otto Schneider established a record of going through a five-game match with 13 cocked pins and but one miss. Pins used corresponded to the Nos. 1, 7 and 10 of tenpins. A bowler was credited with a "cocked pin" when he drove out the No. 1. A miss was scored when he failed to knock down all three on three attempts.

It was in 1903 that the game reached its greatest height. In this season there were no fewer than 25 organized leagues and as an added inducement the Post-Dispatch that season offered a trophy to the bowler who scored a perfect game. Five men tied for the honor, as follows: Adolph Giessow, Paul Dueker, Eugene Held, D. C. Woods and W. H. Clark. In this season, the first official record was recognized, when Harry Hirsch scored eight cocked pins and had but one miss. This had been tied by Clymer in 1902 and beaten by Schneider in 1899, but the previous marks were not recognized.

Contract Jumping Hit Game.

About this time the game was afflicted by contract jumping, and on March 30, 1903, the following rule was passed by the association: "Players desiring to change from one league to another must get written consent of their captains. Captains cannot withhold this consent over two weeks."

In 1905, the game started to slip, although as late as 1909, the following averages were rolled in a league on the Royal alleys, then on Sixth street between Locust and St. Charles: Tavener, 57.15; Hirsch, 54.75; Rigby, 54.36; Wieda, 54.15; Bernard, Heintz, Kicker, Schoepperle, Kumpf and Kenthner were all over 52, a fine mark for a season's play at the game.

Cocked hat, like "palm ball" earlier, was allowed to die out, finally disappearing as a league sport in 1917, although the Phoenix Cocked Hat alleys are still in operation.

(To Be Continued.)

Cocked Hat Teams Had to Deal With Contract Jumpers

THAT the bowling game had its contract jumpers in the early days the same as baseball has had, is indicated by the fact that on March 30, 1893, the National Cocked Hat Association passed a rule to do away with contract jumping.

The law passed by the organization at that time read as follows: "Players desiring to change from one league to another must get the written consent of their captains. The captains cannot withhold this consent over two weeks."

BOXING PROGRAM IN ILLINOIS ARMORY PROHIBITED BY RULES

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 17.—Adjutant-General Carlos E. Black in a statement issued tonight, denied that boxing at the infantry armory in Chicago last night at the Emmerson-Carlstrom meeting was prohibited for "political reasons."

Orders prohibiting prize fights and boxing bouts in armories have been in effect since 1921, he said, the only exceptions being where all contestants are members of the Illinois National Guard.

FIREMEN TO PLAY FOOTBALL DURING ANNUAL CONVENTION

YAWITZ BUYS OLIVE ST. LOT FOR SIX-STORY BUILDING

The Mercantile Trust Co. as trustee under the will of Charles Fink, deceased, reports the sale at auction of 45 feet on the south side of widened Olive street, numbers 2340-42, to Frank Yawitz, at what is said to be a record price of about $500 a foot.

The property was owned by the Charles Fink estate, and Yawitz, who has shown faith in the future of Olive street in various practical ways, acquired it for the erection of a six-story fireproof office building, which he states will cost from $150,000 to $200,000. Yawitz owns the property immediately adjoining on the east, on which is being erected a 100-room hotel at a cost of $225,000.

Yawitz was represented by the Dubinsky Real Estate Co.

Tragedies Traced to Goitre

Diseased Thyroid Gland Cause of Many Unhappy Lives

That the freedom from goitre, often unsuspected, restores wrecked homes to happiness, and altered characters to normal, is the startling discovery of a noted Battle Creek goitre specialist.

Histories of thousands of cases treated by him show not only the disappearance of goitre and its symptoms but a corresponding and resultant return of the patient to normal disposition and happy home life once more.

And why not? Science tells us that long before the goitre becomes visible, before its presence is even suspected, its poisons are irritating the nerves, interfering with right mental processes.

Nerves become hypersensitive. Restlessness and a craving for excitement follow. The patient not realizing her condition, begins a restless search for new thrills, keener emotional stimulation. This may end anywhere in tragedy all too often.

Too Much Jazz.

"For several years," wrote a distracted mother to this specialist, "I worried over my daughter's growing wildness. Remonstrances only led to scenes. Hours became later. Parties more questionable."

What a common picture of lovable, high-strung modern youth! In how many anxious homes is it duplicated today?

"Then came your remarkable book on goitre," continues Mrs. Young's letter, "and Marie's subsequent case as you know. Today our girl is her natural, sweet, happy self, content with the normal pleasures of a girl's life. Saved from, we know not what sorrows."

Happy Homes Restored

Advanced stages of thyroid gland poisoning still often unsuspected, cause abnormal irritability, frequent mental disturbances, hysteria-like unreasonableness. What love or home is proof for long against such attacks?

"Not mine," said Jack Howard. When charming little Mrs. Howard gradually changed from companionship to nagging, Jack packed up and left. Happening upon the goitre book written by this same specialist he recognized the symptoms and induced his wife to take this treatment.

"Today," says young Howard, "with the goitre gone and Molly herself again, there isn't a happier home in the world. And just to think where we might have been—"

These cases are typical of literally dozens traced to this most successful physician.

Young Girls Victims

A glance at almost any group of school girls and young women shows an alarming proportion of them with gently swollen throats, indicative of goitre. In some localities as high as 80% are affected.

Contrary to popular belief the size of the goitre has very little to do with its seriousness. Often it is invisible. Often it results in mental slowness rather than mental stimulation, in physical undevelopment, dizziness, headaches, choking sensations.

What to Do?

An understanding of the causes of this all-too-prevalent disease would serve to prevent countless cases. An understanding of the symptoms would discover its presence in the early stages when it is most easily checked. An understanding of its proper treatment would bring blessed relief to sufferers, and in most cases even where the disease is already advanced.

This knowledge is found in a recent book on goitre, referred to above, and which the Doctor expressed himself as glad to send, without charge or obligation of any kind, to anyone interested.

New Book Tells How

"Goitre, its causes, its dangers, its treatment," as this authoritative book is called, is perhaps the most complete and informative non-technical book ever published on this subject. It is written by the one man best qualified to write such a book. He has specialized in this one disease for over 20 years, and has, without doubt, more cases to his credit than any other one person.

This book, to anyone touched by this tragic disease, or with loved ones who may be affected, is invaluable. It should be in every household. Every mother, every girl and woman should read it. Before the supply is exhausted, take advantage of this extraordinary offer. Send for a copy of the book. It is free. It is given to our readers without obligation of any kind.

Club Converted Into Garden for Military Wedding

Miss Charlotte Eleanor Nelson, Bride of Lieut. W. G. Stephenson Jr., Is First of Season's Buds to Be Married —Pair to Sail for Philippines March 29.

IN a charming English garden, fragrant with the perfume of thousands of white roses, the American flag and the regimental standard of Sixth Infantry flanking the smilax canopied altar, Miss Charlotte Eleanor Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clement William Nelson, became the bride last night at the St. Louis Woman's Club of Lieut. William Griffith Stephenson Jr., U. S. A., in the first full military wedding held in St. Louis in recent years.

One was reminded of the military aspect of the affair on entering the club by the two large silken flags supported upright at the foot of the broad smilax trimmed stairway.

The garden was built into the spacious ball room, where the mirrored panels and prismed sconces were concealed by an English hedge wall, almost ceiling height, festooned with climbing ramblers abloom with hundreds of roses. Even the floor was tesselated with hand blocked gray and white tiling to simulate stone flagging. Potted green bay trees at intervals added a realistic touch. Overhead were great white rose ball shades, their petals concealing the chandeliers. A soft moonlight effect was produced by a series of flood lights in the mossy green of the hedge.

To the strains of organ wedding music played softly from beyond the garden wall, the bridal party, headed by a guard of 10 officers from Jefferson Barracks where Lieut. Stephenson has been stationed, passed through an aisle of smilax and roses to the canopied platform where the Rev. Dr. William Crowe of the Westminster Presbyterian Church read the ceremony. Two tall standards of more than 300 Easter lilies formed the background.

It was distinctly a green and white wedding, the bride's attendants, Miss Kathleen Ryan, the maid of honor, and Miss Marie Reine Fusz and Miss Mairi Robertson, bridesmaids, each wearing soft green chiffon and taffeta. Their gowns were fashioned with sleeveless tight taffeta bodices cut to deep Vs and filled in with tulle, and skirts of layers of green tulle with the long back effect trimmed with looped bows and streamers of green taffeta at one side. They wore matching slippers and carried sweet peas shading from pink to orchid, tiled with green, and about their neck were pearl and crystal necklaces given them by the bride.

A white satin period costume, bordering on the Russian court style was worn by the bride, the tall rose point Russian crown holding the misty tulle veil adding height to her slight figure. The bodice was cut with a deep oval neck line and had long mousquetaire sleeves of point applique lace. The bell shaped skirt was bordered with a broad band of the lace veiling pale green, which swept the floor except in front where it was slashed to reveal a petticoat of point applique over green. The note of green was again apparent in the lining of the rounded court train weighted with orange blossoms which depended from the decollette bodice. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls. She carried three dozen Easter lilies loosely in her arms.

Lieut. Hamer Ford served as best man, and he, with Lieut. James Howat, groomsman; Capt. Paul Downing and Lieuts. William Harbold, Harold Doud, Albert Dickerson, Edgar Gans, Willis Matthews, William E. Long and William S. Wood, formed the guard, which, at a signal at the close of the ceremony, advanced and drew their swords to form an archway under which the bridal party walked to the entrance.

The receiving line formed at the south end of the room and following the reception a buffet supper was served in the dinning room below. The long table, covered with filet lace over green satin, was laid under a succession of smilax arches, its center piece the huge wedding cake surrounded by silver candelabra. In keeping with the old tradition of military brides, Mrs. Stephenson cut the cake with her husband's sword, while the groomsmen, standing in a semicircle around her, their swords tipped over her head, toasted her and broke their glasses.

Later there was dancing. Each room of the club had a bit of distinctive decoration. The walls about the stairway leading from the ballroom to the dining room were covered with a white lattice entwined with green, and the balustrades themselves were covered with feathery fern.

Lieut. and Mrs. Stephenson have departed

Weddings and Engagements

ST. LOUISANS will be interested in the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Jordan Shepard of Washington, D. C., and Capt. Alonzo Patrick Fox, assistant commander of the pictorial section of the Signal Corps, stationed at Washington, which took place recently in St. Patrick's Church. The arrangements were in regimental style and the couple left the church under an arch of swords held by a group of Capt. Fox's fellow officers.

The bridegroom is formerly of St. Louis. He is a graduate of St. Louis University, class of 1917. His sisters are Mrs. Aloys Bolfing of Maplewood and Mrs. Peter Kohler of St. Louis. He has two brothers, Lawrence Fox of St. Louis and the Rev. T. C. Fox, pastor of the Blessed Sacrament Church in Hannibal. An uncle is dean of the St. Genevieve (Mo.) Catholic Church.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Spector of 6328 Arsenal street announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Spector, and Herman Stadin of 4469 Clarence avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Sproul of 6020 Washington boulevard announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Joey Sproul, and George Bennett of 5716 Julian avenue. The wedding will take place in June.

At a tea given Friday night by Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Morgan, directors of Principia Academy, announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Mary Glor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Glor of Cleveland, and Lee McCandless, athletic director of Principia. Miss Glor is assistant house mother for the young women students. The wedding date has not been set.

Miss Glor is a graduate of Principia and Western Reserve University at Cleveland. Mr. McCandless also is a Principia graduate, later taking his college degree from the University of Wisconsin. He is the son of Mrs. Mary McCandless of Davenport, Ia.

The engagement of Miss Wilma Henley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Henley, and Jonathan W. Richardson, formerly of Columbus, Miss., was announced at a bridge luncheon given recently by Miss Henley's sister, Mrs. A. C. Werdes of 5514 Pershing avenue, with whom the prospective bride makes her home. The wedding will take place in the early fall.

Miss Henley attended Washington University and is now engaged in social service work. Mr. Richardson is an alumnus of a school of finance at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. He came to St. Louis from the South 10 years ago. His mother is Mrs. Itta Richardson of Columbus, Miss.

Announcement was made yesterday of the engagement of Miss Geraldine Rohan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Rohan of the Daniel Boone Apartments, to W. Fidelas Grantges, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Grantges of 6133 Pershing avenue. No date for the wedding has been set.

The marriage of Miss Marguerite Gold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gold of 6250 Enright avenue, and Harold Tober, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Tober of Northwood avenue, took place the afternoon of March 4 at the United Hebrew Church, Skinker road and Wydown boulevard. A dinner for 100 guests followed at Hotel Chase. Mr. and Mrs. Tober are now in the South on their wedding trip. They will visit New Orleans and Biloxi, and will return home March 15 to make their home in the Embassy apartments.

Miss Selma Tober, a sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, and Miss Clara Katz, Miss Pauline Weinbach, Miss Anna Ruth Tober and Miss Selma Seifer were bridesmaids. Manuel Seifer was best man and T. Glaser, M. Rosenthal, Al Fleischmann and Sam Dugan were groomsmen. The bride is a graduate of Mary Institute and Mr. Tober of Washington University.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Rosen of 4237 West Page boulevard announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Rose Shirley Rosen, and Harry Kaiser, son of Mrs. Goldie Kaiser of 749 Westgate avenue.

Rabbi and Mrs. Louis Witt of 4905 Argyle court announce the engagement of their daughter, Ruth, to Lewis Lederer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Lederer of Cincinnati, O.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Salomon of the Senate Apartments, formerly of Pittsburg and Chicago, announce the engagement of their daughter, Myrtle Wilma, to Glenn A. Pareira, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Pareira of New York and Chicago. Miss Salomon will graduate in June from Washington University. The wedding will be soon.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Pepper of 4451 Evans avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Mae, to Edward Berg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Berg of 6214 Cabanne avenue, which took place last Sept. 19.

The marriage of Miss Martha Kruckmeyer, daughter of Mrs. Leonora Kruckmeyer of 5162 Maple avenue, and John W. Spellman of Omaha, Neb., took place Thursday morning, March 15. The wedding arrangements were simple because of mourning in the bride's family. She was attended by Miss Eleanor Henning and Harry Hughes was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Leisner of 518 North Central avenue, University City, announce the wedding last Wednesday of their daughter, Miss Aimee Leisner, and Homer G. Herpel, son of Mrs. Amelia Herpel of Bemiston avenue, Clayton.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Fein have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Edna Fein, and Sol Spitzburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Spitzburg of 6132 Waterman avenue.

Miss Helyn Rosenfield, daughter of Mrs. M. Rosenfield of 5084 Ridge avenue, has chosen next Sunday as the date of her marriage to Nathaniel Lipsitz of 5143 Enright avenue. The ceremony will take place in the ball room of Hotel Chase at 7 o'clock in the evening. Miss Lois Brown of Scranton, Pa., will be maid of honor and Miss Shirley Brown, Miss Zelda Isaacs, Miss Rose Alice Hush, Miss Jeanette Hertzman, Miss Esther Gubin and Miss Anne Barack, bridesmaids. Norman Maskowitz will be best man and Jack Brickman, Dr. Edward Gelb, Philip Flannal, Ralph Cohn, Henry Levy and Edward Glaser of Chicago groomsmen. A reception will follow the ceremony. A number of pre-wedding parties are being given for the bride-elect.

Mrs. James R. Egbert, 1043 Louisville avenue, gave a bridge luncheon Friday to the women who assisted her in her work on the Recreation and Social Center Committee of the Woman's Chamber of Commerce. The favors and decorations were in keeping with the emblems of St. Patrick's Day. The guests were Mrs. William B. McSorley, Mrs. J. A. Addison, Mrs. Louis Bersche, Mrs. J. E. Allen, Mrs. E. F. Oehler, Mrs. Herbert Ward and Miss Anita Moore.

CAPTAIN AND MRS. ALONZO PATRICK FOX

Eighth District Clubs Entertain State Board

THE Eighth District, Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs, of which Mrs. Charles A. Houts is president, entertained the Executive Board of the State and visitors prominent in the work of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, last Tuesday and Wednesday. A luncheon was given at the Town Club Tuesday in honor of the guests, after which a reception was held at the Women's National Exposition at the Coliseum for the clubwomen, at which members of the Board of Managers of the exposition were hosts.

Mrs. John F. Sipple of Baltimore, Md., who was the principal speaker at the luncheon, was introduced by Mrs. Philip North Moore, honorary president of the General Federation. Mrs. Sipple is a director of Maryland, chairman of finance of the General Federation. Other speakers were Mrs. George Thomas Palmer, former president of the Illinois Federation, now engaged in writing a history of Illinois clubs; Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Austin, Tex., former president of the General Federation; Mrs. Frederick B. Hall, State chairman of fine arts, and Mrs. Fred Johnson, special chairman of child welfare.

Mrs. Hall announced the award of a prize given by the Missouri Federation for the best poem on Missouri to Mrs. A. R. Smyth of 5 Brentmoor Park. Honorable mention was given a poem by Miss Eula James of 6181 Pershing avenue. The prize for the club presenting the outstanding art program was won by the Richlands (Mo.) club. Mrs. Johnson talked on the work done for the crippled children in a local hospital by the Eighth District.

Coincident with the State Board the Press and Publicity Committee of the Eighth District, of which Mrs. J. Findley Smartt is chairman, met at the Town Club, with Mrs. P. Caper Harvey, State chairman of Press and Publicity, as the speaker. Mrs. Harvey talked on the Missouri Club Woman, the State Federation Magazine and gave the press chairmen instructions. Mrs. F. H. Littlefield, former president of the Eighth District, and chairman for transportation for the biennial convention at San Antonio, in May, stated that plans could not be announced until they had been favorably reported upon by the State board.

Mrs. Edward Franklin White of Indianapolis, Ind., first vice president of the General Federation, who will be a candidate for the presidency of the Federation, will come to St. Louis March 282 to speak at the Wednesday Club's Federation day program. Mrs. White will be entertained at luncheon by the Executive Board of the Eighth District.

Women of the Church of the Holy Communion wil lconduct a rummage sale March 27 and 28 in the parish house, 2809 Washington boulevard. The rummage sales in this parish serve a double purpose as poor wome nof the neighborhood outfit their families at the low price sales, and the proceeds go to work for children of the neighborhood.

Mrs. Robert Atkinson will give the fourth book review in the Lenten series at the Buckingham Hotel Friday morning at 11 o'clock.

PARTIES AND OTHER EVENTS

DR. and Mrs. Vilray P. Blair of 5 Kingsbury place will give a tea Easter Sunday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock at their home in honor of Dr. and Mrs. William Joseph Larimore, whose marriage took place March 1 at Fort Valley, Ga., the former home of the bride. Mrs. Larimore was Miss Ruth Evans.

Miss Carolyn Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Bailey of 4556 West Pine boulevard, who will become the bride of Arthur Frederick Miller of New York, April 21, was the guest of honor at a luncheon yesterday given by Miss Elizabeth Waller at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Waller of 5153 Westminster place. Tuesday evening Mrs. Gilson Gray of 484 Lake avenue entertained at a similar affair for Miss Bailey. The guests included Mrs. Ralph Bixby, Mrs. Archie Lee, Mrs. Boyle Rhodes, Mrs. Anthony Day, Mrs. Harold Bixby, Mrs. Allen Preston Gamble, Mrs. George Tittmann, Mrs. Henry Dunn, Mrs. Donald Danforth, Miss Katherine Perkins, Miss Evelyn Guy and Mrs. John O'Fallon.

Mrs. Gray departed Wednesday for Greenwich, Conn., where she will visit her sister-in-law, Mrs. T. H. Marshall, for several weeks.

Miss Mary Scudder Bond, daughter of Mrs. H. Wheeler Bond of 17 Vandeventer place, gave a luncheon Friday for Miss Barbara Tallerman of London, England, who is the guest of Miss Elizabeth Grayson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Grayson of 4357 McPherson avenue, and Mrs. James Richmond Ingham of Buffalo, N. Y., who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Leland of 18 Windemere place. A mixed tea was given later in the afternoon by Miss Alice Orr Clark, daughter of Mrs. Alice Orr Clark of 10 North Taylor avenue. In the evening an informal dinner was given by Dr. and Mrs. Sidney I. Schwab of 5859 Clemens avenue for Miss Tallerman and Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Leonard McCarthy of 5896 Cabanne avenue was hostess at an informal tea for the visitors.

Mrs. Ingham was complimented at a luncheon Thursday for which Mrs. R. Vernon Clark of 5234 Westminster place, and her daughters, Miss Alma and Miss Elizabeth, were hostesses. Tuesday Mrs. W. N. Bemis of Hotel Chase and her daughters, Miss Hannah and Miss Dorothy, entertained 20 guests at luncheon in honor of Mrs. Ingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Paul Sommers of Vinita Park entertained at their home Wednesday evening. The guests were the members of the Model Aeroplane Club of which their son, Honore Sommers, is a member.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Goldberg of 6320 Oakland drive will entertain this evening with a St. Patrick's party to celebrate the first birthday of their small daughter, Gloria Ruth. Mrs. Goldberg before her marriage was Miss Gertrude Marks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Marks of Granville place.

Two hundred and eighty-five invitations have been issued by Dr. and Mrs. John L. Roemer and the Missouri Club of Lindenwood College, St. Charles, for a reception and dance at 8 o'clock Friday evening, honoring the new May queen. The reception and dance will be held in Butler Hall and gymnasium. Formerly a dinner dance has been given in the queen's honor, but this year the reception rplaces it.

Mrs. Margaret Conway Anderson, 7407 Arlington Drive, Richmond Heights, entertained a number of children March 10 in honor of her small daughter, Nancy Conway Anderson, who celebrated her seventh birthday that day. The decorations and table appointments were in green and white. The guests were Paula Marcia Britt, Rosemary Devereux, Polly and Molly Hapke, Joan Gundlach, Eloise May Turner, Mary Eileen Mansfield, Mary Jane and Ann Loraine Houlihan, Elaine Woodbury, Nancy Wallace Beck, Faith Herder and Mary Francis Noonan.

Mrs. Emily Grant Hutchings will speak tomorrow evening at the meeting of the Carondelet Women's Club in the Carondelet Library, when the general subject of the program will be "Modern Women in Art and Modern Women in Music." Mrs. Eversull will have a paper on the music.

A reception was given last Sunday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. S. Kransburg of 5820 DeGiverville avenue, in honor of Mrs. Kransburg's sister, Miss Hilda Fitter, whose marriage to her cousin, Edward Fitter of Lincoln, Neb., took place earlier that day.

The annual birthday luncheon for Mrs. Anna Sneed Cairns to been given March 19 has been postponed because of the illness of the guest of honor. Arrangements are in charge of Mrs. Hattie E. Robinson of the Saum Hotel.

Mrs. Charles C. Preston of East Linden drive, Clayton, entertained the elementary classes at Lenox Hall with a party yesterday in honor of her young daughter, Janet.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Licklider, whose marriage took place Friday in St. Charles, gave their wedding dinner last night for a number of their friends at the Osage Country Club. Mrs. Licklider was Mrs. Alice Schokmiller. The newlyweds are making their home at Hotel Chase.

Work Done for Girls Outlined to Women

Two hundred and fifty women were guests at the informal tea given by the Girls' Protective Association of the Board of Religious Organizations and the Big Sisters of St. Louis at Hotel Coronado, Monday. These two organizations have been working together for the last year and this was their initial effort to introduce their work for girls to the women of St. Louis, whom they are asking to join them in this service to girls of the city who need their help.

Mrs. E. G. Lasar, president of the Big Sisters' organization, presided and introduced Mrs. Robert W. Andrews, who in turn introduced the speaker, Dr. Karl Morgan Block, rector of Saint Michael and All Angels' Church. Mrs. Clarence Robbins sang and intimate stories of girls who have been safeguarded, protected and inspired by women of the Girls' Protective Association and the Big Sisters were told by members of the staff, and by Miss Laura M. Kinkead, director.

Dr. Block emphasized the responsibility of every woman, whether she accepts it or not, to see that all girls, in whatsoever walk of life, have understanding and loving care. He said the task should be faced with preparation, earnestness and a willingness to sacrifice time and pleasure.

The committee directing work of the Girls' Protective Association and the Big Sisters' organization is composed of Mrs. Gilbert H. Fox, Mrs. Joseph N. Calfee, Mrs. Robert W. Andrews and Mrs. Elizabeth J. Hoffman, for the Board of Religious Organizations, and Mrs. G. V. R. Mechin, Mrs. R. A. Dennis, Mrs. J. P. Dubail and Mrs. E. G. Lasar for the Big Sisters.

New offices at 807-809 Equitable Building serve as headquarters of the joint agencies and the office of the Girls' Protective Association, 105 Municipal Courts Building, is maintained as heretofore.

for STOUT WOMEN

New Spring Models
$10 to $16.50

THE "length" of your foot is easy to fit...So is the "width"...But, for true comfort, your footwear must satisfy two other requirements—arch—and heel.

Ordinary shoes "fit" your feet according to "length" and "width"—that's all. And that's why they're uncomfortable.

But the arches of ADAPTO SHOES curve up to fit your own arches snugly and support them. And the heel seats are narrower than in ordinary shoes and so grip your own heels firmly but gently.

Try a pair of ADAPTO SHOES and see what a vast difference they make in foot comfort and happiness... *Our Foot Service Department will accord you free foot examination and advice.

Leaves Hair Twice as Beautiful

In a few minutes time, your hair is soft, silky and radiant with life, gloss and lustre.

To have beautiful, fresh looking hair is simply a matter of proper shampooing.

While your hair must have frequent and regular washing to keep it beautiful, it cannot stand the harsh effect of ordinary soaps. The free alkali in ordinary soaps soon dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

That is why discriminating women, everywhere, now use Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo. This clear, pure and entirely greaseless product brings out all the real beauty of the hair and cannot possibly injure.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather which cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

It leaves the hair soft, silky and easy to manage and makes it fairly sparkle with new life, gloss and lustre.

You can get Mulsified Cocoanut Oil Shampoo at any drug store.

A four-ounce bottle lasts for months.

Benefit Musicale And Carnival on New York Program

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 17.—"Le Carnival des Animaux," by Saint-Saens, has been selected as the feature of a musicale to be given for the benefit of the New York Women's League for Animals. A bear symphony, an elephant's lullaby and a cat serenade will be among the highlights of a program played by an orchestra selected from the Philharmonic Society. Mrs. Vincent Astor is among the patronesses.

Walking trees, jungle dancers and birds of paradise will be among the shapes assumed by debutantes in the jungle scene of "The Magic Carpet" charity carnival for the benefit of the Judson Health Center. Col. Lindbergh's triumphal landings on his recent Latin-American flight will be pictured in the descent of the "Spirit of St. Louis" in the jungle.

Jeweled pins, genuine or imitation, are the dominant feature for adornment of spring frocks. They are worn on the shoulder or front of the gowns, with crystal, topaz and amethyst as the ruling favorites among stones.

Society women will have roles in the modern marionette opera, "El Retablo de Maese Pedro," to be presented for the benefit of the music library. The opera is founded on the story of Don Quixote. The characters will be portrayed by life-size marionettes on two stages while the roles are sung from the pit. Countess Mercati is chairman of the committee.

Another evidence of the continued interest in Lindbergh is a tulip named for the mother of the flyer, which society will find among the features of the International Flower Show at the Grand Central Palace next week. John Scheepers is showing the flower, which was developed in Holland.

A gold lace frock with a cape effect in the back is being worn by Mrs. Marcus Daly at functions this spring. Lace frocks are an outstanding note in spring wardrobes, worn in black or cafe au lait, with sapphire, topax and emerald as other popular shades.

A Russian gypsy dance executed by Valentina Kashauba in a rainbow costume was of special interest at the Mi-Careme ball society given this week to aid Russian refugees. New York society has turned increasingly to the Russian for entertainment and many after-theater supper parties are given at a club where Cossack dancers in a setting of red and white futuristic decoration whirl under a domed ceiling of dark blue studded with stars.

Society went back to the tight-fitting, ankle-length dresses and bustles of the '80s to show how players of Badminton appeared half a century ago when the game was new. The sport, which originated in India, was played recently on the small courts of the Badminton Club to celebrate its fiftieth anniversary.

Auto School for Women To Be Opened April 11

MRS. Ruth Kelso Renfrow, 15 Yale avenue, University City, last Saturday entertained the committee of the 1928 Women's Safe Drivers' School, which will be held in the auditorium of Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney under the auspices of the St. Louis Safety Council.

Mrs. Renfrow, is chairman of the school; Mrs. William F. A. Schultz, the County director, and Mrs. Francis Kophling, City director. It was organized seven years ago.

The committee decided to open the school the afternoon of April 11 for five consecutive Wednesday afternoons. At the conclusion of the school a written examination and driving contest will be held for the women who desire to take part in them. Two loving cups will be awarded to the members making the highest number of points in each.

The afternoon of May 16, all the women who attended four of the five regular lecture meetings will be awarded their graduation certificates at a luncheon. Classes will be held from 2 to 4 p. m.

The committee has announced that the following subjects will be discussed at the school: Actual driving difficulties or problems of the road; the necessity of lubrication; analysis of traffic regulations; the electrical system of the automobile; starting mechanism and brakes; railroad grade crossings; eliminating street hazards through traffic engineering; school days, and safety or sorrow.

They also announced that the following are some of the men who will make the addresses: Charles E. Hill, general safety agent, New York Central Line, New York City; Joseph A. Gerk, chief of police; Robert E. Lee, secretary-manager, Automobile Dealers' Association; Matt F. Morse, general manager of the Automobile Club of Missouri; William J. Chaudet, president, General Brake Service Corporation; J. F. Frier, president, Alemite Lubricating Co.; W. A. Taussig, Bureau of Municipal Research; Reyburn P. Hoffmann, traffic engineer, City of St. Louis; Girard C. Varnum, secretary and manager, St. Louis Safety Council.

Tea for Students of Shakspeare.

Following the meeting of the Tercentenary Shakspeare Society class in "Othello," Tuesday afternoon, in the auditorium of Vandervoort's, Mrs. Rudolph Freare, formerly of Paris, France, will entertain a group of the members at a Shakspeare tea at Hotel Jefferson.

KEEP KIDNEYS CLEAN, DRINK MORE WATER

If Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers, Also Take a Little Salts

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some form, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

Large Pimples Affected Back

Also Chest. Itched and Burned. Cuticura Heals.

"My back and chest were affected with large pimples which seemed to fester and were real red. During the night they itched and burned so that I could not sleep much, and the irritation caused me to scratch. I had the trouble at least six months.

"I tried all kinds of remedies but with no success. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment so purchased some. It sure was a success, and in four weeks I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. Helen Roberts, 4723 So. Marshfield Ave., Chicago, Ill., July 2, 1927.

Activities of Women's Clubs and Societies

THE history and literature section of the Wednesday Club, Mrs. Walter M. Bartlett, chairman, will continue its study of the "Sublime Discontents" of English history and literature Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. The subject of the meeting will be "The Period of Iconoclasm," and Mrs. Lewis W. English, assisted by Miss Pemala Harrison, will discuss how this spirit pervades the writings of Shaw, Galsworthy and Wells.

The social economy section, Miss Kate Roth chairman, will meet at 2 p. m. The section will study the effect of the oriental awakening upon the Western world and William H. Danforth will speak on, "India's Influence." Danforth has just returned from India. J. I. Parker, former survey secretary of the Eastern Asia movement and a resident of China for more than five years, will give a political and economic explanation of China's condition.

Mrs. Charles Noel, chairman of the Poetics section of the Wednesday Club, has announced that the first prize in the original verse contest for the club members was awarded "To a Poet From His Patron," written by Mrs. Walter J. Knight. Mrs. James L. Munger was winner of the second prize, for the poem, "Remembering." Members whose poems received honorable mention were: Mrs. Walter Knight, Mrs. James Munger, Mrs. Samuel P. Goddard and Mrs. Walter Knight.

The judges of the verse contest were Miss Madeline Mason-Manheim, Edward Davison and Dr. Richard F. Jones of Washington University.

Mrs. John F. Sipple.

Mrs. John F. Sipple of Baltimore, Md., a candidate for the presidency of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, was a guest of the Eighth District of Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs Tuesday and Wednesday. Mrs. Sipple was complimented by a number of social affairs during her visit in St. Louis. She departed Thursday for Kansas City, where she spoke before the Kansas City Women's Clubs. Mrs. Sipple is chairman of finance of the General Federation and is a director of Maryland.

The Kirkwood Study Hour Club met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. A. B. Boyer, with Mrs. A. M. Russell as assisting hostess. The president, Mrs. Otis E. Turner, was absent, and Mrs. R. F. Ralph presided. The program consisted of papers on the history of Ancient Rome by Mrs. Frank Knabb, Mrs. J. W. Wright, Mrs. J. P. Wingert, Mrs. Harry Corley, Mrs. G. W. Baumhoff, Mrs. F. P. Tillman, Mrs. W. C. Brown, Mrs. A. M. Russell, Mrs. R. F. Ralph, Mrs. Harry Lange and Mrs. J. F. Schulze. Mrs. T. H. Heath gave a piano solo and Mrs. G. S. Jackman, accompanied by Mrs. A. M. Russell, sang.

The next meeting will be March 27, at the home of Mrs. E. E. Woodbury, 435 North Clay avenue, at which time Mrs. E. W. Clausen will give a book review.

The Central High School Patrons' Association will meet tomorrow at 8 o'clock in the Yeatman Building. Freshman class night will be observed and the program will be dedicated to the parents of the members of that class. Stephen A. Douglass, principal of Central High School, will be the speaker.

Town Club members who joined during 1927 or 1928 will be guests at a tea this afternoon in the lounge, from 3:30 to 5 p. m. The hostesses will be Miss Jennie Wahlert, Miss Alberta Allen, Dr. M. C. Barnett, Miss Mildred E. Foulks, Miss Louise Klein, Miss Helen Henke, Miss Lula Day, Miss Clara Fischer, Miss Katharine Byrne, Miss Lucy Rosebaugh and Miss Eva M. Schopp; Mrs. W. P. The open house tomorrow from 4 to 6 p. m. will have as hostesses Mrs. Otto Stifel and Miss Agnes Petring. At 7:30 p. m. Mrs. Roy Smith will continue her discussion of "The Daughter of the Samurai."

By request George S. Oettle of Johannesburg, will again give his illustrated lecture on South Africa, at 8 p. m. Thursday.

Mrs. G. M. Mason, 4107 Magnolia avenue, will entertain the Cultus Club, Thursday. Continuing the study of English drama, the Restoration Period will be introduced by a review of the life of Oliver Goldsmith. His play, "She Stoops to Conquer," will be read in part. Mrs. R. W. Hemphill is in charge of the program.

At the annual March election the officers serving were re-elected, with the exception of the treasurer. Mrs. Guy M. Mason was elected to fill this office, and was also appointed chairman of the press committee. The new directors chosen were Mrs. J. O. Goldsmith and Mrs. M. F. Kouri.

Mrs. Eugene Shade of 3964 Ashland avenue was hostess to members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union Friday. Mrs. B. T. Fox spoke and Mrs. J. A. Riddick announced the opening of the women's safe drivers' school of 1928, which will hold the first of a series of five lectures April 11 at 2 p. m. in the auditorium of Scruggs-Vandervoort & Barney.

The Weavers' Guild met at the Art School of Washington University March 10. The new president, Mrs. William John Harris, presided. Mrs. Edmund Wuerpel, chairman of membership, reported the following new members: Miss Elizabeth Waller, Miss Bessie Recht, Miss Lucy Elliot, Miss Grace Fischer and Mrs. Earl Godbold and Mrs. Saunders.

Mrs. E. C. Rowse spoke of the Anna Nott Shook School of Weavers, called "The Home Craft Shop."

Agnes Ruth Hoffinger of the Round Table will conduct a second class lesson considering character studies from the second act of the tragedy, "Othello," Tuesday at 2 p. m., in Vandervoort Hall. At the previous meeting the president, Mrs. Harry E. Wagoner, discussed plans for the annual Shakspeare birthday luncheon.

A bazar will be given at Euclid House, 1753 Waverly place, Tuesday. Articles made by the girls and by volunteers from all units will be displayed. Proceeds will be given to the Euclid House building bund. Mrs. J. E. Irwin is chairman of the Euclid House committee; Mrs. L. L. Renfrow, secretary, and Mrs. Henry L. Wolfner, chairman of the Educational Committee. Luncheon will be served from 12 to 2 p. m., by the Jewish unit. Tea will be served in the afternoon by the Unitarian unit.

The regular meeting of the St. Louis College Club will be held at the clubhouse, 5428 Delmar boulevard, Tuesday. The program will be directed by the fiction and drama study group, which will present the play, "Mirrors of Wash Street," by Mrs. Seward McKittrick, based on the author's experiences while teaching in the Franklin School. The cast includes Mrs. Harvey White, Mrs. R. H. Olson, Miss Virgania Black, Mrs. Clarence Querman, Mrs. Archie Carr, Mrs. Walter Mueller, Mrs. Pierce J. Reilly, Mrs. Raymond Bond,

An Old Recipe to Darken Hair

By JANICE RANDALL

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through you hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

THE Coronado chef prides himself on the fact that the food he prepares matches the glory of the place in which it is enjoyed.

SIMPLE HOME MIXTURE DARKENS GRAY HAIR

Cincinnati Barber Tells How Any One Can Prepare It in 5 Minutes.

Any man or woman can easily look twenty years younger by simply darkening their gray, faded, or streaky hair. This is now easy to accomplish with a recipe given by a well-known Cincinnati barber.

Simply take a half-pint of water, add one ounce of bay rum, ¼ ounce of glycerine and a small box of Barbo Compound. Shake and it is ready to use. These ingredients can be bought at drug stores at trifling cost.

Applied to the hair twice weekly this delightful mixture quickly gives the desired shade. It is easy to use, is not sticky or greasy, will not color the scalp and does not rub off.

The Fortnightly Club of Kirkwood was entertained at luncheon Thursday at the Episcopal Parish Guild, with Mrs. May Steinhauer as hostess. After the short business meeting, an Indian musical program was given by Mrs. J. H. McKelvey, accompanied by Miss Ida Missildine and Robert Roloff.

Mrs. Steinhauer gave a short account of her mission work among the Klamath Indians of California, for whom she is preparing a pageant to be given on the Klamath River. She read the introduction to this pageant, accompanied by Miss Missildine at the piano.

The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. H. N. Henderson and Miss Clara Pullis of West Adams avenue.

Mrs. John R. Williams read a paper before the Denton J. Snider Association of Universal Culture yesterday at the meeting of the organization at the Cabanne branch library on "Circe, Transforming and Transformed." Cyril Clemens, vice president, spoke on "The Bag of Winds."

A REMARKABLE SUCCESS

—so judged by the women of America and th leading washer dealers of the world! Overwhelming approval has greeted this latest development in washing machines by Altorfer Brothers Company (A B C) who have contributed so many important improvements in the manufacture of washing machines during nineteen years.

ABC SPINNER

Double-Quick Service

Fast Washing—with improved Agitator in square tub.

Fast Drying—with Spinning dryer instead of wringer.

Double Service—moist dries one batch of clothes while another tubful is being washed. NO waiting.

Less Labor and Mending

Spinning removes surplus water from a whole batch of clothes at once instead of one piece at a time.

No broken buttons, hooks, eyes or fasteners. Less mending.

No deep creases to iron out.

Porcelain Tub easily kept clean, lustrous and sanitary.

Surest Clothes Protection

Powerful, yet gentle, agitator water action flushes out the dirt instead of pounding or rubbing the clothes.

Does not injure sheerest fabrics.

Porcelain tub and seamless, holeless porcelain dryer, smooth and safe for clothes.

This great washer wins because it APPEALS TO WOMEN!

It takes up little room, yet has a most remarkable capacity for washing and drying ... washes one batch of clothes while it dries another tubful ... no feeding piece by piece to a wringer ... turns out 60 lbs. of fluffy, evenly moist clothes an hour ... with no deep creases or broken buttons.

It is the PORCELAIN washer ... sweet-smelling, lustrous and sanitary ... so easily cleaned ... so amazingly durable.

Unusual speed in washing ... quick removal of suds and water ... yet not the slightest injury to sheer fabrics.

And such simplicity of operation ... smooth running ... ultra convenience ... as the woman of Today demands.

You Meet Septics in the movies!

There is a certain fastidiousness which habits of cleanliness cannot achieve alone. The person you sometimes suspect of carelessness may have bathed within the hour.

If you are a septic, soap and water will not solve the difficulty. Nor will any refreshant neutralize unpleasant vaporings of the body, or the breath for any length of time.

Nobody is septic by nature. It is a condition anyone can correct. Just a few days are sufficient to take the taint out of perspiration, and render one's breath as pure as can be; and this perfect personal cleanliness made permanent. Ask any doctor—or nurse—about calcium.

You may not know whether you are a septic. Try some calcium wafers, and see! If there is any stagnant matter in the system, everything will speedily be sweet and clean. Your skin will be less acrid; color improved; calcium correction even brightens eyes and whitens teeth! And you will never need another harsh cathartic from the time you have learned to prevent even semi-constipation by just occasionally taking a tiny calcium tablet.

In only five days you may feel and look like a different person. This test has fairly astounded men and women who thought they were in perfect condition! A pocket tin, now, at your druggist's for a dime, and the family size 60c; or —a supply sufficient for the five-day test is FREE if you mail this coupon:

Skin Clears Right Up!
because this Remedy Works Two Ways at Once!

In any case of pimples, blackheads, sore or itching skin, you must both clear and heal the skin! You must clear it of the pimples, blackheads, scales and blotches and also heal the sore and broken tissue. That's what Rowles Mentho Sulphur does—the sulphur clears the skin while the menthol heals. That's why this great combination is putting an end to skin troubles. One night sees a great change in the skin. In two or three days the skin is of a new, clear healthy whiteness. Rowles Mentho Sulphur is inexpensive, and all druggists supply it in jars ready to use. Be sure it's Rowles.

Goitre Not a Disease

Milwaukee Doctor Makes Remarkable Discovery

It has been brought to light by scientific research that goitre is not a disease and is not to be treated as such. Dr. A. A. Rock, Dept. 706, Box 737, Milwaukee, Wis., a prominent goitre specialist for over 24 years, has perfected a different method of treatment for his patients that has proved remarkably successful. This same method is now being used for a home treatment of goitre cases all over the country with astonishing results. The Doctor states that goitre is a condition which grows worse with neglect and recommends immediate attention, no matter how small the growth may appear. He strongly opposes needless operations. Dr. Rock is the author of a book that tells in a simple way about treating goitre at home. He has published this book at his own expense and will send a copy free to anyone interested. Not sick, and yet not well, either

If people so troubled only knew Warner's Compound!

That's the dangerous part of kidney disease—no pain to warn you. Just that dull feeling of not being just right. "Oh, it will pass in a few days," has been the belief of thousands who found out the bitter truth too late to save themselves. Too late What a pity

Is it too late for you? Perhaps not yet. But the time to save your health is while you still have it. Cleanse out those brain-dulling poisons from your blood—wake kidneys and liver up to their proper duties. That's what you have them for —to keep you healthy.

For more than 50 years Warner's Compound has been used by grateful families who have written in to say that it put them back on their feet again. Why not? This safe, herbal remedy, so pleasant to taste, was originally a doctor's prescription. It is as good today as it ever was. We can do no more than to advise you. It is up to you to visit your druggist for a bottle of Warner's Compound now. Costs little—and health is worth much. Warner's Safe Remedies Company, Rochester, N. Y.

Ill Health the Great Obstacle to the Woman Of Middle Age

"I was suffering with my stomach as well as otherwise when I was advised to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," said Mrs. Nora Drake of 13 S. Clark St., Fort Scott, Kans. "I took several bottles at that time and it gave me complete relief. I have taken it several times since when I have felt rundown and it always benefited me. It certainly was a great help to me during the trying period of middle life." (Picture above.)

New York Society Plans Elaborate Charty Fete

NEW YORK, March 17.—When King Solomon greets the Queen of Sheba at Madison Square Garden May 2, the socially distinguished audience attending the Charity Carnival that evening will hear paeans of praise sung to the jeweled Queen by a chorus of 200 voices, grouped in symmetrical figures and adorned by oriental costumes. This incident promises to be a high light of the pageant, "The Magic Carpet," being staged by Lila Agnew Stewart, director of presentation.

Mrs. Eugene W. Ong, executive chairman of the carnival, has announced a brilliant Box Committee for the event. Reservations for boxes are now available at the headquarters in the Drake, at $250, $200, $125, according to location.

The box committee consists of Mrs. Myron C. Taylor, Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, Mrs. Arthur B. Claflin, Mrs. William A. Read, Mrs. Arthur Curtis James, Mrs. William A. Rockefeller, Mrs. Edward F. Hutton, Mrs. William B. Leeds, Mrs. Kingore Satterlee, Mrs. Albert G. Milbank, Mrs. Frank Vance Storrs, Mrs. William Jay, Mrs. T. Unrest of Islam Si And Egypt's Dem Endanger Peace

Attitude of Ibn Saud, K ant Issue in Me Lloyd G

By DAVID LL
Wartime Premi

THE British Empire is confr continents—Africa and Asia. center of disturbance after a tion by the Egyptian Nationalist agreed upon previously between Egyptian Ministers has precipitate ments of which cannot be foreseen.

In Mesopotamia, the raids of the Wahabi tribes into territory under British protection already have resulted in the shedding of blood. How serious the situation is or may become in that quarter is not yet quite clear. Has a holy war been proclaimed against the heretics and infidels? If it has been launched, then much depends on whether that formidable Arab potentate, Ibn Saud, has thrown in his lot with the raiders or is acting as a restraining influence on their fanaticism. The desert so far is keeping its secrets to itself.

Both Older Than Britain.

It is not without interest to reflect that this trouble has arisen in two countries which were powerful and highly civilised empires at a time when even the existence of Great Britain was scarcely known. When Abraham left Ur of the Chaldees to wander with his flocks in what is now known as Trans-Jordania, Britain was just a fanciful rumor of a mist-covered island, populated by skin-clad savages. Now Ur is a base for airplanes with which the aviators of that misty island bomb the descendants of those very nomads whom Abraham joined.

The empires of the Assyrians, Egyptians and Hittites are fermenting with strife between the followers of the Prophet who sprang from the loins of the Chaldean bedouin—father of all the warring faithful. Unrest of Islam Since World War And Egypt's Demands for Freedom Endanger Peace of British Empire

Attitude of Ibn Saud, King of Hedjaz, Important Issue in Mesopotamia, Says Lloyd George.

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE.
Wartime Premier of England.

LONDON, March 17.

THE British Empire is confronted with acute trouble in two continents—Africa and Asia. Egypt has once more become a center of disturbance after a period of tranquillity. The rejection by the Egyptian Nationalists of the treaty which had been agreed upon previously between Sir Austen Chamberlain and the Egyptian Ministers has precipitated a conflict, the precise developments of which cannot be foreseen.

In Mesopotamia, the raids of the Wahabi tribes into territory under British protection already have resulted in the shedding of blood. How serious the situation is or may become in that quarter is not yet quite clear. Has a holy war been proclaimed against the heretics and infidels? If it has been launched, then much depends on whether that formidable Arab potentate, Ibn Saud, has thrown in his lot with the raiders or is acting as a restraining influence on their fanaticism. The desert so far is keeping its secrets to itself.

Both Older Than Britain.

It is not without interest to reflect that this trouble has arisen in two countries which were powerful and highly civilized empires at a time when even the existence of Great Britain was scarcely known. When Abraham left Ur of the Chaldees to wander with his flocks in what is now known as Trans-Jordania, Britain was just a fanciful rumor of a mist-covered island, populated by skin-clad savages. Now Ur is a base for airplanes with which the aviators of that misty island bomb the descendants of those very nomads whom Abraham joined.

The empires of the Assyrians, Egyptians and Hittites are fermenting with strife between the followers of the Prophet who sprang from the loins of the Chaldean bedouin—father of all the warring faithful. Their respective adherents are rallying to conflict on the plains grazed by Abraham's flocks. The most redoubtable combatants come from rivers he never heard of and encamp on the banks of the Euphrates and the Jordan, where he watered his ewes.

Unrest Is War Reaction.

It is suggested by the French press that these disturbances indicate a concerted movement among Mohammedans everywhere against the British Empire. There is no doubt that the Mohammendan world is restless and disaffected. There are more than 150,000,000 Mussulmans in the world. The World War, which emancipated Christian nations, has not brought freedom to the followers of the Prophet in any continent. Hence the unrest.

France has had its share of the consequent trouble in Morocco and in Syria. France has insured submission to its authority after having waged two costly wars. The British Empire, as the greatest Mohammedan power on earth, could not expect to escape. Britain exercises dominion over between 80,000,000 and 90,000,000 Mussulmans.

The agitation in India is not mainly Mohammedan in its origin. Its character is more nationalist than religious, although religion plays a part in the forces of discontent. The disturbances in Egypt and Mesopotamia also are prompted by motives partly religious and partly racial.

Egypt Demands Rights.

Egypt demands full sovereignty within its own borders, free from any control, interference, restriction or military occupation on the part of Britain or any other foreign power. Egypt also demands restoration of its sovereign rights over the Sudan.

The freedom and independence which the Egyptians claim for themselves so clamorously they are as vociferously deny to the Sudanese. Still, that is only saying that Egyptian patriotism is just of the same brand as any and every other. I could furnish endless precedents and examples of this characteristic without recourse to history, ancient or modern.

Britain is prepared to concede complete independence to Egypt in so far as its internal affairs are concerned, but insists on maintaining an army of occupation on Egyptian soil to protect the lines of communication between the East and West, which are so vital to the existence of the British Empire.

Unwilling to Lose Sudan.

As to the Sudan, which was reconquered by a British force under Lord Kitchener after it had freed itself from Egyptian rule, Britain is not prepared to relinquish its authority and position in that territory. There are other outstanding points of difference, but these would all be capable of adjustment.

The one question where the British and Egyptian points of view cannot be reconciled is that of the presence of a British military force on Egyptian territory. The British Government is prepared to leave the actual location of that force to the decision of the League of Nations, but the Egyptian Nationalists insist that as long as foreign troops are encamped anywhere on Egyptian soil, Egypt cannot be free and independent in reality. Their leaders, therefore, regarded the evacuation of Egypt by British troops as the sine qua non of any agreement with Britain.

On the other hand, British Governments of every complexion are in accord in resisting this demand. When Ramsay Macdonald was in office, he was just as emphatic on this point as either his coalition predecessors or his Conservative successors.

Macdonald Refused Plea.

In his dispatch to the great Egyptian Nationalist leader, Zagloul Pasha, Macdonald recalled the experience of the European war, when British communications with the East were threatened by a Turkish force which attacked the Suez Canal and stated: "No British Government, in the light of that experience, can divest itself wholly, even in favor of an ally, of its interest in guarding such a vital link in British communications as the Suez Canal. Such security must be a feature of any agreement come to between our two Governments and I see no reason why accommodation is impossible, given good will.

"The effective co-operation of Great Britain and Egypt in protecting those communications, might, in my view, have been insured by the conclusion of a treaty of close alliance. The presence of a British force in Egypt, provided for by such treaty, freely entered into by both parties on equal footing, would in no way be incompatible with Egyptian independence, whilst it would be an indication of the specially close and intimate relations between the two countries and their determination to co-operate in a matter of vital concern to both.

"It is not the wish of His Majesty's Government that this force should in any way interfere with the functions of the Egyptian Government or encroach upon Egyptian sovereignty and I emphatically said so."

This very fairly represents the

Fugitive Oil Millionaire, James O'Neil, Once a "Roughneck," Not Likely to Talk

"It Would Be Against His Code" to Tell Anything Now About Circumstances of Continental Deal, Former Associate Declares.

Kansas Acquaintances See in His Voluntary Exile the Act of a Man Who Stands by His Friends, Undeserving Though They Be.

By FREDERICK H. BRENNAN.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

INDEPENDENCE, Kan., March 17.

JAMES E. O'NEIL, the big oil man, has a secret. It is not uncommon for big oil men in these days of senatorial investigations to have secrets. But the secret that is kept by Jim O'Neil is so very mysterious and of such apparently dangerous potentialities that he has chosen exile from his native land rather than tell it.

In this town, where Jim O'Neil made his pile, where almost single-handed he built up on the Kansas prairie that colossus of white stone, derricks and pipe lines and preferred stocks known as the 'steen million dollar Prairie Oil & Gas Co., folks are bewildered by the oil baron's behavior.

Knowing Jim O'Neil, they realize what it must cost him to be another "man without a country." Jim O'Neil, big, brawny, two-fisted Irishman was not cut out to be a hideaway in France and Italy. Jim O'Neil never hid from anything before in his life. His hair is reddish brown and his eyes are bright blue and tradition credits him, hereabouts, with being as forthright a fellow as ever bossed a pack of roughnecks in the oil fields. He stands six feet two and has a laugh to match; he was one of the giants of the pay dirt, the princes of petroleum.

Once a War Worker, Now an Exile from U. S.

Yet he has chosen to leave the good old U. S. A., an incredible choice. For Jim O'Neil loved his country, they say. When he made speeches at oil men's conventions in Tulsa or Galveston his slogan was "America First." He worked for the Government during the war, a dollar-a-year man who helped to get oil to the allied navies. America first! That was the sort of talk Jim O'Neil liked.

But more than country, perhaps, he loved his friends. He was a mixer, a back slapper, a digger-in-the-ribs and a great jokesmith. He liked his gang. He was at home wherever oil men pow-wowed; in private cars, in directors' meetings, where leases were gambled in and gushers were capped and coupons clipped, there Jim O'Neil held forth right royally.

Why did he pull up stakes and sneak off to Europe in 1923? Why has he remained abroad since then, wandering from France to Italy and back again to France? Why has he cut himself off from his country and his friends?

Home Friends Wonder What Secret Can Be.

Here in Independence "the boys" can only speculate as to his secret. The prevailing theory is that the secret concerns bonds in the Continental Trading Co., Ltd., of Canada, that dummy corporation the profits of which were used in part by Harry Sinclair and his crowd to bribe Albert B. Fall in the leasing of Teapot Dome and to weight down the war chest of the Grand Old Party.

It is known, now, that Fall got $233,000 of Continental bonds and that $160,000 found their way through Will Hays and others into the Republican campaign fund. It is known, also, that Jim O'Neil was in on the Continental Trading Co. deal with Sinclair and others; that he got $800,000 as his share of the profits; that his conscience hurt him and he paid the money back to his own company, the Prairie. Just how much O'Neil knows about what happened to the rest of the Continental bonds and why he fears a subpena from the Investigating Committee are matters of speculation among the oil crowd who knew him.

But they all agree, seemingly, that O'Neil is living in exile not to save himself, but to protect some members of the gang. His creed was loyalty; loyalty to the last ditch. When Jim shook hands with you and bellowed: "How's tricks, old friend?" he meant it. When he went into a deal he never squawked afterwards.

Friends Say His Code Keeps O'Neil Abroad.

For this code, those who knew him say, he has forsaken the presidency of the Prairie Oil & Gas Co., his handsome estate at Garden City, Long Island, his friendships and his citizenship, to wander about Europe. With him, sharing his exile most of the time, are his wife, two daughters and a son.

One of O'Neil's closest friends is W. Samuel Fitzpatrick, chairman of the board of the Prairie Oil & Gas Co., who lives in Independence. The Investigating Committee summoned Fitzpatrick to Washington in February to tell what he knew about the Continental bonds. With a candor which amazed Senators Walsh and Nye, the Prairie chairman laid bare the details of Jim O'Neil's participation in the Continental steal.

Oil Millionaire in Exile

JAMES E. O'NEIL

He described how in May, 1925, O'Neil summoned him to Montreal and there confessed that he had got $800,000 profits from the Continental deal. O'Neil and Sinclair and other associates in the Continental had bought 33,333,333 barrels of oil for $1.50 a barrel and had sold them to the Prairie and to the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Co., owned by Sinclair and the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, for $1.75 a barrel. Thus O'Neil had, by selling to his own company at a profit, cleaned up $800,000. Conscience stricken, O'Neil made arrangements with Fitzpatrick at the Montreal conference to return his profits to the Prairie Oil & Gas Co.

Fitzpatrick Frank in Telling of "Jim" O'Neil.

Senators Walsh and Nye complimented Fitzpatrick on his frankness. The genial executive showed the same apparent frankness in discussing Jim O'Neil with the correspondent. The interview took place in the office of the chairman of the board in the Prairie's general office building here. It is an enormous structure of white stone, thrust castlelike against the March bleakness of a little Kansas town. A place where millions made in oil have been spent with a casual and lavish hand on marble corridors and mahogany desks and carpets two inches thick.

To Fitzpatrick the interviewer put the question: "What happened to Jim O'Neil that sent him into exile?"

"I don't know," he replied. "I have thought along any number of lines but they are just theories. I love O'Neil. Knowing his character, his honesty and his religion, it seems incredible that he should be concealing anything of danger to himself."

"Has it something to do with the Continental deal?"

Fitzpatrick smiled.

Associate Praises Returning of Money.

"That would be just a theory, too. I think that in the Continental deal Jim's foot slipped. A great many men let their foot slip just once. But few ever return the money. O'Neil did that, remember. It was a very fine thing and I honor him for it."

Returning to the events preceding O'Neil's disappearance in 1923, Fitzpatrick related:

"O'Neil had been in bad health for some years prior to his leaving. He went abroad several times and found a place in France where he believed he might get relief from his high blood pressure. He did a great deal of traveling to doctors abroad. I would say he had doctoritis. O'Neil resigned as president of the Prairie in September, 1923, and I think it was during the holidays that winter he went abroad. He gave ill health as the reason and we thought there was nothing more.

"Early in 1924 I got a letter from him in Paris saying he was lonely. He suggested that I and several of the boys come over to visit him. The oil investigation was under way at that time and I thought someone ought to stay on the job here. So Clark Kountz, Nelson Moody and Dana Kelsey made the trip and I stayed behind. When they returned they said that O'Neil had expressly wanted to see me and was greatly disappointed that I had not come.

"Later, he wrote me he wanted to see me me and in 1925 I had bought my passage for the trip. I got a telegram in May asking me to meet him in Montreal instead. I went to Montreal and he told me about the Continental deal. It was an entire surprise to me. I did not know when we bought the oil from the Continental that O'Neil had any connection with it. I thought we got the oil at a good price. They told me they wanted to handle it in the name of the Continental rather than any American companies, and that seemed perfectly agreeable to me.

"When O'Neil explained how the deal had been managed and that he wanted to give his profits to the Prairie, I credited him with an honest and remarkable act. I asked him if he had any connection with the Teapot Dome or if he knew what had happened to the rest of the Continental profits. He said he did not want to talk about that. I questioned him no further."

Fitzpatrick was told about a report from Paris that O'Neil had been suffering from attacks of conscience and had been traveling about Italy in search of some religious retreat.

Doubts O'Neil Ever Will Tell His Story.

The interviewer suggested that O'Neil might decide to return to the United States and make a clean breast of the matter before the Investigating Committee. At this Fitzgerald grinned;

"I don't think so," he said. "O'Neil is not particularly religious. It would be against his code to do such a thing. He already has sacrificed too much, if he is keeping a secret, to come back now and disclose it. Whatever struggle he has been having is either won or lost now. It would be silly for me to think, knowing the man, of his return."

Neither Fitzpatrick nor Moody, who is president, and Kelsey, vice president of the Prairie, nor Kountz, president of the Prairie Pipe Line Co., has heard from O'Neil recently. Fitzpatrick said he had not received a letter from him for more than two years. Apparently the exile has shut himself off from all his friends in Independence.

As an admiring friend, Fitzpatrick spoke of O'Neil's career:

"I came to the Prairie as general counsel in 1908. I was in close contact with O'Neil for 14 years. We traveled together and ate and slept together. He was my friend and I cannot believe that he is covering up anything to shield himself. I prefer to think that whatever it is that makes him keep to a self-imposed exile, springs from his great sense of loyalty to his friends. A more loyal man never lived. Loyalty is a rare virtue, and I honor that in O'Neil.

Came to Kansas in 1905 In Charge of Company.

"O'Neil came to Kansas in 1905. He had been with the Ohio Oil Co., a branch of the Standard Oil. He was sent out here by the Standard to settle a trouble that had arisen. The Prairie Oil Co., which was the branch of the Standard then operating in this field, had no franchise to erect refineries or lay pipe lines. The Prairie was organized and obtained a franchise covering all activities. O'Neil took charge of the new company.

"His greatest talents lay in the production phase of the oil business. Jim O'Neil can look at a flow of oil and study the thickness of the sand and come nearer to judging the producing possibilities of that particular field than any oil man I ever saw. He was genial and liberal and a great hand at managing men. His judgment of men was such that among the 4000 employes of the Prairie, not one has ever been bounded and no regular employe has ever caused the company the loss of a nickel. That stands to this day.

"O'Neil saw the workingman's side of things. He had worked as a roughneck in the oil fields of Pennsylvania himself. When struggling independent operators would bring in a well and call for pipe lines, O'Neil sent out his crews on the double quick. He would push a crew night and day to get a line to a poor devil's well and prevent wastage of his oil. He made a great number of individual loans to oil operators to tide them over tight pinches. In the early days, employers' liability was a much vaguer proposition in law than it is now. But O'Neil saw to it that his men got a square deal.

"For instance a man would come in with a smashed finger. He would want a thou-

It's Smith Against the Field, With Favorite Sons an Unknown Quantity in Democratic Race

Friends Think He'll Enter Convention With 500 of Necessary 734 Votes—Reed and Walsh Next, Aided by G. O. P. Corruption.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 17.

ON the Republican side, as pointed out in this correspondence last Sunday, the race for the presidential nomination is between Hoover and the field of other candidates, with the field maneuvering to bring about a convention deadlock that will kill off the leader; on the Democratic side the race is between Gov. Smith and the field, but with the important difference that there is no coalition of candidates such as the Lowden-Dawes-Willis-Watson combination among the Republicans.

In the relative positions of the aspirants, the two races are similar. Smith is as far out in front at this stage as Hoover. Trailing Smith are Senators Reed and Walsh, in places comparable to those of the Lowden-Dawes partnership and of Senator Curtis. Back in the ruck is a small army of favorite sons, the Democratic counterparts (but only as regards their status in the race) of Willis and Watson.

It looks today to most observers as if Smith will be nominated. Certainly he will go into the convention with by far the largest block of delegates controlled by a candidate. He will have, his supporters say, some 400 delegates on the first ballot, and a hundred more whenever his managers call for them. If these estimates are correct, he will very shortly in the balloting come close to a majority —551 votes. To win the nomination he must get 734, or two-thirds. There is no longer any talk, incidentally, of an attempt to abrogate the two-thirds rule.

The Democratic fight cannot be reduced to simple terms; there are too many imponderables in it. But two distinct movements, both prejudicial, but not necessarily fatal to the chances of Gov. Smith, are discernible. One of these is the massing of favorite-son candidates as a screen behind which large blocks of delegates can be hidden till their leaders decide which way to throw them. The other is the present strong movement toward making G. O. P. corruption the paramount issue of the campaign.

Big Crop of Favorite Sons.

How do these tendencies bear upon the candidacy of Gov. Smith? Take first that familiar device of presidential politics—the bringing forward of favorite sons. It means in this case that the South and sections of the West are still not on the Smith band wagon. They may go to him eventually, but meantime they have dug themselves in for a possible battle to line up against him one more than one-third of the delegates.

Rarely has there been a larger crop of favorite sons. Consider the list: Gov. Byrd of Virginia, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Evans Woollen of Indiana, Representative Cordell Hull of Tennessee, Senator George of Georgia, Gov. Angus McLean of North Carolina, Senator Barkley of Kentucky. And there may be others that the writer for the moment has overlooked.

In a different category are the favorite-son candidacies of former Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska and of former Senator Pomerene of Ohio, for there is believed to be a great deal of genuine Smith sentiment in both those states, and most decidedly different is the candidacy of the attractive Ritchie of Maryland, whose delegates will go to Smith whenever the latter wants them.

South an Uncertain Quantity.

No one now can tell whether the Southern delegates, entrenched at present behind their favorite sons, will plump with good grace for Smith if and when the time comes; or whether they will turn the convention into a shambles and then let him have a worthless nomination, or whether they will give an equally worthless nomination to somebody else.

There is the further possibility that Reed or Walsh may get the nomination under circumstances that will not antagonize the Smith forces—and nobody can speak with any authority about that either. Anything, as has been shown, may happen in the highly individualistic Democratic party. The point is, for present purposes, that the array of favorite sons is a cloud on the Smith horizon; it may fade away, or it may bring on the deluge.

Corruption as an Issue.

Now as to the other threat. It is apparent from developments in Congress that the Democratic leaders are going to bear down with increasing force on Republican corruption. There is full and unhappy realization among them that they used that issue in vain four years ago, but they believe that the recent exposures in the oil investigation have given it new potency. They believe that at last the country is shocked by what has been going on in the best G. O. P. circles, including that inner Cabinet circle about the President.

Corruption is, indeed, the logical and perhaps the dominant issue for the Democrats to stress. But how does that affect the candidacy of Gov. Smith? It affects it by altering somewhat the psychology of the campaign.

Gov. Smith has come into the foreground partly because of his wetness, partly because of his enormous personal popularity, partly because of his great record as Governor of New York, and not because of his championship of any issue that sharply divides the Democratic from the Republican party.

Now if corruption becomes an overshadowing issue, it can be argued that the ideal candidate is either Senator Reed or Senator Walsh, the two men who, above all others in the United States, have done most to expose corruption in high places. Gov. Smith, of course, could run on that issue. He is a conspicuous exponent of cleanness in government. But the changed psychology undoubtedly works to the advantage of Reed and Walsh. I do not mean to imply that the change is or will be sufficient to put one of them over as the nominee. I set it down merely as a campaign development that is causing a good deal of speculation in the camps of the several candidates.

Smith Not Personally Active.

The Smith campaign, say the Governor's supporters, is making good headway, and there is every reason to believe that this is so. Among those Democrats who object to his wetness or his religion, or both, the argument is effectively used that he is the one Democrat with a chance to win. All this is an old story; everybody has heard by this time all that can be said about the political assets and liabilities of Gov. Smith.

What is not so well known is the fact, for which Smith's friends in Washington vouch, that he himself is taking no hand whatever in the campaign. He is, they say, attending strictly to his job as Governor. He will have the legislature on his hands till near the end of the month and for 30 days and after that he will be considering bills put up to him for approval. After that he may or may not declare himself on some of the national and international issues of the day.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The High Cost of Financing Homes.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE Post-Dispatch should be appreciated for its efforts to conserve the interests of the public utility investors against gamblers in utility securities, and to assure utility customers of good service at reasonable rates.

However, there are costs of living much more important than costs of utility services. We do not eat, drink, or live within electricity. The average bill for domestic electric service will run from $1.50 to $2.00 a month. A reduction of even 50 per cent in this bill would not be of material importance to the average family. I make bold to state that if all utility services were made free, they would all be appropriated by landlords and land owners, made part of housing and land values, and never would reach the ultimate consumer.

On the other hand, rent or costs of housing constitute 17 to 20 per cent of the average family expenditure for living.

Electric, gas, water, telephone, and transportation costs constitute about 6 per cent of all costs of living; food 45 per cent; housing 21 per cent. It is to the importance of housing costs that I would respectfully direct the attention of the Post-Dispatch.

Writing in the Atlantic Monthly for March, Arthur C. Holden, consultant architect to the New York State Board of Housing, an authority on the subject, states that the costs of providing housing are: Labor 26½ per cent; materials 25 per cent; land and improvements, streets, sewers, etc., 21½ per cent; original financing costs only, 27 per cent.

These original financing costs do not include renewal charges on notes, mortgages, etc., which Mr. Holden states sometimes make the cost of financing 35 to 40 per cent of all costs of providing housing. The items contained in a house sold for $6000 are: Labor $1590, materials $1290, land and improvements $1290, original financing $1620. Renewals of second and third mortgages may make financing cost $2000 to $2400.

It may be maintained that so-called land values are largely made up of public utilities values, that land possesses only nominal value for urban housing until it has water, electric, telephone, gas, and transportation service. The land speculator seizes upon the values which the utility service confers upon land and adds them to the low values of the raw product (land). What the housing promoter really sells is not land, but the availability of public utility services. This is an economic point to which I would like to see the Post-Dispatch lend the talent of its editorial staff.

Are there not some means by use of which it may be possible to reduce the costs of financing housing?

Likes Chain Programs.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WITH the exception of a few, the only good radio programs come over the chains and not one of these can be classed as "bunk," as H. L. Leu puts it. Surely no one would call "bunk" the programs that come from our Nation's capital. All good programs should and do originate in New York, chiefly because almost all the new radio attractions are started there, also for the reason that nearly all the large corporations capable of giving this superior entertainment are located in the East.

Concerning advertising, very little of this is done over the chains, only a few words to let the listener know who is furnishing the program, given each quarter hour or so. I think this small amount of advertising is rather educational—certainly not boring. I also add that, with a good receiver, one can get other than chain programs if he wants them. My definition of a first-class radio station is one that sends out only first-class programs—a station such as KSD.

What the Democrats Must Do.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I WRITE to commend you on the able, courageous and fearless way you are conducting your paper—the editorial page especially. It just bristles with good things politically and good old Fitzpatrick's pictures tell more than whole written pages sometimes do.

I noted your editorial on Jim Reed. I liked very much what you said. It's all right to show up the awful iniquities of the Republican party, but if the Democrats hope to win the next election they will have to do more than that. We will have to go before the people with a clear-cut, constructive program, and not sidestep or evade any vital issue.

Of course, prohibition is a tender spot and should be handled carefully and with tact. But let's face the music and not wabble. The tariff, farm relief and tax reduction are all vital issues. Pernicious bureaucratic government with all its untold evils and results should be kept before the country.

The party platform should be concise, clear-cut and short. The people won't read a platform, no matter how good, that is drowned in a sea of words.

J. T. JONES.

Queen City, Mo.

A NEW RICHMOND ON THE RIVER.

It has been one of the auguries of river development that the success of the Government operation upon the Mississippi and its tributaries would bring private operators into the field, and this is exactly what is happening. The American Barge Line Co. is operating out of New Orleans this spring upon a 15-day schedule. It is capitalized at $1,500,000, and operates five towboats and 50 barges.

Launching a barge line upon the river is an entirely different matter now than it was before the Federal barge line was established. It was not want of water that destroyed such enterprises, nor was it because they were not needed. It was a matter of rates. A barge line cannot exist unless it is a part of the whole fabric of transportation. That is, river transportation must be consolidated with the railroads. It must have joint rail and river rates. When it did not have them the railroads could confine the river business to river towns, and by cutting rates they eventually drove the water carriers away from those. For instance, no barge line predating the Government operation was able to issue such a statement as that just made by an official of the American Barge Co.:

> For the past six years the Inland Waterways Co. has been operating boats and barges on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers under joint freight rates with the Louisville & Nashville, Illinois Central, Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis and Southern railroads. The new company will have not only the benefit of these rates, but will be in a position to negotiate such rates with all of the other railroads in the Ohio Valley and Mississippi River territory. Any contracts are subject to the terms of the uniform bill of lading, and we shall be glad to have any shippers or consignees communicate so that rates can be established for them—especially for those who are now interested in large quantity movements.

Only the United States Government could create such a condition as that. It had the resources with which to make the fight until the necessary rate structure could be set up. That has been the justification of the Federal operation. It is the justification for it now. How little all of that was understood in the days when ill-advised operators launched their barges with disaster beckoning them on?

It is possible that the Government will retire from the operation upon the inland rivers. When and if it does, there will be plenty of private operators to take care of the business. They will enjoy the security established for them by the Federal operation. What that will mean upon the rivers in the next 25 years may be guessed from the complaint made by a delegation of big river shippers which called upon Mr. Coolidge a few months ago. These men said there is already three times as much freight on the rivers as the Federal barges can carry, though the river revival is only 10 years old!

A WOMANLESS THEATER.

Mr. St. John Ervine, the English dramatist and critic, announces with considerable gusto that if he had his way, which of course he hasn't, no woman under 40 would be permitted to enter the theater, and even those above that age would gain entrance but rarely and then only after being submitted to a close examination.

Can it be that Mr. Ervine is going out of the business of playwriting? Or has he ceased to be interested in such mundane pleasantries as royalties? Or does he very well realize that what he says won't make the slightest difference to the ladies or to the producers?

What the movies have done to the theater would be but a genial pat compared to the punch the stage would get if a "no admittance" sign were hung out for its women customers. Matinees would be an institution confined to history, the evening performances would have all the color of a cake of ice, and where would be all those gentlemen who only arrive at the theater at the command of their insistent wives? And as to those ladies above 40 who could pass the examination, how many ladies are there who are above 40?

Well, perhaps Mr. Ervine has considered all these possible calamities and perhaps he still wishes he had his way. A very charming way to prove it would be to donate to any women's organization or organizations he sees fit about 60 per cent of his royalties from the theater, i. e., the approximate amount, we suspect, the ladies have put into the gentleman's coffers.

KNIGHTS AND THEIR METTLE.

After all, it is not surprising that a Columbia University professor has discovered that the armor worn by knights of old was pretty poor stuff, shoddy and moth-eaten, or whatever it is that is wrong with inferior goods of that sort. It is in keeping with the things that are being found out these days about the men who lived in the long ago. Smashing illusions concerning the past is the popular pastime of the moment. Everybody is doing it. It has come to this, that nobody now believes that anything way back was what it was cracked up to be. If the knights' hardware partook of the general inferiority of the period in which it was worn, nothing else was to be expected.

It cannot be allowed that, as has been suggested, the knights who fared forth in junk armor were therefore the more bold. It is not to be supposed that the knights knew anything about it. It has taken all this while for us to find out about it. If the knights had known it they would have said something about it. When a knight came home with his helmet stove in and his thigh plates all out of place, he would not have failed to blame it on the imperfections of his metal, rather than upon the prowess of some other knight. As an alibi it could not have been improved upon. But there is no known instance of a knight having complained of his accouterment or of having called for a senatorial investigation.

No, the fact is that the knights were about on a par with their armor. Nothing much to brag about. If they had really been as bold as the storybooks tell they would not have gone about looking like tinshops to keep from getting hurt. In these days plain citizens go forth unarmored to face greater perils on land and sea than were ever dreamed of by the metal-draped knights of old.

THE NORRIS RESOLUTION.

In passing the Norris resolution for government retention of Muscle Shoals, the Senate has paved the way for an eminently sensible settlement. For seven years or more Congress has struggled with Muscle Shoals. In 1922 the Ford offer for the property took the House of Representatives by storm, but luckily was blocked by the Senate. About that offer, it need only be said that it was a wonderful business proposition for Ford. Since then, a multitude of suggestions has been made, and Congress has veered this way and that, indicating its lack of understanding of this important question.

If it had not been for Senator Norris, no one knows what crack-brained plan might have been adopted. For several years he has stood adamant in his belief that it would be folly to sell or lease for a song a property that cost the taxpayers more than a hundred million dollars. With little help from others, Norris has made a gallant and resourceful fight to conserve Muscle Shoals, and it is gratifying that the Senate has at last rewarded his patience and intelligence by adopting his plan.

Norris' fight, however, is only half won. His resolution now goes to the House, and its past record on Muscle Shoals legislation by no means encourages hope that it will follow the Senate's lead. The contrary is rather true, especially since a new complication has arisen. We refer to the power lobby, which is now doing yeoman service in Washington. One of the major aims of the power lobby is to defeat government retention of Muscle Shoals. This is largely because the operation of a great Government power plant there would serve as a check upon the rates and costs of private power plants.

We may expect to see the power lobby swing into action against the Norris resolution in the House. Only an informed and aggressive public opinion can counteract its great influence.

GREEN MAGIC.

Up in Vermont the sap is beginning to creep upward in the maples, and soon the rite of "sugaring-off" will be observed. Down South the baseball players are limbering up and news from the training camps begin to spread over the sporting pages and onto the news reels. Geese have been observed for past weeks on their hegira to the North. Income-tax day passed with appalling speed; tulips flood the florists' windows. Soon the man at the corner will appear with bunches of arbutus and violets. There will be a faint green smoke on the trees in Forest Park. The light overcoat will be taken from the back of the closet, appraised as to its ability to get through another season, and the question raised whether, after all, the furnace man should not get it.

The miracle is happening again, and the spirit of man, like the sap in the maple, goes up and up as the release approaches. Is it any wonder that poets plunk the typewriter with unwonted zest? Next to love, spring has doubtless furnished more inspiration for them than any other subject. It is a meager soul that cannot respond to the vernal change—a sad dog it is who refuses to feel the lift and lilt of it. It creeps into Pershing avenue suites de luxe; it comes tiptoeing into a tenement and a pale child reaches out its arms, and a new and pervasive restlessness makes itself known.

And the magic is this, that a bursting bud can clip years from one's life.

THE REFORMATION IN INDIANA.

There is a notion floating about that since Indiana started sending her political miscreants to jail a great reformation has been taking place in her politics. Among other things, it is said, the ancient boss rule of her parties is nowhere in evidence.

Those who advance this point to the candidacy of Frank C. Daily for Governor as proof. Mr. Daily, they remind us, started out as district attorney by sending election corruptionists to jail, and he was chief prosecutor in the notorious Newberry case. Thus he offers Hoosiers just what they need at present. When a man of his sort can be regarded as a sure bet for the governorship over all others regardless of party, bossism must surely be slipping.

That, of course, sounds lovely. But it is only half the story. Thomas Taggart, for years pooh-bah of Indiana Democracy, is still present. Just now he is out to have the Indiana delegation to the Houston convention pledged to an Indianapolis banker whose entire political distinction is that he was defeated for the Senate by a Republican. Mr. Taggart, that is, wants to tie up the delegation, as he has been doing since anyone can recall, and trade it to the highest bidder when oportunity opens her magic portals.

If the Democrats of Indiana permit Mr. Taggart to do this, and they see their State ticket go down to defeat because another weak sister gets the presidential nomination, they will, of course, have nobody to blame but themselves. But that is only one point. The big problem, it seems, will be how to persuade Hoosiers that they are being offered a reformation in government so long as political bosses of the old school are able to perform their ancient tricks.

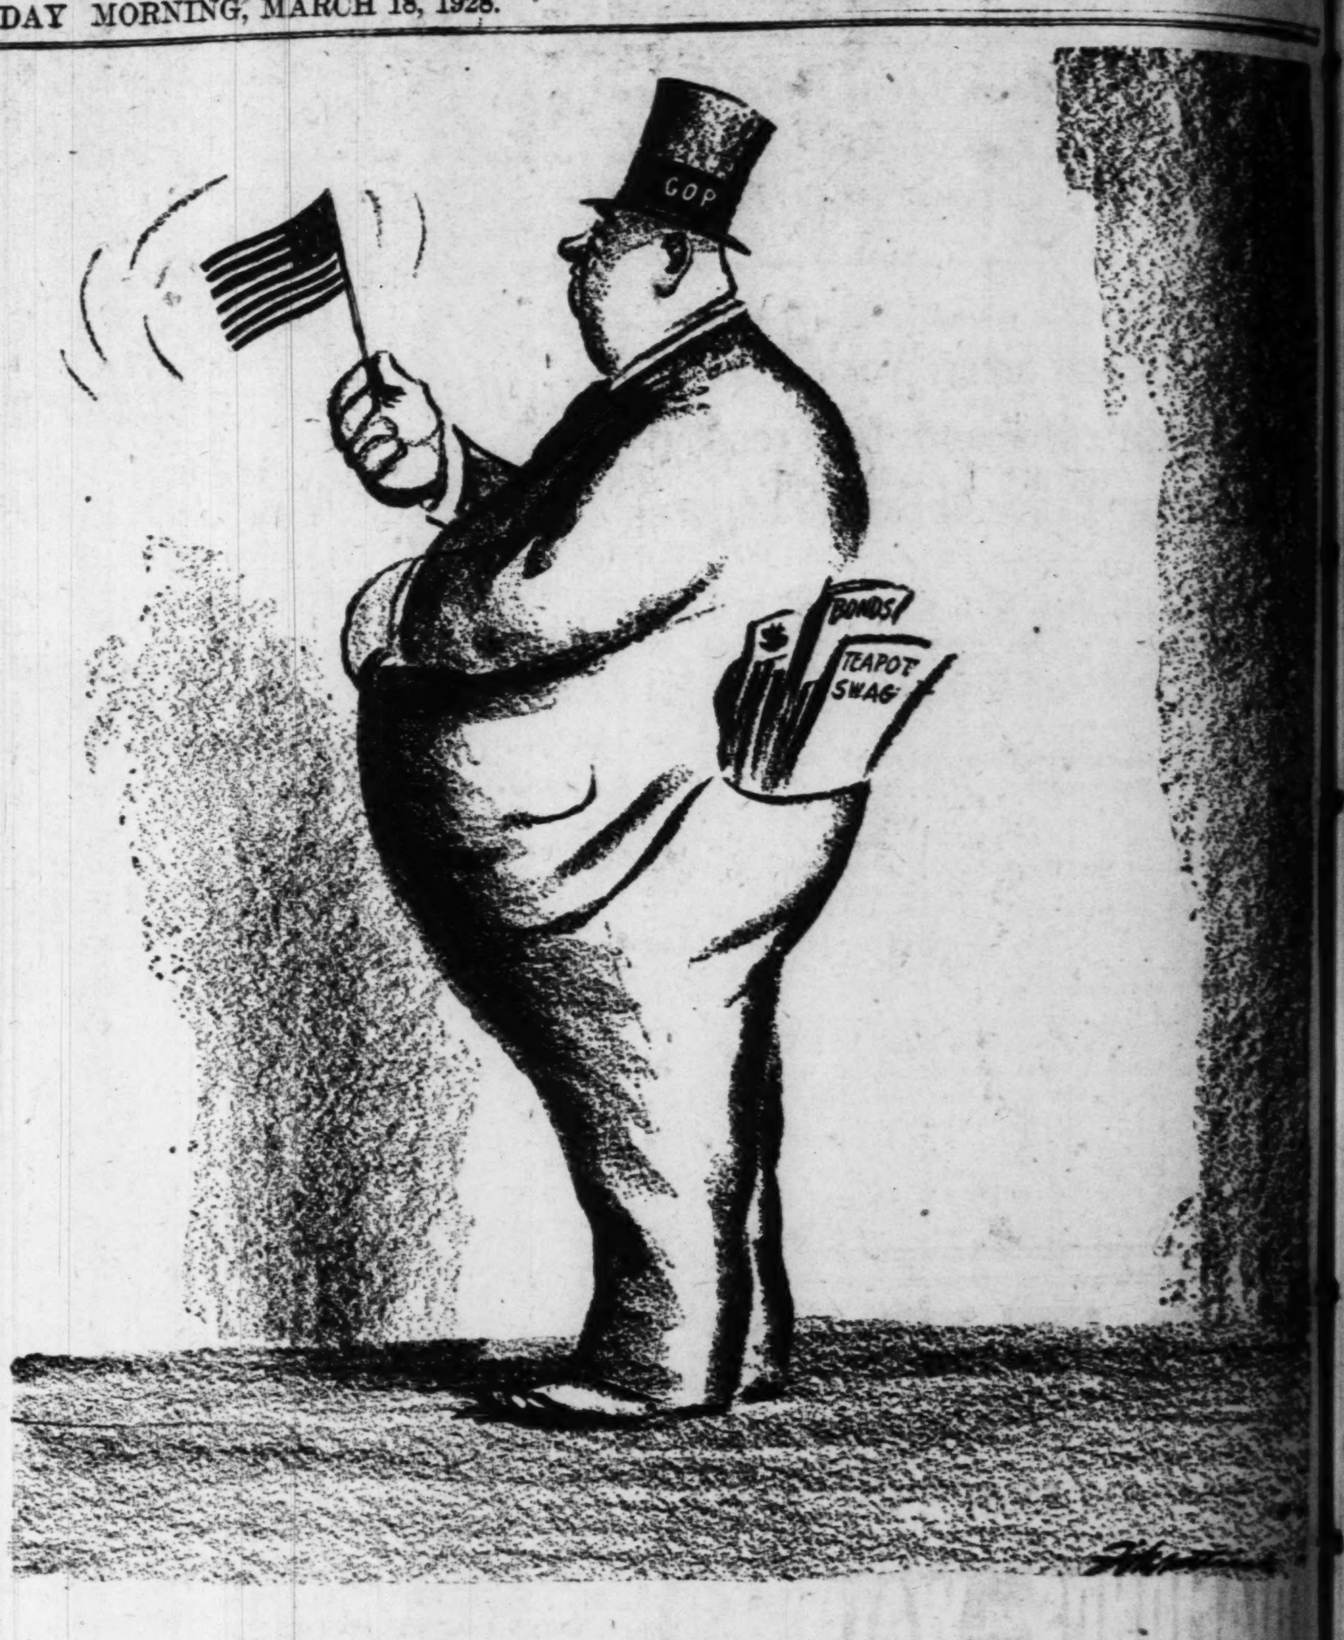
SOMEBODY ELSE, NOT US.

Dr. M. B. Furse, Bishop of St. Albans in England, casts an eye on modern inventions and then wags a doubtful tongue. Our scientific discoveries cause the Bishop to become dubious; he fears they haven't brought happiness to the race; he plaintively reports that the only place he can find privacy these days is in his bath.

"I view with great trepidation," he solemnly announces, "the coming of the day when by television my morning ablutions will be reflected on the screen for the entertainment of the American public."

As usual, "the entertainment of the American public." Why not the Australian public, the Afghanistan public, why not even the English public? We admit the Bishop is correct in his indictment of all the modern means of putting a man in a figurative glass house; we admit that America has done its share of privacy-dispelling work; we admit that these United States have developed a pretty fair sense of humor; we admit that we are, to some appreciable degree, entertainment mad. But we absolutely refuse to admit that the American citizen is any more interested in observing an ecclesiastical ablution than anybody else. And despite the Rev. Dr. Furse's holy office, we don't believe our police would admit it. The Bishop had better get his television connected up with Paris.



THE PHARISEE.

The Curse of the Coal Towns

From The Nation

SOPHIA DULLES and Edith Coale, of the American Friends' Service Committee, sought, in Barnesboro, Pa., to find people who would handle and distribute clothes for the barefoot children of striking miners. It was difficult, because they were two, and when they spoke to a third person they violated a regulation prohibiting three people from meeting on a street leading to a mine.

The coal towns, the Senate Investigating Committee headed by Senator Gooding says, are "a blotch upon American civilization." The curse of the coal towns is that they do not seem even to be a part of American civilization. They are outlawed and forgotten. The "swinish" conditions which appal the Senators did not grow up in the winter of 1927-1928. They have existed since the coal towns were born. They were brought before the public in the harsh days of the 1919 strike, when the United Mine Workers hopefully brought their Plumb Plan for reorganization of the industry to public attention; they were thrust into our consciousness again in 1922-1923 when a coal strike which succeeded in causing a coal shortage stirred an apathetic President to appoint a Federal Coal Commission, which made a good but long-since-forgotten report. The coal miners have a right to think of themselves as something less than Americans. They live as serfs, denied the fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States, harnessed to a broken-down industrial machine.

AMERICA cannot afford to permit these enclaves of feudalism to continue. The issues are not local. The fight to destroy the miners' union, which has been their only bulwark, is part of a national industrial policy. Samuel Untermyer testified before a Senate committee in 1921 that the industrial policy which keeps the coalfields unorganized—and, one may add today, which has been disorganizing fields that had been organized—is dictated primarily by the United States Steel Corporation and its allied interests, backed by banking groups centering in J. P. Morgan & Co. Resistance to trade unionism is the essence of their industrial policy, as reflected in the Steel Corporation and the Pennsylvania Railroad. Their subsidiary companies dominate the nonunion districts, and, one and all, they fight every hint of union organization.

Winthrop D. Lane drew a graphic picture of these citadels of industrial despotism in 1923. In the coal towns > everything is owned by the company that is extracting the coal. They stand on company land; they were built by the company; the store, the movie theater, the amusement hall, the little bank, if there is one, the cafe, the ice cream parlor—all are run by the company. The school is often a company-built project, and so is the church; sometimes the company supplements the salary of the teacher and helps to maintain the minister. Roads leading through the town are private property. Not infrequently the postoffice is a corner of the company store and the man who sells crackers and meat is the postmaster. These towns are not incorporated. The company is responsible for whatever exists in the nature of a public utility—the supply of water, the lighting, the sanitation, and so forth.

Company houses are often mere prisons. Employes of a Somerset County (Pa.) coal company sign leases which forbid them to harbor anyone objectionable to the coal company. A Fayette County lease provides that the tenant may not receive at his home anyone except physicians attending his sick family, draymen moving him to or from the house, or undertakers! Traveling salesmen entering these prison villages have to obtain written permission from the coal company overlords. Even on such terms the miners are not safe in residence. Their leases often force them to contract out from the protection of State laws which give them the right to appear in court before being evicted from their homes. Company-ridden courts have even enjoined miners from establishing tent colonies or barracks near the homes from which they have been evicted.

There is no government in these kingdoms of coal except that of the coal companies. Officials, police, courts are instruments of coal company policy. Sheriff Don Chafin of Logan County, West Virginia, told a Senate commission in 1923 that the coal companies had been supplying the county with its police force for 11 years; and company officials boldly asserted that they kept union organizers out of their bailiwicks just as the New York police kept known criminals above the "dead line." One Sheriff during the 1922-1923 strike supplied the companies with 6180 deputies—a little army paid by the companies but sworn in as officials of government. Today, in 1928, United States Senators have been discovering that this system still goes on undisturbed.

IN FACT, the miners are worse off now than when the Federal Coal Commission issued its report in 1923. The shortage past, the public went to sleep again. Coal has been overproduced; new mines have been opened; and the union has lost territory; whereas in 1919 three-quarters of the soft coal production of the country was union-mined, today less than one-third is mined under union conditions. This means, of course, that several hundred thousand more miners have fallen prey to industrial serfdom. In some districts, where the old tradition of working class solidarity has kept the miners together, the strikers are shivering in tent colonies and barracks; their underfed children go barefoot to school. That proud organization, the American Red Cross, declares that this is not a national emergency. It refuses to aid children who are as helpless victims of an industrial policy as the "Cajuns" of Louisiana were of a godless flood. Even some members of the American Friends' Service Committee, faced with Miss Dulles' and Miss Coale's report, talked of "neutrality."

Relief is something; and relief should pour in to the Emergency Committee for Miners' Relief, 156 Fifth avenue, or to the other organizations which are struggling to help these victims of industry. But relief is at best little more than a sedative.

Suffering and oppression in the coal fields will continue as long as a state of chaotic competition continues and men are driven from periods of desperate underemployment into equally desperate strikes. If private operation cannot produce a living wage for the men who cut coal—and apparently it cannot—then it is time for the Government to step in and assume control. The bituminous industry is a disgrace to America.

Fugitive Oil Man Not Likely to Talk

sand dollars. The Claim Department would demur. When it came up to O'Neil he would say, 'Why, damn it, I wouldn't lose my finger for a thousand dollars. Pay him.' That was O'Neil always. He was liberal with gifts to charity. He helped build hospitals at Bartlesville and Tulsa. He gave generously to movements here in Independence. He is a fine fellow and a great friend."

The correspondent found during a search for more testimony concerning O'Neil in Independence that he is already something of a legendary figure in the town. His family never resided here. During the early days he kept them in Kansas City, 165 miles north, and went home over week-ends. He had two rooms at the Booth Hotel here, lived well but not extravagantly and avoided scrapes.

In 1914 he was sent East to look after the shipment of oil to the Allies. From that time on his visits to Independence were occasional. He acquired an estate on Long Island and lived more remotely from the townsmen of Independence. Yet around this town he is remembered pleasantly by everyone with whom the correspondent talked.

Thomas Booth, for whom a hotel and theater are named, was an associate of O'Neil in the early days. He contributes these anecdotes: "We were sitting in my rooms at the hotel one evening listening to the Independence band play. O'Neil said, 'By the way, I haven't made my donation to the band this year.' He sent them a hundred dollars.

"Another time I was down in Oklahoma andran across an oil roughneck who asked me if I knew O'Neil. I said I did and he told me he used to work on a pipe line with him in Pennsylvania. I reported this to O'Neil. He sent for his old friend. When they met in the lobby they hugged each other and O'Neil had a long talk with him. He never forgot a friend."

"In 1922 O'Neil told me he had made a million dollars in the Kans-Oming Oil Co., which operated leases in the Wyoming field. He just let it slip out casually in the way you or I would mention making $10. He said he sold his holdings in return for shares in the Prairie Oil & Gas Co."

Others in town who remembered O'Neil kindly were Father Casey of the Catholic Church, Michael Winters and G. L. Meyers, old timers in the oil game.

"A fine man," they said, "and it's a great pity this trouble came on him."

The story was told of how O'Neil and another oil man gave a party for poor children of the countryside; a party reputed to have cost $2500.

Well, that is what is left of Jim O'Neil in Independence—a massive office building, a pipe line to Chicago, a company that is doing gross business of $12,000,000 to $15,000,000 a month; these things and the stories told by friends.

Two Sisters Relate O'Neil's Early Career.

For the story of his early career, the corespondent traveled to Erie, Pa., where two sisters live. They are Mother Xavier and Sister Mary Regis of the Mercyhurst Seminary and College. The facts as supplied by them are as follows:

O'Neill was born in Titusville, Pa., in 1867, the eldest of five children. One sister is dead. His brother, G. F. O'Neil, is in the oil business at Wichita, Kan. O'Neil attended St. Joseph's Academy in Titusville until he was 15 and sold papers after school. He also worked in a jewelry shop and for a florist.

While employed as a florist at the home of E. O. Emerson, a wealthy oil operator of Titusville, he attracted Emerson's attention. Struck by the vigor of the boy, Emerson gave him a job in the oil business. At the age of 19 he went to North Clarendon, Pa., to take charge of an oil lease for Emerson. There a year later O'Neil married Orva Coyle, daughter of his landlady. She was 17.

Climbs With Standard Oil.

Emerson sold out to the Standard Oil Co. and O'Neil began a steady progress in the Standard service. He was sent to the Ohio Oil Co. as district foreman in 1890. Three years later he was promoted to assistant superintendent of the Eastern division and in 1896 he became superintendent of the division. Four years later he became general superintendent of the Ohio Oil Co., and until 1905 held this post. He was a consulting expert on new fields and made many trips of inspection for the Standard Oil. Then came the move to Kansas.

To his sisters in their sheltered retreat, Jim O'Neil is the hero of a Horatio Alger tale. When Mother Xavier read in the papers about the hullabaloo in Washington over "the oil scandal" and saw O'Neil's name mentioned, she could not understand how such a thing was possible.

Sisters Cannot Understand.

"James never talked business with us," Mother Xavier said. "We used to visit him in New York. We have not heard from him for several years, directly. James never was a letter writer. We keep in touch usually through his wife and daughter. When this trouble came up, we wrote Mr. Fitzpatrick thanking him for the nice things he said about James. We cannot understand it. James is the soul of honor and sincerity."

And Sister Regis added: "We are praying for our brother. We hope he will come back. We would like to see him so much."

Thus runs the fragmentary record of Jim O'Neil, friend of Harry Sinclair and a fellow-exile, Harry Blackmer, president of the Mid-West Refining Co. He was a friendly man and his friends have repaid him by stanch faith. Perhaps he has other friends who deserve his loyalty less; perhaps it is for these friends that he has become a man without a country.

Peace of Britain Is Endangered, Says Lloyd George

British view. From this, no British party, Conservative, Liberal or Labor, is prepared to recede and if the Egyptian Nationalists are not ready to acquiesce, than it is hopeless to expect any accommodation between the two countries.

At one time, Zagloul seemed ready to accept the situation and to be content with obtaining a full measure of internal self-government while recognizing that the geographical position of Egypt involved certain rights and obligations on the part of Britain in reference to the Suez Canal. Sarwat Pasha, who negotiated the treaty with Sir Austen Chamberlain, also was prepared to meet these special conditions. But, unfortunately, both Zagloul Pasha and his successor were overthrown on their return to Europe by the extremists, who are in control of the Egyptian Legislature. Hence the deadlock.

There will be a renewal of agitation against the British military occupation. But I feel confident that no British Government can give in, and if the Egyptian extremists retain control of the Legislature, it may end in Egypt losing the provisionally large measure of independence which it has already received. The country cannot be allowed to lapse into disorder.

Extent of Raids in Doubt.

As to the trouble in Mesopotamia and Trans-Jordania, it is not yet certain whether this will go beyond a few sporadic raids by Bedouin troops, animated partly by religious fanaticism and partly by lust of plunder.

The Wahabis are the Puritans of Mohammedanism. They regard the Mussulmans of Irak, Syria and Palestine with the same distrust and hatred as the Ironsides of Cromwell viewed the Catholic and Episcopalians of their day. In their sight the generality of Mohammedans are idolators who have strayed from the simple faith of the fathers.

Ibn Saud is known as the "Mohammedan Cromwell." He is a man of remarkable talents and strength of character. He has subjugated the whole of Arabia. If he enters the lists and proclaims a holy war against the heretical Mohammedan, then Britain soon will be involved in a serious war to defend the territories it has engaged to protect. But the British Government declines to believe that he is implicated in these raids.

If the British are right in their information or conjecture, then a few airplanes and tanks will be sufficient to cope with the situation. If they are misinformed, it will be necessary to send a large expeditionary force to the East. The next few weeks will reveal the true position.

Al Smith Looks Like Winner, But He's Not in Yet

New York this week that Gov. Smith's advisers there have concluded to place him before the country as an avowed candidate. This they are expected to do early next month. The election laws ofStates that require personal declarations of a candidacy are responsible for the decision. One of these is South Dakota, where Smith has 10 votes virtually assured if he comes out into the open by filing the necessary declaration. The one definite act thus far performed by Smith towards making himself officially a candidate was to sign a certificate attesting to the correctness of his name as printed on a proof sheet of the official Michigan ballot.

There is no Smith campaign organization in the ordinary sense, but he has a voluntary organization of the most effective kind. This consists of the groups who have been attracted to him for one reason or another, and who have been talking Smith ever since he became a presidential possibility. He came into the race with a ready made organization, just as Hoover came in with the support of groups for whom he has long had an appeal. Smith has done nothing to arrest the movement in his behalf, but neither, apparently, is he doing anything to further it. There is no reason to doubt the word of his friends here that whatever work is being done for Smith is being done individually and locally, without direction or financing from any central organization. The campaign, seemingly, has "just growed"—which is something of a tribute to the popularity of Gov. Smith.

Bitterness Over Walsh.

A test of strength among the three leading canddiates—Smith, Reed and Walsh—will come in the California primaries on May 1. The situation out there is so tangled that all prophecies are dangerous. Assuming that the division will be along wet and dry lines, Walsh, who is dry, stands an excellent chance to win through division of the wet vote. A setback there would hurt Smith, though not by any means fatally.

The candidacy of Walsh, a dry Catholic, has aroused deep resentment among the Smith forces. He was put into the race, they say, for the sole purpose of heading off Smith. If Walsh carries California—which before his entrance appeared all set for Smith—this bitterness will be intensified.

All of which leaves us with no safe ground on which to base a prophecy as to the outcome of the Houston conventino.

The conclusion must be the same as in the case of the Republicans, with Smith's name substituted for Hoover's. Smith looks like the winner, but he isn't in yet.

∴ AT LAMBERT FIELD ∴

PHILIP R. LOVE, who was Col. Lindbergh's classmate in the army flying school, his fellow pilot on the St. Louis-Chicago mail route and his escort in the nation-wide tour following Lindbergh's trans-Atlantic flight, has established himself in business in St. Louis.

Visiting St. Louis as a sales representative of the Fairchild Airplane Manufacturing Co. several weeks ago, Love renewed his acquaintance with T. Preston Sultan, overseas flyer who was officially credited with four German planes during the war. The result of their reunion is the firm of Love-Sultan, Inc., airport consultants.

Love has resigned from the Fairchild staff and he and Sultan have opened an office at 6625 Delmar boulevard. Their first work, already under way, is the erection of a hangar on the new 100-acre field of the Parks Airline, which is close to the Cahokia power plant on the east side of the river.

Parks Field Easy to Find.

The new Parks field, incidentally, is likely to prove more popular with visiting flyers than the municipal field at Anglum. Beyond the fact that it is less than 20 minutes by automobile from the downtown district, it is easy to find because of the proximity of the distinctive Cahokia plane. Flyers who have visited the field are going to have an easier time explaining its location to flyers who haven't, than they would have trying to tell them how to find Lambert-St. Louis Field on a thick day.

Sets Record in Sale of Planes.

Claude Sterline, the new Parks Airline pilot, brought in another new OX-5 Travel-Air last week from Wichita. It is to be added to the sales stock of which Clyde Brayton, chief pilot of Parks Airline, has charge. Besides spending more time in the air than any other flyer at the field last year—more than 900 hours—Brayton managed also to set the high sales mark for the last three months, selling several Travel-Airs, including two $9800 Whirlwinds.

Last week Brayton sold an OXX-6 Waco, which was traded in recently by Oscar Johnson of 38 Portland place on a Whirlwind Travel-Air. Brayton sold the Waco to one buyer who did not complete the deal and when he got the plane back sold it again to William Winns, of Wood River, Mo.

"Boots" Dempsey Gives Exhibition

"Boots" Dempsey, pilot for Oscar Johnson, took Johnson and another passenger to Marshall, Mo., last week on a business trip. While he was waiting for the return trip Dempsey put the Travel-Air through its dazzling assortment of paces for the entertainment of visitors at the field.

Fred Stone Hires Air Pilot.

Johnnie Campion, the little pilot who had been doing much of the cross-country work in the past year for Von Hoffman Aircraft Co., has left the field for keeps. He is calling for a new Whirlwind Travel-Air at Wichita and will tool it about the country for Fred Stone, the dancing comedian, who plans to use it on his tour next season. Stone selected Campion as his pilot on a visit here this winter.

Survey Made From Air.

Milt Girton, chief pilot for Von Hoffmann Aircraft Co., took the members of the St. Louis County Court and Maj. Albert Bond Lambert on an aerial tour of the Coldwater Creek Drainage District last Wednesday in a Ryan brougham.

The drainage district directly affects the field, which lies in one of its lowest and wettest sections, and Girton gave his passengers plenty of chance to see the swamp at the east end of the airdrome.

The Von Hoffman Co., has added two new men to its school staff. One of them is Merle Bouse, former civilian instructor at the army mechanics' school at Chanute Field, who will be ground instructor for the Von Hoffmann outfit. The other is Russell Riggs, who will be a flying instructor.

Guard Unit Well Equipped.

The two new Falcons brought to St. Louis by Capt. H. H. Young of the regulars, for the Thirty-fifth Division Air Service, National Guard, are getting a good workout. The squadron pilots keep them aloft almost continuously on Saturday and Sunday afternoons. The first Falcon to be delivered had a tiny "bug" in it, a weak stabilizer guide block, but a new block has been substituted, and it is as good as the second O-11. The Falcons and the O-2 Douglas also assigned to the squadron comprise better flying equipment than most regular army outfits have.

12 Officers Examined.

Besides flying, the officers of the outfit are also getting their share of classroom work. Twelve of them took their examinations last week for Subcourse No. 1 of the Basic Air Corps course, in which they had been instructed by Capt. Young.

New York-Tampico Flight.

A Wasp-engined Fairchild which visited the field Tuesday attracted much attention because of its powerful motor equipment. It was flown by H. S. Robertson, who had come from New York that day and hopped off the next morning for Tampico, Mex. The ship is to be used in mail and passenger service between Tampico and Mexico City and is fitted with the powerful motor to give it a margin of safety in crossing the mountains along its route. Robertson carried a passenger bound for Tampico.

Visitors From Oklahoma.

Tom Parks, the McIntyre Airport (Tulsa, Ok.) flyer, who is a frequent visitor at Lambert-St. Louis Field, dropped in Tuesday in his Stinson. In the cabin of the plane were Joseph Wolfe, his sister, Miss Wolfe, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Creekman and Billy Dougan of Tulsa. The party returned Wednesday afternoon.

Baby Peggy Takes a Ride.

Between registering visting ships during the week, O. E. Scott, the field manager, found time to take his little friend, Baby Peggy Montgomery, of movie fame, for another trip. Peggy's mother and father accompanied her to the field, as they did on a previous visit, and also went aloft in Scott's Travel-Air, which is, incidentally, the first Travel-Air ever built.

To Omaha in Four Hours.

The Robertson Aircraft Corporation took on a sudden job last Sunday afternoon when J. J. King, an Omaha cattle man, called the field and announced he wanted to get back to Omaha, and get back quickly. "Bud" Gurney, chief air mail pilot, took him off the field in the new Robertson Travel-Air at 4:35 p. m., made a stop at Marshall, Mo., for more gas and landed in Omaha at 8:30, making the last two hours of the flight in darkness. It was old stuff to Gurney, however. He went all over the same country in a War Department survey of the Missouri River two years ago, and last winter did much of his flying after dark.

F. O. Watts Uses Mail Plane.

Gurney and his flying mates, E. L. Sloniger and Les Smith, continue to have plenty of company on their mail flights between Chicago and St. Louis. Passengers are carried almost every day. Among those who made the round-trip last week was F. O. Watts Jr., son of the chairman of the First National Bank in St. Louis.

Test Flight April 10.

The fuselage of three Robins, the new monoplane to be built by the Curtiss-Robertson Aircraft Manufacturing Co. at Lambert Field, have been completed in the Curtiss plant in Garden City, L. I., William B. Robertson, president, announced yesterday. The ships are due for flight test on April 10, when Robertson will be on hand to try his hand at the stick. Work has already been begun on the Curtiss-Robertson plant at the field.

CATHOLIC REPORT ON ETHICS OF PEACE AND WAR DRAWN

The Rev. Linus A. Lilly and the Rev. J. P. Donovan of St. Louis Among Signers.

The Rev. Linus A. Lilly, S. J., regent of the St. Louis University Law School, and the Rev. J. P. Donovan, C. M., professor of philosophy at Kenrick Seminary, are in the group of 12 prominent Catholics, headed by Dr. John A. Ryan of the Catholic University of America, who have prepared a report on the ethics of peace and war to be presented to the Executive Committee of the Association on International Peace.

In general the report upholds the right of nations to use armed force, but lays down the most stringent conditions which must be fulfilled before this right may properly be invoked. It then makes practical and constructive recommendations for actions on the part of nations, individuals and society in general to prevent war and to foster peace.

The signers of the report, in addition to the St. Louisans, are the Rev. Dr. Charles Bruehl, St. Charles Borromeo Seminary, Overbrook, Pa.; the Rev. Cyprian Emmanuel, O. F. M., Franciscan Monastery, Cleveland; the Rev. Leo Charles Gainor, O. P., Providence College, Providence, R. I.; Mgr. Michael J. Grupa, SS., Cyril and Methodius Seminary, Orchard Lake, Mich.; the Rev. Moorhouse F. X. Millar, S. J., Fordham University, New York, and the Rev. Charles C. Miltner, C. S. C., Notre Dame University, Notre Dame, Ind.

DON'T BE ALARMED IF THE OVEN DOOR DOES SLAM

It is worry—not work—that makes baking a tiresome task. The dread of failure. The uncertainty of results. Not actual labor of stirring up a cake or mixing a batch of biscuits.

Take away the worry and the uncertainty, and baking becomes mere play.

And that is exactly what Calumet Baking Powder does. Its reliability relieves you of all nervous tension.

CALUMET
THE WORLD'S GREATEST BAKING POWDER

can always be trusted. It is not affected by jars or vibration. You may open the oven door with perfect freedom, turn the baking around for inspection, without interfering with leavening action. Calumet never quits until its work is completed—when the baking is light, tender and completely raised.

DOUBLE ACTING

Calumet contains two leavening units. One begins to work when the dough is mixed; the other waits for the heat of the oven, then both units work together.

Contains only such ingredients as have been officially approved by U. S. Food Authorities.

Its dependable excellence saves your energy. Its unfailing quality promotes true economy.

Recipe for Calumet Devil's Food Cake

1¾ cups sugar	4 tablespoons melted chocolate
½ cup butter	2 cups pastry flour
2 eggs	1 level teaspoon Calumet Baking Powder
½ cup sour milk	½ level teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ cup boiling water

Sift flour, measure and sift three times with baking powder and soda. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, egg yolks, melted chocolate and vanilla. Add dry ingredients alternately with sour milk and water. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in two large layers 25 minutes in a moderate oven (350° F.). Put layers together with chocolate fudge frosting.

Pop Corn Doesn't Hurt His Stomach

Mr. J. W. Wilkinson had stomach trouble and went to a hospital. This did not help, and he tried Adlerika. Now he says he can again eat and enjoy pop-corn.

The simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, saline etc. (known as Adlerika), has a most surprising DOUBLE action. First, it acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel (most medicines act on lower bowel only) and removes foul matter that often poisoned the system for months. Second, Adlerika clears all Gas and sourness from stomach and bowels, bringing INSTANT relief from stomach trouble. And, in addition, Adlerika removes metabolic poisons which cause neuritis, rheumatism, etc.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, writes: "Adlerika, in addition to its intestinal cleansing, checks the growth of intestinal bacteria and bacilli."

Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 50 years' practice I have found nothing to excel Adlerika."

J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated."

It will astonish you the great amounts of poisonous matter Adlerika brings out—matter you would never believe was in your system. In chronic constipation, gas bloating, sour stomach and sick headache, just ONE spoonful Adlerika brings wonderful relief. At leading druggists. Sold in St. Louis by Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores and other druggists.

HOTEL AND OFFICE BUILDINGS REDUCE SMOKE 91 PER CENT

Citizens' Abatement League Reports Chief Factor Was Change Made by Hotel Jefferson.

The campaign for smoke reduction has produced its most marked results in hotel and office buildings, according to Osborn Monnett, consulting engineer of the Citizens' Smoke Abatement League. In this group there was a reduction of 91 per cent in smoke production this winter, compared with last year's figures.

The chief factor in the reduction was the elimination of the Jefferson Hotel, formerly classified as a chronic smoke producer, but now obtaining its heating service from a central heating plant.

Engineers and firemen of buildings in this group have received first hand instruction in scientific methods of firing. The density of smoke from this source this year was 2 per cent where last year it was 23 per cent.

INTERNATIONAL HEAD OF ODD FELLOWS ARRIVES TODAY

For the first time in several years, Missouri will receive an official visit from the grand sire, or international head, of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of the World, with the arrival here this afternoon of Leon S. Merrill, who was elected to that position last September. He is coming from Manitoba, Canada, and will remain until Wednesday, when he departs for Boston.

Ben Weidle, grand secretary of the order in Missouri and president of the School Board, and Al Siepman, district deputy grand master, will escort Merrill to the Coronado Hotel. Merrill, who is dean of the University of Maine, Orono, Me., will be taken for an inspection of schools here tomorrow, and on Tuesday lodge business will be transacted in sessions with grand officers of various branches at the Triple Link Building, 3765 Lindell boulevard, Missouri headquarters.

Tuesday night, meetings of the men's and women's groups of the order will be held at South Side Temple, 3504 Grace avenue. A team will exemplify first-degree work at the men's gathering.

POLICE ASKED TO SETTLE ROW OVER MONEY WOMAN LEFT

A problem the police have been asked to solve is, did Mrs. Tena Sadowski, 1420 North Ninth street, who died last November, leave $5040 in a cigar box she used as a safety deposit box in her home, or was it only $140?

Mrs. Sadowski's husband said she had $5040 in the cigar box, but her daughter by a former marriage, Sophia Prajoutska, 15, told police she gave the box [illegible] an at the direction of [illegible] and that it contained [illegible] The administrator [illegible] told police there was [illegible] two gold watches and [illegible] pers in the box.

BAD ROAD KEEPS FISHERMEN FROM BENNETT SPRINGS

State Park Virtually Inaccessible Because of 13 Miles of Mud West of Lebanon.

By ROBERT HENRY HALL,
Automobile Editor.

Cartographers in the making of Missouri maps up to a few years ago made no mention of the little Ozark village, Brice. Too long had it been deserted to warrant consideration. But the State government became cognizant of the opportunities it afforded because of its stragetic location at a wonderful spring and its proximity to Niangua River, and purchased it for a State park. Now, this park is recognized as one of the finest of the Missouri parks system.

Bennett Springs State Park at Brice, 13 miles west of Lebanon—on U. S. 66—affords a wonderful opportunity to pass a pleasant week-end. It is located in a true Ozarkian setting of lofty hills and blue vales, and Bennett Spring with its overflow dashing across the top of a long dam and thence through a winding creek to Niangua River, offers something of more than passing interest.

Trout fishing is excellent—they're not hard to catch if you know how—and there's better-than-the-average acccommodations at the State hotel below the hatchery. But the one "fly in the ointment," as it were, is the atrocious road leading to it. It is a narrow, winding road all mud, and ruts deeper than the road clearance of most cars cover it from ditch to ditch.

The chronicler's car became bogged twice in the road past week-end. Once "rocking" the car, by swiftly shifting it from reverse to first, released it from the mud; but the other time, at a point five miles from the park, the ruts were so deep that an hour passed in waiting until an Ozark tie-cutter came along with a team of stout Missouri mules.

There's only one way to get over the 13 miles of mud road without becoming stuck, and that is with a light car with better than average road clearance. However, the sport at the park, and the splendid accommodations, are worth the worry, and if one doesn't mind the fight with the mud, it's an ideal way to pass a pleasant week end.

The 170 miles of U. S. 66 between St. Louis and Lebanon, of course, are in excellent repair. The accurate log of the road as checked the past week end, is as follows:

00.0 Leave Post-Dispatch Building; follow Twelfth, Chouteau and Manchester.
04.5 Kingshighway and Manchester.
09.2 Brentwood.
18.0 Manchester.
32.9 Pacific road.
36.1 Short break in concrete on Tucker Hill.
43.7 Junction of No. 50, to Union and Kansas City.
51.0 Junction of No. 30 at St. Clair.
66.0 Sullivan.
75.5 End concrete; start grave
83.6 Junction of No. 19 at Cub
107.5 Rolla; Junction of No. 6
170.8 Junction of No. 5 at Lebanon.

$100,000,000 ROAD BOND ISSUE FOR IOWA

Bill Passed by Legislature—To Be Voted On in November.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DES MOINES, Ia., March 17.—With the passage the past week of the bill authorizing issuance of $100,000,000 in State bonds to improve primary roads, the electorate of Iowa was practically assured of an opportunity to vote on the proposal. The House passed the bill by a vote of 65 to 42.

The bill was passed by the Senate last week and will come before the people next November at the general election.

Action came in the House only after several hours of debate.

Increase Speed Limits.

A recent survey by the American Automobile Association shows that in at least 10 states the speed limit was increased by specific legislative action during the 1927 sessions of the State Legislatures.

N. A. C. C. SETS DATES OF 1929 AUTO SHOWS

National Exhibit to Open in New York on Jan. 5, Chicago, Jan. 26.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 17.—Recognizing that head lamps and motor fuels offer a field for further engineering improvements, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce voted at its spring meeting the past week to support further headlight research by the Society of Automotive Engineers and joining with the American Petroleum Institute in continuing the fuel research of the United States Bureau of Standards.

Car and truck production of the membership for February was reported as 325,778, which is 40 per cent higher than January and 29 per cent above February a year ago.

Dates of the 1929 Automobile Shows were decided on as Jan. 5-12 for New York and Jan. 26-Feb. 5 for Chicago.

H. H. Rice, chairman of the Taxation Committee, reported that there is a wide interest on the part of automobile purchasers in the repeal of the automobile excise tax which has been passed by the House of Representatives but has not yet come before the Senate. If this popular interest is recognized by Congress, he expects the repeal will become effective at this session.

In co-operation with the Society of Automotive Engineers, the Rubber Association of America, the Chamber voted to work out a program for the reduction of the number of tire sizes, in order to effect automobile manufacturing economies with ultimate savings to the public.

Motor Travel In Persia Rivals Rush Hour Scene

Straphangers in rush hours are mere amateurs compared to the packing and jolting that natives of Persia, Irak and Syria experience when they travel in motor trucks across deserts and mountain trails, according to F. A. Kettaneh, sales director of Dodge Bros. cars and Graham Bros. trucks in those countries.

Kettaneh recently visited the plants of Dodge Bros. in Detroit to gain first-hand information on the cars and trucks that he has sold for seven years. It was his first visit to America.

"Passengers in our motor lines never expect a cushioned seat," explained Kettaneh. "They sit with their legs doubled under them, and they usually ride on the bed of the truck. They're piled in, bag and baggage and if they get a strap to hold, it's a strap from some of their luggage. In this fashion, they are shaken and bounced over their journey.

"Automobiles are forming the only transportation linking many parts of the country, but they are doing it at a reasonable price. One bus line charges a $12 fare for a 600-mile trip, and the roads are merely trails. In all my territory, nearly a third of the size of the United States, we have only five miles of paved roads.

"Despite the discomfort to passengers, owners of trucks do a flourishing business," says Kettaneh. "The automobile is called the 'Friend of the People,' and it is the ambition of every driver to operate his own truck. Drivers who receive a salary of about $50 a month, all look forward to buying a truck, and jolting passengers some day. Truck driving is one of the highest-paid occupations, the average workman receiving a wage of 27 to 30 cents a day."

OLD MOTOR CARS TO BE USED AS ROAD BALLAST

Automobiles with an original value of nearly $250,000 will be tumbled into a yawning abyss at Thompsonville, Conn., in an attempt to fill a hole in the roadway which appeared when a stretch of macadam 100 feet long and 50 feet wide dropped through.

"This is certainly a novel way of keeping automobiles in permanent road use," says T. S. Johnston, assistant to W. C. Durant, "to say nothing of a possible used car market."

Before the use of automobiles, ton after ton of sand was put into this gap to no avail, so the selectman hit on the scheme of buying up all the old cars he could get, to dump into the chasm. Over 250 cars have been purchased for this purpose so far, at prices ranging from $5 to $15.

R. E. LEE TO ADDRESS JEFFERSON CITY DEALERS

Automobile dealers of Central Missouri have been invited by the Automobile Dealers' Association of Jefferson City to meet at the Central Hotel in Jefferson City, Tuesday, March 20, to attend a dinner of the Central Missouri Association, which was organized about a year ago.

The speaker at the dinner will be Capt. Robert E. Lee, manager of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association, and his topic will be "Used Cars and Bankruptcy."

PILOTS NAMED FOR INTERNATIONAL RACE

Gil Anderson to Drive Stutz, and Robert Benoist the Hispano-Suiza.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 17. — Gil Anderson has been chosen as driver of the Stutz Black Hawk which on April 16 will enter a 24-hour duel on the Indianapolis Speedway, with a Hispano-Suiza car as its opponent and a $25,000 bet at stake. Anderson recently established a new American stock car record of 106.52 miles per hour in a Stutz Black Hawk over a measured mile course at Daytonia Beach, Fla.

From Europe it is reported that Robert Benoist, speed champion of the continent, will be one of the two pilots of the Hispano-Suiza. The other driver has not been finally announced, but it is rumored he will be Charles T. Weymann, designer of the Weymann automobile body.

The forthcoming race is the outgrowth of an argument between Weeymann and F. E. Moskovics, president of the Stutz Motor Car Co., at the Paris automobile salon last fall, over the relative merits of American and European stock cars. One point led to another, until finally Moskovics and Weymann agreed upon a 24-hour match race at the Indianapolis Speedway. At the time the $25,000 bet was made, $5000 forfeits were depositd in an Indianapolis bank in the name of Edward V. Rickenbacker, head of the speedway.

ARGENTINA - CHILE HIGHWAY STARTED

Only Railway Route Costing $125 Is Available Now.

Work has been started for constructing the international highway from Los Andes to Cumbre on the border between Argentina and Chile.

The Argentine Government has voted the necessary money to unite this road with Mendoza, so that in a short while it will be possible to go by automobile from Santiago to Mendoza in 10 hours. Now one leaves by rail at 6 in the morning and arrives at 12 at night; the most expensive rail trip for its length in the world, costing approximately $125.

EMPLOYMENT OF 350,000 MORE IN AUTO FIELD SEEN

Added Volume of Motor Vehicle Business for 1928 Is Estimated at $700,000,000.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, March 17.—Employment in the motor industry directly, or indirectly, should increase approximately 350,000 persons in 1928, it is estimated by a leading financial newspaper.

Figuring the average cost per car at $700 the added volume of motor business is estimated at $700,000,000.

With the average person connected with the industry receiving an income of about $2000 a year, the motor business and kindred interests, such as mining, transportation, steel, rubber, upholstery, oil and tires figure to take on 350,000 additional workers.

These 350,000 workers will not include men required for building new roads, street widenings to relieve congested traffic, and construction of garages.

A VELIE Car is an Intimate Car

You revel in its distinction and luxury of control

YOU find in the new Twentieth Anniversary series of Velie sixes and straight eights, the final expression of Velie efficiency—

A car of beauty—a performer of rare merit—a product of stamina.

Ability to sweep silently ahead at an eighty-mile clip and keep on going and going—to defy the rougher roads and laugh at the disappearing hills. A Velie symposium of travel.

Easing through traffic or gliding along the boulevards—springing forward like a greyhound unleashed as the green light flashes—your Velie reflects your moods. Intimate.

That is why so many of the more critical motorists who accept a Velie demonstration become Velie owners. They find performance finer than represented—better than they dared expect from a car in Velie price-class.

Twenty years of fine car construction—twenty years of public confidence—invite your investigation.

Comparison is our best salesman.

WOMEN unerringly sense the genuine—be it a rare jewel, a Paris gown, or a fine motor car.

Perhaps that is why the new Peerless Six-91 has won such enthusiastic approval from women everywhere.

It would be idle to deny the instant appeal of this car's loveliness. Yet beyond that first appreciative glow that comes when you behold a thing of beauty, there is the added conviction of its genuine, unseen worth.

This inherent quality—coupled with surpassingly fine performance and luxurious comfort—has made the Six-91 a joy to own and to drive.

And in addition to the visible evidence of this fine car's worth, you will have the definite conviction that here is the automobile you want to own.

TOLL BRIDGES REAP EXHORBITANT PROFITS

Exploitation of Privately Owned Causeways Condemned by A. A. A.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The highways of the nation are being commercialized by an ever-increasing number of privately owned toll bridges and the success of some of these private interests in running the exploitation type of toll bridge has stimulated the hopes of those who desire to extend this exploitation to toll highways, says the A. A. A., in suggesting today that Congress and the various units of State governments owe it to the public to do everything possible to prevent private interests from exploiting strategic points on the main highways through the toll bridge institution.

"While it is unquestionably true," says the A. A. A., "that many toll bridges have given and are giving a needed public service at a fair cost, it is equally true that scores of them levy an exhorbitant tribute on the motoring public—a tribute sometimes amounting to nearly 300 per cent on the capital investment. At the present rate of granting charters, the number of toll bridges in the United States will double in a few years."

The figures adduced by the national motoring body relative to the influx of toll bridges are based on surveys made by the Bureau of Public Roads. According to these figures, 233 toll bridges were in operation at the beginning of this year, of which 191 were privately owned. At present 29 new toll bridges are under construction and 163 are proposed. Of the 163 proposed, 100 will be constructed and operated on a toll basis by private interests. During the last session of Congress and to date, the National Legislature has granted franchises for 67 bridges of the latter type. The A. A. A. statement continues:

"The recent success of private bridges for profit has stimulated hope on the part of those who would extend the commercialization of the highways themselves by applying the toll principle to privately operated trunk lines in heavily populated areas.

"In many instances privately owned bridges earn returns as high as 300 per cent per annum on the capital invested. These are extreme cases, of course. It is nothing unusual, on the other hand, to find toll bridges earning all the way from 40 to 150 per cent. There is one toll bridge in Nebraska which yielded an income of 150 per cent on its cost annually from 1923 to 1925.

FIRST PACKARD DEALER IN ST. LOUIS APPOINTED

Appointment of the first authorized Packard dealer in the St. Louis metropolitan territory was announced the past week by George M. Berry, president of the Berry Motor Car Co., Packard distributer. The new dealer is Hickman & Burke, Inc., at 3456 South Grand boulevard. D. B. Hickman and Ralph Burke are the owners.

Both principals are well-known in local automotive circles, Hickman, for the past 10 years having been wholesale sales manager of the Berry Motor Car Co. In the new enterprise he will have charge of sales, while Burke, who has specialized in Packard service, will handle the service department.

The new dealer occupies a two-story building, fronting Grand boulevard for 40 feet and having a depth of 100 feet on Potomac street. The building, previously occupied by automobile agencies, was especially built for automotive sales and service work several years ago.

"Increasing business of the Berry Motor Car Co., and inability to adequately handle South Side sales and service because of this, has resulted in the appointment of the new dealer," Berry said yesterday.

GRAHAM - PAIGE DISPLAY

The grand opening of the showrooms of the Weber Motor Car Co., newly appointed Graham-Paige distributer here, will be held April 1, according to Edward Weber, president. The opening, originally set for March, was postponed because all models of the line had not arrived from the factory.

On April 1 the firm will show the entire line complete in six and eight-cylinder models on five wheelbases ranging from 110 to 135 inches.

OAKLAND DISTRIBUTER HAS WEBSTER GROVES BRANCH

For the convenience of Oakland and Pontiac owner in Webster Groves and its vicinity, and on account of the large increase there in the demand for Oakland and Pontiac cars, the Mississippi Valley Motor Co., Oakland and Pontiac distributers in St. Louis, has opened a sales room and service station at 104 West Lockwood avenue.

E. A. Hatfield, president of the firm, states that the company intends to appoint a dealer in the near future to handle the Webster Groves business and that meanwhile the place will be operated as a branch of the company, whose main office is 2801 Locust boulevard.

The show room and service station in Wbester Groves is designed to serve also Kirkwood, Oakland, Elendale and the adjacent St. Louis County district.

GARDNER SALES INCREASING

With the entire automobile increasing business in 1928, officials of the Gardner Motor Co. has announced January and February increases, respectively, of 40 per cent and 45 per cent over the corresponding period of 1927. This is far above the increases shown for the entire industry.

While complete reports are not obtainable, figures supplied by the R. L. Polk Statistical Service, furnished a national cross section of business conditions from which the show Gardner sales increases for the 1928 60-day period over 1927, as follows: Florida, 100 per cent; Missouri, 45 per cent; Montana, 100 per cent; Wisconsin, 62 2-3 per cent; Indiana, 120 per cent; New Jersey, 150 per cent, and Connecticut, 100 per cent.

From the same source of information, the District of Columbia reports an increase of 100 per cent over January, 1927, and California, according to information supplied by Motor Registration News, shows an increase of 135 per cent.

ENGINE WITH NEW PRINCIPLE ANNOUNCED

Powell Lever Motor Embodies Radical Changes in Design.

With the Powell lever motor, shown in an advertisement elsewhere in this issue, engineers of the company claim to have overcome one of the greatest problems with which automotive designers have had to contend—namely, motor weight. In solving this question, so many manifest advantages have come to light as to make it entirely possible for the Powell lever motor to really revolutionize things in motordom.

Interposing a lever between the piston and crankshaft in such a manner as to make the piston stroke double that of the crankshaft stroke is enough to tell the technically minded reader what a vast improvement comes with announcement of Powell lever motor. Simplified, it may be said that the Powell lever motor incorporates the best of conventional motor design plus such new advantages as are contained in the patents covering improvements issued the A. L. Powell Power Co. of Miles City, Mont.

Pistons reciprocate in cylinders exactly as in the conventional motor, differing only in that the length of the piston stroke as compared to the crankshaft stroke is twice that of the usual type. In other words, a one-pound pressure on the piston is multiplied by leverage in the Powell lever motor so that the pressure is two pounds at the connecting rod.

WILLYS-OVERLAND PLANT IN CANADA EXPANDED

Expansion of the Willys-Overland, Ltd., plant at Toronto, Ont., has been completed, giving the Canadian organization facilities for enlarged production to meet the present demand for Whippets and Willys-Knight motor cars.

The half-million dollar expansion of the Toronto plant provides for a daily output of 250 cars, and steps are being taken to reach this peak production mark early in March, according to T. A. Russell, president. Peak capacity in the old plant was only 140 cars a day.

The Toronto plant now consists of a new three-story plant for the manufacture of bodies. A fourth story has been added to the machine shop, together with the addition of a new one-story building. This provides a building 784 feet long and 120 feet wide. A new conveyor 470 feet long has been installed on the assembly line.

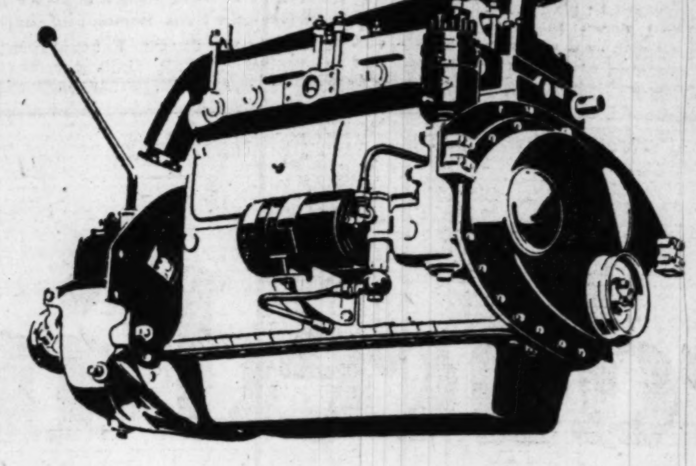
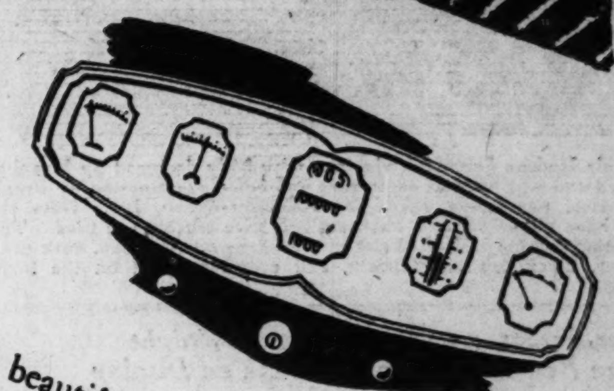
The Four-wheel brakes used on the Essex Super-Six are the same type used on costliest cars and assure the maximum brake safety, as well as the softness of control that you associate only with high priced cars. They merely typify the costly car way Essex is built throughout—and you can verify this detail by detail, inside and out, by comparison first with costly cars—and then with cars in the Essex price class.



The Essex Super-Six high-compression motor is patented and exclusive, and is so far as we know the most powerful and efficient motor of its size in the world. It eliminates vibration by preventing its occurrence, and so can sustain high speeds, smoothly, effortlessly and indefinitely.



The beautiful Essex instrument board is of ebony finish, grouping under indirect light, motometer, gasoline gauge, oil gauge, speedometer and ammeter. Compare it with the costly car instrument boards—which it is like—and with instrument boards in its price class—which it is decidedly unlike.

Tires on the new Essex Super-Six are extra large—30" x 5"—their ample size not only aiding in roadability and long tire life, but adding to the riding ease for which Essex is famous.

In this, and such things as the black-rubber, steel-core, finger-scalloped steering wheel, the worm and tooth disc steering mechanism and the vertical radiator shutters, Essex visibly duplicates costly car practice, as it does also in the hidden things you never see, except in its care-free operation.

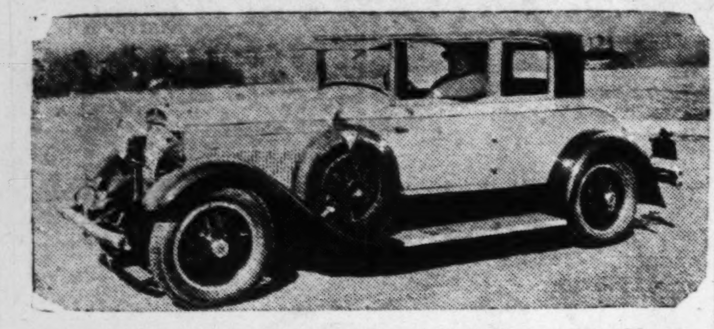
What's New in Motor Cars



This Hudson Super-Six victoria, with body designed by Murphy, was ordered with special equipment and color combination by Frank G. Pariso, purchasing agent for Anheuser-Busch, Inc. Note the doors have nickel window channels and wire wheels are used. The color combination is carried out in light gray on the body, dark gray molding, black top and fenders, and creme striping on the hood louvres.

Pierce-Arrow Offers New Broughams

One of the most expensive enclosed cars ever built on a 130-inch wheelbase chassis has just been completed by the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Co.

This automobile, a Series 81 French opera brougham, is priced at $7750 at Buffalo. The exterior lines of the car are modeled after those of the true brougham and are suggestive of the days of coach and tally-ho.

An opera light, atop the roof, is strangely reminiscent of the old coaching lamps, and makes the French opera brougham easily identified at night.

Although the exterior is distinctly unusual, it is the interior that sets the French opera brougham apart, filled as it is with rich fabrics adorned with needlepoint, hand-tooled gold appointments and vanity and smoking fittings in solid gold. In broadcloth by Wiese has been woven the two colorful medallions which form the backs of the individual seats. The seats are divided by a padded armrest and pillowed with a lazy-back. Arm slings, carrying the medallion design in broadlage, are found on both sides of the car. Broadlace is also used for beautiful panel effects on the doors, while the interior window moldings match the broadcloth trim. On the floor are soft hassocks.

Folding seats are provided for two guests, so arranged that the occupants face one another.

In the hand-carved gold vanity and smoking cases are found an automatic lighter in solid gold, a cigarette case, mirror, notebook, vanity and dorine bottles in the same metal.

The Western Automobile Co. is the Pierce-Arrow distributer here.

Tank Shield Feature of Pierce-Arrow

A gracefully streamlined shield or apron which covers the fuel tank, springs and running gear of the new Pierce-Arrow Series 81 models is as useful as it is distinctive, according to William G. Astridge, sales manager of the Western Automobile Co., Pierce-Arrow distributer here.

As a usual thing, the stern of a motor car is not good looking, with shackles, springs and other parts of the chassis visible to the eye. These are completely concealed by the Series 81 curtain producing a finished and charming effect. In addition, the curtain protects the clothes of the owner from the greasy springs and shackles and also shields, to a large extent, the back of the car from mud and rust.

Why fight?

Stearns-Knight Coupe on Display

Style, smartness and quality are noticeable to a large degree in the new Stearns-Knight two-passenger coupe, now on display here by Willys-Overland, Inc., factory branch.

Mounted on the 137-inch de luxe chassis, the coupe embraces all the qualities one finds in those models that sell to the most critical class of buyers. The interior is done in soft leather, forming a perfect blend with the color combinations that are optional with the buyer.

The distinctiveness of this car is enhanced by a window in the rear which may be raised or lowered to provide a means of conversing with passengers in the rumble sat.

Another feature is the option of wood or wire wheels. Either type fits perfectly into the general lines and color scheme. The spare wheel may be carried either at the rear or on the running board, this also being optional with the purchaser.

The power plant is the Knight sleeve-valve straight-eight, the Stearns-Knight organization occupying alone this field in America. It is pointed out, however, that in Europe the finest cars built employ the straight-eight sleeve-valve engine.

How the New Packard Is Oiled

The Packard Motor Car Co., according to Sam Green, general manager of the Berry Motor Co., Packard distributer here, has found means of obtaining the proper lubrication for the engine in the coldest weather which at the same time has only beneficial effect in the hottest weather. On current models of both the Packard six and the Packard eight a valve in the oil line is opened when the choke lever is pulled out. Oil is carried through a tube along the outside of the motor block and openings into each cylinder from this tube or manifold cause a spray of oil to be thrown into each piston.

With this system, an exclusive feature with the Packard, the pistons do not have to wait for the oil in the motor to heat up enough to reach them. They get adequate lubrication during a period when normally they would have none.

The automobile chassis lubricating system on Packard cars takes care of the parts of the car which ordinarily suffer from want of lubrication through neglect in winter weather.

New Moon Roadster Announced

The newest addition to the Moon eight-cylinder line is a sports roadster, which has just been placed in production at the factory here.

The new car has a rumble seat and comes equipped with wire wheels and luggage carrier. It is powered by the Moon Continental engine developing 72 horse power, at 3000 revolutions per minute. The bore is three inches and the stroke 4½ inches. It has a 125-inch wheelbase.

Color combination offered is Chinese red body and black fenders and running gear, with door panels in a lighter color.

HUPMOBILE OUTPUT IS BEING INCREASED STEADILY

Operations at the highest rate ever attained are now being carried out in every department of the Hupmobile plants, DuBois Young, president and general manager, states in reply to requests for information on the Hupmobile outlook.

"Sales by our distributors and dealers throughout America are the largest they have ever been at this time of year," Young said. "More unfilled orders for retail delivery are on their books than at any previous time in their history."

Young said that on March 2 the Hupmobile factory already had orders for more than 7000 cars for March shipment, with more coming in daily. This compares with shipments of 5218 in February, the largest single month the company has yet enjoyed. Shipments of 17,670 cars during November, December, January and February exceeded those of 10,194 cars for the corresponding four months of 1926-27 by 73 per cent. Practically every one of those more than 17,-00 cars has been sold and delivered to owners.

Lighter Pistons Possible.

A new alloy for pistons has nearly the surface hardness of steel, with one-third the weight.

WESTINGHOUSE AIR BRAKE SALES SHOW BIG INCREASE

H. C. Merry, president of H. C. Merry, Inc., Westinghouse air brake distributer here, says that sales for this product during December and January were considerably above those for a year ago, his factory has reported.

A larger volume of unfilled orders were on the Westinghouse Air Brake Co., books at the beginning of 1927, but current sales are much better this year, Merry says.

GOODYEAR PUTS OUT NEW VULCANIZER

A compact vulcanizing outfit has just been put out by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., which is claimed to give a perfectly vulcanized patch in eight minutes. It consists of a pressure clamp, a vulcanizing plate and 12 patches and is packed in a small lithographed can with buffer top. The current can be supplied from the tail light, dash, headlight or any single base light socket of the car, so no matches or other flame for heating is necessary.

DODGE FEBRUARY OUTPUT HIGH

Export of 3801 Dodge Bros. cars and Graham Bros. trucks and commercial cars during February set a record for all time for that month for the company, according to figures compiled by the factory.

The total of 3801 units sold compares to 3013 for February, 1927, and 3472 for February, 1926. The factory export output for February this year represents a gain of more than 26 per cent over February a year ago.

Dodge Bros., Inc., views the increased sales volume as a reflection of improved business conditions and increased buying power in the foreign field. Dealers of Europe and the British Isles placed large orders during the month for trucks and the Victory Six models.

In anticipation of a record breaking business this pring, production of cars and trucks in the plants of Dodge Bros. has been adjusted to keep pace with domestic and foreign orders.

Advanced Engineering

When the first Whippet was produced it was far ahead of competition. And the perfected Whippet is still ahead of the field in modern engineering design. It has a drilled crankshaft for full force-feed lubrication, and silent timing chain as used on the finest custom cars. It has the only light car power plant which actually doubles its rated horsepower.

The Whippet holds the A. A. A. Coast-to-Coast Economy Record with an average of 43.28 miles to a gallon of gasoline. No other car in its class has ever shown such economy. It holds, also, many speed, second gear, hill-climbing and other records. In short, it has proved its superior qualities of performance in countless tests and in the hands of hundreds of thousands of drivers.

Until you, yourself, sit at the wheel of the Whippet, and put it through its paces, you can never truly appreciate its liveliness, its pickup, its speed and smoothness, its comfort and its easy handling.

AUBURN PLANTS SPEED UP CAR PRODUCTION

AUBURN, Ind., March 17.—With all records for the number of workmen employed by the Auburn Automobile Co. broken here this week, and unfilled orders rapidly piling up, the various plant units of the company have reached capacity production, officials announced today.

While production has now reached nearly 700 cars a week, it will be at least four to six weeks before unfilled orders can be caught up with, the announcement said.

The central production plant here is now operating on an 11-hour basis, with several of the departments working day and night. Obstacles that held up production in February have been overcome and lines are operating unbroken.

New Type Chassis Used On Dodge Victory 6 Cars

Road Trip Shows Battleship Construction Is Big Safety Feature, and Eliminates Body Rattles.

By the Auto Editor.

Motorists have come to the conclusion, as rightly they should, that any motor car built by a reputable present-day factory is a good car. Standardization has brought this about. Excepting power of various engines, their speed capabilities, body and chassis production has been, for the most part, carried out with surprising uniformity.

Improvements develop slowly in the automotive industry. The manufacturer is cautious for the public is not receptive to innovations. But once in a while some manufacturer does offer the public something radically new with instantaneous popular acceptance. A case in point: The new Dodge Victory Six car.

New Chassis Design.

The past week tho writer obtained from the Tate Motor Car Co., Dodge distributer here, a stock Victory Six sedan and drove it some 200 miles to Lake Killarney at Arcadia and back. While the car was no speedier, no more powerful than any of a number of reputable six-cylinder cars on the market, one is inspired by the sense of safety driving it gives. And the answer to that is the radical change of design and construction employed in building body and chassis—one of those innovations referred to above.

This new design, termed battleship construction, gives the car an almost perfect leverage. The body of the new Dodge Victory Six sets not on the chassis but lays over it on each side, flush with the frame and bolted thereto. This not only gives the car a lower center of gravity—placing all the weight close to the ground—but also permits a lower over-all height without sacrificing headroom or road clearance. And, startlingly, there are only eight major parts in the body of this new car, and they are welded into a single unit. There is not a single joint or squeak to rattle.

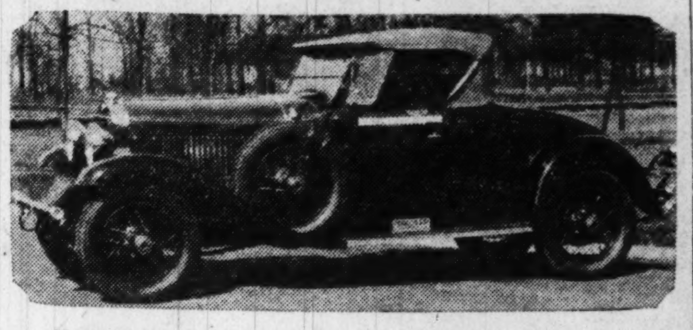
This sense of safety is especially felt when touring the sometimes perilous mountain roads of the Ozarks, when inability to make short turns oftimes precipitates accident. The new Dodge job can safely be turned around hairpin curves at 40 and 45 m. p. h., without the slightest sidesway—a speed which would put some cars over on two wheels. Again the answer is the new type of chassis construction.

Better Roadability.

Roadability, too, is enhanced by the new type of construction and potholes can be hit at high speeds with scarcely no shock to driver or occupants. There's a bad stretch of road between Middlebrook and Graniteville, on the way to Arcadia, not muddy but about a bumpy as a cobblestone street. And that Dodge was sent over it at 45 m. p. h., with about as much ease as it could have been driven at that speed up Locust boulevard.

Briefly about speed: It did 65 m. p. h., without extending the motor, which is not at all bad for an engine developing 52 h. p. at 3000 r. p. m.

Another New Moon Creation



Here is the new Moon 8-80 sport roadster which has just been placed into production.

MORE SAFETY MEASURES NEEDED, SAYS KRAUSE

"With the number of motor cars increasing on the highways, the problem presented to automotive engineers has been to increase the safety of these automobiles," says George Krause, president of the Wilson Motor Car Co., Chandler distributer here.

"As a consequence, the importance of good brakes continues to be of utmost concern. At first two-wheel brakes seemed sufficient, then came the demand for four-wheel brakes until virtually every car now uses them. Four-wheel brakes have ben accepted by the motoring public, but engineers have found that they can be improved upon.

"So now Chandler is using Westinghouse vacuum four-wheel brakes as standard equipment on all its models. Public officials, safety councils and many other organizations who are fundamentally interested in safety, assert the fact that these brakes are one of the greatest safety factors introduced within recent years on a motor car.

"So interested have traffic officials become in this brake innovation of Chandler's that they have visited Chandler salesrooms in all sections of the country, reports show, and have give ntheir unqualified endorsement. Chandler officials are indeed proud of the fact that they have introduced a device with their motor cars that will aid nationally the safe and sane driving movement," Krause says."

HIGH RECORD SHIPMENTS FOR WILLYS-OVERLAND, INC.

TOLEDO, O., March 17.—Shipments of 39,123 Willys-Knight and Whippet cars in January and February show an increase of 49 per cent, compared with shipments of 26,375 cars during the same two months of 1927, according to Willys-Overland, Inc.

Despite the heavy shipments of Whippets and Willys-Knights since the first of the year, the company entered March with 31,000 unfilled orders at the factory, the greatest unfilled volume at any stage in its history.

Shipments of 24,017 cars in February exceeds the largest previous February in the history of the company and is an increase of 44 per cent, compared with shipments of 16,639 cars in the same month last year.

Factory production has been steadily stepped up and now exceeds 1250 a day.

PIERCE ARROW

"WORTHY OF ITS WORLD RENOWN"

MONSIEUR Saoutchik, famed Parisian body-builder, says further of the new Pierce-Arrow: "It is the most beautiful car of its kind that I have ever seen. What I saw of your methods of manufacture convinced me that Pierce-Arrow is worthy of its world renown and merits its place at the head of American body-builders. It is my opinion that it will have a profound influence on body conceptions in America."

The new Pierce-Arrow is offered in fifteen custom-built body styles, with strikingly new lines and exquisite color combinations. Prices from twenty-nine hundred dollars — at Buffalo.

You may purchase a Pierce-Arrow out of income, if you prefer. A simplified financing plan makes this a most practical procedure. Your present car accepted as cash up to the full amount of its appraisal valuation.

......all others trail

Chrysler "72" performance makes all other performance in its field seem as out-of-date as last year's license plates. All you have to do is to ride in a "72," and drive it to appreciate the difference.

Only Chrysler's great engineering staff and precision manufacturing organization—only Chrysler Standardized Quality—could have produced such performance results.

Only Chrysler engineers could have developed 75 smooth horse power from an engine of such moderate size, insuring economy and long life, as well as extraordinary power.

You can, at will, do 72 miles an hour and more—velvety, easy miles—due to this unique and vibrationless engine with counterweighted seven-bearing crankshaft.

It takes mountain grades at constant acceleration. In traffic, the "72" flashes to the fore with characteristic Chrysler get-away.

The safety and simplicity of Chrysler's self-equalizing hydraulic four wheel brakes insure positive braking on all four wheels at one time and make Chrysler brakes surer.

Go to any Chrysler salesroom and ask for a "72" demonstration. Drive the car where and as you will. Demonstration will prove to you just how much better the "72" performs.

BAKER GIVES FALCON SECOND-GEAR TEST

Covered 27.6 Miles in 44 Minutes—Average Speed 37 M. P. H.

"Cannon Ball" Baker, in Indianapolis last week selected a stock Falcon-Knight six sedan for a severe second-gear test at high speed, to prove the endurance qualities of the famous Knight double-sleeve-valve motor. This car, weighing 2885 pounds, was loaded with five full-grown passengers and another car of 136-inch wheelbase—a Marmon—carrying four passengers, was towed by the Falcon-Knight. The total weight of both cars and passengers was 9022 pounds.

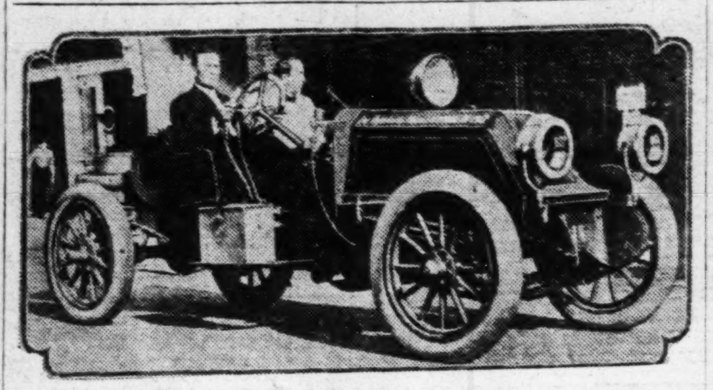
The course selected for the test was the well-known hill road from Martinsville, Ind., to Indianapolis. This course has many steep and long hills and is used extensively to test hill-climbing ability. Baker proposed to set a second-gear speed record towing a heavy load up this course.

The Falcon-Knight covered the distance of 27.6 miles in exactly 44 minutes, 7 seconds, or an average speed of 37.24 miles an hour. The car was locked in second gear. This sets a new record for second-gear performance on this course or any similar course.

During the run the motor turned over at an average of 4064 r. p. m., and at times was running at 4904 r. p. m. With this terrific speed the heat of the car was never more than 130 degrees, and oil pressure stood at 33 pounds at all times. After the towed car had been disconnected, the transmission was unlocked and Baker shifted from second gear to high gear and the car performed in its usual quiet, smooth way.

At the start of the event, the Falcon-Knight six picked up speed until 40 miles per hour was registered on the speedometer. At this point a long hill was reached and the sleeve-valve motor car pulled hard and cleared the top at 19 miles an hour. From this point on the speed never was less than 25 miles an hour, and at times reached the maximum of 45 miles per hour. A total of six long or steep hills was crossed during the trip and never once did the Falcon sleeve-valve car falter.

A Franklin Race Winner in 1912



AT THE WHEEL of this 1912 Franklin is Ralph Hamlin, pioneer Franklin dealer of Los Angeles, who drove the car to victory in 1912 in a desert race from Los Angeles to Phoenix, Ariz. Note the large wheels and acetylene lamps.

REO CAR RUNS 925 MILES IN 18 HOURS

Betters Record From Los Angeles and Phoenix by Two Hours.

Bettering the record from Los Angeles to Phoenix via Yuma by an hour and 48 minutes; smashing the record from Phoenix to Los Angeles via Blythe by two hours, and establishing a round-trip record of 18 hours and 46 minutes for 925 miles, were the recent accomplishments of a stock Reo Flying Cloud roadster piloted by two nonprofessional drivers, according to word received from officials of the Reo Motor Car Co. by R. L. Hilty, manager of the St. Louis-Reo Co.

The Reo Flying Cloud checked out at Western Union, Los Angeles, at 1 a. m. and was back again at 9:12 p. m. the same day, making the total elapsed time 20 hours and 12 minutes. Of this, one hour and 26 minutes was "time out" in Phoenix, during which the oil was changed in the Flying Cloud, the two gas tanks were filled and the drivers ate lunch.

The 484 miles via Yuma was made in 8 hours and 34 minutes. The 441 miles back via Blythe was made in 10 hours and 12 minutes. On the outbound trip the car had pavement, with the exception of a few miles of detours until Yuma was reached, when the 204 miles of desert road loomed ahead. The trip back to Los Angeles was all on dirt roads until Mecca was reached, with the exception of a few miles leading out of Phoenix.

FEBRUARY BIG EXPORT MONTH FOR NASH CO.

February was the biggest month in export orders and shipments in the history of the Nash Motors Co. Recently reduced prices which placed Nash Motors in the position of offering the world's lowest priced seven-bearing sixes—six models being listed at the factory under $1000—together with 39 color combinations and 24 attractive models from which to choose, have combined to create a sales momentum that is sweeping Nash forward in this country and abroad, officials say.

February shipments of Nash cars to overseas points showed an increase of 29 per cent over February a year ago, and made February of this year the greatest single month in the export division of the company. The increase in export orders for the month was 46.4 per cent greater than shipments for January. A large number of orders for overseas shipment were carried over to this month and there is every indication that March will prove another big export month.

The month just ended also showed an increase in domestic shipments of Nash cars of 24 per cent over the previous month, with an increase in orders of 32 per cent over January, and, according to officials of the company, there is every indication that the sales momentum in March will reach new heights.

A Police Viewpoint.

According to Police Inspector Samuel Lippman of Atlantic City, N. J., a youthful driver can operate a car at 25 miles an hour through traffic and still have his machine under control. He thinks quickly and clearly. The greatest menace, he claims, is the driver who slows up traffic, and the car which creeps cautiously along and gets in the way is apt to cause the most accidents.

STUDEBAKER
The Great Independent
THE Dictator 4-DOOR SEDAN $1195 F.O.B. FACTORY including shock absorbers
55% more power
65 smooth miles per hour

STUDEBAKER engineering genius has increased the new Dictator's horsepower from 45 to 70 and added to its speed. But its cost to you has not been increased. And the new Dictator engine is actually more economical of gasoline than ever before. It delivers a perfectly paced 65-miles-an-hour—accelerates like a rocket—possesses the flexibility of the finest 6-cylinder construction.

Holds record for cars under $1400

Proof of the new Dictator's advanced performance was established when a stock Dictator sedan traveled 24 continuous hours at better than mile-a-minute speed. No stock car under $1400 has ever equaled this record.

40-mile speed even when new

Due to advanced engineering practices, precision building, high quality materials and rigid inspections which this new Dictator receives, it can be driven 40-miles-per-hour the day it is delivered. No laborious 20-mile-an-hour breaking-in.

Lubricate only every 2500 miles

Studebaker engineers have also eliminated the necessity of oil change to but once every 2500 miles. Chassis greasing has been reduced to 2500-mile intervals through a unique system of magazine high-pressure lubrication.

Engineering genius and traditional quality

Throughout its design the new Dictator is the product of advanced engineering development—yet its One-Profit price is still only $1195, f. o. b. factory, and it bears a famous name—Studebaker—the highest guarantee of motor car excellence!

The Hardest Climate in the World on Auto Finishes
but Steelcote retains its original Gloss!

Mr. R. E. Hopkins, Ancon, Panama, tells of his experience with Steelcote Rubber Auto Enamel.

Panama, because of its hot sun, sudden rains, and salt air from the beaches, is perhaps the hardest climate in the world on paint. A car we refinished with Steelcote has been in constant jitney service. In spite of the weather, the finish has not cracked, peeled or blistered—and it retains its original luster.

WAY down in the Panama Canal Zone, Steelcote Rubber Auto Enamel is making records for endurance. And when you spend time to repaint your car, you want to know that it will stand up.

Steelcote Rubber Auto Enamel is not an ordinary paint or lacquer—although it can be applied over either. It is an automobile finish based on pure Para rubber—a finish that will not check, crack, peel or creep, but retains its original gloss despite blistering sun, driving rain, or the damaging effects of gasoline, road oil, acid or steam.

Experience in painting is not needed to apply Steelcote. Paint your car at home—it is impossible to leave brush marks, laps or flecks. The day after you paint it, your car can be used. And it will retain its luster for months after ordinary paint would be drab and dingy.

Dealers have color charts showing dozens of colors. Or, write us direct for art color chart and intermixing instructions.

Repaint it yourself—or specify Steelcote at the paint shop

"The Paint from the Rubber Tree"

TWO RUBBER TREES USED TO MAKE A TIRE

Equivalent of 180,000,000 Trees Go Into Tires for U. S. Motorists.

In 1910 the number of automobile tires used in this country was three-quarters of a million. Today it is nearly 90,000,000. And it takes the juice from two full-grown hevea trees for a whole year to supply rubber enough for one 29x 4.40 size cord tire.

Floyd L. Darrow traces the history of rubber, tells how it is grown and gives a glimpse of its future, in the St. Nicholas magazine. In 1876 H. A. Wickham, a far-sighted Englishman, smuggled 10,000 rubber seeds from the Amazon and planted them in the Royal Gardens at Kew. Some of the seedlings were sent to the East, and today 90 per cent of the rubber supply of the world comes from these plantations.

Ninety-eight per cent of this rubber is obtained from the hevea tree, originating in Brazil. The latex, or juice, flows better at sunrise than later. A four-inch strip of bark is removed from the tree. A spout at the bottom, similar to that used in tapping maple trees, lets the latex ooze into a cup. The flow stops in about an hour. On the second day a fresh surface is cut and the process repeated.

The first cut was four feet from the ground, and by the time successive cuts have reached the ground the first one is ready to be tapped again, new bark having grown over the scar. Some trees have been tapped for 30 years. The average yield for a year is between three and four pounds of dry rubber, and an acre produces about one pound of rubber a day.

In the curing, vulcanization is most important. Thanks to the persistency of Charles Goodyear's efforts, the secret of making rubber soft and pliable and free from stickiness in all weathers—one of the greatest inventions in American history—was discovered. Today many organic compounds are used to hasten the process and improve the quality, but Goodyear's discovery was what really counted.

Today 140,000 tons of old rubber are transformed into a product of high quality. A rubber-producing shrub is now under cultivation in the United States and such men as Edison are sending out scientific expeditions to study the rubber, and perhaps invent a new way of growing it or a substitute. In wartime synthetic rubber, or a new rubber-producing plant adapted to its soil, offers the only hope of a country cut off from the tropics.

CHRYSLER FIRST TO USE RUBBER CAR MOUNTING

Reports from national and local automobile shows indicate a widespread interest in devices recently developed by car manufacturers as aids to roadability.

Use of rubber for this purpose in cars of the medium and lower price classes is especially a subject of repeated inquiry by visitors to the shows, says L. M. Stewart, president of Midwest Motors, Inc., local Chrysler distributer, and the ingenious methods by which this substance is adapted for deadening vibration, absorbing road shocks and eliminating noises due to contact of metal with metal rarely fail to elicit interested inquiry.

"Chrysler representatives at shows report an exceptionally large number of such inquiries, due, it is believed, to the leading part played by Chrysler engineers in the search for new uses for rubber in chassis construction," says Stewart.

"First developed for the Imperial "80" rubber spring mountings have been passed along by the operation of Chrysler's standardized quality principle to other Chrysler models, the "72" and "62." Their remarkable increased roadability was thus made available for the first time in the moderate priced automobile field. Metal shackles are entirely dispensed with, spring ends being anchored in blocks of live rubber.

"In addition to this use in spring suspension, rubber is effectively applied by Chrysler engineers in other ways to insure quiet, long-lived operation and a high degree of passenger comfort.

"Among the uses of rubber recently devised by them is its application to cushion engine mountings, also a development primarily for Imperial "80" cars, and transmitted from them to the other Chrysler models. Here also, direct metal-to-metal contact is obviated, sound vibrations are kept from passing through the frame into the body of the car, and much improved riding ease is achieved.

"To assure the maintenance of the high quality demanded by Chrysler standards, a specially designed and highly ingenious machine has been added to the company's laboratory equipment, by which all shipments of rubber received are subjected to one of the many rigorous tests imposed on all material in Chrysler production. With this machine, its tensile strength is definitely determined. Rubber intended for use in Chrysler cars must stretch at least 620 per cent before it will break, and at the moment of snapping it must show a strength of at least 2500 pounds per square inch—a resistance far in excess of any strain that would ever be put on it in actual driving.

Remove Carbon Deposits.

Carbon deposits should be removed from the cylinder heads, valves and pistons of every automobile engine at regular mileage intervals. Carbon "knocks" are one common cause of unpleasant and damaging engine noises.

under control. He thinks quickly and clearly. The greatest menace, he claims, is the driver who slows up traffic, and the car which creeps cautiously along and gets in the way is apt to cause the most accidents.

FLAT RATE PRICES FOR MUCH SERVICE

W. B. Denhard Tells What Dealers Are Doing to Help Car Owners.

By W. B. DENHARD,
Service Manager Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co.

The word service is comparatively new, regardless of the thing or matter to which it is applied. Years ago the word service was an accepted factor, that is to say; when a thing was purchased, it was purchased with the intention that it should be usable for a reasonable length of time without an addtional cost of repairs or replacements.

In the automobile business, the word service is a different thing entirely—service in an automobile establishment, or the service dedealer or factory, for one reason only, and that is to give the owner the cheapest transportation possible and in that way the dealer or distributor of the motor car which you are driving, is able to better equip his service stations and prepare his machanics for one make of car than the man who works on a number of different make cars.

To show that the service department in the automobile industry is becoming a great factor, there are a few figures: In the first nine months of 1927, for every dollar spent in the United States for motor car transportation, 57.3 per cent was spent for operation and maintenance cost, and 42.7 per cent was spent for new car purchasers, both commercial and passenger cars. The dealer and distributor of a certain make of car today, is spending thousands of dollars educating his men; for instance, the company I am connected with, the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co., has spent in 1927 over $10,000 for new equipment, in order to give the owner of a Hudson or Essex automobile, faster and cheaper service than he can get elsewhere.

You will also find that the leaders and distributors of motor cars today are now working on a contract basis with the owner and in order that they may do this, they have installed systems which call for flat rate prices to the owner; also a flat rate or bonus system to the mechanics. This system has proven very successful, due to the fact that it makes the mechanic one of the company.

Cleanness for the lady buyer of today is the outstanding feature for any service department. It is much nicer for your wife, or sister or daughter to drive into a service station where she is met in a clean place and has a nice waiting room to wait for her car, than to drive up some alley where she will have a chance of hooking a fender on some coal wagon. Then after she gets to this place, they will call the expert, and she finds that he has a dirty greasy, dingy shop and he meets her in the same condition. This is the reason why the large distributors in St. Louis have built service stations, which do not net them 5 per cent on their investment, and which I think the owner of these service stations will be well satisfied if it could be done.

There is one thing that the owner must take into consideration, and that is that the dealer or distributor of the car which he is representing in his community, carries a complete stock of parts and can furnish them without delay. If a man must run downtown or around to get the parts, it takes both time and delay to do these things for which the owner or operator of the motor car will have to pay.

Drop in Auto Registration.

Automobiles registered in the United States in 1927 showed the smallest percentage of increase since the infancy of the industry and the smallest numeral increase since 1916. Records show 23,266,191 automobiles registered an increase of 1,224,798. Passenger cars now in use number 20,282,000 and trucks 2,994,000. The increase was smaller by 7500 than in the depression year of 1921, and 61,000 smaller than in the war year of 1918.

DANDRUFF
A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

DANGER

LOOK LOOK

Your tongue is the best barometer of your physical condition. Look at it every morning before breakfast. If it is coated with white, yellow or brown coloring, and does not have a clean red appearance you are constipated and not well.

Heed Its Warning

Constipation causes more ailments than all other diseases, and is the result of not having a daily bowel movement. Sick-headache, indigestion, biliousness and sallow complexion follow. Ask your druggist for a 25c red paper package of CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS "Safe Laxative". Take a dose to-night and continue one pill after each meal. Don't stop—until your tongue is clean. You will be surprised at the tonic effect this doctor's formula will have on you.

SEEK $216,000 TO AID DEPENDENT CHILDREN

Members of Citizen's Committee to Appear Before Estimate Board in Budget Plea.

Members of the Citizens' Committee for Safeguarding Public Aid to Dependent Children, in fear that provision for dependent children will be left out of the city's 1928-1929 budget, will appear before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment at a hearing at City Hall at 11 a. m. Friday to urge the board to approve the proposed $216,000 allowance asked by the Board of Children's Guardians for the coming fiscal year.

The Board of Children's Guardians found the $155,000 allotted to it in the 1927-1928 budget inadequate and so has asked for increased allowance, in spite of indications that there would be strong opposition to it.

The Board of Guardians cares for neglected and abandoned children, for dependent children in the mother's home by making a "mother's allowance," where it is needed, and has charge of the Bellefontaine Farm for boys and the Meramec Hills Farm for girls.

"St. Louis," the Citizens' Committee declares, in a summary of the situation, "is indisputably laggard in comparison with other cities, literally to a point where it may be said that, as regards care of dependent children in their own homes, it is making brutally inadequate prevision.

"On the basis of the experience in other large cities, the required expenditures for mothers' aid alone probably would be between $400,000 and $600,000 a year. The number of children who would be eligible for aid under a broad inclusion, such as exists in many other cities, will be between 1700 and 2500. Yet St. Louis is caring for less than 300 children at present. The amount given in aid to mothers could be increased 10 times without being out of line."

If the city fails to make adequate appropriation, the burden of caring for many dependent children will fall upon private agencies and private agencies already are overburdened, the committee contends.

Expenditures during 1927-1928 for mothers' allowances, it is estimated, will total $38,775, and for care of children in foster homes, $84,000. The proposed budget provides $50,000 for mothers' allowances and $125,000 for care of children in foster homes.

Samuel C. McCluney is chairman of the Citizens' Committee.

This roof offers more for your money than any other in the world

That sounds like a pretty broad claim; but read on, then judge for yourself

NATURALLY you want your new house to have a good-looking roof—weather-tight and serviceable . . .

Also you would like the roof-insulation that architects and engineers are recommending nowadays, to keep your house warmer in winter and cooler in summer . . .

Well, the new Carey Cork-Insulated Shingle we want to tell you about gives you both of these things in one roof, at one price, at one laying, and at one labor cost for application!

Then, too, Carey Cork-Insulated Shingles are beautiful, durable slate on the outside and heat-proof cork on the underside.

Being 50% thicker than ordinary shingles, they cast those deep shadow-lines so much sought after, and with their rugged texture—their rich colorings of Red, Silver-Green, Blue-Black and Autumn Tint, they make a roof of unusual beauty and character.

But come in and see them—handle them—examine their unique construction—then judge for yourself.

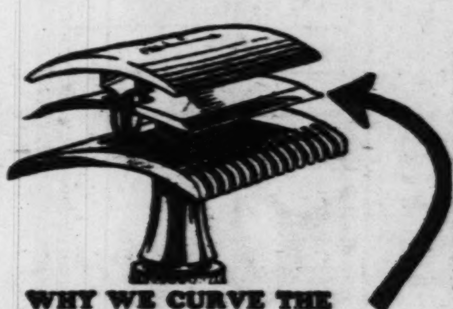
LEND US YOUR FACE

A sample blade for your razor at these dealers—FREE

He did not get a good shave with his last safety razor blade, and he said, "Fifteen years ago, I got good blades—blades good for fifteen shaves. "Today I can't get them. Why?" He can, for those he gets are just as good as those he used to get. Fifteen years ago, he had a boy's beard. Today, he has a man's beard—a beard that has grown as he has grown—but his razor blade has not grown with his beard. Making shaving edges for grown-up beards is a Wade & Butcher Art. Started in 1725, finished in 1927.

WADE & BUTCHER SPECIAL CURVED BLADE



WHY WE CURVE THE WADE & BUTCHER BLADE

The above is a picture of a WADE & BUTCHER razor—OPEN. It is also a picture of your razor—OPEN. Put an ordinary wafer blade in your razor, open it as above and you will note that the blade is straight. Then screw the handle and close it and you will note that the blade must be curved to conform with the shape of the guard.

The perfect razor blade must not crack when clamped. It must have the correct hardness, the correct temper and proper rigidity back of the edge. In order to secure these elements, it is necessary to use a piece of steel of the proper thickness and curve it. That is why we curved the WADE & BUTCHER blade, which is three times as thick as an ordinary WAFER blade.

Famed Artist Sings Through KSD Tonight

Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, who is to be the soloist in tonight's Atwater Kent Hour over KSD, has been a public singer for more than 50 years. The season of 1926-27 marked her golden jubilee as an artist.

She made her American debut on Jan. 9, 1899, when she sang the role of "Ortrud" in a Metropolitan Opera Company performance of "Lohengrin" in Chicago. She was recalled 20 times in this sensational debut.

Four weeks later she bore her eighth and only American-born child. Five weeks after that she sang for the first time in the Metropolitan Opera House scoring a triumph as complete as her debut in Chicago. Since then she has become virtually an American institution.

This noted soloist who has charmed so many millions in her long career had rather a dubius beginning, for the director of the Hof Opera in Vienna was not convinced that she possessed any merit. It is recorded that he said "She could never hope to be a singer and might better go home and run a sewing machine."

Mme. Schumann-Heink is now planning to devote much of her time to teaching and spreading the influence of music.

As usual, Mme. Schumann-Heink will be assisted by Miss Florence Hardeman, violinist, who will play twice during the program, which follows:

(a) Mitrane Aria ....Rossi
(b) Die Forelle ....Schubert
(c) Die Allmacht ....Schubert
Mme. Schumann-Heink.
(a) Ave Maria..Schubert-Wilhelmy
(b) Verlassen ..Koschat-Winternitz
Miss Hardeman.
(a) Es Muss Ein Wunderbares Sein ....Liszt
(b) Widmung ....Schumann
(c) Wiegenlied ....Brahms
(d) Danza ....Chadwick
Mme. Schumann-Heink.
Fanale from "Concerto in E Minor" ....Mendelssohn
Miss Hardeman.
(a) Rosary (by request)....Nevin
(b) Bolero ....Arditi
(c) Taps ..... Arr. by Pasternack
(d) Star Spangled Banner...Key
Mme. Schumann-Heink.

DR. POLING TO DISCUSS 'HOW TO LIVE' ON KSD TODAY

"How to Live" is the topic which Dr. Daniel A. Poling has selected for his address before the National Youth Conference and for radio listeners through KSD at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

A musical program to be presented by a vocal quartet and an orchestra, under direction of George Shackley, will be heard in connection with this broadcast.

Dr. Theodore F. Savage, chairman of the Religious Work Committee of the Greater New York Federation of Churches, which directs the conference, will preside in place of Dr. William B. Millar, who is conducting a party of tourists through the Holy Land.

Abram to Be Character in Biblical Play

The singularly dramatic and baffling story of Abram, Sarai and the Pharaoh is the subject of William Ford Manley's Bible drama, "Sarai and the Pharaoh," to be presented at 9:15 tonight through WEAF, WGY, FSAI, WOC, WHO, WOW, KVOO and other stations.

According to Manley, the tale is dramatic because it relates how a man lied to save his life and sacrificed thereby his peace of mind and honor. It is baffling as a piece of Biblical literature because it makes Abram a liar—a liar who is rewarded for his untruth. Punishment was meted out to the innocent Pharoah, who, unaware that he had taken a man's wife from him, was stricken with all manner of misfortunes.

Cliquot Club Eskimos Back On KSD Again

The Cliquot Club Eskimos are to return to KSD this week, beginning Tuesday night at 9 o'clock. This popular radio feature in recent months has been scheduled for Thursday nights, and St. Louisans have been tuning it in on WGN.

The change to Tuesday nights makes it possible for KSD to broadcast the Eskimos in the period occupied by the auction bridge game series, which has been concluded for the season.

Beginning next Wednesday night, from 7 to 8 o'clock, KSD is to broadcast a new feature—a Crowell Publishing Co. program sponsored by the American magazine and the Woman's Home Companion.

The investment counsel broadcast series which was announced last Sunday to begin in April is to be broadcast over KSD and allied stations. It will be sponsored by Halsey, Stuart &Co., on a nation-wide basis.

Harry Reser, noted as a banjo soloist, who is leader of the Cliquot Club Eskimos, is to feature the banjo in Tuesday night's broadcast. He will play "Fair and Warmer" as a banjo solo with accompaniment by the Plectrum Quartet. "When the Robert E. Lee Comes to Town," will be played with banjos emphasized.

CAROLINE ANDREWS WITH 'CAPITOL FAMILY' TONIGHT

Caroline Andrews, the "lark," will be heard again during the broadcast program of the Capitol Theater Family over KSD at 6:20 this evening.

While Miss Andrews is best known to the public through radio, she has to her credit a career in opera and concert, having sung with such organizations as the Operatic Festival at Pittsburg and Philadelphia, made up of Metropolitan and Chicago Opera stars, the Municipal Opera of St. Louis, as the prima donna of the New York company of the "Student Prince," and in concerts in Eastern cities.

Gypsies over KSD tomorrow night.

'Desert Song' Composer on Air Tomorrow

Martha Attwood of the Metropolitan Opera, and Sigmund Romberg, composer of "Student Prince," "Blossom Time" and "Desert Song," assisted by a symphony orchestra and a concert band, will give a Romberg program over KSD in the General Motors Family Party tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock.

Romberg will be heard on the air for the first time. He is to play some of his more melodious pieces on the piano. In addition to Miss Attwood, a baritone soloist, and a male octette will sing some of the better known Romberg songs.

It is expected that the program will be as distinctive as the "Friml hour" in a General Motors party a month ago.

Romberg was born in Hungary and studied to become a construction engineer. He never attended music school, studying only with private teachers. It was not until he came to this country that he became a professional.

In 1906 and 1907, he served in the Hungarian Army and, after leaving the army in 1909, organized his own orchestra.

Until 1914, most of the shows produced in this country were brought over from Vienna. When war was declared and the American public showed its disapproval of the continued use of European compositions, composers in this country came to the fore with the result that today the United States leads in the production of shows.

It was in 1913 that Romberg wrote his first Winter Garden show, "Whirl of the World." His second was "The Passing Show of 1914." Since then others which have attained great popularity have followed in regular sequence.

Where to Tune in Roxy Today.

Roxy's Stroll may be tuned in from 1 to 2 o'clock this afternoon on WHO, WOC, WOW, KYW and other stations. A soloist of note is promised for today's broadcast.

Well Balanced Program for Noon Concert

The program for the Golden Strand group concert over KSD from noon to 1 o'clock today is almost evenly divided between music from light opera and works of the great composers.

It follows:

ATWATER KENT modern RADIO A·C

Radio's greatest triumph!

$88 without tubes

Model 37 Six-tube, Full-vision Dial, self-contained A. C. set. For use with 110-115 volt, 60-cycle, Alternating Current. Uses six A. C. amplifying tubes, and one rectifying tube.

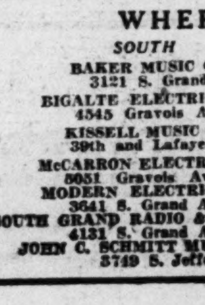
More than 150,000 sold since January 1st! It is the most popular radio in the United States. It is converting even those who were "going to wait a while." It is the answer to the universal question, "When will electric radio be perfected?"

Plug in this new A. C. set yourself. Turn the Full-vision Dial. As your station responds you will know from the tone that radio without batteries is perfected.

No batteries—yet it is smaller than many battery sets. The compact cabinet is a shield against outside electrical interference. The built-in power supply is doubly shielded. The design and satin finish of the cabinet are modern, too—in keeping with the newer conception of beautiful things for the home.



Model E Radio Speaker $24

Radio's truest voice. All parts protected against moisture. Comes in a variety of beautiful color combinations.

You will find this set astonishingly economical in operation, for the current from your house-lighting circuit costs only a fraction of a cent an hour. You will find it durable for a lifetime—for that's the way it's made. You will find it—just as more than 150,000 other families have found it—precisely what you hoped radio would be. Why wait?

If you must use batteries

MODEL 33 is an extra-powerful, extra-selective battery set. Designed for use where unusual results are necessary but A. C. electricity is not available. Full-vision Dial. Six tubes required. Price, without accessories, $75.

Also Model 35. Shielded cabinet. Six tubes required. Price, without accessories, $49.

Loop Connections.

When making a loop connection at a terminal, arrange the loop end of the wire that is placed around the binding post so it follows the screw thread. Most binding posts are threaded with a right-hand thread, the cap or nut being tightened clockwise. Form the loop over a machine screw or use a small pair of wire-forming pliers, bending the loop in a clockwise direction so that, when the nut or cap is tightened, the wire will not be twisted out from under the nut, as would be the case if the wire and nut turned in opposite directions.

CANADA DEMANDING MORE RADIO WAVES

Conference Likely to Be Hastened Because of New Station in Newfoundland.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—A conference will be necessary sooner or later to work out a division of waves between Newfoundland, Canada, United States, Mexico and Cuba, in the opinion of Secretary Hoover, Commissioner Caldwell and Solicitor Vallance of the State Department.

The need for such a conference was increased by the licensing of a 500-watt station at St. Johns, Newfoundland, recently. The call of the station is 8WMC, and it will operate on 395 meters. It is Newfoundland's first station, and means potential interference with American stations on or near that wave.

There is no agreement between this country and Newfoundland about wave assignments. Newfoundland has a government of its own, and is not included in negotiations pending between the United States and Cuba and Mexico.

Officials regard the situation between the United States and Canada as rather critical. If Canada is given the waves, which its representatives demand, it will seriously lessen those available for this country.

Canada has six exclusive waves and 12 shared waves—that is, the United States and Canada each have stations on 12 waves.

Canada wants 12 exclusive waves and 24 shared waves.

If the request were granted, the United States would have only 59 exclusive waves, and 24 shared, as compared with 77 exclusive and 12 shared at present.

RIGIDITY

conserves TONE QUALITY

The Stromberg-Carlson Hour Tuesday Evenings at 8 o'clock Eastern Standard Time, through the NBC and Associated Stations: WJZ, WBZ-WBZA, KDKA, KYW, WJR, WBAL, KWK, WREN and WHAM.

THE tone of a Stromberg-Carlson is acoustically exact when it leaves the factory—it never varies—it is lasting as the Receiver—it is insured by the Receiver's rigid construction.

All parts of a Stromberg-Carlson are built on a rigid framework. No part is stinted of necessary material. Wiring is firmly located. Shipping, installing or operating strains will not unbalance the circuits or disturb the electrical properties of the Receiver.

This rigidity is essential to conserve that pure tone quality which characterizes the Stromberg-Carlson Receiver. It is evidenced by the Receiver's weight and its massive design.

Your nearest Stromberg-Carlson dealer's address may be learned from his advertisements in your newspapers or in your telephone directory.

SCENE OF BROADCAST IN PHONOGRAPH STUDIO

Eveready Hour Next Teusday Evening to Bring a Real Radio Novelty.

"An hour in a phonograph recording studio" will be broadcast in the Eveready Hour next Tuesday evening over KSD.

Of the millions of phonograph record owners in America, it is said that few have seen the making of a record, so closely guarded are the secrets of the phonograph studios. So this Eveready Hour will be in the nature of a "behind the scenes" revelation.

Singers in group songs and solos, a jazz band and instrumental solos will be included in the 16 numbers in the hour.

Nathaniel Shilkret, conductor of the Eveready Orchestra, which will supply the music, is musical director of one of the leading phonograph companies and has had a part in the making of records for 10 years.

MARKS TO ANNOUNCE BALL GAMES AGAIN THROUGH KMOX

Garnett Marks, who announced the baseball games ovre KMOX last season under several nom-de-plumes, is to serve in that capacity again this year. KMOX plans to broadcast play-by-play accounts of all national league games played in St. Louis and of the more important games on days when there are open dates at Sportsman's Park.

Plans are to broadcast over KMOX at least one game every day throughout the 1928 season.

Clean Surfaces Necessary for Best Joints.

It is impossible to solder directly to metals except in the case of bright, clean surfaces. There is always a certain amount of oxidation of all metals, and this creates a thin film over the surfaces of them. Dirt, grease, stains, as well as oxidization, will prevent the solder from getting a hold on the metal; therefore it will roll off. This is especially true of the soldering iron tip itself, as due to the heat of the iron oxidation of the copper tip is accelerated, and unless kept clean solder will not adhere to it. The use of flux is to open the pores of the metal, clean the surfaces by removing oxides and grease, and prevent oxidation while the solder is applied, thereby creating a perfect union of the metals.

Vibration Due to Loudspeaker.

If "microphonic" noises are experienced in a set, a condition caused by mechanical vibrations jarring the elements of the tubes, try the loudspeaker as far from the set as the cord will reach. If that does not stop it, one of the tubes is microphonic. Shift the tubes to different sockets and pay particular attention to the detector. Another tube in the detector socket may cure the trouble. The best plan would be to get a new tube and by the process of elimination look for the microphonic tube. Keep the wires of the "B" eliminator away from the antenna and ground wires.

TYPES OF "ELECTRIC" SETS TO BE DEFINED

Radio Manufacturers' Directors Agree on Plan to Assist Buyers of Receivers.

Measures to aid the public in selecting radio receivers by dissipating confusion as to "electric" receiving sets are to be taken by the Radio Manufacturers' Association. The directors have decided to present to the public and trade authentic definitions, or specifications, of the four types, or designs, of electric-powered receiving sets now being marketed.

Instead of attempting a rigid commercial definition of an "electric" or "socket power" set, the RMA Board approved a plan of its engineering division to outline definitions of the four most popular sets. This plan was agreed on because of the difficulty in reconciling conflicting claims and definitions of "an electric set."

Plans are to be presented at the RMA board's next meeting, April , at French Lick Springs, Ind., for development of radio as an educational agency in the public schools and for its wider use in homes through women's clubs and similar organizations.

The association's special committee, headed by A. J. Carter of Chicago, which is working on a radio patent cross-license plan, to make radio patents of wider use to the public and the trade, expects to complete technical features of the patent interchange scheme for submission to the next RMA board meting and, thereafter, to the association membership in June.

Plans for the fourth annual convention of the RMA at Chicago on June 11 are in charge of a committee headed by Henry Forster of Chicago. The annual banquet, which is to be broadcast over an extensive chain, will be held at Rainbow Gardens, a resort just outside of Chicago. Over 2000 banquet guests are expected.

Between 25,000 and 30,000 radio jobbers and dealers are expected to attend the radio trades show in Chicago that week. The entire ,000 square feet of exhibition space available in the Stevens Hotel for the show has been taken. This space is almost double that of the last trade show last year. Hotel reservations are being made rapidly and special reduced railroad rates for the thousands of trade visitors expected have been arranged by the Railroads' Joint Traffic Bureau. Special trains from the Pacific and Atlantic coasts will be run to Chicago.

The RMA board has adopted a plan of financing of installment radio sales paper, designed to aid the public indirectly in purchasing, and manufacturers, jobbers and dealers directly.

LINDBERGH PRESENTATION TO BE BROADCAST OVER KWK

Ceremonies at the presentation Col. Charles A. Lindbergh of Woodrow Wilson Foundation's ,000 award for his work as a "good will ambassador" will be broadcast at 8:30 tomorrow night over KWK.

Besides Col. Lindbergh, speakers will be Norman Davis, president of the foundation, who will make the presentation, and John W. Davis, Democratic presidential candidate in 1924. The flyer also will be given a bronze medal.

The foundation's award is made each year to the person or persons who have done most during the year to carry on Woodrow Wilson's ideals of promoting international good will. The award to Col. Lindbergh is made for "his contribution to the cause of international friendship."

ST. LOUISAN REPORTS SHORT WAVE TALK WITH SO. AFRICA

On three different occasions last week Elmer F. Koehler, 9032 Windom avenue, St. Louis County, reports he was in two-way radio communication with Johannesburg, South Africa. He reports also two-way conversation by radio with stations in Para, Brazil, and Brussels, Belgium.

Koehler owns and operates 9BEU an amateur radio transmitter, using low power on the short wave channel allotted to amateurs.

'MONA TWINS' BACK ON KMOX FRIDAY TO REMAIN FOUR DAYS

NED TOLLINGER (top) and John Wolfe, the Mona Motor Oil Twins, who are to return Friday to KMOX for a four-day stay. They are on their way East after a tour of Pacific Coast stations. Beginning their broadcasting about two years ago over KOIL, Council Bluffs, Ia., they have become leaders among radio teams. Last Christmas they broadcast over KMOX, helping to raise a fund to provide presents for poor children. KMOX received more than 5000 telephone requests during December that they be engaged as staff entertainers.

DON AMAIZO PLAYS VIOLIN AGAIN TONIGHT OVER KYW

Two violin solos are to be played in the Don Amaizo concert at 9:15 tonight over WJZ, KYW, KDKA and WCCO.

The solos will be "Memories," by Dickinson, and "Smilin' Through," by Penn. Don Amaizo will lead the orchestra in "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling," "Over the Waves," "Believe Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms," "The National Emblem March" and other numbers.

South Likely to Get Many More Stations

Applications for 34 Licenses Filed—Big Power Increases Sought—Oklahoma Transmitter Wants 15,000 Watts.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—Many new stations are likely to be licensed in Southern states as a result of charges in Congress that the Federal Radio Commission has discriminated against that region, and because of the success in the House of the fight for equal apportionment of stations and power in the various zones.

The Radio Commission has before it 34 applications for new station licenses in the South and 16 requests for increased power.

Of the applications 18 are for low power, ranging from 5 to 50 watts. Five are for 100 to 150 watts.

Power of 200 to 250 watts for new stations is asked by: the Home Alliance Corp.; Ft. Myers, Fla.; Southern Radio Co., Tampa, Fla.; L. A. Sims, Tulsa, Ok.; Elk Radio Shop, Elk City, Ok.

Power of 500 watts for new stations is asked by: R. E. Martin, Columbus, Ga.; Full Gospel Tabernacle, Tulsa, Ok., and Lyman M. Edwards, Enid, Ok.

Power of 1000 watts for new stations is requested by the First Church of the Nazarene, Little Rock, Ark., and the Richmond Development Cpr. Corp., Roanoke, Va.

The Highland Heights Christian Church, Wichita Falls, Tex., would use 700 watts if authorized to build a station.

Incidentally, the Enid, Ok., applicant would use 500 watts on 312 meters, which would mean ruining reception of the Canadian stations on that channel, including the new 5000-watt Toronto transmitter.

The owner of KWKH, Shreveport, La., who nightly fulminates against the Radio Commission because it limited his power, asks for the right to use 3500 watts.

KFJF, Oklahoma City, Ok., would increase its power from 750 watts on 272 meters to 15,000 watts which is the power used by WGN, one of the country's really good stations.

KVOO, Oklahoma City, would use 5000 watts.

WMC, Memphis, Tenn., would increase from 500 to 5000 watts.

WLAC, Nashville, would increase from 500 to 5000 watts. WRR, Dallas, Tex., asks for the same increase.

Other power increases sought by Southern stations are: WCBE, New Orleans, to 500 watts; WCOC, Columbus, Miss., to 500 watts; WPTF, Raleigh, N. C., to 1000 watts; KTAP, San Antonio, Tex., to 250 watts; WDAG, Amarillo, Tex., to 1000 watts; KPRC, Houston, Tex., to 1000 watts; WGRC, San Antonio, Tex., to 500 watts; KFYO, Breckenridge, Tex., to 100 watts; KGCI, San Antonio, Tex., to 500 watts.

WBAP, Ft. Worth, Tex., which shares the 499-meter channel with WOAI, San Antonio, would shift to 461 meters, which is used by KRLD Dallas, and WRR, Dallas, Tex.

Trade Notes

E. E. BRUNS was elected president of the Kolster Club, an organization of radio dealers in St. Louis and vicinity, at the monthly meeting Wednesday night at the Coronado Hotel. M. G. Dorton was elected first vice president; Ralph Kranser, second vice president; T. G. Crabb, secretary, and B. S. De Groat, W. A. Hirsch, R. A. Kissel and O. H. Bucholtz, directors. About 75 were present at the meeting, over which Gene Strauss of the Strauss Co., Kolster distributer in this territory, presided.

William B. Mackle, executive secretary of the St. Louis Radio Trades Association, spoke on the value of organization to radio dealers, the effect of cumulative co-operative effort, and the possibilities of developing sales by using ideas that could be gained at dealer meetings.

Strauss told the dealers of the Kolster merchandizing policy, and also discussed the tube situation.

Will L. Lindhorst, who turned from assisting Thurston, the magician, to selling radio receivers, showed the meeting a number of tricks.

A dinner dance for radio business men is to be given by the St. Louis Radio Trades Association at the Midland Country Club on Saturday night, March 31, at 7:30 o'clock. It is planned to make this an annual affair. Roy Haege is in charge of arrangements.

Execution of a long term lease of the plant of the Yellow Truck and Coach Manufacturing Co. in Chicago makes the Grigsby-Grunow-Hinds Co., maker of Majestic radio power units, one of the largest radio manufacturers in the world. The company now has nearly half a million square feet of manufacturing floor space.

The newly compiled radio trade-in book has been formally adopted by the directors of the St. Louis Radio Trades Association as a guide for members of the association in sale and resale of receivers. This book lists the trade-in values of receivers of all makes. Values of old sets are figured on the basis of a profit for the dealer. The books may be obtained Monday and thereafter from W. B. Mackle, executive secretary of the St. Louis Radio Trades Association.

The Star Square stores have been appointed authorized Atwater Kent dealers in St. Louis. The firm, which operates a number of stores and so has city-wide distribution, also will handle the line of Pooley cabinets for Atwater Kent sets.

The March meeting of the St. Louis Radio Trades Association, which will be held Tuesday night at Hotel Claridge, is to be open to nonmembers as well as members of the association. Dinner is to be served at 6:30 o'clock. The speaker of the evening is to be H. Riehl, manager of the Better Business Bureau, who will explain what the bureau is doing for radio dealers.

Ownership of all patents covering the new Marvin and Vasselli system of automatic control for radio receivers has been acquired by the Zenith Radio Corporation of Chicago, according to announcement by E. F. McDonald, president of Zenith. McDonald says that Zenith hopes to be in production of automatic receivers by June, and expects to license competitors to use the patents.

The automatic receiver idea has been developed by Henry N. Marvin, Rye, N. Y., and Anthony J. Vasselli, Newark, N. J., working independently. Recently Marvin demonstrated to newspaper men a receiver operated by push buttons. To tune in a station he merely pushed a button, instead of twirling the dials.

A new detector tube, which is shaped exactly like a conventional tube, but is made of black bakelite, incloses a fixed carborundum crystal detector and a potentiometer for biasing, and has a regular base. With a minor change or two, it can be inserted in the detector socket of any radio receiver to replace a regular tube. The top of the bakelite tube turns, so as to afford a means of adjusting the potentiometer.

This new detector "tube" has been tested in several receivers in St. Louis the past week and apparently works as well as a regular detector tube, but turns over a very clear, true signal to the audio amplifier. It was used as a detector in several tuned radio-frequency sets and as a second detector in two super-heterodynes worked equally well in each. It performed well in distance reception, and in listening to local programs the carborundum tube seemed to clarify and enrich the tone quality.

Walter H. Dyer & Co., Inc., has been appointed factory representative for the Cameron antenna, which is of a double cross type. This antenna, because of its construction, can be erected in a limited space, and is said to be very sensitive and undirectional, picking up signals from one direction as well as from another. Its total spread is only five feet, its height only 30 inches.

OPERA SOPRANO WILL BE SOLOIST IN FAMILY PARTY

MARTHA ATWOOD.

CYMBALON SOLO ON KWK

Ladislaus Kun, who is to be soloist in next Friday night's White Rock concert over KWK, given by the New York Philharmonic Symphonette, is one of the few masters of the cymbalon, one of the most ancient of stringed instruments.

The cymbalon resembles a harp placed horizontally and the strings are struck with hammers. There are hammers of wood, wool, leather, ivory, metal, and with these it is possible for the player to make the cymbalon yield excellent imitions of the piano, mandolin, harp, guitar or banjo. Kun will play "Hungarian Variations," his own composition.

SETTING-UP EXERCISES NOW REGULAR FEATURE ON KMOX

Former Senator X. P. Wilfley is announced as the speaker in charge of the two inspirational periods in the daily Y. M. C. A. broadcast through KMOX. Setting up exercises, in charge of C. A. Naevles, metropolitan physical director for the Y. M. C. A., are broadcast over KMOX each week day at 6:30 and at 7:00 a. m. The inspirational services are broadcast at 6:50 and 7:20 a. m. Wilfley is to speak on "The Law of Life."

Members of Y. M. C. A. gymnasium classes, exercising in the KMOX studio with Neavles, aided the past week in perfecting the setting-up exercises used in the broadcasts.

Donizetti Opera Over KSD.

Donizetti's opera, "L'Elisir d'Amore" (Elixir of Love) will be presented by the National Grand Opera Company on Wednesday night over KSD and allied stations. The opera will be directed as usual, in tabloid form, by Cesare Sodero. It was first produced in Milan, Italy, in 1832.

Voltmeter Test for Battery.

In testing any battery with a voltmeter, it should be connected to a receiver on which it is to be used and tested with the receiver turned on to give an accurate est of the actual voltage being delivered to the set. Occasionally batteries will test correctly when not connected, because the high-grade voltmeters have a very low drain. When the battery in actually connected to the set with the set turned on, it may prove defective of or insufficient power. This also applies to eliminators. They should be tested when connected to the set with the set turned on and such a reading with an accurate voltmeter will show what power is being delivered to the set.

ANOTHER 5000-WATT STATION IN CALIFORNIA

KNX, Which Uses Same Wave Length as WSM, Nashville, to Increase Power.

Station KNX, Los Angeles, which operates with 500 watts power on the 890 kilocycle (336.9 meters) is to increase its power to 5000 watts.

As KNX is on the same channel as WSM, Nashville, Tenn., which has a 5000-watt transmitter and authority to use that power, there is presently likely to be a bad situation on the 336-meter wave length, a situation even worse than that on the 468-meter channel where KFI, Los Angeles, and WRC, Washington, ruin reception in this part of the country of both stations until WRC goes off the air at 10 p. m. While KFI uses 5000 watts power, WRC has only a 500-watt transmitter yet makes reception of KFI virtually impossible in the mid-continental region until 10 o'clock.

Probably operation of KNX and WSM on the same channel with both using 5000 watts would create so intolerable a situation that the Federal radio authorities would have to order a change.

VAUDEVILLE ORGANIZATION MAY ENTER BROADCASTING

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 17.—The nation-wide Keith-Albee-Orpheum organization, which has been opposed to radio broadcasting, is likely to enter the broadcasting field, after all.

Indications were that the Keith organization recently considered using Station WMCA, which operates its own concentrated chain here. This plan is said to have been dropped when the Pathe Exchange, which is controlled by the Keith interests, acquired the Film Booking Offices Picture Corporation two weeks ago. The Film Booking Office, better known as the F. B. O., recently tied-up with the Radio Corporation of America, in a talking motion picture scheme.

"If the organization does enter radio broadcasting it will be through the Radio Corporation of America," a Keith representative said. The National Broadcasting Co. manages the broadcasting interests of the Radio Corporation.

PIANIST IN AMPICO RECITAL

Marguerite Volavy, the Bohemian pianist, is to be featured in next Thursday's Ampico recital over KWK.

Miss Volavy was born in Bruenn, Moravia, and when still a child became a pupil of Anton Door. It was as a girl of 16 that she entered the Conservatory of Vienna, capturing the prize of that institution three years later. After her debut in Vienna, Miss Volavy toured in concert through Austria, Italy, France, Germany and Russia.

Her first appearances in America were with the Russian Symphony Orchestra, under Robert Altschuler, when she introduced to American audiences a piano concerto by Serge Bortkiewicz.

RADIO PROGRAM RECORDED SUNDAY FOR PHONOGRAPH

A phonograph company has begun to make records of an entire radio program weekly and is to put the records on the market the day following the broadcast. The program selected for this experiment in meeting public demand is the Acousticon period, which is broadcast Sunday afternoons over one of the chains.

A new series is to be broadcast in the Acousticon Hour — an abridged musical comedy each Sunday. The musical comedies are to be new, each the work of Joseph Howard, composer and song writer.

Previous to each Acousticon broadcast, the program, with announcements, is to be recorded on two sides of the new type record, each side of which plays for 10 minutes.

Shilkret to Play Clarinet Solo.

Nathaniel Shilkret, conductor of the orchestra in the Maxwell hour and in other chain broadcast features, is recognized as one of the master radio showmen. He is also musical director for the Victor Talking Machine Co., conducts the Victor Salon Orchestra, which he organized, and is a clarinet soloist of ability. He is to play a clarinet solo in the next Maxwell hour concert on KSD, on Thursday evening.

Dr. Cadman on Air at 3 Today.

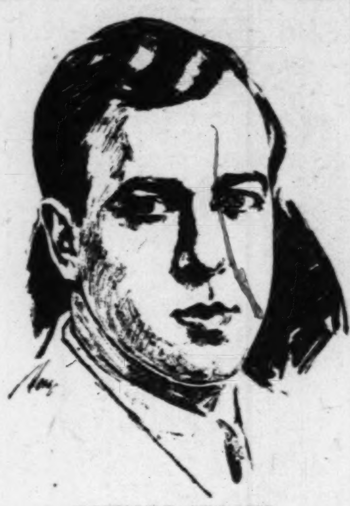
Florence Mullholland, noted contralto, is to be the soloist for the Bedford Branch, Y. M. C. A., broadcast at 3 o'clock this afternoon over WSAI, WHO, WOW, KVOO, WFAA, WSM, WSB, WMC and other stations. Dr. Cadman will speak on "The Truth That Makes for Freedom."

Aguinaldo in History Broadcast.

The capture of Aguinaldo, Philippine rebel leader, by Gen. Funstons' troops is to be the basis of tomorrow night's Great Moments in History broadcast over KSD.

Radio messages sent by the U. S. Navy Department from San Francisco, Cal., to Washington, D. C., are received at the rate of 75 words a minute. The messages, transmitted on 16,700 kilocycles, are copied on a new tape recorder.

TENOR WHO WILL BE SOLOIST FOR KSD MAXWELL HOUR



RICHARD CROOKS.

Crooks Sings in Maxwell Hour.

Richard Crooks, tenor, who is to be soloist in the Maxwell Hour over KSD next Thursday night, is to sing two operatic arias, "The Prize Song" from "De Meistersinger" and the "Siciliana" from "Cavaleria Rusticana," and three songs of the popular type.

NETWORK SCHEDULE FOR TODAY OVER KWK

Station's Radio Parties Necessitate Dropping Religious Air Service This Afternoon Only.

Today's redio parties of KWK at the Odeon, both of which will be broadcast over that station, from noon to 2 o'clock and from 3 to 5 o'clock, have necessitated canceling for today only the National Religious Air Service and the address by the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, which is a weekly Sunday afternoon feature.

The radio tour—this time to Gibraltar—is to be broadcast as usual over KWK at 5 o'clock this evening.

The Aeolian organ recital is to be given over KWK at 6 o'clock.

A recital by Taylor Buckley, baritone, and Mortimer Chadbourne, is scheduled over KWK at 6:30 this evening. They will be assisted by a string trio.

Buckley and Chadbourne will sing "Bird Song at Eventide" and "Mother Machree" as duets. Buckley's solo will be "I'll Sing Thee Songs of Araby," while Chadbourne's will be "Little Log Cabin of Dreams." Rachmaninoff's "Serenade" will be played by the string trio.

Beethoven's Quartet in C Minor, Op. 18, No. 4, is to be played by the Lenox String Quartet over KWK at 6:45 this evening. Members of this quartet are: Wolf Wolfinson, first violin; Edwin Ideler, second violin; Herbert Borodkin, viola, and Emmeran Stoeber, 'cello.

Grantland Rice, sports writer, is to be the guest speaker in Collier's Hour over KWK at 7:15 tonight.

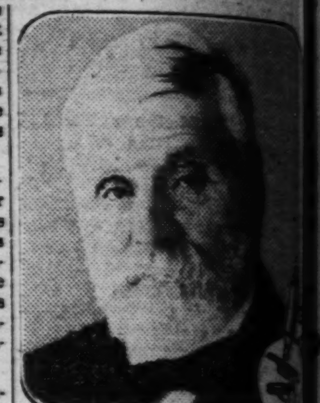
WORKS OF IRISH POETS WILL BE READ OVER WJZ

Four Irish poets—Padraic Colum, Shamos O'Sheel, James Rorty and Joseph Campbell—are expected to join Norman Hamilton in the "Read Us a Poem" broadcast through WJZ Saturday evening, March 17, at 6 o'clock.

Whether the poets are present or not, selections from their works will be read by Hamilton.

The program will consist of poems from Colum's "Wild Earth" and his latest volume, "Creature;" Rorty's "Children of the Sun," Campbell's "Irishry" and "The Mountain Singer," and the advance sheets of O'Sheel's newest book, "Jealous of Leaves."

Colum and Campbell were born in Ireland. O'Sheel and Rorty were born in America of Irish stock. Colum joined the National Theater movement in Dublin and became intimate with its leaders, George Russell and William Butler Yates. For several years he has lived in America.



Old Folks Say Doctor Caldwell was Right

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, and pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will last a family several months, and all can use it. It is good for the baby because pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. In the proper dose, given in the directions, it is equally effective at all ages. Elderly people will find it especially

Miss Eagles Gets Out of the Wet

Star is through with "Rain" and will be seen this week in "Her Cardboard Lover" — The Orpheum prepares to celebrate its thirteenth anniversary —Thurston still fooling 'em at the American and the Empress gets "Two Girls Wanted."

WHILE Howard Thurston is continuing his magical entertainment at the American this week, Jeanne Eagles, erstwhile star of "Rain," comes to the Shubert tomorrow night for a week in "Her Cardboard Lover," a comedy from the French which was adapted for the American stage by Valerie Wyngate and P. G. Wodehouse —the indefatigable one who writes novels with one hand, lyrics for musical shows with the other and, somehow, finds a way to grind out lines for comedies at the same time. "Her Cardboard Lover" sets forth the predicament of a fascinating French woman whose husband is a philanderer. She loves him, but she does not wish to appear to be pursuing him. So she engages a young man—a sort of a "cardboard" lover—to stand between her and her runaway spouse. However, when the husband asks her to come to him, she is so eager to comply that she tries in every way possible to make the hired lover go away. He refuses, persisting in standing by his contract. She offers him everything but he is firm until about 10:30, when the play ends as it should.

THE Orpheum Theater is getting ready to observe its thirtieth anniversary, next week, with a special show, headed by Eddie Leonard, veteran minstrel, and his company of entertainers. It will be the first year that the Orpheum has observed its birthday week by presenting 21 performances, or three a day, as during its previous 29 years it was a "two-day" house. The Orpheum opened its doors in 1898 at Sixth and St. Charles under the name of the "Columbia," and moved to its present location at Ninth and St. Charles in 1917, at which time the name was changed to "Orpheum."

WITH only one week intervening since its production here by the road company, Gladys Unger's comedy, "Two Girls Wanted," is to be presented by the National Players at the Empress Theater beginning with the matinee this afternoon.

The piece is dependent for the greater part of its humor upon the vicissitudes of Marianna, the younger of two country-bred sisters who go to New York to seek their fortunes and who find instead, long hours, monotonous work, and meager salaries in a Wall Street office. Added to these woes, Marianna falls in love with a promising young business man and then discovers that he is engaged to a society debutante. To escape this unhappiness and to break away from their dreary existence in one dingy little room near the elevated, the girls answer an advertisement for a maid and a cook in a country home, and find themselves suddenly transplanted into luxurious surroundings with an indulgent mistress who has had difficulty in keeping servants so far from the city. Here Marianna meets her young man again. Her affair of the heart, like the ordeal of the unhappy Willie Baxter in "Seventeen," is both pathetic and humorous.

Hazel Whitmore will be seen in the role filled by Nydia Westman in the John Golden production, and Don Burroughs will play the part of the eligible young man who falls in love with the heroine. Frank Jaquet as the self-satisfied business man and Alice Baker as his amazingly efficient secretary, are cast in the outstanding character parts.

GEORGE C. TYLER'S third annual "All-Star" Revival, Sardou's "Diplomacy," comes to the American Theater for three days only, April 2, 3 and 4. The production is a sort of golden jubilee anniversary of the play, which had its first American production at Wallack's Theater, New York, April 1, 1878, with a cast headed by Lester Wallack, Rose Coghlan and Maude Granger.

The present cast of "Diplomacy" contains the names of Margaret Anglin, Frances Starr, William Faversham, Jacob Ben-Ami, Helen Cahagan, Charles Coburn, Rollo Peters, Cecilia Loftus, Tyrone Power, Georgette Cohan, Georges Renevent, Antony Holles, and Ralph Bunker.

"Diplomacy" will come here with the record of having broken all marks for attendance for any production of its kind. "Trelawny of the Wells," which was Mr. Tyler's revival last season, and "The Rivals," which was his first revival the year before that, enjoyed great success, but "Diplomacy" on this tour has eclipsed both of these attractions in popularity.

Although "Diplomacy" is played in modern dress (as it has always been in previous revivals) the text of the play is practically the same as the original of fifty years ago. No attempt has been made at modernization of the manuscript. The entr'-acte music is that which was played at a "command" performance of "Diplomacy" before Queen Victoria and the ex-Empress Eugenie in 1895.

ANOTHER revival, about the same time, will be the Winthrop Ames production of three Gilbert and Sullivan operas at the Shubert Theater during the week of April 9. It was Ames who reintroduced the Gilbert and Sullivan operettas in New York with "Iolanthe," two years ago. This light opera, produced originally in 1885, when it ran 672 nights, its 1000th performance having occurred as a revival as far back as Oct. 31, 1896, was first produced on Saturday, Nov. 25, 1882, when the famous Song of the Sentry was sung, and a half-score of other gems, any pair of which would make the fortune of a musical comedy of today. It was revived by Mr. Ames in the Plymouth Theater, New York, April 19, 1926, when it ran continuously for 35 weeks.

The repertoire for St. Louis has been arranged to include "The Mikado," "Iolanthe" and "The Pirates of Penzance." At the completion of the St. Louis engagement the organization will resume its transcontinental tour which embraces a period of 10 months. "The Mikado" was produced by Mr. Ames in New York following "Iolanthe."

IT is not generally remembered that Jeanne Eagles got her stage start in this part of the country, some time before she reached stardom in New York in "Rain." "My father used to tell me not to tell my life story," she herself says. "He said people never told the truth about themselves. The temptation to romance is too great to be resisted. My father was right. The temptation to romance stirs me now. But I will conquer it. In the first place I will give my right name. It is Jeanine. I am of crossed strains. My father was a Spaniard. My mother was from

Behind the Screens Out in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, March 17.

LIFE in Hollywood is like Sunday on a farm, observes Lena Malena, who came here a year ago from Germany to make a name for herself in pictures. "It is so, so quiet," she explains. "Nozzing to do but take a punch uff money und go down by de Boulevard und in each shop buy someding."

Lena says that in Berlin, where she played in pictures under the name of Sascha Bragova, film folk are a chummier lot, more given to gathering in their clubs or in quiet cafes. Here she finds the off-screen life of the screen colony scattered in a hundred little circles, each more or less isolated from the others.

The vast number of automobiles crowding California highways has made horses popular with people who want to be different, so there are plenty of thoroughbreds in Hollywood and Beverly Hills. But when Richard Barthelmess needed some for an old-time auction scene the studio had to send scouts all over the State to find a few without the docked tails and roached manes common among modern saddle horses but decidedly out of place in the picture.

Many motion picture actors and directors shudder at the sight of a horse, because parts in western pictures seldom give them an opportunity to be seen on the screen in the big first-run theaters, and, unless they happen to be starred in a western role, the "horse operas" mean small pay as compared with dramatic pictures. An exception is the director Edward Sedgwick, who started as a director of western pictures and still likes horses so well he insists on getting them into all of his dramatic pictures. "You can show by the way a man handles a horse, better than in any other way," he explains, "what sort of a character he is."

From Tahiti comes word of a new game that has caught the fancy of native children on certain islands of the South Seas. The game is "kamala" and the islands are those on which Monte Blue has been making the scenes of his latest picture.

"Kamala" is the nearest the youngsters can come to imitating the director, who always seems to be shouting "Camera!" They also, write members of the troupe, manage to shoot thousands of feet of "film" made of the long, narrow leaves of the pandanus tree, joined together and wound on round sections of wood so as to resemble reels. The director's chief annoyance is keeping bobbed-haired native girls out of scenes depicting South Sea life unspoiled by the white man's civilization.

Edythe Chapman, player of "mother" roles, and James Neill, character actor, who have established something of a record in the film colony here by remaining married to each other approximately 30 years, are appearing for the first time as a married couple in Lois Moran's new picture. Heretofore, in the dozen years she has been portraying mothers on the screen, Miss Chapman never has happened to play opposite the actor she married in real life. In this picture she and her husband are Miss Moran's parents.

Efforts to put the movies on an an efficiency basis are being felt in all departments of the studios. Even the time it takes to transform an extra in street clothes into a correctly costumed and made-up member of a movie mob is being pared down by the efficiency experts. At First National a sort of cafeteria system of rushing extras through the wardrobe and make-up departments has been inaugurated. The extra checks in at one window, gets his costume at the next, his dressing room key at the next, and after putting on the costume takes four steps to get to the make-up room. The whole operation in an average costume picture consumes about nine minutes per extra.

It would be interesting to know how many Ophelias of the Shakspearean stage are playing in the movies now. One of them is Ida Lewis, now playing a comic Duchess in "Three Sinners," portrayed the tragic Ophelia in 1882 as a member of Edwin Booth's company. Miss Lewis was born in Havana, and has been on the stage and screen for nearly 50 years. What she likes best to remember is that the great Booth once called

Metropolitan Musings—

By
O. O. McIntyre

BRUCE REYNOLDS, the author and playwright, writes me a good idea. He thinks the time is ripe for an organization to be known tentatively as the Society of Friendly Criticism. Its members may feel free to criticise shortcomings of others anonymously and, of course, constructively. Just the other day an orchestra leader told me of a letter he had received correcting two glaring errors in pronunciation. It was unsigned but helpful. "Had he signed his name," he said, "he would have likely offended me. As it was I felt he was my friend."

Human nature being what it is people are sensitive to criticism of friends, unless it is done in this sort of anonymous manner. In my work, too, I have received countless valuable criticisms which have been of inestimable value but being fairly human myself I have appreciated it most when it came from the kindly anonymous.

"Stiff as a plank" is another Broadway term for getting that way.

The West Indies seem to have had the popular call for New York tourists this winter. Passenger trade to Carribean ports was never so heavy.

Visitors to New York, some one has discovered, spend more than two million dollars a year sending post cards back home.

A new form of senseless humor has sprung up in the sophisticated weeklies. Here is a sample from one of them:

"There is a story current along Broadway that concerns a prominent pickle dealer and one of the younger and more beautiful actresses. It seems that this Mister had been very attentive to this Miss' cousin who lives in a suburb of Philadelphia and dances and plays in an unusual manner. Meeting in Child's at the luncheon hour, she asked him:

"'Have you seen Anna?'

"His answer is still causing laughter among the theatrical profession and some movie stars."

One of the attractions in a Bowery curio hall is a fellow who will drink a bottle of ink brought in by any customer.

Milton C. Work gave up the legal profession to become a bridge expert and his income is now in six figures annually. He gives about 200 lectures a year and his text books are best sellers. A daily bridge column is syndicated in 175 newspapers and he writes a monthly article for 30 odd Athletic Club magazines. He is co-editor of the Auction Bridge Magazine and he teaches teachers at an enormous tariff. He is 63 years old.

And on the other hand Bobby Jones, the professional golfer, has given up golf to go into the practice of law.

The vogue of Texas Guinan has gone the way of many happy Broadway memories. She has no successor but with the death of the night clubs her hostessing popularity waned. After all, Texas has had her fun.

The effort is on to curb the sensationalism of the tabloid newspapers. They have gone a little too far in their efforts to thrill and few take them seriously. But the tabloid has become a definite part of the New York journalistic consciousness. It is here to stay. People are not giving up the regular sized sedate newspaper but they are reading the tabloids in the same fashion they sneak off now and then to go to a naughty show. Chiefly, they offer a piquant sauce to the more substantial newspaper food. One of the tabloids has the largest circulation in town. It is not quite fair to say they are only read by low brows. The tabloids go into the best homes just as do the scandal monging society weeklies. They are read both upstairs and below.

Along came Houston, Tex., and copped a national convention and all eyes are turned on the Lone Star State. For several years—bragging again—I have been shouting about Texas. It is larger than Germany and has an abundance of all the natural resources. The climate is not quite as pleasant as California but is generally agreeable the year round. It will be the next boom state. Pin that in your hat.

Fading Popularity of Movie Stars

Chaplin, in "The Circus," Not the Drawing Card He Was in the Past, Although He Has Lost None of His Ability as a Comedian—Something About the Sex Appeal Male Stars and the Creators of He-Man Roles.

By NIE

CHARLIE CHAPLIN did not do so well with "The Circus" at Loew's during the past week. The comedy, while not his best by any means was uproariously funny and it was his first film shown here in two years. Certainly no other screen comic has come along to take Chaplin's place during the time that he was devoting his life to getting out of matrimony. During that time, too, he was on the first pages a great deal and the movie public is hardly of a sort to let scandal come between it and its movie favorites. Perhaps it was the two years rest. Maybe the customers forgot Charlie a bit in that time. But whatever it was the great comedian is not the star today that he was and, like Mary Pickford, among others, he is no longer an enormous box office sensation here. It is likely that in the smaller neighborhood theaters "The Circus" will prove a knockout, but the fans in the bigger houses now seem to demand sex appeal, something which Chaplin has not—at least not in pictures.

ONE of the latest exponents of the sex appeal qualities is Gilbert Roland, whose classic features are on display this week in "The Rose of the Golden West" at the Missouri. Roland—or you may call him Luis Antonio Damaso Botana de Alonso if you like that better and can pronounce it—was born to romance.

A son of a Spanish bull fighter who was one of royalty's favorites at Seville for many of the 30 years he spent in the ring, Roland's veins pulse with the spirit of adventure and romance.

The path that led him to his most recent screen role, that of the here of "Rose of the Golden West," was often difficult but never dull.

He was born in Chihuahua, Mexico, where he attended the same school that graduated Ramon Novarro. Following the completion of his school work, Roland accompanied his father in travels through Mexico, Cuba and other Latin American countries.

At 19 he obeyed the impulse to enter motion pictures and went to Hollywood. That was three years ago. He was seldom able to land even an "extra" job, but refused to give up. He was always at the studio gates and when an extra failed to show up or was sick, he applied for the chance.

While playing an extra role in "The Lady Who Lied," an agent for Players saw him, signed him to a contract, and a long while afterward, at least several months, he obtained his first part, that of the villain in Clara Bow's "The Plastic Age."

He did not land another part for 10 months. One afternoon he was lunching with friends at the Ambassador Hotel. He attracted the notice of Ann Rork, a featured actress and daughter of Sam Rork, the First National producer. Ann spoke to her father who signed Roland for four pictures.

He has played opposite Norma Talmadge in two pictures and was selected by George Fitzmaurice for the role of the young hero of "Rose of the Golden West." He lacks a half inch of being six feet tall, weighs 160 pounds, and has dark brown eyes, and curly black hair.

BUT getting back to Chaplin and the suggestion of fading popularity. Looking through the motion picture magazine of a dozen years ago, one is reminded that motion picture trade-marks are as fleeting as the fame of the average motion picture star. Only a small handful of the producing company names which used to flash on the screen ahead of the picture still flicker where film fans can see them.

Essanay, Selig, Vitagraph, Nestor, Biograph, Triangle, Artcraft, L-KO, Kalem, Bluebird, Thanhouser, Selznick, Equitable, Edison, Horsley and a score of others, where are they now? In 1916 they were going strong. Many of the men back of them still are in pictures, some in positions of power; but the old trade-marks have gone into a fade-out more complete than that of the popular cigar brands of 1898.

The change in the ranks of the players, of course, strikes the eye with most emphasis. Names like Tom Mix and Charles Chaplin appear among a multitude of others which seem to have been, judging by producers' announcements of forthcoming films, equally important at that time. But let some film fan with a perfect memory try to identify Ethel Teare, Curtis Cooksey, Darwin Carr, Flora Parker, Helen Gibson, Grace Williams, Elizabeth Burbridge, Frank Daniels, Belle Bruce, Rosetta Brice, Katherine Kaelred, Lizette Thorns, Alexander Gaden, Ollie Kirkby, Marin Sais. All were featured in the films of 1916.

SOMETIMES, however, even a good fan memory can be fooled. Six years ago a young fellow named Samaniegos played a good part in support of Lewis Stone in a film version of "The Prisoner of Zenda." Even if the name had been emblazoned on all the billboards, instead of merely appearing with others in the supporting cast, few fans would recall it now; for the owner of the name changed it, as soon as he could get around to it, to Ramon Novarro.

One thing seems to have remained unchanged since publishers began making magazines for movie fans; the popularity of any informative or nearly informative article on How to Get Into the Movies. The very old, the old, the merely out-of-date and the very, very latest editions of the fan magazines all seem to be equipped with something on that subject.

A DISTINCTLY opposite type from the he-flappers is Victor McLaglen, who is in "A Girl in Every Port" at the St. Louis Theater this week. Victor goes in for cave man roles, parts which he is eminently fitted to play. Born in a little suburb outside of London, England, he spent most of his life in South Africa, where his father was Bishop of Clermont. His family, on both sides, were soldiers, and so it was only natural that at the outbreak of the Boer War young McLaglen should want to join the army. His father objected because of his youth—he was just 14 years old—so the lad ran away to London, where he accumulated a few imaginary years and enlisted in the Life Guards.

Three years later Victor found himself with the whole world before him and he went to Canada.

For a while he served as a "hired man" for a farmer in Ontario. Then, hearing of the silver strike

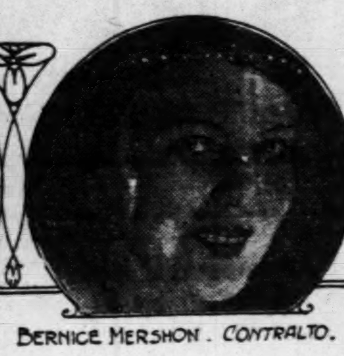
THE MUNICIPAL OPERA CAST FOR THE COMING SUMMER IN FOREST PARK

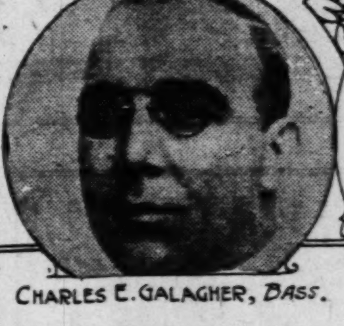
FLORENZ AMES, PRINCIPAL COMEDIAN.

JOSEPH ROYER, BARITONE.



BERNICE MERSHON. CONTRALTO.

ALICE MACKENZIE. PRIMA DONNA



CHARLES E. GALAGHER, BASS.

SAM ASH, TENOR.

DOROTHY SEEGAR, INGENUE.

Only Two Members of Summer Opera Cast to Return to Municipal Fold

A MORE or less drastic housecleaning has been observed by the Municipal Theater Association in the engagement of principals for the tenth anniversary season of Municipal Opera, which will be presented at the open-air theater in Forest Park, from June 4 to Aug. 26. Only two of last summer's light opera principals are included in the list of names made public yesterday as constituting the jubilee season's cast. These are Miss Dorothy Seegar, ingenue, and William McCarthy, comedian.

However, among the 1928 principals are two who have appeared at the Municipal Theater in one or more seasons previous to that of last year. Miss Bernice Mershon, re-engaged as contralto, was a member of the Municipal Opera cast of 1925 and 1926. Charles Galagher, the basso, had similar roles in 1919, 1920 and 1921, the first three years of the alfresco enterprise, while a third, Joseph Royer, who will sing the baritone parts in the coming summer's productions, will be remembered as one of the grand opera artists brought on for the spectacular presentation of "Tales of Hoffman," which closed last year's cycle.

The newcomers this year are Miss Alice Mackenzie, prima donna soprano; Sam Ash, tenor; Florenz Ames, principal comedian, and Lee Daly, juvenile comedian. All of the new principals rank high in musical work and are well-schooled in repertory work, the latter qualification being a most essential one in an undertaking such as the local Municipal Opera.

In the few years that have elapsed since Miss Mackenzie made her professional debut in a piece called "Some Party," at the Jolson Theater, New York, she has attained the enviable distinction of being one of the most sought after light opera prima donnas in America. Last summer she had the leading soprano roles in the productions sponsored by the Atlanta (Ga.) Municipal Opera Co., an organization similar to the local one.

Sam Ash, the new tenor, is well known to theatergoers. "Rose Marie," "Honeydew," "Katinka," the Music Box Revue and New York Winter Garden shows are among the vehicles that have served to bring him personal success. Lee Daly, who succeeds to the juvenile comedy roles played in former years by Roland Woodruff and John Cherry, has run the gamut of theatrical work—circus, chautauqua, vaudeville, musical comedy and light opera. He is said to have an excellent voice and is a dancer in addition to his funmaking ability. Florenz Ames, the new principal comedian, has created the comedy roles in many of the recent New York light opera hits.

It is probable that another prima donna will be added to the list of principals shortly. Negotiations are now being carried on with a well known stage star with a view of having her take part in the anniversary season's productions.

Members of the cast committee of the association who visited New York recently to look over the field of light opera talent available for the Municipal Opera work believe that the 1928 cast is by far the best balanced one ever engaged for the Forest Park theater. Great care was exercised in the selection of principals because the summer's repertory is the most ambitious one ever undertaken by the association and the manner in which the leading roles are handled will have a great deal to do with the success of the anniversary season.

Nearly all of the big musical hits of recent years are included in the list of pieces which will have places in the 1928 program. Eight of the 12 works are entirely new to the Municipal Theater. Three of the operas—"Princess Flavia," "The Lady in Ermine" and "The Love Song" have never before been seen anywhere in St. Louis, while "The Vagabond King," "No, No, Nanette," "The Student Prince," "Blossom Time" and "Mary" will have an initial production on the stage of the Municipal Theater. "Rose Marie" and "Song of the Flame" were produced in Forest Park last summer. "The Merry Widow" has had two previous Municipal Opera productions, one in 1923 and another in 1925. "Aida" has also been produced twice at the Municipal Theater, but each time under auspices other than the Municipal Theater Association.

The staging of this summer's productions will be under the supervision of Alonzo Price, an author-actor-stage director, who is spending his first year as a member of the association's technical staff. The orchestra and musical work will be under Leon Rosebrook, who, as musical director, is also a newcomer to the technical staff. Price and Rosebrook have been in St. Louis since January first and are busily engaged in supervising the association's chorus training school where over 200 local singers are being put through the routine musical and stage work of the 12 operas included in the summer's repertory. From among the 200, the two directors and Manager David E. Russell will select the 96 choristers who will take part in the summer productions.

The announcement that Lillian Crosman has been chosen as prima donna comedienne for the coming season of musical comedy at the Garden Theater, will be welcomed by many St. Louisans. Miss Crosman is no stranger here. She made many friends during her reign as prima donna of the Park Opera company which held forth for several years at what is now the Pershing Theater.

Facing the Music

TONIGHT at Sheldon Auditorium, the St. Louis Chamber Music Society for its last concert will present Eugene Goossens, piano, and Sylvain Noack, violin, in a sonata evening.

W. U. Little Theater Players Will Give "Captain Applejack"

THE Little Theater of Washington University will present Walter Hackett's romantic farce, "Captain Applejack," at the Artists' Guild, next Friday and Saturday evenings.

The presentation of this play marks the fifth semiannual production of Little Theater, all of which have been highly successful. The last one was Gilda Varesi's "Enter, Madame," presented last December.

The cast of "Captain Applejack" is divided between some of the organization's most experienced players and some entirely new material. Harry R. McClain, Little Theater's official coach, is assisted in this work by Miss Marian Epstein.

The cast follows:

Poppy Faire	Alice Weber
Anna Valeska	Alice Brokaw
Mrs. Agatha Whatcombe	Jeanne Blythe
Palmer	Harriette Pinnell
Mrs. Pengard	Ruth Waugh
Horace Pengard	William Ogden
Ambrose Applejohn	Paul Chamberlain
Ivan Boroisky	Jerry Gruner
Lush	Ewing Wachter
Dennett	Lloyd Miller
Johnny Jason	Richard Smith

Eight other men will appear in the second act as pirates.

"Knave of Hearts" by Children.

Members of the Children's Theater are in readiness for their second production, "The Knave of Hearts," a court comedy, which will be given in the Toy Theater, Musical Art Building, on Friday evening.

Second Thoughts on First Nights

By ALEXANDER WOOLLCOTT.

NEW YORK, March 17.

IT was the vast somnambulistic Mr. Chesterton who, in the plaintiff little voice which emerges like a startled mouse from that benign and brooding mountain, made the most memorable of all recorded comments on our Great Midway. An enthusiastic native had tugged and propelled him from some armchair to the edge of lamp-lit Broadway and pointed with pride to the blaze and brilliance of a thousand booths all hawking their wares in shrill, clamorous light to the receding sky.

"Ah," cried the ecstatic native, "what a beautiful sight!"

"What a beautiful sight," Mr. Chesterton assented, "for someone who could not read."

I OFTEN think that that hypothetical innocent has many advantages as a visitor to New York, including the fact that he approaches the theater unconfused by dramatic criticism. I myself am not one who goes through the castles and cathedrals of France and Italy with my nose buried in a Baedeker. And whenever, from force of habit, I contribute a page to the Guidebook of Broadway, I always feel like adding under my breath, "Don't pay any attention to me."

WITH that much of a preliminary, I will stand pat by naming the two plays which, as written and as performed, have given me the greatest satisfaction in my theater-going this season. It so happens that both have prospered enormously and that both are still playing. If I were a member of the committee which, out of the 125 eligible American plays produced in New York within the fiscal year just ended, is even now selecting one to recommend for the Pulitzer prize, I would, after a silent, searing, inner struggle, cast my vote for either "Porgy" or "The Royal Family." So the prize this year will doubtless go to "Strange Interlude," which choice, unless they are willing to eat their words, most of my fellow critics will have to applaud.

"PORGY," re-visited the other night somewhere along in the sixth month of its New York engagement, seemed to me even better as a play and as a performance than it did on that October night when its first curtain rose at the Guild Theater. This is the fond and vivid and turbulent play which Dorothy and Du Bose Heyward wrought from his novel of the same name, a picture of Negro life in Catfish Row, the swarming rabbit warren which the darkies of Charleston have made out of a noble old house left empty by grandees long since dead and gone.

The performance, in which the tolling from a distant steeple, the boom of the fog horns in the harbor, the rackety laughter of the pickaninnies, the humming of the spirituals, the clink of hammer on stone, the rattle of dice in the courtyard, the snores of the drunken and the sorrowing of the heavy-laden have, by a miracle of imaginative direction, been orchestrated into a rhapsody in brown, remains alive and true. Six months of playing have not staled nor dulled it, nor robbed it of the throb of life. And the climax of the first act, when the monstrous nightmare shadows, cast by the tossing arms of the mourners, dance a weird and frightening rigadoon on the bare, scrofulous wall of a once gracious room—that climax seems now, as it seemed when it was new, one of the high, memorable moments in the history of the American theater.

NOW, as the besotted and murderous Crown, Paul Robeson has added his ebon magnificence to the performance, strengthening the cast immeasurably and demonstrating that he is in these days a far better actor than the one who, four years ago, slipped away from law school to play "The Emperor Jones" in Greenwich Village. By such occasional truancies from the concert platform, this superbly endowed giant can keep his hand in and thereby be ready for his place in the Negro theater, of which such plays as "In Abraham's Bosom" and "Porgy" are but harbingers.

Former Soviet Official to Speak.

Dr. N. Steinberg, former Minister of Justice for bolshevist Russia, will speak on "Stalin, Trotsky and the Future Outlook for Soviet Russia" in the auditorium of the Y. M. H. A., Union boulevard and Enright, the evening of April 1. The program is under auspices of the local committee of the Workmen's Circle, a fraternal organization, with headquarters in New York.

in the Cobalt, he made his way to the mines.

Arriving in Cobalt after many adventures along the route, he joined a prospecting company. Although they struck silver, McLaglen was cheated of his share.

McLaglen returned to Cobalt, where he built himself a log cabin on the banks of Lake Timiskaming, where he eked out a frugal existence. At Christmas time the strain became too great, and he decided to make use of the boxing and wrestling he had learned during his service with the Life Guards to raise some ready cash.

COBALT had grown to a good-sized community by this time and the adventurers who formed the populace welcomed the idea of a prize fight. In his first bout with Paul le Febre, McLaglen made about $500.

After fighting in various sections of Ontario and Quebec, he earned the title of "Champion of Eastern Canada." After this, at the suggestion of his brother, Fred, whom he met in Winnipeg, he accepted a job with a side show, meeting all comers in wrestling matches.

At the end of that season he joined a carnival and wild animal show, where he put on a double act with the strong man until the circus broke up at Colfax, Wash.

After that he decided to adventure around a bit, and accordingly visited Hawaii, the Fiji Island, Tahiti and Australia. At this last stop he was bitten by the gold bug and joined the rush to the mines in Kalgoorlie.

After Australia, he went to Ceylon, then Bombay, and finally to Africa. In Capetown he came upon the first news of the World War and immediately left for England to enlist.

BECAUSE of his previous experience, Victor was given the commission of Lieutenant. He was sent to Mesopotamia, where he went through a number of exciting and dangerous engagements with the Turks and Arabs, fighting at Shiek Saad; Judalia and Sind, then with the relief force that battled up in Kut-el Amarax with the British forces that recaptured the town.

In Bagdad, where he served as Provost Marshal, he encountered any number of unusual experiences. Several times he was attacked and twice knifed by natives who had been sentenced in his court.

After the war McLaglen left for London, where at the National Sporting Club one day he was approached by a motion picture director who saw in him "just the type" for a part in "The Call of the Road," and started on his British motion picture career.

During the following four years he was starred in a number of British productions. Then, in answer to a cable from Blackton, he came to America to play the lead in "The Beloved Brute." Featured roles in big productions followed swiftly, leading up to his role in "Beau Geste" and his Captain Flagg in "What Price Glory."

His performance in the latter won him a long term contract with Fox, after which he portrayed Escamillo in "Carmen" and the Kilkenny Giant in "Mother Machree."

Heifetz in Recital At Odeon Wednesday

Jascha Heifetz will appear in a violin recital at the Odeon on Wednesday evening in one of the last of the important musical events of the current season. Five years have elapsed since Heifetz was heard in St. Louis, during which time the boy prodigy has turned into the mature artist in bearing and musicianship.

For his program on Wednesday evening, Heifetz will present the following numbers.

Chaconne .... Vitali (1650)
Symphonie Espagnole .... Dalo
Allegro non troppo
Schersando (allegro molto)
Andante
Rondo (allegro)
Estrellita .... Ponce-Heifetz
Rondo .... Schubert
(Arr. by Friedberg)
La Fille aux Cheveux de Lin...Debussy
Perpetuum Mobile .... Novacek
Caprice No. 24 .... Paganini

Isidor Achron will be at the piano for Heifetz.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

her "Shakspeare's ideal Ophelia."

Even in their off-screen business ventures film folk seem influenced by their love of the dramatic.

Imagine the average business man, for instance, establishing kennels for the breeding of dogs descended from the hunting hounds of the ancient Egyptian Pharaohs. That is Pola Negri's latest venture. She has imported what are said to be the first Saluki hounds ever brought to the Pacific Coast. These strange barkless dogs, resembling a cross between a greyhound and a collie, are plentiful enough in Arabia, but still are very scarce in this country.

On the other hand, Edwin Carewe, the producer, has found romance in the very modern problem of garbage disposal. He has acquired control of a company which makes machines that transform garbage into dog biscuits and hog cake. One of them is in operation at a hotel patronized by the motion picture colony.

The thrill of owning a gold mine proved irresistible to Esther Ralston. So, with profits she took from the gold mine of screen stardom, she bought a real gold mine in Arizona. She is incorporating a company for the development of the property now.

Neil Hamilton's movie prosperity enabled him to gratify a dramatic ambition which many a boy, no doubt, has had at one time or another. He bought a half interest in a magician's supply factory where they make rabbit-producing silk hats and other tools of the professional magician. Wallace Beery, the rough-house comedian, owns an interest in an air line. William Russell, the veteran actor, and William Beaudine, the director, own an automobile laundry which washes a car in the time it would take to sing a song about it, the attendants going through their car-cleaning act with all the verve of a chorus prancing through a snappy dance number.

Hollywood is full of stairways, steps that lead up and up and then break off suddenly, ending in midair or against a blank wall.

All the stages in the film studios seem crowded with them, these flights of steps that beckon romantically upward, and lead nowhere. Here is the grand staircase of a palace, a marble and gold vision on which flashed brilliantly the gowns and uniforms of a court reception. But a climb to the top of it merely gives one a good view of the studio incinerator.

Not far off is the winding stairway up which the hero of a recent picture clambered romantically to his heroine in the tower room. So it seemed in the picture, anyway, even though the stairs ended beyond camera-range in empty air. And here is a stairway in a modern mansion, luring the eyes of the spectator toward the floor above. But if one obeys the impulse to explore, one finds the stairs swerve abruptly in the shadows and end against the wall of an adjoining set.

Almost every picture has a flight of stairs in it somewhere. The comedian falls down them with a piano, the villain crashes through the banister and falls to his death, or the heroine descends them slowly in a gown that trails behind her on the costly pile carpet. The mere sight of an ampty stairway suggests drama and heightens suspense, and no one knows it better than the men who make motion pictures.

So the stages are crowded with stairways that rise neatly from the floor and grope in midair for a landing. The casual observer finds them grotesque, but there are some among the film folk who regard them as symbols of screen fortune. They are the bit-player who used to be a star, the extra-girl who once was hailed as a new screen "find," the former director of stars who is playing in the mob now, and others who climbed awhile and got nowhere. These, more than others, have found Hollywood a city of stairways that lead up and up, and then break off suddenly in midair, or come to end neatly against a blank wall.

Colleen Moore's next production following "Lilac Time," which has just been completed, will be "Heart to Heart," which replaces the tentative title, "Here Is My Heart," and was adapted by Benjamin Glazer from the original story by Edmund Goulding who will direct the picture. Work is scheduled to begin in a couple of weeks.

Giving up a vacation between films, Richard Barthelmess is preparing to start upon his next vehicle within a week. This will be "Roulette," from the story of the name by Fanny Hurst. The cast now is being chosen, and actual shooting will begin within a few days. Barthelmess has just finished "The Little Shepherd of Kingdom Come."

Then I was engaged to play in 'Outcast' when Elsie Ferguson no longer wished to play it. Back to the hinterland again, but in a good role. Then came my engagement with George Arliss in 'Disraeli' and 'Hamilton.' After that 'A Young Man's Fancy' and 'A Wonderful Thing,' then 'Rain' for four seasons and 'Her Cardboard Lover,' which ran last season at the Empire Theater in New York."

Fisk Negro Singers [illegible] At Odeon Tomorrow

The Fisk University Glee Club from the Negro school at Nashville, Tenn., will appear at the Odeon tomorrow night in a program of spirituals and jubilee songs. This group is making its initial appearance in St. Louis.

A rich tradition in Jubilee singing has been built at Fisk since the first group of Jubilee singers toured Europe in 1871. While a sextette of the singers is touring Europe again this year a larger group, numbering 27 male voices, is touring the Middle-West in recital. This group is under the leadership of John W. Work Jr., himself a Jubilee singer, and a graduate of Fisk University Music School and a student at the Damrosch Music School of New York.

While in St. Louis the singers will appear in two short programs at Webster Grove, and at the Principia School in St. Louis.

German Players Perform Tonight

In an effort to revive classic productions in the German language, the German Theater [illegible] Company will offer a number of classics at the Jeffla Auditorium before the close of the season in anticipation of a general [illegible] tation, after the completion of its new home in the German [illegible] 2345 Lafayette avenue.

The first offering in this [illegible] will be "Alt Heidelberg," better known on the American stage as "The Student Prince," tonight, with Willy Schubert, opera tenor, as Prince Karl Heinz and Marie [illegible] mann as Kaethe, the waitress. Then I was engaged to play in 'Outcast' when Elsie Ferguson no longer wished to play it. Back to the hinterland again, but in a good role. Then came my engagement with George Arliss in 'Disraeli' and 'Hamilton.' After that 'A Young Man's Fancy' and 'A Wonderful Thing,' then 'Rain' for four seasons and 'Her Cardboard Lover,' which ran last season at the Empire Theater in New York."

Fisk Negro Singers At Odeon Tomorrow

The Fisk University Glee Club, from the Negro school at Nashville, Tenn., will appear at the Odeon tomorrow night in a program of spirituals and jubilee songs. This group is making its initial appearance in St. Louis.

A rich tradition in Jubilee singing has been built at Fisk since the first group of Jubilee singers toured Europe in 1871. While a sextette of the singers is touring Europe again this year a larger group, numbering 27 male voices is touring the Middle-West in recital. This group is under the leadership of John W. Work Jr., himself a Jubilee singer, and a graduate of Fisk University Music School, and a student at the Damrosch Music School of New York.

While in St. Louis the singers will appear in two short programs at Webster Grove, and at the Principia School in St. Louis.

German Players Perform Tonight

In an effort to revive classical productions in the German language, the German Theater Stock Company will offer a number of classics at the Jeffla Auditorium before the close of the season, in anticipation of a general rehabilitation, after the completion of its new home in the German House, 2345 Lafayette avenue.

The first offering in this series will be "Alt Heidelberg," better known on the American stage as "The Student Prince," tonight, with Willy Schubert, opera tenor, as Prince Karl Heinz and Marie Hasmann as Kaethe, the waitress. Students of Eden Evangelical Seminary of old Heidelberg University.

will be heard in a recital at the Odeon
y night, March 27.

ACTIVITIES OF BOY SCOUTS

NATIONAL OFFICERS TO SEE SCOUT CIRCUS

President of Organization in U. S. to Be One Guest—7000 Boys to Participate.

Scout officers from many parts of the United States will gather in St. Louis next week for the annual Boy Scout circus which will be held at the Coliseum next Friday and Saturday evening. James E. West, Chief Scout Executive, New York City, and Walter W. Head, of Omaha, president of the Boy Scouts of America, will be among the visitors to the circus which is considered the outstanding Boy Scout event of the year in the United States.

William D. Boyce, Chicago publisher, who in 1909 inaugurated Scouting in this country after an experience with a British Scout who acted as a volunteer guide for him in London, will be the central figure in a pageant, "Bringing Scouting to America." Dr. L. H. Renfrow for the fifth year, is chairman of the circus committee.

Investiture Ceremony.

There will be an investiture ceremony Friday evening of about 800 12-year-old boys, who will be admitted as tenderfoot Scouts, and each presented with a gold pin by Clarence Howard, president of the St. Louis Council, Boys Scouts of America.

Approximately 7000 Scouts will take part in the circus in arena events which range from drum and bugle corps numbers and the Scout Harmonica Band concert to pyramid building and dramatization of scouting activities. The band of 300 is the largest harmonica band in the world. A troop of blind scouts will give a drill, using the same movements of normal scouts. Indian tepees will be erected by a number of troops and "Making Leisure Time Pay Dividends" will be enacted by other troops demonstrating the ways a scout can earn money after school hours in various tasks.

Clowns Made Up Like Animals.

Noah's Ark will discharge its "animals" by two and two, and there will be the clowns of the circus, all of the costumes having been made by the scouts from waste materials.

The final announcement of the circus, sent last week to all scoutmasters, lists the official uniform to be worn as consisting of scout shirts, neckerchief, breeches, stockings and belt. A hat is permissible, but not necessary, scouts being required to come bareheaded if they have no official hat. Scouts unable to appear in the complete uniform listed above are to wear civilian clothes, as no boy wearing only part of a uniform will be permitted on the floor.

SCOUT NOTES

Headquarters.

A radio talk on Bookbinding will be broadcast from Station KMOX tomorrow evening by Scoutmaster C. S. Pollock of Troop 155, as the fourth of a series of radio merit badge talks being broadcast by the local Boy Scout Council. Pollock is also merit badge examiner in bookbinding. These talks will be given every Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock until most of the merit badges have been discussed.

Scouts who have been attending the classes in aviation at the Marquette School the last few months have been urged to appear before a merit badge examiner and earn their badge in this subject. The classes, which have been held under the direction of Capt. Van Inman and Lieut. Anderson of Scott Field, closed last week, with a model-making class conducted by Scout Joe Ehrhardt of Troop 2. All scouts who attended this class will be sent a notice when they are to visit Scott Field for a demonstration of what they have learned.

The next Courts of Honor will be held this week as follows: South District, at the Missouri School for the Blind tomorrow evening; West District, Ben Blewett Junior High School, Tuesday; Suburban District, Webster Groves High School, Wednesday; North District, Yeatman Intermediate High School, Wednesday. All meetings will start at 7:30 o'clock except the North District, which will begin at 8.

North District.

The meeting of the North District Court of Honor, scheduled for next Thursday evening at the Yeatman Intermediate High School, will be hed at the school Wednesday, headquarters has announced. The time, 8 o'clock, remains unchanged. All scouts, parents and friends have been invited to attend.

All troops qualifying for the North District streamers, to be presented by E. H. Schulz, chairman of the district, should make complete returns by Tuesday, according to Field Executive L. L. Hotchkiss. Records must be checked with Hotchkiss at headquarters to make certain the troop is properly qualified for the award.

The streamers are given to troops who have recruited six new scouts 12 years old between Feb 8 and the closing date, and who have signed six scouts in the Campers' Saving Club. The streamers will be awarded at the Court of Honor at the Yeatman Intetrmediate High School Wednesday evening.

Nineteen members and five visitors were present at the meeting of Troop 148, of th Hyde Park Congregational Church last Tuesday evening. Scout games were played after a short business meeting, the majority of the games being won by the Pine Tree Patrol, which is now leading in an inter-patrol contest. Plans were also made for a hike to be held yesterday.

Troop 202, meeting at the Centenary Methodist Church, welcomed back Scoutmaster Chard, who has been absent for several weeks because of night work, at the last meeting. They also laid plans for a hike to be taken today. The troop is to demonstrate the bucket brigade in the firemanship event at the circus.

Troop 83 of the St. Paul's Presbyterian Church is practicing its tumbling act for the circus at the Mark Twain School. The scouts are also practiicng for a circus of their own they are to give in the near future. A patrol leaders' conference to discuss new troop activities was held after the regular troop meeting Monday evening.

Twelve scouts and the scoutmaster, nearly all of whom were in uniform, were present at the meeting of Troop 161 at the Webster School a week ago Friday evening. Games were played and yells given.

An open meeting for the mothers and fathers of Troop 206 will be held Tuesday evening at Ames School. Demonstrations in scout work will be given. Scout Ernest Grote passed two tests at his patrol meeting last week, and Scout Harold Enstall and Scout William Morse passed one each. Deputy Commissioner J. P. Simons visited the troop and officially announced it had won the North District Region 1 intertroop contest. He also gave a short talk. Three visitors from Troop 22 and one from Troop 207 were also present.

The troop is planning a minstrel entertainment. The boys are rehearsing under direction of Instructor Tubbesing of the drum corps.

Four tests were passed and first aid was practiced by the 25 scouts present at the last meeting of Troop 3 at the Grace Holy Cross Church. The father of Scout McAdoo, and a former scout, George Wyman, were visitors.

Fourteen mothers of Troop 1 of the Arlington Methodist Church met Tuesday evening to organize an auxiliary of the troop. Mrs. C. E. Freeman was elected president; Mrs. Otte, vice president; Mrs. R. E. Deason, secretary; Mrs. S. E. Amrein, treasurer; Mrs. J. W. Wichman, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, and Mrs. H. J. Rakers, chairman of the Sick-Visitation Committee. Plans were discussed for obtaining more members, and for helping the Scoutmaster and Troop Committee. Chairman Henry Weis attended the organization meeting.

South District.

The South District Court of Honor will be held at the Missouri School for the Blind tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock, according to Field Executive Shippey. All scouts are invited to attend and bring their parents.

All scouts of Troop 105 of the Assumption School are preparing for their second-class tests. A tenderfoot investiture ceremony for new recruits will be held soon.

Eight new scouts were invested into Troop 143 of the Hancock School, at an investiture ceremony held in connection with a parents' night last Monday evening. Scout Harris was also invested with his second-class badge. The ceremony was conducted by the newly appointed Scoutmaster Doerr and the five members of the Troop Committee. Field Executive Shippey gave the scouts and parents a talk on Camp Irondale, and a number of scouts signified their intention to attend this year. Scoutmaster Doerr and Assistant Scoutmaster Jones are planning to take the Ranger ride.

N. F. Cramblett, former troop committeeman of Troop 219, has been appointed scoutmaster of Troop 176 of the Jewish Orphans' Home, succeeding former Scoutmaster Fischlowitz, who has moved from the city.

Scoutmaster Beauchamp, Assistant Scoutmaster Hodge, and nine scouts of Troop 227 of the Lafayette Park Baptist Church, hiked to Cliff Cave for an overnight camp a week ago Friday. Chicken stew with all trimmings formed the menu. At a council fire held Friday evening prizes were awarded to the winners of inter-patrol and individual achievement contests which closed recently. Games and test passing featured the day Saturday.

Eleven tests were passed by five scouts of Troop 38 on a visit to Shaw's Garden with Scoutmaster C. M. Rubey a week ago yesterday. Sidney Wortman passed fire-building, cooking and tracking for second class, and Wickman Taylor and Howard Dovan passed fire-building and cooking. Second Class Scouts Ed Shinall and Irwin Johnson passed first-class cooking and nature study. Three other scouts also were present.

Suburban District.

All scouts, their parents and friends in the Suburban District have been invited to attend the Suburban District Court of Honor at the Webster Groves High School Wednesday evening. This will be the last court before May.

The scoutmaster of Webster Groves 9 of the Community House at Glendale, appointed committees for the subjects in which the troop is to participate at the Circus this week. Scout Bill Power was also appointed patrol leader of the Bear patrol, and Scout Leon Mathey was made his assistant. J. H. Tompkins, who has been connected with scouting for 11 years, has signed as the new assistant scoutmaster of the troop. A meeting of the officers of the troop was held at his house last week. As a reward for delivering telephone books the scouts are to be given a hike next week, ending at Scout Fernald's home, where "eats" will be served.

Scout Irvin Lutz of Richmond Heights 1 probably saved the life of Robert Rogers, 7 years old, of Richmond Heights, recently by beating out flames when the younger boy's clothing became ignited from a rubbish fire near which he was playing. Scout Lutz, who was passing, extinguished the flames before any damage was done. Scout David Pringle won a treasure hunt held by the troop a week ago yesterday after harmonica practice. A trail a mile long circled around almost back to the starting point, where the "treasure" was placed in plain sight.

Every scout in Overland is taking Boys' Life, the official magazine of the organization, for the coming year. The boys are working on a bridge for the pioneering event in the circus.

LONDON DISREGARDS WALES ON MORNING TROUSER CUFFS

Style Started by Prince Has Had No Followers, but Many Critics Have Appeared.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 17.—Clubmen in St. James' street haven't followed the Prince of Wales in wearing cuffs on trousers with a morning coat

Bond street and Picadilly reveal no well dressed men in this revolutionary morning attire—not yet. Even the Prince can't stampede the steady old-fashioned experts of London's West End. The well-creased trouser leg contineus to fall straight to the heel and instep as of yore, uninterrupted by the turned-up innovation that London's rainy weather made a permanent style for everyday pants, but not for formal attire.

Perhaps it was a horrible, absent-minded mistake of the Prince. Whether or no, his appearance with the upturned trousers not only shocked the tailors, but subjected him to an uproar of polite but severe criticism in the newspapers.

The tailors exclaimed, "Dear, dear, quite incorrect," and were sure the Prince did not intend to upset a sartorial tradition that has been rigidly upheld since the days they quit holding trouser legs down with straps under the shoe.

The newspaper writers sadly recalled other whims of the Prince, such as a checked cap and a bright pullover sweater, colorful as a Texas prairie in April. But could this cuff innovation have been even a whim? Surely it was a mistake. One scribe recalled how President Wilson, when received by the King and Queen, were one trouser leg turned up and the other turned down.

TITLED BRITONS IN BUSINESS

Many Abandon Public Careers in Order to Make Money.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 17.—Politics is losing its attraction for Englishmen who have business ability. The financial rewards of public life are too slight for men who have not large private incomes, and so many landed Englishmen who have devoted years to public life find their incomes so largely absorbed by taxes and so shrunken that they cannot afford to devote their entire time to public interests.

Sir Robert Horne, Reginald McKenna, Lord Reading, Lord Buckmaster, Sir Burton Chadwick, Lord Bledisloe, Sir Otto Niemeyer, Sir Josiah Stamp, Sir Eric Geddes, Sir Frank Baines and Col. Moore-Brabazon are a few of England's able public officials who have abandoned public careers within the last two years to take up business.

30¢ restores gray hair to original color and beauty

How to do it!
Go immediately to the nearest drug or toilet counter and ask for a large bottle of Brownatone. Take it home, throw a towel around your shoulders and apply according to the simple directions. (★See Note.)
It will only take about five minutes and when you are through you will be astonished and delighted.
Your gray, streaked or fading hair will be restored to natural color, lustre and beauty with a magic-like effectiveness that will make you wonder why you ever did tolerate gray hair at all. Immediately you will look 10 to 20 years younger.
And you will be equally delighted with the ease and cleanliness of its use. Brownatone is guaranteed absolutely harmless, won't fade, wash out or rub off. Marcel, permanent wave, water wave, or wash the scalp all you want. There's a shade for every hair color requirement from blond to medium brown, dark brown to black. At drug and toilet counters everwhere.
★This $1.50 size is the most economical way to buy Brownatone. It provides for 5 new hair growths, only 30c per application, against $5 or more you'd pay somebody else. There is also a 50c size. Brownatone is guaranteed to be absolutely satisfactory or money refunded.

SIMPLER STATE GOVERNMENT TO BE DISCUSSED

Women Voters' League to Hold Third Institute of Politics Wednesday and Thursday.

CANDIDATES TO BE AMONG SPEAKERS

Reorganization of Present State System Chief Topic—Round Table to Be Held.

Reorganization of the State Government as a means of achieving simpler administrative machinery will be the central theme of the third Institute of Government and Politics to be held at Hotel Chase Wednesday and Thursday by the Missouri League of Women Voters.

Missouri voters in 1922 rejected the work of the constitutional convention providing for a simplified government. Last year a reorganization bill sponsored by the Associated Industries was lost in the Legislature.

"How Shall. We. Simplify Our State Government?" will be the topic of eight candidates for the gubernatorial nomination who have been invited to present their views to the women voters at an informal dinner at Hotel Chase at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday.

The candidates are: Charles A. Lee, State superintendent of schools, Democrat, Jefferson City; Senator A. L. McCawley, Democrat, Carthage; Francis M. Wilson, Democrat, Kansas City; Judge Henry S. Caulfield, Republican, St. Louis; Judge Sam D. Hodgdon, Republican, St. Louis County; William R. Schneider, Republican, St. Louis; Dr. James Stewart, Republican, St. Louis; Frank H. Wielandy, Republican, St. Louis.

Charles U. Becker, Secretary of State; State Auditor L. D. Thompson, Mayor Miller and other officials also have been invited to the dinner.

Historical Background.

The institute will open at 10 a. m. Wednesday with a historical account of the development of the State administrative organization by Dean Isidor Loeb of the School of Business and Public Administra-

BANQUET HALL TO SEAT 2500

Will be Erected Especially for Japanese Coronation.

By the Associated Press.

KYOTO, Japan, March 17.—Plans for the Imperial banquet hall, which is to be erected here especially for the coronation of Emperor Hirohito next November, have been completed. The building is to be ready within six months and will seat 2500 persons invited to dine with the Emperor. Only the highest officials, diplomats and peers will be granted this honor.

The imperial throne, which is to be placed in the center of the hall, will be decorated with three folding screens painted by the three foremost artists of Japan—Kyonen Imao, Gyokudo Kawai and Shunkyo Yamamoto. In front of the throne there will be constructed a stage 48 feet square where the "Gosetsu-nomai," or famous old court dance, will be performed by five young girls, all daughters of noble families.

SIMPLER STATE GOVERNMENT TO BE DISCUSSED

tion, Washington University. Lloyd M. Short, professor of political science at the University of Missouri, Columbia, will tell how 15 States reorganized their governments on simpler plans.

At the afternoon session Thomas H. Rogers of the Associated Industries of Missouri will discuss "What Consolidation of Administrative Functions Means to Missouri." The technique of consolidation of departments will be explained by Lent D. Upson, director of the Detroit Bureau of Municipal Research, who has had experience drafting reorganization plans for three States.

Thursday's Program.

The chief speaker at a luncheon Thursday at the Chase will be Miss Adele Clark of Richmond, Va., vice president of the National League of Women Voters, appointed in 1922 as the only woman on the Virginia State Commission on Simplification of State and Local Government. Her subject will be "How an Informed Public Opinion Can Help Secure State Reorganization."

Round table conferences Thursday morning will be led by the following: "Education and State Consolidation," Dr. Eugene M. Fair, president of the Kirksville State Teachers' College; "Finances of the State and Budgetary Control," Walter Matscheck, director of the Kansas City Public Service Institute, and Carter W. Atkins, director of the St. Louis Bureau of Municipal Research; "The Merit System in the State Civil Service," Arthur '. Meyers, engineer to the Comptroller of St. Louis.

Officers in Charge.

Results and recommendations of the institute will be summarized by Mrs. Virgil Loeb, chairman of the Executive Committee of the institute. Other members of the Executive Committee are Mesdames George Gellhorn, E. R. Kroeger, Flint Garrison, Glover Copher, John R. Herron, Thomas L. Anderson, F. K. Habenicht, Walston Chubb and Harry January.

Co-operating with the league in conducting the institute are University of Missouri, Washington University, St. Louis University, Kirksville State Teachers' College, Maryville State Teachers' College, Warrensburg State Teachers' College, Springfield State Teachers' College, Cape Girardeau State Teachers' College, Eighth District Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs, Democratic Women's Club of St. Louis, St. Louis Convention and Publicity Bureau, Catholic Women's League, St. Louis section National Council of Jewish Women, Junior League of St. Louis, Wednesday Club, College Club of St. Louis and the Missouri Women's Legislative Committee.

Keep Your Skin Young

To restore skin health and natural beauty use regularly a little pure mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store. When used as directed, the wax thoroughly cleanses the face by peeling off the entire outer skin with all grime, coarseness and blemishes. The under skin is then revealed clear, smooth, white, with the youthful beauty of a girl. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty. To quickly remove wrinkles and age lines, use as face lotion 1 ounce saxolite and 1 half pint witch hazel.

Puts New Life Into Dull, Tired, Faded Skin

Just a little Calonite powder sprinkled on a wet cloth and rubbed gently over the face before retiring will clear the pores of all dirt and dust and oily accumulation, preventing blackheads. It puts new life into dull, tired skin, so you will enjoy a good night's rest.

A Few Cents . . . . A Few Minutes
Privacy . . . . Hygienic

Certain intimate, personal matters women prefer to attend to themselves.

If their hair shows signs of gray and they wish to keep it youthful and attractive it is no one's business but their own.

If attended to at home they are sure they are using Farrs' and not some preparation whose ingredients are unknown to them.

For 10 years the laboratories of the Brookline Chemical Co. have been busy perfecting a color restorer for gray hair, so absolutely harmless, clear and clean that any woman can use it without the slightest trouble in the privacy of her own home with the assurance that it will bring back the natural, original color and leave it glossy, pretty, full of the lustrous glints and soft shadows every woman loves.

EARS-ROEBUCK STORE PROGRAM COST $2,000,000

roposed Retail Buildings in Two Sections of City Expected to Create New Buying Centers.

THERS ANTICIPATED AT LATER DATES

Concern Likely to Establish Itself at Strategic Points in Outlying Parts of St. Louis.

By Berry Moore.

The intersections of Grand boulevard and Winnebago street, and Kingshighway and Easton avenue, already constituting leading centers, will be given added importance as the locations of the new department stores to be established by Sears-Roebuck & Co., nationally known mail order concern. With the thousands that they will attract, the Sears-Roebuck stores will create new great retail centers, according to real estate men.

The new department stores, it s predicted, will draw buyers from ll directions within a wide radius. nticipated also is a large influx rom the suburbs by way of Grav-is road, which is only one block orth of Winnebago street, and by ay of Easton avenue as the prin-cipal traffic outlet for the St. harles Rock road, as well as by ther radiating arteries of traffic.

Incidentally, both sites were hosen because of their command- geographical positions, accessibility from all parts of the city nd suburbs and the outlying coun-y by bus as well as by trolley es being an essential require-ent, according to James M. Fran-cus, president of the Franciscus ealty Co., which handled the ne-tiations on behalf of Sears-Roebuck & Co.

stimated $2,000,000 Investment.

The two department store build-s, including the sites, it was es-mated, will involve an investment f $2,000,000. One of the stores ill be located at the southeast rner of Grand boulevard and innebago street and the other on e east side of Kingshighway, a ort distance south of Easton enue.

Construction is to be started as on as the building plans now be- prepared by George M. Nim-ns & Co. of Chicago are com-ted. The buildings will be vir-lly models of the two and three-ry department store buildings ected by the concern in Chicago, iladelphia and Los Angeles.

The South Side store will have a ontage on Grand boulevard of 0 feet with parking space in the ar, extending through to Arkan-s avenue. The north side store ll have a frontage on Kingshigh-y of 261 feet with parking space tending through to Aubert ave-e. The parking space available s also a factor in the selection these sites. C. R. Miltenberger, al estate agent, represented the ner of the Grand boulevard site the transaction.

It is proposed to make the res community centers with spe-l plans for facilitating shopping d with rest rooms, soda foun-ns, luncheonettes, beauty par-s, children's barber shops, check oms for baby carriages and uni-med parking attendants. The esent idea is to make each store ree floors high with basement d with display windows on the incipal streets.

Regarded as Forerunners.

These stores are anticipated as rerunners of a group of stores to established by Sears-Roebuck & ., at strategic points in the out-ing parts of the city.

Sears-Roebuck & Co. now have operation a total of 21 stores this type, all of which are a flourishing scale. These in-ude four in Chicago, three in hiladelphia, three in Los Angeles d a 12-story building in Minne-olis, used as a distributing center th a department store on the first or. Besides, two stores each being ilt in Detroit, Cleveland and Bos-n. With the completion of these ores and those to be erected here e concern will have 23 stores in eration in the United States, pplementing its general mail or-r business. A sales volume of 00,000,000 was the record of the cern in 1927, according to C. McConnell, its general purchas- agent.

Large warehouses are to be es-blished by Sears-Roebuck & Co. both South and North St. Louis, th rail facilities which are to ve as depots of supplies with ments coming direct from the cern's factories, located in dif-ent parts of the country. Pend- the erection of modern fire- warehouses here for this pose, as it is understood is con-plated, warehouse space will be sed.

The north side store will have a frontage on Kingshighway of 261 feet with parking space extending through to Aubert avenue. The parking space available was also a factor in the selection of these sites. C. R. Miltenberger, real estate agent, represented the owner of the Grand boulevard site in the transaction.

It is proposed to make the stores community centers with special plans for facilitating shopping and with rest rooms, soda fountains, luncheonettes, beauty parlors, children's barber shops, check rooms for baby carriages and uniformed parking attendants. The present idea is to make each store three floors high with basement and with display windows on the principal streets.

Regarded as Forerunners.

These stores are anticipated as forerunners of a group of stores to be established by Sears-Roebuck & Co., at strategic points in the outlying parts of the city.

Sears-Roebuck & Co. now have in operation a total of 21 stores of this type, all of which are on a flourishing scale. These include four in Chicago, three in Philadelphia, three in Los Angeles and a 12-story building in Minneapolis, used as a distributing center with a department store on the first floor. Besides, two stores each being built in Detroit, Cleveland and Boston. With the completion of these stores and those to be erected here the concern will have 23 stores in operation in the United States, supplementing its general mail order business. A sales volume of $[illegible]00,000,000 was the record of the concern in 1927, according to C. [illegible] McConnell, its general purchasing agent.

Large warehouses are to be established by Sears-Roebuck & Co. in both South and North St. Louis, with rail facilities which are to serve as depots of supplies with shipments coming direct from the concern's factories, located in different parts of the country. Pending the erection of modern fireproof warehouses here for this purpose, as it is understood is contemplated, warehouse space will be leased.

Reports were current yesterday that the J. C. Penney Co., was seeking sites in the outlying district as well as in downtown St. Louis, for a chain of department stores of the type operated by the concern in a chain extending throughout the country. As a source of supply for these stores, the Penney company recently purchased a site at Thirteenth and Poplar streets for a 12-story warehouse, to cost $1,500,000.

The grocery chain demand for stores, notably the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., Piggly-Wiggly and Kroger, has been a noteworthy feature. Both Piggly-Wiggly and Kroger have erected adjacent to the railroads, modern fireproof warehouses on a large scale here, while the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. recently purchased a site 400x200 feet at Scott and Taylor avenues on the Wabash tracks, for a warehouse to cost $600,000, exclusive of the site.

SEVERAL DOWNTOWN LEASES NEGOTIATED

The Spalding Stationery Co., 324 Olive street, has leased the building on the northeast corner of Third and Olive streets, for a long term and will move its printing plant and retail stationery store there about April 1. Alterations are now being made to give additional floor space.

V. P. Spalding, formerly connected with the Art Metal Construction Co., will join the stationery company when it opens in the new location.

An automobile salesroom at 3150 Locust street, owned by Inez A. Sperry, has been leased to a new concern for the sale and display of automobiles. Pfister & Vogel, Eastern leather goods dealers, and the Boston Machine Works have made new leases in the Leather Trades Building, 1600 Locust street. The Hussman Stamp Co. has leased the second floor of the building at 620 Olive street. The eighth floor of the Drygoodsman Building, West Sixteenth street and Washington avenue, was leased to the Forest City Manufacturing Co., in addition to the fifth and sixth floors, which it now occupies in the building.

Isaac T. Cook Co. represented all parties in the negotiation of these leases.

WORK UNDER WAY ON $30,000 RAILROAD Y. M. C. A. ADDITION

Work on a $30,000 addition to the Railroad Branch Y. M. C. A. at Twentieth and Eugenia streets was begun last week by the Dickie Construction Co. The new structure, which will contain a new kitchen, storerooms, a refrigeration plant, coolers and completely furnished rest rooms for employes, will occupy the south half of a 50 by 120 foot lot facing Eugenia street, adjoining the present building on the west. La Baume & Klein are the architects. It is expected that the building will be ready for occupancy by June 15.

NEW $250,000 PRINT WAX PAPER PLANT

Waxide Company to Erect Factory at Newstead and Race Course Avenues.

The Waxide Paper Co., manufacturers of print wax paper, soon will start construction of a $250,000 plant at the corner of Newstead and Racecourse avenues, officers of the concern announce. The building, 150 by 280 feet, will be of reinforced concrete, of one floor and basement.

The new plant, in which the company will manufacture a wide variety of waxed papers for general use, will be on the Missouri Pacific tracks. Approximately 2500 tons of waxed paper will be set as the initial annual output, it is said.

The Waxide Paper Co. now has a plant at Kansas City. The paraffin used in the manufacture of wax paper is obtained from concerns at Casper, Wyo., and Whiting, Ind., while the paper is shipped from Niagara Falls and Kalamazoo, Mich.

EPSTEIN REPORTS SALE OF FLATS AND APARTMENT

Stanley Epstein, Inc., reports seven sales, consisting of flats, an apartment building, tenement property and several vacant lots.

The northeast corner of Thirty-ninth and Castleman, with 121 feet on Thirty-ninth street, and 50 feet on Castleman, was sold for the Saum architects to the Shreve Realty Holdings Co. It is under lease for 10 years to the Lubrite Refining Co. as a filling station site.

The southwest corner of Wydown and Moorlands drive was sold to Irene L. Cohn. This lot, having a frontage of 175 feet on Wydown boulevard and 120 feet on Moorlands drive, will be improved with a nine-room residence from plans by Martin & Young, architects. The seller, Thomas B. Wellard, was represented by the Korte Realty and Loan Co.

The new single flat, 6253 Cabanne, was sold to Millie Rosen for Louis Goldstein, and the four-family flat, 4015-21 De Tonty street, was sold for the same account to Joe Dorbin. The northwest corner of Goodfellow and Enright, occupied by a six-family apartment, was sold for Rabbi A. Rosentreter to Joseph E. Cuguzzi. The three four family flat buildings at 1315-19½ Monroe street were sold for Isadore Lipschitz to Arthur R. Flachs. The five and six room single flat, 5542 Page boulevard, was sold for Belle Tholen to Bertha Chertoff.

Grand and Arsenal Corner Reported Sold for $221,000

Ed Jacobs, Lumberman, in Deal to Buy Butler Building and Site Through Mercantile Trust Co.

Negotiations have been practically concluded for the Butler Building and site, at the southwest corner of Grand boulevard and Arsenal street, owned by the Butler estate, of which the Mercantile Trust Co. is executor. The prospective purchaser is said to be Ed Jacobs, hardwood lumber dealer with offices in the Railway Exchange Building.

Phil H. Zepp, real estate officer of the Mercantile, would neither confirm nor deny the transaction. The price involved is around $221,000.

The building has two stories, with the first floor occupied as a moving picture theater and the second floor as offices. It has a frontage on Grand of 100 feet, with a depth on Arsenal of 122 feet.

The late Edward Butler, power in local Democratic politics, purchased the site for $100 a foot, or $10,000, when Tower Grove Heights addition, of which the corner is a part, was laid out by the real estate department of the Mercantile Trust Co., representing a syndicate which had purchased the tract embracing this part of the city from the Connecticut Life Insurance Co.

The Butler building was [illegible] business structure to go u[illegible] is intersection. At that time [illegible] costs were nominal compared with those now prevailing.

Just south of the Butler Building is the six-story Dickmann Building and adjoining the Kleekamp Building, both comparatively new structures. The Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co., representing a syndicate had just previously submitted an offer of $211,000 for the Butler Building.

This is the third South Grand boulevard corner to change hands within the last two weeks, including the southwest corner of Grand boulevard and Winnebago street, owned by a client of C. R. Mellenberg and purchased by Sears-Roebuck & Co. through the Franciscus Realty Co., and the southwest corner of Grand boulevard and Shenandoah avenue, purchased by Morris Lipschitz through Cornet & Zeibig.

The Grand and Shenandoah corner is improved with a two-story business building on Grand and an apartment building on Shenandoah. The lot is 100 by 200 feet.

NEW BUILDING BEGUN FOR MOTOR COMPANY

The Brahm-Mitchellette Motor Co. has begun construction of a building of attractive design at 3537 South Kingshighway. It will have a frontage on Kingshighway of 110 feet, with a depth extending back to Pernod avenue.

Cost of construction is estimated at $100,000.

The new building will be occupied as headquarters for the sale of Oakland-Pontiac automobiles, for which the Brahm-Mitchellette Co. are agents.

Bergfeld Sells Ames Place Home.

The Geo. F. Bergfeld Co., Inc., reports having recently sold No. 6829 Waterman avenue, a modern 10-room "Bergfeld built" residence, to Geo. S. Rollin for Horace R. Culling, who was represented by Chauncey P. Heath; No. 6922 Waterman avenue, a modern nine-room "Bergfeld built" residence, to Mrs. Mable Scherrer for William J. Edwards; No. 4474 Westminster place to J. J. Schlafly for J. L. Johnston of New York City, and a 75-foot lot in University Hills. The Bergfeld company will immediately erect a modern home of 10 rooms on this lot for their client.

4427 Enright Changes Hands.

C. M. McDonald Real Estate Co. reports the sale of 4427 Enright avenue, a 10-room modern residence, for William A. McAllister to Philippe Boden.

Attractive Woodwork Makes Mere Houses Homes of Comfort

Quality Is Vitally Important in This Feature of the Home.

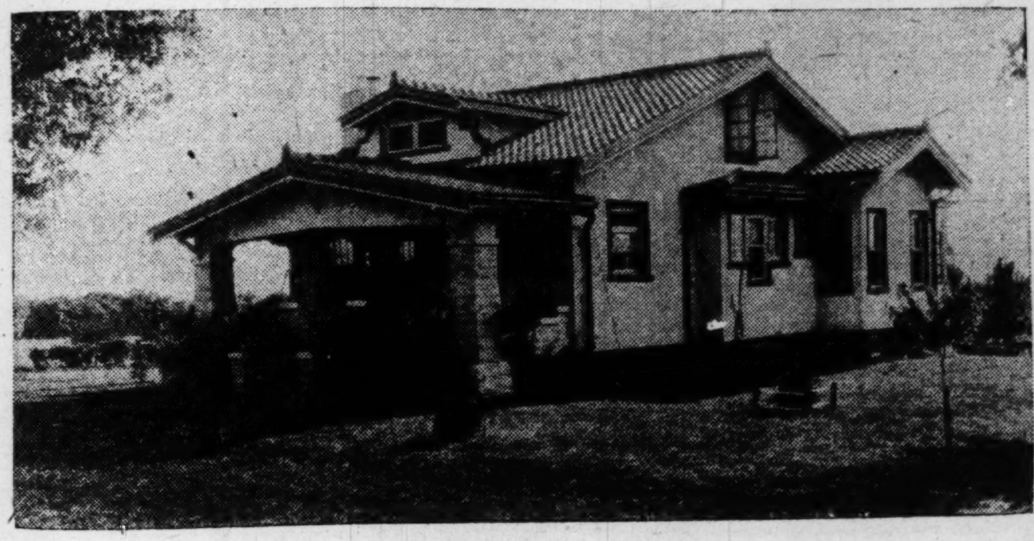
By R. D. Trombley
CARR-TROMBLEY MFG. CO.

Mere houses become homes as you enter the front door and are greeted with an appealing interior which suggests comfort, fineness, convenience and attractiveness. Upon the interior depends the transformation of the house to a home.

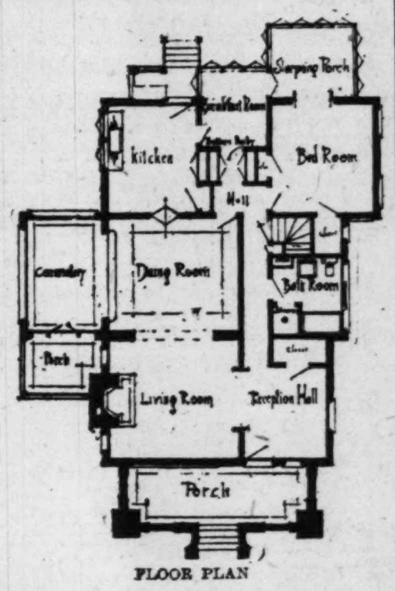
Interiors are made attractive by careful taste in the selection of furniture, decorations and woodwork. In many cases the last-mentioned would be the last to receive consideration. Woodwork is so often considered to be merely a necessary finish in the house to cover up many rough spots; just a necessary article in the construction of a home. Contrary to this thought, the woodwork forms the background for the interior decorating. Once selected, it is built into your home for a lifetime—it is the permanent furniture of the home. Accordingly, it is the most important item to be selected in the planning of the home. Other articles that give distinctiveness to the interior can readily be changed or substituted—such items as furniture, draperies, etc.—but, consider the stairs as an example of woodwork, what a wonderful item of beauty a stairway can be when tastefully selected and yet how distracting the stair design when it does not form proper background for the general interior treatment and as a further thought, the stairway when installed is permanent. It cannot be changed like a distasteful piece of furniture—woodwork is permanent furniture in the home and as such deserves the most important consideration.

Quality is very naturally to be considered and it is mentioned in connection with the above thought. While attractiveness of design is most desirable, quality must not be sacrificed. It will be found that a reputable manufacturer of woodwork will co-ordinate quality and design. Woodwork properly selected will add everlasting beauty to the home—do not treat lightly the selection of this permanent furniture for the home.

Seven-Room Modern Bungalow



Geo. C. Reed, Architect. Plan No. 7ST-601.



FLOOR PLAN

THIS beautiful seven-room bungalow located in St. Louis County. The basement walls are built of concrete with an 8½-foot ceiling. The walls above are built of interlocking tile, rimmed with a beautiful matt brick and of the very best stucco.

The living room is very spacious, having a large stone fireplace, two bookcases and French doors separating the reception hall from the living room.

Off the dining room is a conservatory having a promenade tile floor with air-way windows that open the full width of the epening. A door at the side leading to the porch permits a clear view to the outside. Just below the conservatory is a garage with a side drive.

The bathroom contains the newest built-in bath and tile shower, fixtures, art glass windows and a five-foot tile wainscoting. A large hall leads from the reception room to the breakfast room and bathroom.

The bedroom has two closets, one of which is lined with cedar. Just off the bedroom is a large sleeping porch with French windows or doors with a patent slide.

In the kitchen is a double drainboard sink, pantry, china case, clothes chute and a built-in Kelvinator.

For further information regarding this home address the Associated Architects' Service Bureau, 315 Commercial Building. Those desiring full information on home planning, send name and address to the Bureau.

Pershing Heights Will Be Another Delmar Garden

Delmar Garden lots advanced from $65 a foot to foot, making profits of $4000 to $5000 for the lot owners. This happened because the restrictions at Skinker forced the apartments north. All unrestricted property on Delmar Blvd. is solidly built.

The City Plans Commission of University City changed the restrictions in Pershing Heights, making this subdivision an apartment house district, due to the demand for apartment sites.

Prices today, only $65 a foot—finest concrete streets—only a few blocks from Delmar Garden—the most reasonably priced three-story apartment property in the city.

Pershing Heights is the coming apartment section of University City. These lots will duplicate the advance made in Delmar Garden.

Take $300 to $500 cash and a small monthly payment. Buy now and make this profit.

On Ferguson at Etzel, across from the Pershing School.

A FERTILE FARM OF YOUR OWN
35 Years to Pay.
Average price $15 an acre—big yields. Prosperity—success—await you in Western Canada. The Canadian Pacific offers rich fertile lands at the low average price of $15 an acre—and 35 years in which to pay. Crops are big—markets good. Settlers pay down only 7 per cent of purchase price. Then one year's free use of land. Balance in 34 equal annual payments, small enough to leave ample for improvements. Same terms for irrigated lands also. Wonderful climate. Unfailing water supply. Prize crops of world raised here. Excellent stock-raising lands at low prices. Good schools and churches. Taxes low. Write today for full details. C. A. Van Roy, Sup't of Colonization, Dept. ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls or answers by mail cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

SPANISH LAKE. — Electoral votes of Missoui (1924), 18; Illinois, 29; New York, 45.

STUDIOUS.—Ask the Board of Education (see telephone directory) about a married person attending public school.

V K.—The number of Russian immigrants coming to St. Louis in a month or year is not recorded at the St. Louis Immigration Office. Their destination is booked only at the port they enter. You might get the figures for last year by writing the Commissioner-General, Department of Labor, Washington, D. C.

Z. Z. Z.—A list of entertainments in St. Louis is published weekly in the different civic weeklies, such as The Spirit of St. Louis, Know St. Louis, and the St. Louisan. Ask for them in the lobby of Post-Dispatch Building, or at hotels. They are not for sale.

PLEASE ADVISE.—If the marriage is not known it is permissible to send announcements inclosing at home cards which give your new address. This is not a rule of etiquette, it is perhaps the best thing to do under the circumstances. The correct time to send them was at the time of the wedding. After an elopement or secret marriage parents sometimes insist that custom be followed by sending announcements. They appear later because one cannot get them engraved on short notice.

LEGAL INFORMATION

(By a Member of the St. Louis Bar Association)

X. Y. Z.—You must make a personal property tax return. There is no exemption.

M. E. K., SWANWICK. — The check transaction described would not be legal. Consult a lawyer.

C. B. H.—The woman's husband would receive a child's share of her property at her death, regardless of the provisions of her will.

W. L. M.—If you can prove that the man owes you the money you can sue him and get a judgment.

J. Mc.—The boy must be 16 to drive a car.

F. L. R.—If there was no marriage agreement, then there was no common law marriage, and the man is free to marry without divorce.

DIVORCED HUSBAND. — The woman can sell the property without her former husband's signature, under the circumstances described.

MRS. W. A. P.—It is given as an opinion that you can not obtain reimbursement for the expense mentioned. However, you might write to your Congressman or Senator regarding it.

H. G. F.—A patent would probably cost from $125 to $150. The Central Branch of the Public Library has an information desk where you may get assistance finding the books you want, if such are published.

J. G. W.—If there was a real common law marriage prior to 1915, the man's marriage to another woman in 1915 was not legal, which would justify the common law wife (if she was that) in remarrying without first getting divorce.

A. B. C.—Consult Eugene Hansmann, 4217 Warne avenue, Colfax 5268W, who is secretary of Delicatessen Owners' Association, and can give full details as to what can and cannot be sold on Sunday.

ANXIOUS.—You may legally catch the fish mentioned during the time in question, in privately owned lake.

OLD READER.—To answer your question you would have to have someone to see the New York records as to whether or not marriage of first cousins was legal there 50 years ago.

SEDALIA READER.—You could probably attach your sister-in-law's share of her uncle's estate, if the amount is sufficient to make it worth while. Consult a lawyer.

MRS—You would no tbe liable on the contract mentioned, and your husband would not be unless it was for necessaries.

S. O. S.—The man can build as close as three feet to your line unless there are restrictions on the property against that, or unless there is an ordinance in your town prohibiting. He could have windows made in such a wall unless this is regulated by ordinance in your town. (2) In Illinois the widow would receive one-third of the personal property and one-third of each parcel of real estate in which she waived dower. The children would receive the balance, in equal shares.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnosis or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

ILLINOIS.—Except for your peace of mind it is hardly necessary to consult a physician, unless such trouble is noticed again.

EDNA.—If the condition is giving no trouble and there is no protrusion it is doubtless best not to interfere or bother about it in any way.

BETTY.—The remedy you mention may be a very good one, but no advice about it can be given knowing nothing of its use or merits.

MRS. M. F.—Oil of sweet almonds, six ounces; white wax, three ounces; tincture of benzoin, 12 drachms; powdered tannin, six drachms; rose water, 12 drachms; melt the oil, wax and tannin together over a water bath, remove from the fire and add the benzoin gradually and lastly the rose water, mixing thoroughly. This pomade is to be used night and morning with gently friction but not massage.

J. P.—An oily skin is often caused by indigestion. Greasy, fried foods, alcoholics, and coffee should be abstained from. Correct constipation and take plenty of outdoor exercise. For condition of the nose as mentioned: Precipitated sulphur one drachm; powdered tragacanth, 10 grains; powdered camphor, 10 grains; glycerine, one drachm; lime water, two ounces; rose water, two drachms; mix, shake, and apply night and morning after applying hot cloths for 10 or 15 minutes and drying thoroughly.

IN MEMORIAM

BECKER—In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Matilda Becker, who passed away, March 14, 1917.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN. (c)

BRESCH—In memory of my dear sister, Harriet Bresch, who was laid away 20 year ago, March 18, 1908:
Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory sad and true;
Just the love and sweet devotion
Of one who thinks of you.
Sadly missed by
SISTER, MRS. CARRIE DIERKES.

BRICKEY—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Thomas G. Brickey, who departed this life March 18, 1924:
Dear father, can it be true,
Four years have passed since God called you?
The call was short, the shock severe
To part with one we loved so dear.
WIFE, DAUGHTER AND SON.

BRUENNING—In memory of my dear mother, Mary Bruenning, who departed this life March 18, 1914.
Sadly missed by all. Ever remembered by her DAUGHTER. (c)

CASE—In loving memory of Beulah Case, who departed this life three years ago, March 14, 1925. Sadly missed by her mother, E. C. Wagstaff; her children, sisters and brother.

DIEHL—In loving remembrance of our dear father, Henry Diehl, who departed this life one year ago, March 5, 1927.
No one knows how much we miss you. No one knows the bitter pain we have suffered since we lost you. Life has never been the same. In our hearts your memory lingers, sweetly, tender, fond and true. There's not a day, dear father, that we do not think of you. Sadly missed by HIS CHILDREN, HARRY AND MABEL.

EHRET—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Martin G. Ehret, who departed this life two years ago, March 21, 1926:
A loving soul, true and kind;
No father like him will ever find.
God called him home—it was his will;
But in our hearts he lingers still.
For all of us he did his best—
God grant him eternal rest.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

EHRLER—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Martha Ehrler, who passed away one year ago, March 20, 1927:
One year has passed since that sad day,
The one we loved was called away.
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still.
Sadly missed by
HER HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

HERBST—In loving memory of my dear wife and our dear mother, Agnes Herbst, who departed this life March 17, 1927.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

ELSER—In loving memory of my dear son and brother, John Elser, who departed this life March 16 1927.
What would we give to clasp his hand;
His happy face to see;
To hear his voice and see his smile,
That meant so much to me?
Sadly missed by
HIS HEARTBROKEN MOTHER SISTERS AND BROTHER.

FRIEDEWALD—In loving memory of Fred Friedewald, who passed away March 15, 1927.
So many works so much to do,
So little done, such things to be,
How know I what had need of thee?
For thou wert strong as thou wert true.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

FUCHS—In memory of our darling daughter, Anna Barbara Fuchs, who departed Sunday, March 18, 1920. Gone but not forgotten.
MR. AND MRS. EMIL FUCHS AND BROTHER, CHRISTIE.

No one knows how much we miss you.
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweet, tender, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by
SONS AND DAUGHTERS.

IN MEMORIAM

LODDEKE—In loving remembrance of our dear darling daughter, Evelyn Loddeke, who departed this life four years ago, March 22:
No one knows how much we miss you;
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you.
Life has never been the same.
In our hearts your memory lingers
Sweetly, tender, fond and true.
There's not a day, dear darling daughter,
That we do not think of you.
Sadly missed by
PARENTS AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

MICHEL—In sad memory of our dear sister, Ella Michel, who departed this life March 20, 1924. Sadly missed by her SISTERS.

MRS. KATHERINE NICOLAY—In loving memory of our dear mother, grandmother and mother-in-law, who died March 18, 1927:
Mother dear—just one short year,
Yet we have shed many a tear.
For a glimpse of your face so dear,
So sweet and kind, yet all the while
You belong to Him who is greater than we,
Therefore we pray you will happy be.
Until we meet to be with thee—through eternity. THE NICOLAY FAMILY.

PRITCHETT—In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Florence Pritchett, who departed this life two years ago, March 14, 1926:
Gone, dear one, but not forgotten.
Sadly missed by Father and Mother, Sister, Aunt, Uncle, Grandmother, Grandfather and Cousins and all who loved her.

Sadly missed by A. RICHERT.

RICHTER—In loving memory of Emma Richter, who departed this life March 19, 1927.
In our home she is fondly remembered:
Sweet memories cling to her name:
Those who loved her in life sincerely,
Still love her in death just the same.
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

SCHICK—In loving memory of my dear husband and father, Louis Schick Jr., who departed this life March 17, 1922.
The flowers we place upon your grave
May wither and decay,
But love for you who sleeps beneath
Will never fade away.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

SOMMER—E. A. Sommer, one year ago.
The pearly gates were opened,
A gentle voice said, "Come,"
And with farewells unspoken,
He gently entered home.
Missed by his wife, Amelia Sommer; his brother, Max A. Sommer, and his friends.

WAGSTAFF—In memory of my beloved husband and our dear father, who left us suddenly one year ago, March 17:
Surrounded by friends we are lonesome,
In the midst of our joys we are blue,
With smiles on our faces we have heartache,
Longing, dear Arthur, for you.
Although you are gone your are not forgotten;
Neither shall your memory fade;
Loving hearts shall always linger around
The grave where you are laid.
Sadly missed by his WIFE, CHILDREN and all who loved him.

ZIMMERMAN—In loving memory of my dear husband and father, Charles J. Zimmermann, who departed this life March 15, 1927:
One year has passed since that sad day,
When one we loved was called away:
God took him home—it was His will;
Within our hearts he liveth still.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, SON AND DAUGHTERS.

MISS JVLIA EVANS
DAUGHTER OF MR. AND MRS. GWYNNE EVANS

THIS is one of a series of portrait studies in color photography of prominent young St. Louis women. The photographs are taken by Clint Murphy of the Post-Dispatch staff and are reproduced here by a special process perfected by the Post-Dispatch mechanical staff.

Most Photographed Girl in America Takes a New Pose

Romance of Dorothy Smart, Who Made Clothes Modeling a Fine Art and a Highly Lucrative Profession.

Dorothy Smart, now Mrs. Edward Lyman Bill.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill leaving the Hitchcock Memorial Church after their wedding.

By ARTHUR STRAWN

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK.

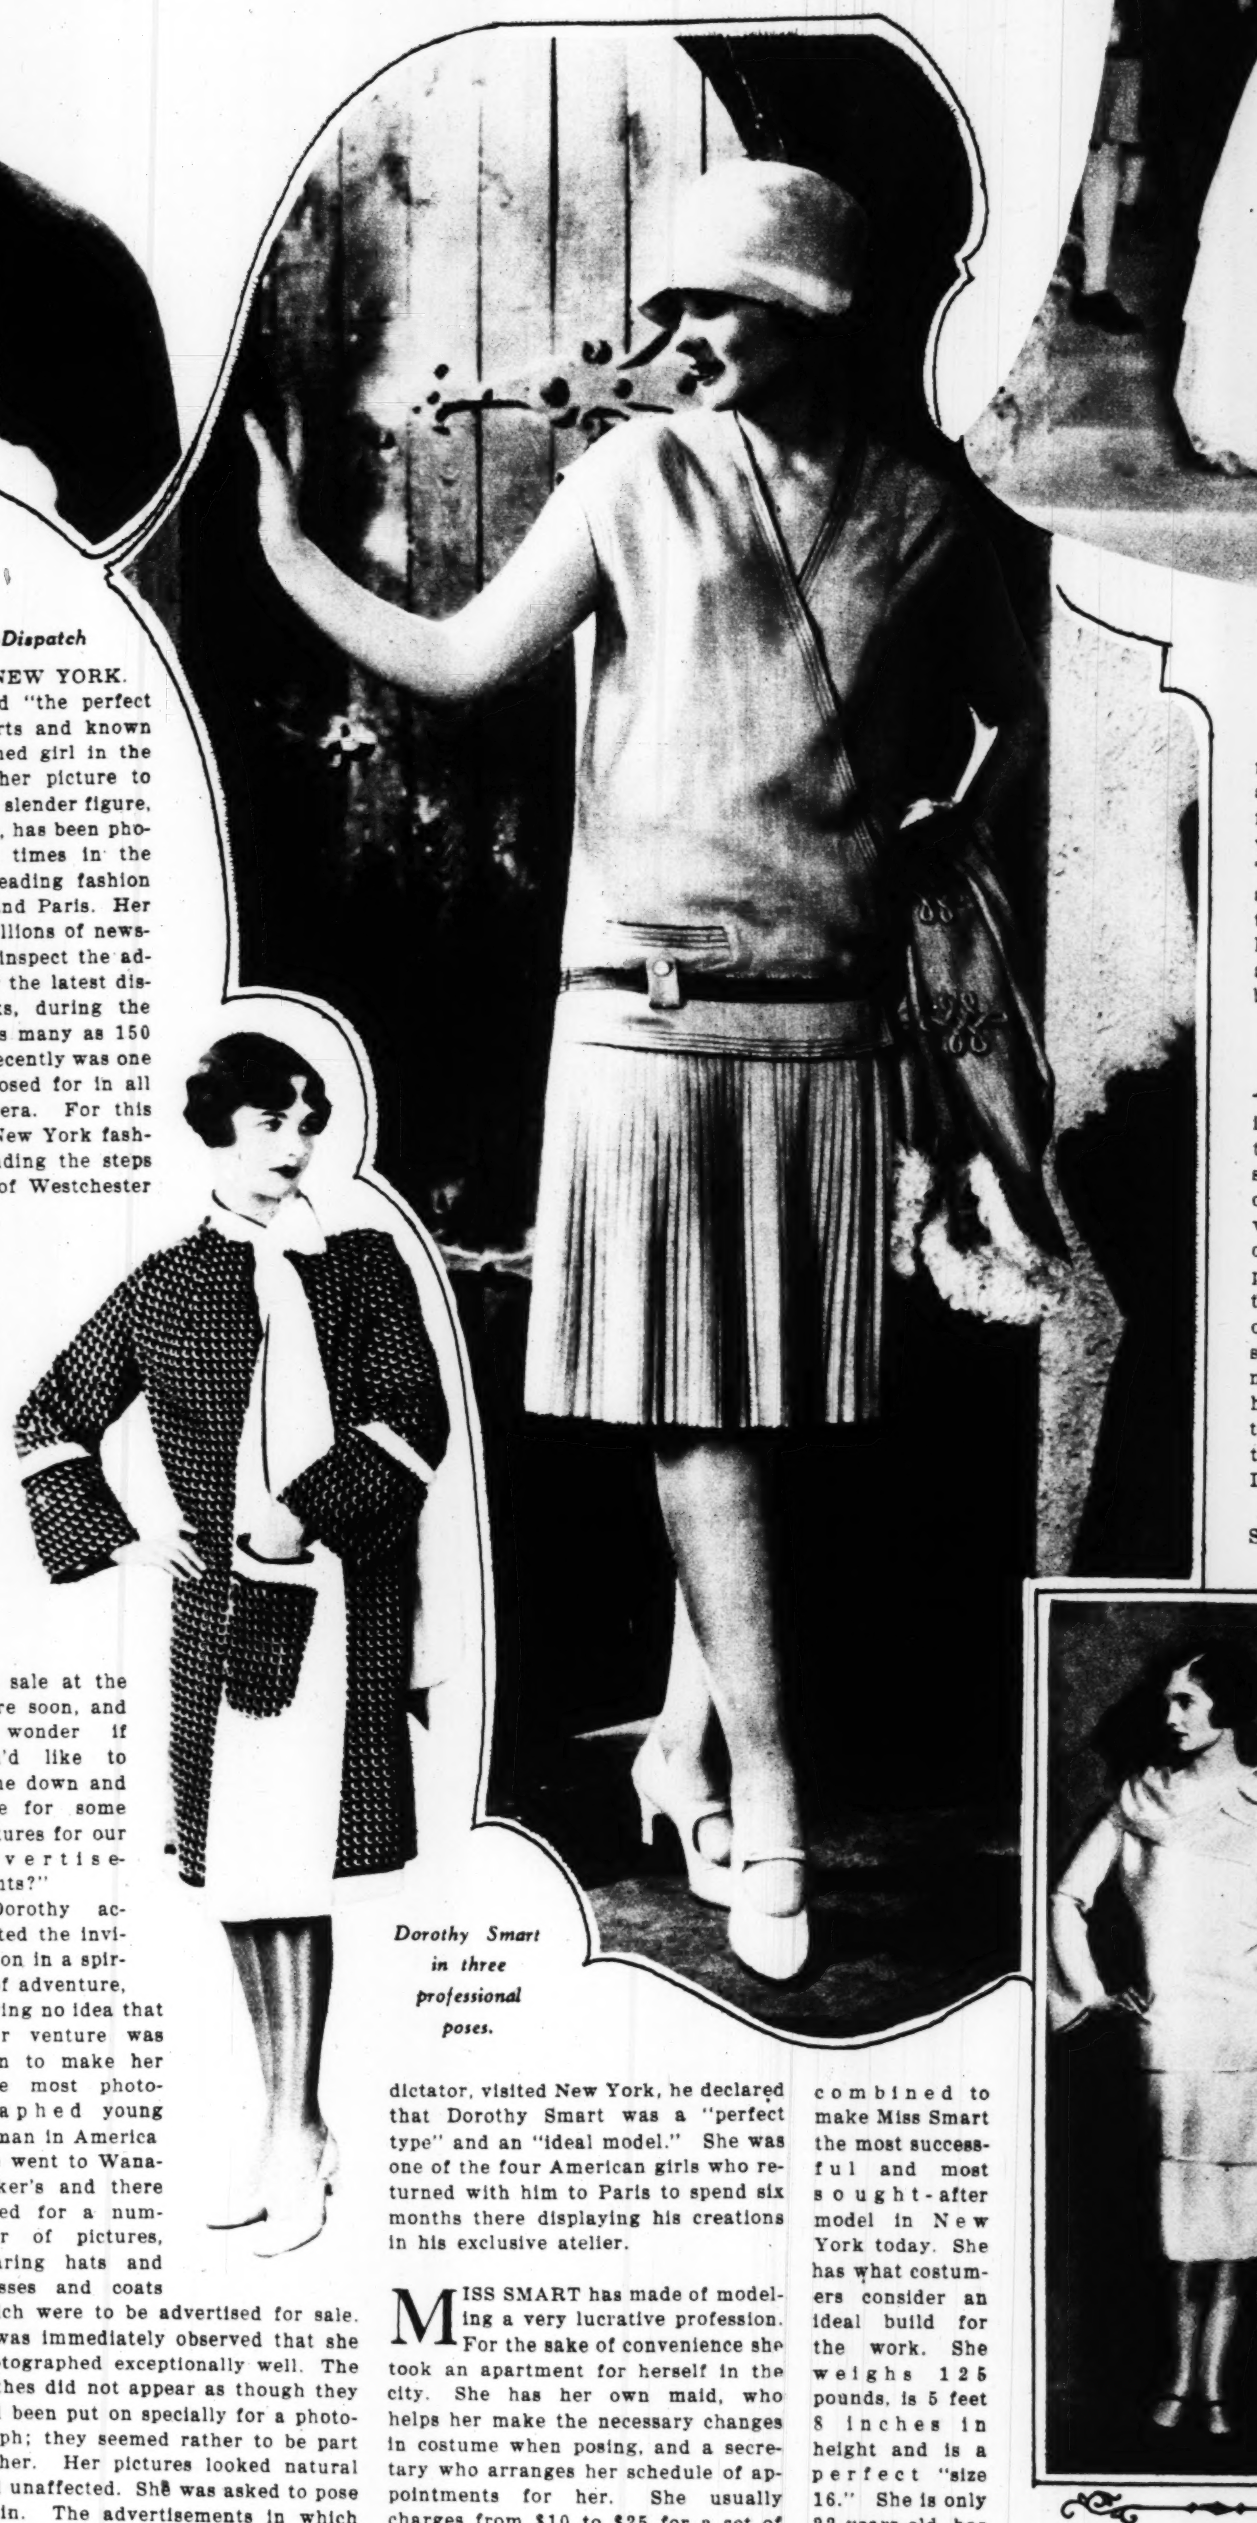
DOROTHY SMART, called "the perfect model" by fashion experts and known as "the most photographed girl in the world," has added another picture to her collection. Her trim, slender figure, garbed in the latest mode, has been photographed thousands of times in the ateliers of the world's leading fashion designers in New York and Paris. Her likeness is familiar to millions of newspaper and magazine readers accustomed to inspect the advertisements of women's wearing apparel or the latest display of fashions. There have been weeks, during the past three years, when she has posed for as many as 150 photographs, yet the picture she had taken recently was one entirely different from any she had ever posed for in all her numerous appearances before the camera. For this time she was not posing in the studio of a New York fashion designer, but was photographed descending the steps of a little church in a fashionable suburb of Westchester County, New York. And instead of being surrounded by merchants, designers and dressmakers, she was surrounded by admiring friends who had just witnessed her marriage to Edward Lyman Bill, New York millionaire clubman and publisher.

Much to the relief of New York coutouriers and designers, Dorothy Smart does not intend to abandon her business of modeling for the more leisurely life of a wealthy young matron. Modeling, which has generally been looked upon as a rather casual and, by some persons, even undignified occupation, has been converted by Miss Smart into something of a fine art. Actresses and celebrities often lend their pulchritude and the prestige of their names to the glorification of some designer's creation in hats or gowns, and in the numerous factories and display rooms which abound in New York there are many young women who earn a livelihood as mannikins. But Miss Smart, who took up the work almost accidentally in 1924, has not only made a career of wearing other peoples' clothes, but has been able to obtain a decidedly impressive income from the business of allowing herself to be photographed in them.

DOROTHY'S debut as a model took place little more than three years ago. She had been attending Bryn Mawr College, and even at that school, attended by the daughters of wealthy parents who could afford to provide their children with expensive and handsome apparel, Dorothy was conspicuous for her manner of dressing. Her mother, Mrs. Helena Smart, before her marriage to Eugene F. Verdery III of Augusta, Georgia, and New York, had been a designer of clothes and the proprietor of an exclusive New York shop. Thus Dorothy wore very becoming frocks made of the best material and cut in the latest mode. However, there was an additional element in her appearance, independent of the clothes themselves. She had a knack of wearing clothes, a gift which certainly not all women possess, and a dress which often might look very ordinary on other young women could be worn with considerable attractiveness by her. Her ability to wear ordinary clothes so as to lend them distinction attracted the attention of a friend of the family who was an official connected with the great department store of Wanamaker's in New York.

"You know," he remarked casually while visiting the family one evening in 1924, "your clothes look awfully good on you. We're going to have a big sale at the store soon, and I wonder if you'd like to come down and pose for some pictures for our advertisements?"

Dorothy accepted the invitation in a spirit of adventure, having no idea that her venture was soon to make her the most photographed young woman in America She went to Wanamaker's and there posed for a number of pictures, wearing hats and dresses and coats which were to be advertised for sale. It was immediately observed that she photographed exceptionally well. The clothes did not appear as though they had been put on specially for a photograph; they seemed rather to be part of her. Her pictures looked natural and unaffected. She was asked to pose again. The advertisements in which her likeness appeared attracted the attention of other merchants and designers. Inquiries were made and soon she was in demand. She found the work pleasant and profitable and she continued doing it. Today she has more demands for her services than she can satisfy. The smartest New York designers and merchants are her clients and she is often forced to decline many requests for photographs for the simple reason that the day is only 24 hours long and part of it must be given over to recreation and rest. Last year, when Jean Patou, the famous Parisian designer and fashion dictator, visited New York, he declared that Dorothy Smart was a "perfect type" and an "ideal model." She was one of the four American girls who returned with him to Paris to spend six months there displaying his creations in his exclusive atelier.



Dorothy Smart in three professional poses.

MISS SMART has made of modeling a very lucrative profession. For the sake of convenience she took an apartment for herself in the city. She has her own maid, who helps her make the necessary changes in costume when posing, and a secretary who arranges her schedule of appointments for her. She usually charges from $10 to $25 for a set of poses, depending on the number of pictures to be taken, and her income last year is estimated to have been close to $20,000. She averages about four or five appointments a day. She works hard, and 9 o'clock in the morning usually finds her out of her apartment and busily parading before a camera. There are many days when she does not see home again until after 6. And she is usually a very tired young lady when that hour strikes. After all, making 15 or 20 changes of clothes a day is a pretty strenuous way of spending one's time.

There are several factors which have combined to make Miss Smart the most successful and most sought-after model in New York today. She has what costumers consider an ideal build for the work. She weighs 125 pounds, is 5 feet 8 inches in height and is a perfect "size 16." She is only 22 years old, has blue eyes and fine blonde hair. Although she has good features and a refined and winning face, she is not what one would describe as beautiful. And this, as a matter of fact, turns out to be something of an asset in her work. Much of her effectiveness as a model for wearing apparel would be lost, experts declare, if her face were of stunning beauty, because in that case attention would be attracted and held by her features and her clothes would become of secondary interest.

Mention has already been made of the naturalness with which she wears clothing. In her, designers find a model who does not give the appearance of being a mere mannikin, temporarily draped in garments for the convenience of display. She does not look "dressed up" when she poses. She has a gift of making her clothing look as though it was designed especially for her and as much a part of her appearance as a baseball glove is that of a ballplayer's.

AND if there is any doubt that she has a natural talent for wearing clothes becomingly and for bringing out the full beauty and design of the garment, this doubt would be dissipated if one knew the great number of letters which she receives from women all over the country. In many of the advertisements in which she appears there is a statement to the effect that the picture has been posed by Dorothy Smart. And the shops publishing such pictures over the country in newspapers and magazines receive hundreds of letters monthly in which the writers seek information on what they should wear in order to look like Dorothy Smart!

But there is another quality to Miss Smart's work which should not be overlooked. She is intelligent. When she goes to a shop or studio to pose for a picture she does more than merely put on the garments, stand before the camera and then depart. She usually asks to be told the price at which the garment is to be sold, the kind of advertisement and the publication in which the picture is to appear. In short, she tries to learn the class of persons that advertisement is designed to reach. That information guides her in her posing. If she is to advertise one of a number of differently designed dresses, she is thus enabled to choose the one which she thinks will have the strongest general appeal to the public that advertisement is trying to impress. Furthermore, she often makes valuable suggestions about the design of a dress which make for marked improvement in the garment.

Her contacts with the leading designers of Paris and New York have made her a very keen judge of clothes and something of a student of styles. She believes that, on the whole, American women are better dressed than those of France.

"France, of course, has wonderful clothes designers," she says, "probably the best in the world, although America is far from being without first-class creators in fashion. America, however, has a much more efficient system of advertising and selling, so that great numbers of women here are always in touch with the latest styles and can usually make early use of them if they wish.

"I noticed one striking difference between French methods and those of New York when I was abroad with Patou, and it is a difference which reflects the temperaments of the two nations. In this country the costume in which a model is to appear, either before the camera or at a fashion display, is ready long before the time for exhibition. Often in Paris the exhibition would already be going on while some designer was fitting a new creation to me. There is always a great rush and lots of excitement there just before an exhibition of style begins. At Patou's place there were two style shows held daily. One in the morning for morning and sports clothes, and one in the afternoon for afternoon and evening wearing apparel. Admission to these daily fashion displays was by card only."

Miss Smart does not know exactly what she will do on her return from her honeymoon to the West Indies, but she is certain she will not give up her work.

"Of course, I can't do as much work as I've been doing," she says. "I don't think it would be exactly fair to my husband. After all, he's entitled to some of my time. I may continue modeling, but I'm seriously thinking of opening a shop of my own and setting up for myself as a sort of consultant on women's problems of dress. I could give women expert advice in choosing their wardrobes and could help them plan the kind of clothes that would be most suited to them. Some women, you know, think that they're well-dressed if they look conspicuous or stand out because of their clothing. Of course, that's not true.

"SOME women look stunning no matter what they have on, but my idea of a well-dressed woman is one who doesn't look dressed up and in whose appearance everything harmonizes and nothing stands out prominently. If a woman's hat or gloves or shoes or bag impress a person as being in themselves beautiful, it usually means that her ensemble isn't a harmonious unit."

Miss Smart, who intends to continue using her maiden name in her business dealings, believes that a woman can be at least attractively dressed on as little as $500 a year.

"Of course, she can't be smart looking on such a small sum, but she can manage to look nice if she knows what to buy. She can dress economically if she plans her wardrobe, using a three-piece ensemble suit as her unit around which to build."

However, when asked what she expected her spring outfit to cost her, Miss Smart smiled and admitted it would come to about a thousand dollars!

And if you like to tinker with statistics, you can compute the total value of the sports costumes, evening gowns, opera wraps and fur coats which Miss Smart will wear in the course of 1928, for the duration of a camera click, and place it beside the national debt. The figure, swelled by the world's highest price tags, would be staggering.

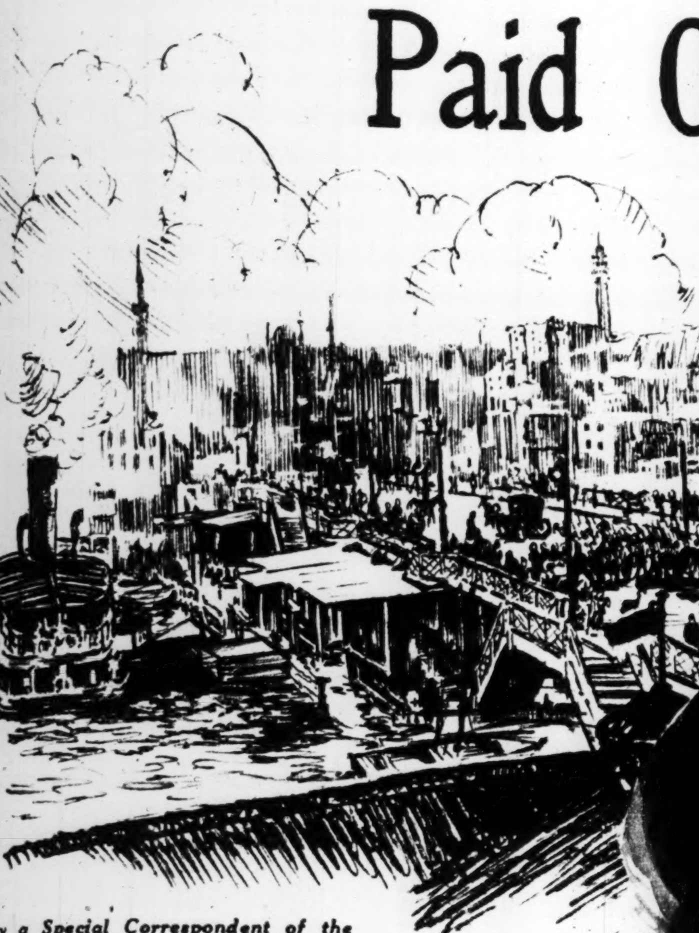
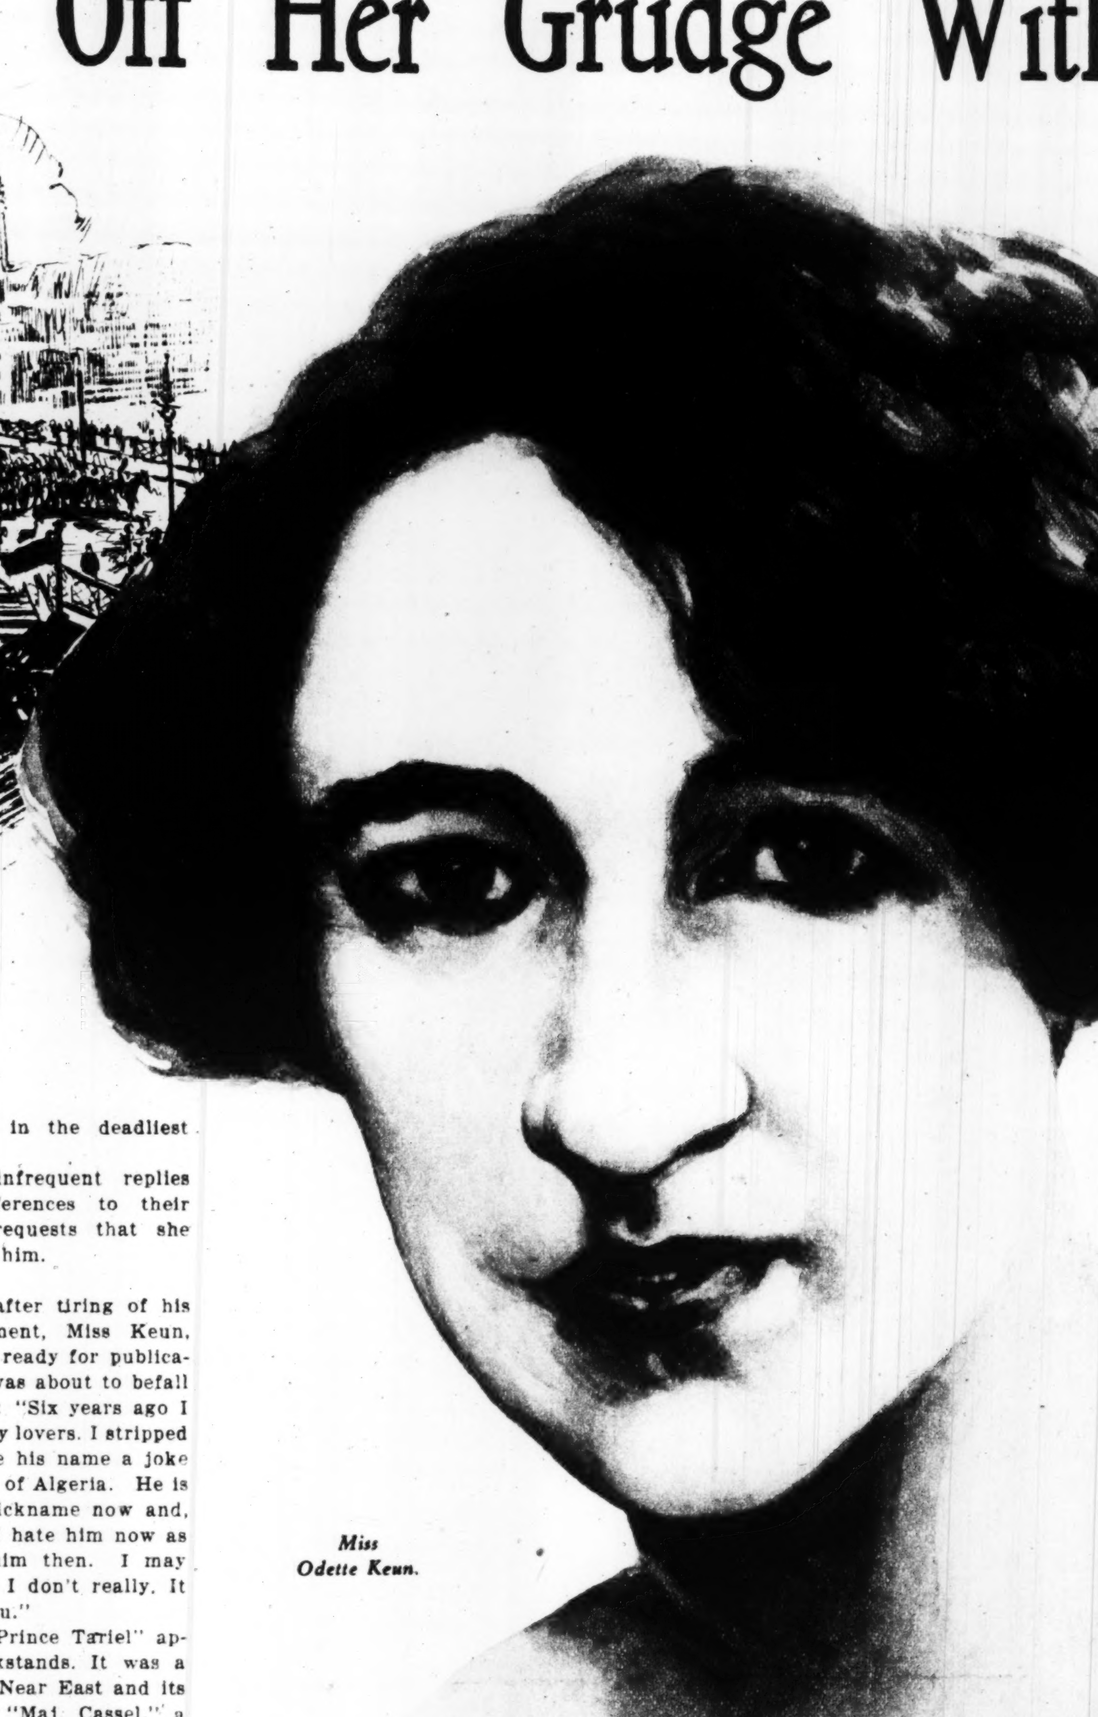
Paid Off Her Grudge With a Novel





Miss
Odette Keun.

So an English Jury Awarded the "Villain" of Miss Odette Keun's Book a Thousand Pounds.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine.

LONDON.

CONSTANTINOPLE, always vivid and exotic to the Western observer, presented an even more bizarre spectacle in 1921, when the governmental and social confusion of Turkey, following the war, attracted to the capital city the world's adventurers and hordes of refugees. The Allied High Command directed the affairs of the Sultan, and allied troops patrolled the sidewalks, French, British and Italian uniforms mingling among the crowds in the busy streets. Constantinople's fate hung in the balance while Christendom debated whether or not it should be returned to the possession of the infidel and it was many months before the allies decided to give it back to Turkey.

Assigned to the command of the allied police in the Pera district was Major Ernest Cassel Maxwell, a British army officer. He was instructed, besides maintaining the general peace, to be on his guard against plots of bolshevik Russia and to ferret out all its agents who were then, it was said, trying to disseminate their doctrines among the Turks and secure control of Constantinople to Russia.

In the same district of the city, although their paths had never crossed, was a countrywoman of Major Maxwell's—Miss Odette Keun. She was something of an adventuress, in addition to being a writer of sorts, and had landed in Constantinople in the backwash of the war, at the height of the excitement.

Miss Keun, of Danish extraction, was a woman of decided opinions and did not hesitate to voice them. By her own declaration, she was possessed of a nature which did not admit of forgiveness, once her feelings had been bruised. And the seething turmoil in her soul, aroused by a real or imagined insult, was apt to find vent in a forceful and singular manner, as subsequent events will show.

Major Maxwell did not seek the acquaintanceship of Miss Keun, but for a number of years after their paths accidentally crossed in Constantinople he regretted the trick of fate which brought it about.

A RAID had been ordered in the Pera section, and under the direction of Major Maxwell 60 persons were arrested, charged with "bolshevism and communism." They were tried before an allied court, convicted and deported in a body to Russia. Among them was Miss Keun, who for two years thereafter made a tortuous way through Russia, suffering many privations before she got safely back to her native England.

Then her nature, which a court of England said was something like that of a cuttle-fish, asserted itself and her subsequent activities proved that the fury of a woman scorned is nothing to that of a woman deported. She frankly wanted to get even with Maj. Maxwell, now elevated to the rank of Colonel, so she wrote a book—a novel in which the Colonel figured as a particularly black character.

As was afterwards testified in court, she warned before she struck and Col. Maxwell's mail frequently contained fiery letters in which she gloated over the disgrace that, in her mind, would befall him when her novel was published.

"Well, you damned cur," she wrote, as she plotted the action of the novel and picked her characters, "I am beginning to get even with you at last."

Other letters which were presented contained such epithets as "you unspeakable mud!" "you filthy spy!" and "you confounded hound!" Again she wrote, after describing her hatred for him, "I can't help it. I can't forget. I can't really forgive. It was only a passing incident in your career, but you are the man who made me taste injustice and fear in the deadliest way."

Col. Maxwell's infrequent replies were sarcastic references to their "friendship" and requests that she keep in touch with him.

AT LENGTH, after tiring of his careless comment, Miss Keun, her book now ready for publication, warned what was about to befall him in these words: "Six years ago I was left by one of my lovers. I stripped him naked. I made his name a joke from north to south of Algeria. He is only known by a nickname now and, though I did that, I hate him now as much as I hated him then. I may think I forgive but I don't really. It is the same with you."

Then, in 1925, "Prince Tariel" appeared on the bookstands. It was a novel of life in the Near East and its main figure was a "Maj. Cassel," a handsome army officer who was a libertine, liar and spy. Col. Maxwell read the book and showed it to his friends, who commented that "Maj. Cassel" certainly was in many respects none other than Maj. Maxwell of the Allied police in Constantinople.

So Col. Maxwell filed suit for 1000 pounds damages against Miss Keun and her printer and publisher, alleging that his character had been libeled by the novel. The case came to trial recently in the King's Bench Division and a jury quickly decided in favor of Col. Maxwell, finding the author and her printer and publisher equally guilty in perpetrating the libel, and assessing damages in the amount asked.

Miss Keun disdained to file a reply to Col. Maxwell's suit and did not even appear in court, nor was she represented by counsel. The publisher and printer appeared in their own defense and withered as Miss Keun's inflammatory letters were read aloud.

Counsel for the publisher begged the court to disregard these missives, as Miss Keun was just "pouring out her soul," but Mr. Justice Avory was unable to take this view and, condemning all three defendants in one blast, remarked that Miss Keun's outpourings were more like those of the cuttle-fish than of a woman.

"It is really difficult to ascertain the character of this person, the author," he remarked. "The forensic and poetical expression (pouring out her soul) which escaped from the counsel's lips with regard to her is very inappropriate when one looks at her letters.

"Instead of 'pouring out her soul,' she seems more like a cuttle-fish, which pours out a volume of inky fluid when it is pursued."

MISS KEUN had poured out her soul, but not so impetuously, once before in another volume, entitled "My Adventures in Bolshevik Russia," in which Col. Maxwell came in for mention.

"Prince Tariel," however, was a real scorcher. It was advertised as a novel of a mythical "Georgian Republic" and on the cover was the figure of a half-stripped woman pictured as being flogged. The blurb writer had done his bit, too. He described it as "a story of modern Georgia, a romantic story floating vividly over a substratum of real happenings. It is living, contemporary romance, a phase of history lit by a passionate love story."

The novel aimed to portray life in a Near Eastern republic, the action touching on India and Constantinople, and through the maze of events stalked the handsome but malign figure of "Maj. Cassel," a spy and a cruel officer, a graceful liar and a libertine with fell powers over cowering women.

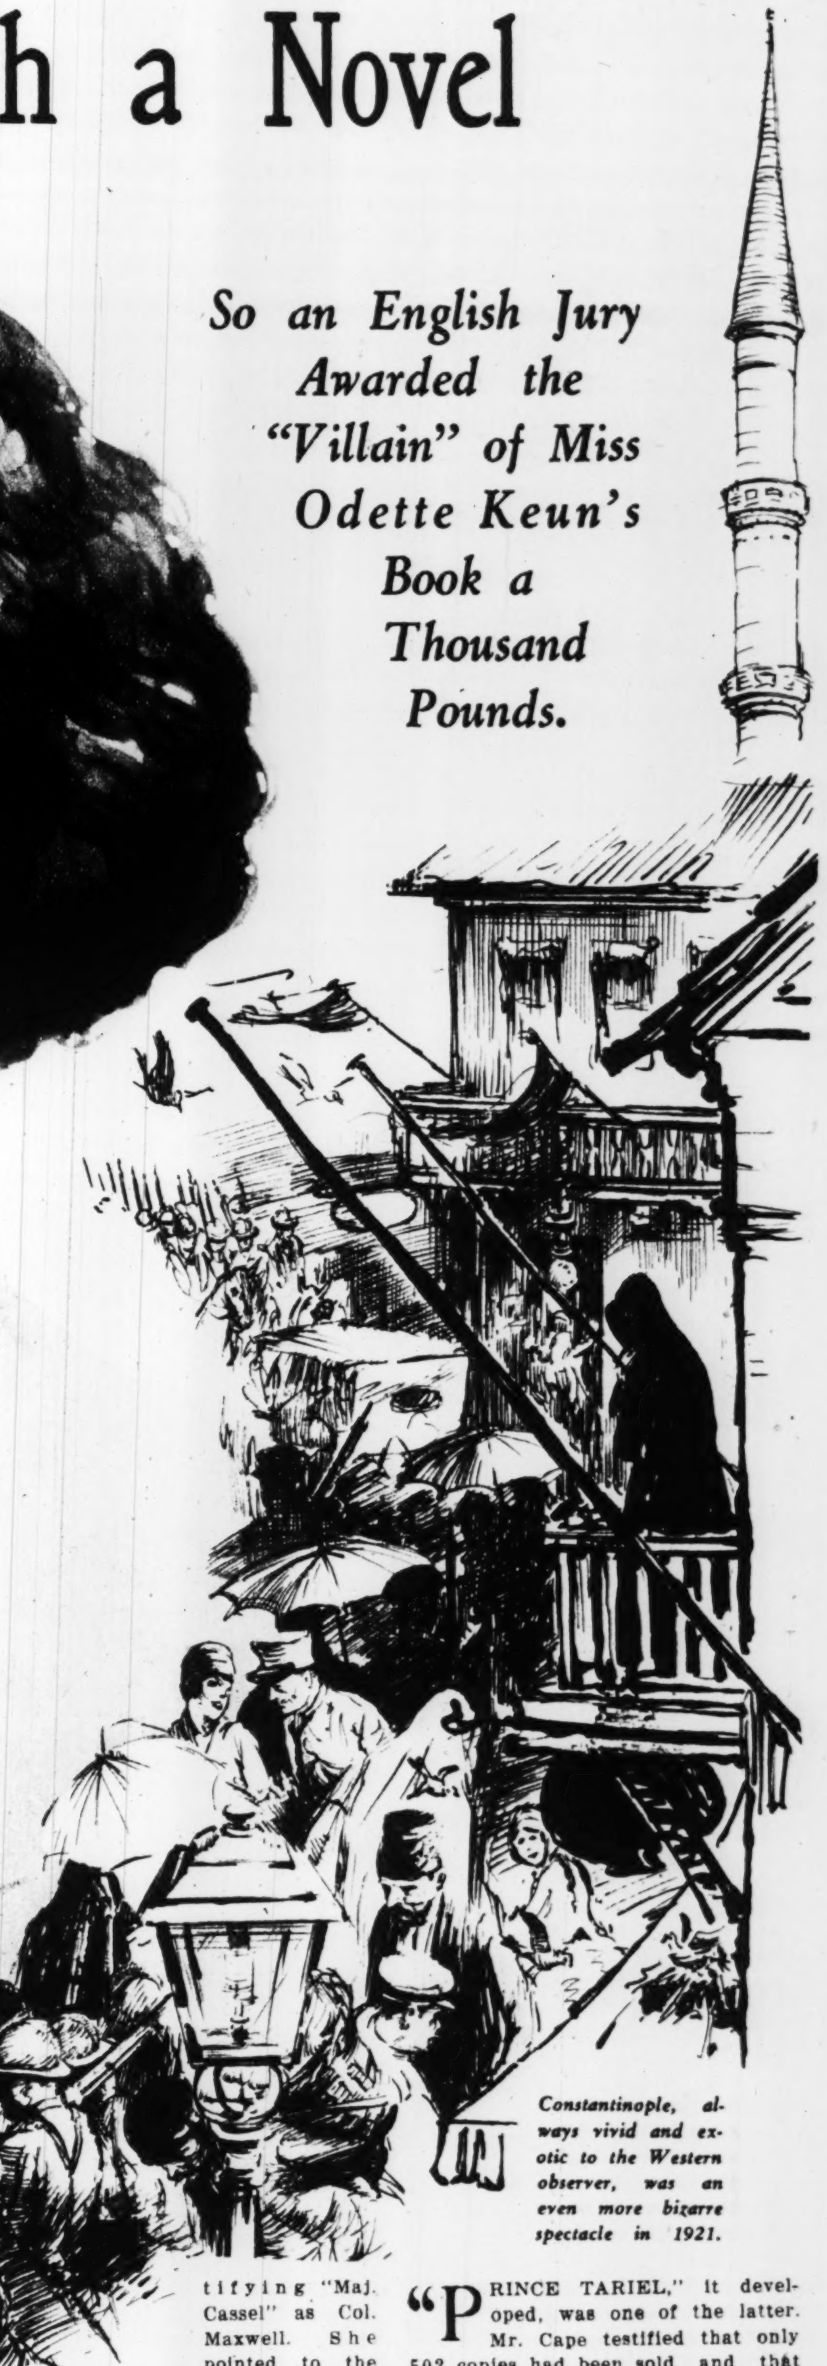
A descriptive passage said: "I saw the face of a man standing on the opposite side to mine. It was a still handsome face . . . the eyes fixed on the woman before them. On the clear-cut, pallid lips a smile was set . . . sickeningly sweet, as of a deep, delicate gloating on some secretly pleasing thing. It was Maj. Cassel's face, and in a flash I knew what quality of his it was that had evaded me when I tried to read him dancing with Vala Abhazi at the ball. That man was cruel, and I was again overwhelmed with a sense of horror."

Another excerpt, read at the trial, gave this description: "A rather bloodless mouth, inflexible, sharply cut at the corners, which he kept closed when he smiled."

Still another referred to "Maj. Cassel" as follows: "He was of fair height, flaxen, well set up and irreproachably groomed," and on the strength of this reference defense counsel attempted to show that Col. Maxwell could not possibly have been the character in the novel.

Mr. Norman Birkett, K. C., one of the defense counsel, read the passage and asked the witness tartly: "Is that you?" Col. Maxwell admitted that it was "probably a little flattering."

Mr. Birkett continued to read: "His face was handsome, of the classical English type, extremely mobile—". He paused. "Of course," he said, again waxing sarcastic, "it is just a novel."



Constantinople, always vivid and exotic to the Western observer, was an even more bizarre spectacle in 1921.

COL. MAXWELL, now uncomfortable, shifted on his seat and agreed that perhaps a lot of it was "tosh" but then again a lot of it wasn't, and his friends had readily recognized him as a somewhat modified "Maj. Cassel."

Fellow officers and friends corroborated this claim. There was, for instance, Col. Commandant William James Cooke-Collis, stationed at Colchester, in command of the Eleventh Infantry Brigade, who had noted the resemblance as soon as he had read the book.

Amid laughter in the courtroom, Col. Cooke-Collis testified that he also was mentioned in the novel under the thin disguise of "Gen. Cooke-Collis" and was made to appear several times as "an empty-headed fool." Col. Cooke-Collis was not particularly pleased with this description.

Mrs. Thelma Trevett, wife of Capt. J. Trevett, stationed at Poona, testified that she had no difficulty in identifying "Maj. Cassel" as Col. Maxwell. She pointed to the fact that the author had made use of Col. Maxwell's middle name and even spelled it with one "l," and also noted that the book's action touched on India and Constantinople, in both of which places Col. Maxwell had seen service.

MR. JONATHAN CAPE, managing director for Jonathan Cape, Ltd., publisher of "Prince Tariel," made a rather pathetic figure on the witness stand. His predicament, it seemed, was the result of neglecting to look into the previous professional record of Miss Keun, when that lady submitted her manuscript. It had looked to his fiction reader like a good novel and he had arranged to publish it. He had no knowledge of the author's grudge against Col. Maxwell and thought the whole book was pure imagination of a readable type.

His cross-examination by plaintiff's counsel was as follows:

"Before you published this book did you know Miss Keun's reputation?" "No."

"Did you know that she was a bit of a firebrand?" "No, we took the book on its merits."

"You took a risk?" "Yes."

"After 30 years' experience as a publisher you know that you are liable for libels written by authors whose books you publish?" "I have always understood that the publisher is the man who suffers." (Laughter.)

Mr. Justice Avory—"But he is the man who makes the profits." (Laughter.)

The witness—"There are very few successful books and we have to pay for the failures."

"PRINCE TARIEL," it developed, was one of the latter. Mr. Cape testified that only 502 copies had been sold and that nine-tenths of these had been bought up by libraries. Less than 20 copies had been sent to Calcutta, Simla and Bombay, he said. When Col. Maxwell had protested the sale of the book, Mr. Cape said, he had made every effort to call back these copies and had stopped publication. Mr. Cape was hurt by the fact that while Col. Maxwell, in his petition for damages, had expressed great horror over the affair and characterized the novel as "a deathless thing" that would forever haunt him, actually he had taken it as a joke and had distributed copies among his friends.

It was Col. Maxwell's delight to carry a number of copies of the "deathless thing" in his trunk and present them to acquaintances and sometimes strangers, it was testified. It was related that he experienced particular delight in presenting Col. Cooke-Collis with "Prince Tariel" and enjoying the Colonel's discomfiture.

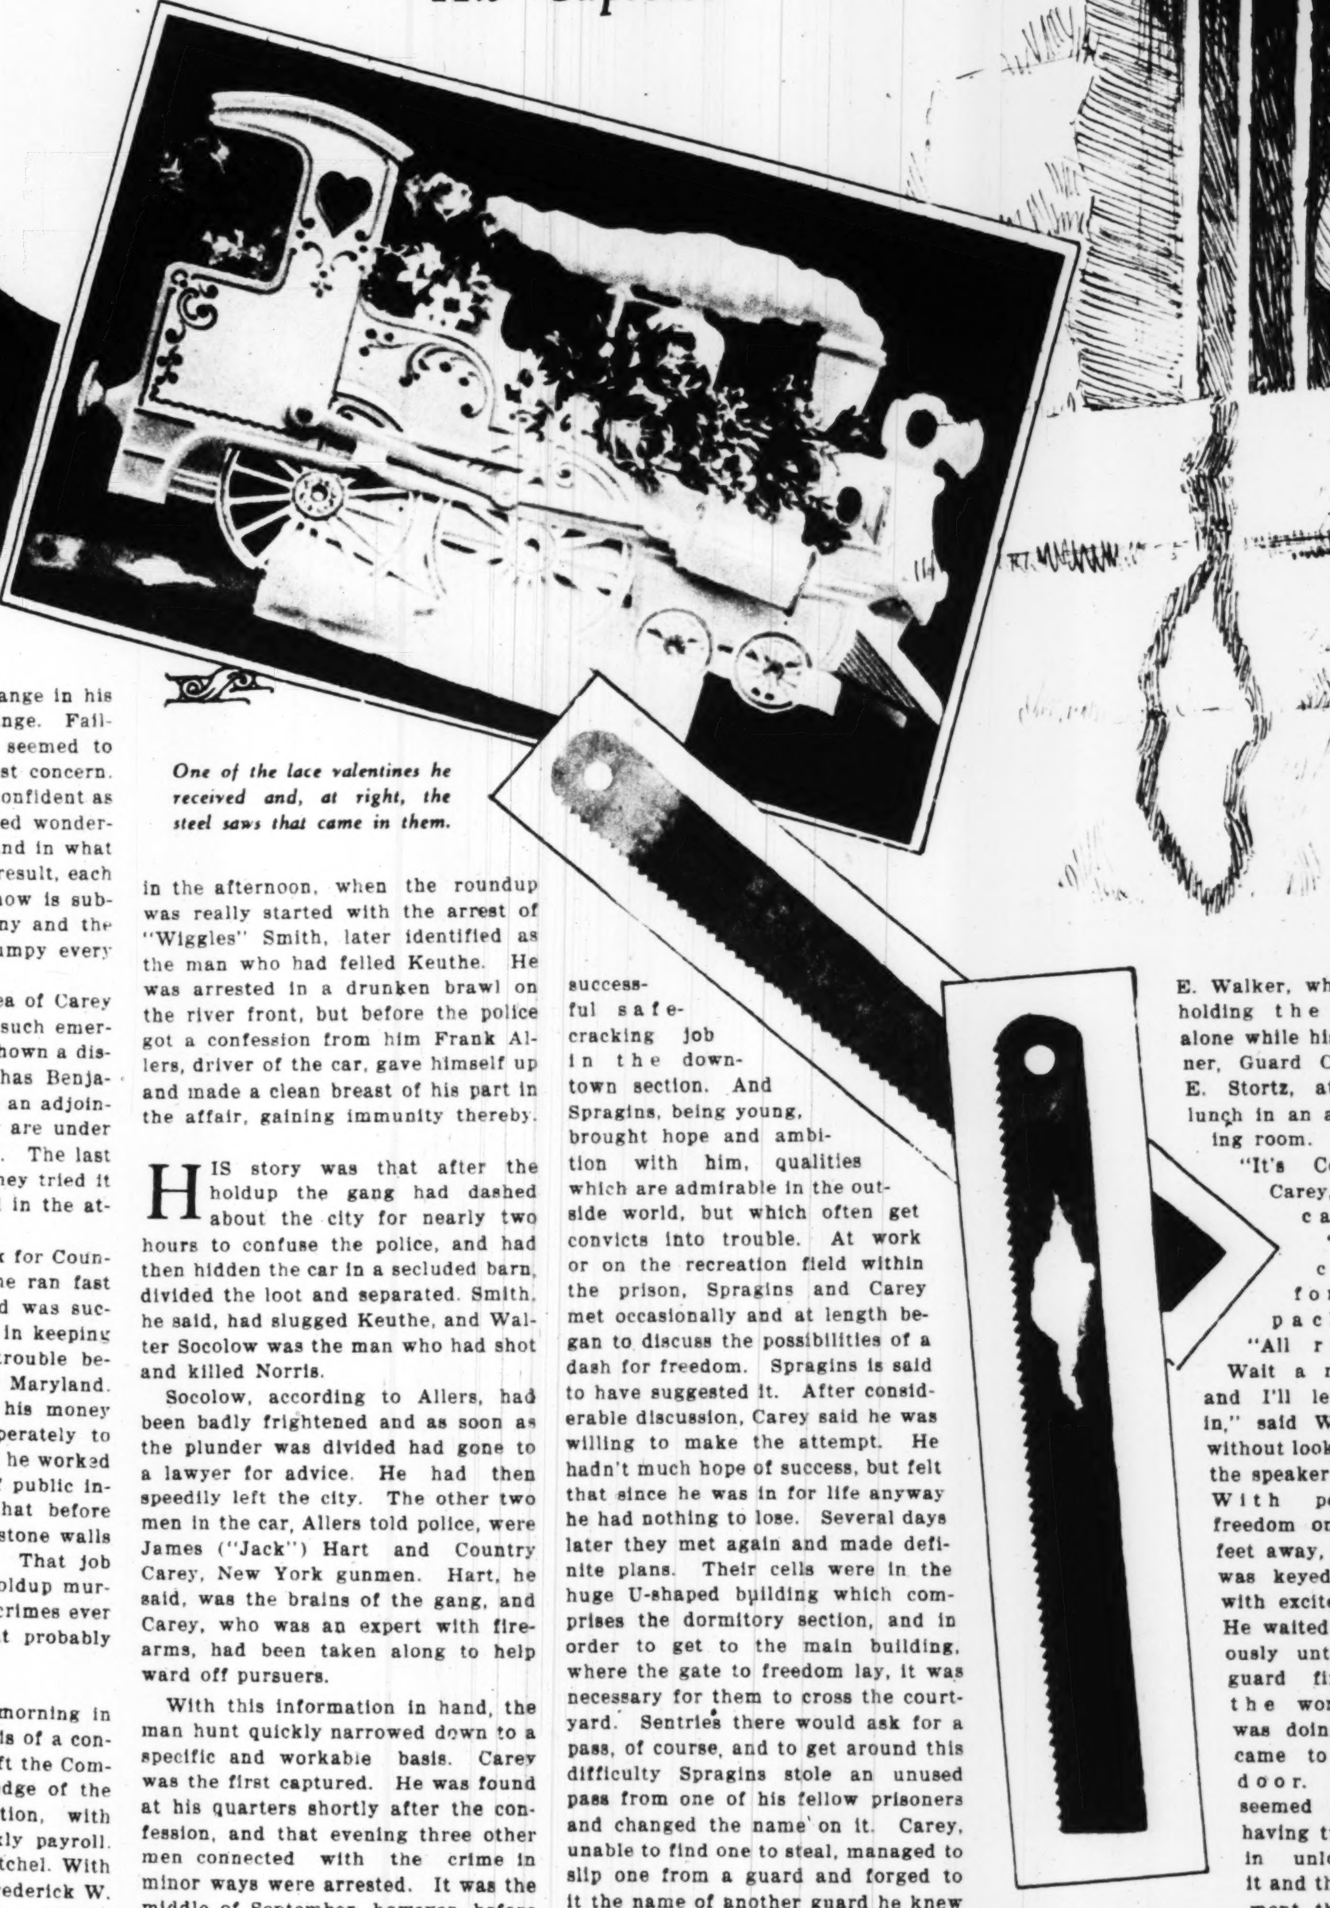
Mr. Croom-Johnson, testifying on behalf of the printers, Butler & Tanner, Ltd., said "Prince Tariel" was such "extravagant fiction" that no one would possibly connect it up with actual persons.

But the jury found for the plaintiff and, in summing up, the court said that if the objectionable passages in the book were a libel on Col. Maxwell, it was a libel of an atrocious character which, if the charges were believed by any person in authority over him, would have led to the absolute ruin of his Army career and possibly to his ostracism from society. And since the publisher and printer had been so careless, they, too, might share in the payment of the 1000 pounds damages.

IN THE GIBBET'S SHADOW but Still He Sings

The Notorious "Country" Carey's High Good Humor, in the Face of His Execution for Killing a Guard During a Jail Break, Has a Sinister Ring to His Captors.

Country Carey, the killer.



One of the lace valentines he received and, at right, the steel saws that came in them.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

BALTIMORE, Maryland.

IN THE shadow of the gallows, Charles P. ("Country") Carey looks out between the cell bars and blithely sings. He is as merry as though he had not a care in the world; as flippant as though April 27 marked the day of his liberty rather than the day of his death. He jests about the hangman. He laughs lightheartedly.

All of which has the Warden and guards of the Maryland State Penitentiary here plainly stumped. They are more than a little worried. The more they try to figure out what Carey has up his sleeve, the more perplexed and nervous they become. They are actually getting jumpy. The spectacle of a man about to die for murder frolicking and smiling with so much cocksureness is a phenomenon too deep for prison guards. They don't conceal the fact they will experience a great relief when the hanging is over. Until it is, they can't feel sure that it is going to happen at all. As a reprieve is almost out of the question, it is fairly obvious that Carey has some jailbreaking scheme in his head. But what kind? There is always the danger of playing directly into his hands. There is ever the fear that the most innocent device will prove to be just what he is looking for.

For instance, there was that valentine of a few weeks ago. That came very near bringing about their undoing. But it looked innocent enough. It bore no signature but, for that matter, valentines seldom do. The Warden, after looking it over, decided it was just a kindly remembrance from somebody enjoying more fortunate circumstances than those of the prisoner who was even then waiting in his death cell. He allowed it to be delivered to Carey.

The Warden had been right about it being a kindly remembrance, only he didn't suspect how kindly it was. It was so kindly, indeed, that it might have resulted in a wholesale jail break had not the sender become too zealous in his kindness.

ONE valentine was all right. But when, several days later, there came another, a duplicate of the first and addressed by the same hand, it aroused suspicion. The Warden called in his assistants and they examined the missive with great care. In doing so they found out why death-cell prisoners get big, fancy valentines. Sealed up inside of it they found two small hacksaws.

Here, they thought, they had discovered the secret of Carey's confidence. And, having discovered it, they supposed they had frustrated his plan. They expected a sudden change in his attitude. But it didn't change. Failure to receive the saws seemed to cause him only the slightest concern. He remained as blithe and confident as before. So then they started wondering what else was coming and in what form it would come. As a result, each piece of mail he receives now is subjected to the closest scrutiny and the guards are getting more jumpy every day.

The guards dread the idea of Carey attempting a break, for in such emergencies in the past he has shown a disposition to be rough. So has Benjamin Spragins, who occupies an adjoining cell. That is why both are under sentence to die on April 27. The last time they tried to escape they tried it together and killed a guard in the attempt.

Baltimore has been a jinx for Country Carey. In New York he ran fast and loose as a gunman and was successful to a marked degree in keeping clear of detectives. But trouble began the minute he entered Maryland. In the first place, he lost his money gambling and set out desperately to get more. But the first job he worked brought such a landslide of public indignation upon his head that before he knew it he was behind stone walls with a life stretch ahead. That job was the notorious Norris holdup murder of 1922 and of all the crimes ever committed in this city that probably was the most sensational.

IT WAS on a Saturday morning in August. William B. Norris of a contracting firm had just left the Commonwealth Bank, on the edge of the city's main business section, with money for the firm's weekly payroll. He had $7200 in a small satchel. With him was his bookkeeper, Frederick W. Keuthe, who carried a black metal box of change.

They had just crossed the street, a block from the bank, when a large touring car swept up to the curb and four men jumped out. Without warning or explanation, one of them struck Keuthe on the head, felling him with one blow, and another began firing at Norris, who quickly crumpled up on the sidewalk. The third and fourth men gathered up the bag and box, dumped them into the car, and, after the man with the gun had felt Norris' heart and fired several more shots into his body, the quartet got into the machine and sped away.

Thus began the real troubles of Country Carey. Within 10 minutes the entire city of Baltimore was up in arms, with every policeman and almost every citizen on the lookout for the murder car. It was an avowed man hunt to the death. For several hours police cars sped from one end of town to the other in response to flashes that the robbers had been seen, but all clews fell down until late in the afternoon, when the roundup was really started with the arrest of "Wiggles" Smith, later identified as the man who had felled Keuthe. He was arrested in a drunken brawl on the river front, but before the police got a confession from him Frank Allers, driver of the car, gave himself up and made a clean breast of his part in the affair, gaining immunity thereby.

HIS story was that after the holdup the gang had dashed about the city for nearly two hours to confuse the police, and had then hidden the car in a secluded barn, divided the loot and separated. Smith, he said, had slugged Keuthe, and Walter Socolow was the man who had shot and killed Norris.

Socolow, according to Allers, had been badly frightened and as soon as the plunder was divided had gone to a lawyer for advice. He had then speedily left the city. The other two men in the car, Allers told police, were James ("Jack") Hart and Country Carey, New York gunmen. Hart, he said, was the brains of the gang, and Carey, who was an expert with firearms, had been taken along to help ward off pursuers.

With this information in hand, the man hunt quickly narrowed down to a specific and workable basis. Carey was the first captured. He was found at his quarters shortly after the confession, and that evening three other men connected with the crime in minor ways were arrested. It was the middle of September, however, before Hart and Socolow were taken. Hart was found in nearby Washington after he had traveled all over the country to evade the police, and Socolow, the killer, was captured in New York.

Justice followed swiftly. All those in the death car—except Allers, who was granted immunity—were given life sentences in the penitentiary, and Country Carey found himself, for the first time, behind iron bars. Up to that time he had been merely "one of the Hart gang," but after a few years of prison life he made a bid for notoriety in his own right.

It seems that before the holdup Carey had known a young man, Benjamin F. Spragins by name, a devotee of that less adventurous side of criminality known as "second-story work." The two had never worked a job together, but they had talked over a lot of them, and when Carey found himself in prison Spragins visited him occasionally and brought him cigarettes.

But Spragins eventually landed in the same place as the result of an unsuccessful safe-cracking job in the downtown section. And Spragins, being young, brought hope and ambition with him, qualities which are admirable in the outside world, but which often get convicts into trouble. At work or on the recreation field within the prison, Spragins and Carey met occasionally and at length began to discuss the possibilities of a dash for freedom. Spragins is said to have suggested it. After considerable discussion, Carey said he was willing to make the attempt. He hadn't much hope of success, but felt that since he was in for life anyway he had nothing to lose. Several days later they met again and made definite plans. Their cells were in the huge U-shaped building which comprises the dormitory section, and in order to get to the main building, where the gate to freedom lay, it was necessary for them to cross the courtyard. Sentries there would ask for a pass, of course, and to get around this difficulty Spragins stole an unused pass from one of his fellow prisoners and changed the name on it. Carey, unable to find one to steal, managed to slip one from a guard and forged to it the name of another guard he knew would be off duty at the time appointed for the break.

SATURDAY noon was the hour set and, as the tower clock began to chime, the two prisoners appeared in the courtyard and, showing their passes hurriedly to the sentry on duty, were allowed to pass on to the main building on the pretense of getting some packages that were supposed to be waiting for them in the office. It had all been carefully planned beforehand and each knew his part. Neither man spoke to or looked at the other.

They went into the long, bare corridor, with the courtyard behind them and freedom in front. Only the office with its two guards remained to bar them. Once in the open, they had agreed, they would hold up the first passing motorist, force him to drive them to seclusion at the point of a pistol; then rob him of enough to make a getaway and separate.

Carey went ahead and rapped on the great iron-slatted door of the office. Inside, at the desk, was Guard Alfred E. Walker, who was holding the fort alone while his partner, Guard Charles E. Stortz, ate his lunch in an adjoining room.

"It's Country Carey," he called. "I've come for my package."

"All right. Wait a minute and I'll let you in," said Walker, without looking at the speaker.

With possible freedom only 50 feet away, Carey was keyed high with excitement. He waited nervously until the guard finished the work he was doing and came to the door. He seemed to be having trouble in unlocking it and the moment the operation consumed dragged out like a century. Finally, the door creaked and Carey stepped inside. He waited until Walker had started to close the door and then pounced upon him, choking him with one hand to prevent an outcry and tearing the revolver from his holster with the other. Walker clinched with him and a desperate struggle ensued.

THEN, suddenly, a shot echoed behind him in the corridor. The figure in his arms weakened, grew limp and sank to the floor. The guard was dead. Carey relaxed his grip and looked up to see Spragins at his side with a smoking revolver in his hand.

Meanwhile, Guard Stortz, in the next room, had heard the shot and had come rushing into the office to find Walker prostrate on the floor and the two prisoners standing over him. While he was taking in the situation, Spragins swung quickly around, levelling his pistol at him. Stortz dropped on the floor. He did that just in time, for as he struck the floor he heard a report and also heard a bullet strike the steel filing case behind him.

Carey, according to the guard's testimony later, seemed thunderstruck. He simply stood there astride the body, with the guard's pistol in his hand. But Spragins advanced on Stortz, at the same time taking aim for another shot. The guard beat him to it.

Spragins was badly wounded. He dropped the revolver and tumbled in a heap half way between Carey and Stortz. Then Carey, suddenly awake, started an advance of his own. He tried to fire, and might have succeeded but for the fact that the pistol he had taken from Walker had a trick lock on it and wouldn't fire. Stortz, not knowing this, fired again and the mutiny was over. Carey, with a bullet in his leg, fell to the floor and almost immediately a small army of guards, armed with riot guns, poured into the room. Thus did Country Carey's dash for liberty reward him. His Maryland jinx had brought him to grief again, and this time, real grief. At the trial a few days later he and Spragins were sentenced to death for the murder of Guard Walker.

BUT Carey quickly recovered his spirits. He sat through the trial without a trace of nervousness, heard with indifference the sentence of death and left the courtroom nonchalantly smoking a cigarette. From that day onward he has been the most even-tempered man in the prison—always happy, or apparently so; as jovial as though liberty were assured. The guards don't know what to make of it. They don't believe for a moment that his light-heartedness is the manifestation of a tired spirit longing for death. No such nonsense. And if it isn't that, what can it be but a very high hope of escaping before April 27? But as to what kind of a plan it is he has in mind they can only speculate.

They are convinced the valentine episode was part of a plot for freedom, but they are unable to explain how he took part in the formation of such a plot. All of his mail has been closely watched and inspected and he has been held incommunicado in his cell since the day of the trial. He has seen nobody at close range except his guard and Spragins in the adjoining cell. The valentine, with its inclosed hacksaws, therefore, must have represented some prearranged plot. If such is the case, then it is believed probable that the outside conspirator may have any number of other cards to play in the event of failure of one.

Who can that mysterious person be and what will he try next? These are questions that try the nerves of prison guards. They are getting more jumpy every day. And meanwhile Carey sings on as unconcernedly as spring birds perching on a gallows tree. The melody seems strangely out of place. To the guards it seems to bear a sinister quality that induces shivers.

Hunting Coyotes From the Sky

How Airplane Raiders Are Winning the War on Prairie Pests in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

AN AIRPLANE dives low over the sagebrush; a shotgun roars above the whirr of the motor and another sneaky, yelping coyote bites the dust. That's the new way of war and adventure recently adopted here in the old dime novel land of Deadwood Dick. The airplane has supplanted the cayuse and the coyote has supplanted the redskin as the white man's enemy. The redskins who used to bite South Dakota dust are gone or tamed now and the stage coach robber is no more, so the Black Hills country can turn its shooting talent to the business of making life safer for sheep and calves. Smarting under the opprobrious but well-warranted nickname of "the Coyote State," South Dakota is out to exterminate the prairie wolf and some of its more resourceful hunters are speeding up the work by becoming air raiders and carrying the war directly into the coyote strongholds. They are hunting the troublesome sheep killers from the sky, pouncing down upon them like great falcons. Three "aces" in the extraordinary campaign have brought in 77 coyote pelts in less than six weeks.

For a long time the ranchers and hunters of the State have waged a sporadic warfare against the elusive grayish-tan prairie wolf, but the increase has been more rapid than the catch. Hunters stalking the game on foot or horseback, or even in motor cars, made comparatively slight inroads into the hungry packs. Barnyard losses remained as great as ever. But not long ago certain ranchers of this region, driven to drastic measures, began to offer a reward, or bounty, of $10 a head for each coyote accounted for. It was then the air raid was adopted to combat the barnyard raid. Clyde Ice, chief pilot of the Rapid Airlines of this city, pressed his Eaglerock airplane into the service and enlisted as his "army" two gunners—Charles Orlupp of Rapid City and Earl Wilson of Belle Fourche. Together, they took the field, or rather the air, and since then they have made of the warfare a profitable occupation. As hides sell for approximately $10 apiece, each coyote pelt brought in was good for about $20. Thus, six weeks of hunting has yielded a return of something over $1500.

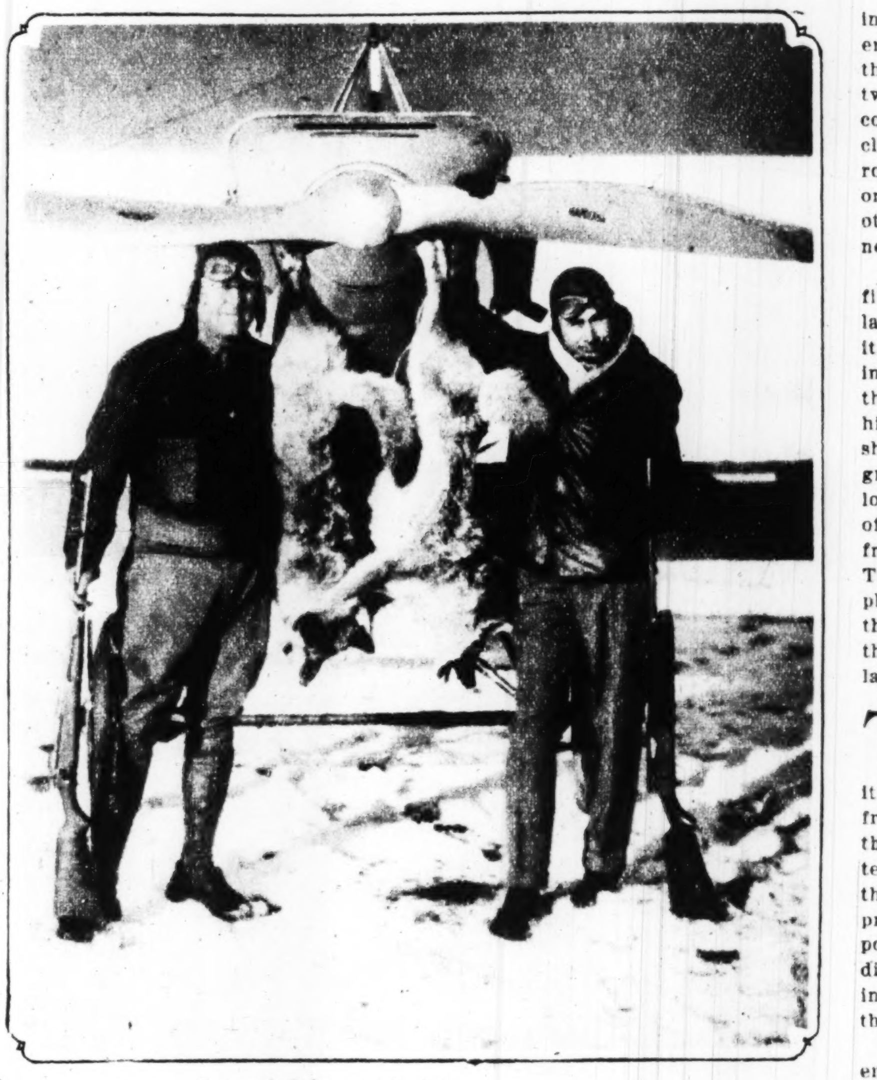
THIS strange aerial campaign really grew out of an incident which occurred last November, when Pilot Ice, accompanied by Orlupp and "Dusty" Rhodes, two of his student aviators, were returning in an automobile from a deer hunt on the Rhodes ranch, which lies between Hermosa and State Game Lodge. It may be recalled, incidentally, that President Coolidge did most of his fishing in Squaw Creek, on the Rhodes ranch, last summer, and that Mrs. Coolidge spent several afternoons visiting with the mother of the young aviator.

In the course of the trip, Ice and his companions sighted two coyotes, which quickly disappeared over a hill top before the hunters could draw a bead on them with their rifles. To follow them in the car was, of course, impossible, but, naturally, there was considerable speculation on how easily the kill might have been made had they been in an airplane instead of a motor car. That suggested an air raid on the coyote dens in the hills, and by the time the hunters had reached Rapid City they had decided to put their theory into practice at once.

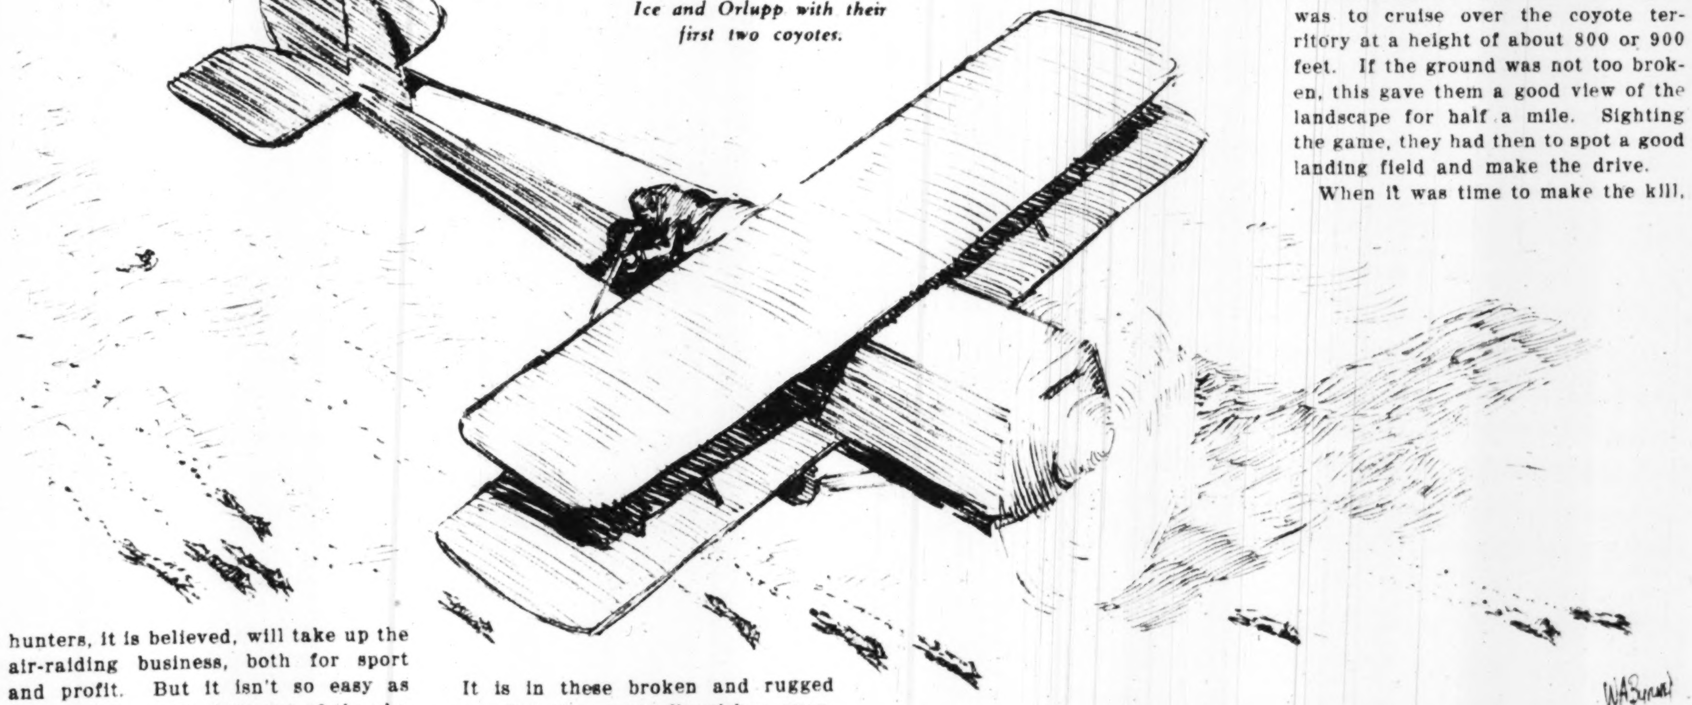
That same afternoon Ice and Orlupp took off in a plane for an area on Elk Creek 12 miles north of here, an area famous as a coyote breeding ground. In an hour they were back at the airport with two coyotes. Their success was immediately reported in the local newspapers and Otto Wolff, the rancher on whose land the coyotes were killed, heard about it. He called at the airport with an offer of $10 for every wolf the flyers could bag in his vicinity. The packs, he said, had sadly depleted his sheep flock.

This offered the incentive that led Ice and Orlupp to enter the campaign in earnest. They overhauled their shotguns and rifles and agreed on the plan of campaign. Since Ice was the better pilot and Orlupp the better marksman, they divided their duties according to special ability. Whenever weather conditions were favorable they scouted an area of about 60 square miles along Elk Creek. Scarcely ever did they return empty handed. Usually they brought in three or four coyotes.

SHEEP men in Harding County, in the extreme northwest corner of the State, then got interested and duplicated the offer of Wolff. Whereupon Ice turned his raids into their district, taking along as his gunner Earl Wilson, known as an expert marksman. In a short time 77 of the predatory beasts had been brought in. That number, of course, did not appreciably cut down the prairie wolf population of South Dakota, but it marked a step in the right direction and was generally regarded as a good bag for three men. Anyway, with their achievement as an example, other hunters, it is believed, will take up the air-raiding business, both for sport and profit. But it isn't so easy as some imagine. To dive out of the sky and pick off a running coyote while traveling at 100 miles an hour is not much like clay-pigeon shooting. In this part of the country, too, the terrain is so uneven as to render landing difficult after the kill has been made.



Ice and Orlupp with their first two coyotes.



After skirting the southern escarpments of the Black Hills, which reach across the western border of South Dakota into Wyoming, the Cheyenne River takes a northeasterly course to its junction with the Missouri. Between the hills and the Cheyenne is an ever-widening V that is traversed by a series of fertile valleys watered by streams running down out of the mountains. Between these broad rolling valleys are broken table lands. The ranchers cultivate the valleys, raising good crops of grain and alfalfa, and the broken lands, more or less covered with short buffalo grass, are utilized for grazing herds of horses, cattle and sheep.

It is in these broken and rugged areas that the coyote flourishes, preying on young calves and sheep with deadly havoc. As long as plenty of sheep are available, the wolf does not eat the carcass of its kill. It merely slashes the throat, drinks the blood and goes after another victim. Thus, one animal sometimes can destroy a large number of sheep in a single foray. The coyote, moreover, is a wary and elusive beast, hard to trap or kill. All of which explains why ranchers are relentless in their hatred of prairie wolves.

The coyote, or prairie wolf.

When Ice and Orlupp began their aerial quest for coyote hides, they were pioneering in a new field of sport and, naturally, did not develop their present technique until after gaining a bit of experience. At first they were awkward. For example, when they saw that first pair of animals in the breaks along Elk creek their only plan was to swoop down like an eagle, substituting a gunshot for talons. They did both the swooping and the shooting skillfully enough. Ice banked the plane as they passed over and Orlupp killed a coyote each time.

But then the question of how to pick up the animals arose. The kill had taken place where the coyotes were jumped, and that happened to be more than a mile from the nearest spot that offered a landing place. The landing was made, however, and the hunters had to trudge on foot to pick up their game, and during the hike of two miles or more over rough, snow-covered ground they had time and inclination to meditate upon their error. The result was the unique game, originated by them, of "herding" coyotes. They put it into practice on their next expedition.

"Herding" was accomplished by first picking out a desirable place to land and then driving the coyotes to it, making the kill where little walking would be necessary. For driving the animals in the right direction a high-powered rifle was used and the shotgun was reserved for the coup de grace. It was found that by flying low, swooping and zooming in the rear of the fugitives, they could be kept from veering off the chosen course. Then, when they reached the proper place, they could be dropped almost in their tracks with the shotgun. All the hunters had to do then was to land and taxi up to the carcass.

THE hunters found out several other things, too, in the course of their campaign. One was that it is almost useless to hunt coyotes from the air unless there is snow on the ground. The animals are well protected from view by a grayish-tan coat that blends with the color of the prairie grass, making them almost impossible to see from any considerable distance. More coyotes can be sighted in an hour with snow on the ground than in a whole day without.

For locating their game, the flyers discovered that the best plan was to cruise over the coyote territory at a height of about 800 or 900 feet. If the ground was not too broken, this gave them a good view of the landscape for half a mile. Sighting the game, they had then to spot a good landing field and make the drive.

When it was time to make the kill, Ice piloted the plane directly over the fleeing animals at a height of 100 feet or less. Sometimes he dived down to within 50 feet of the ground and Orlupp fired just as the beast became visible behind the wing of the plane. Thus he was shooting almost directly down. And the charge of buckshot, if properly planted in the coyote's back, worked deadly execution. But planting it there with the coyote running at top speed and the plane flying 100 miles an hour required the fanciest of fancy shooting. Even the mighty Orlupp didn't always score with the first shot, but he never allowed a selected victim to escape. Besides, coyotes are very tenacious of life, and the number of shots required to bring them down is not an infallible criterion as to the marksmanship of the hunter. Once Orlupp knocked a coyote down 12 times before it was finally dispatched.

On two or three occasions other hunters of this region tried their hand at shooting from the plane, but fell far short of the standard set by Orlupp and Wilson. An old-time rancher on Elk Creek, considered by neighbors to be the best marksman in the country, went up with Ice one day and managed to get only one coyote with a box of 25 shells. Another was Vern Crabtree, one of Ice's student flyers. He did better than the rancher, but only because he had two boxes of shells. Four coyotes were sighted on the flight and two of them got away when Crabtree ran out of ammunition.

FLYING at the low altitude necessary for bagging coyotes with a shotgun is pretty likely to get the flyer into trouble sooner or later, especially in rough country. Twice, Pilot Ice came near to grief with his plane. Once, a coyote being pursued headed up a gulch between two hills. The plane followed, flying low. At the head of the gulch the ground rose abruptly and the plane did not have speed enough to zoom over. Its landing gear crashed against the rise and came near causing the machine to turn a somersault. The flyers got a heavy jolt, but no real damage was done to the plane. Another time the landing gear knocked over a fence post.

Other adventures also are related by the flyers. Once, after the flyers had made a kill they landed and returned to the spot to find the animal left for dead had disappeared. But upon looking around they found its hindquarters sticking out of a badger hole in a nearby snowbank. Ice grasped the animal's legs and pulled it out, but discovered suddenly that he had a vicious fighter on his hands. As the wounded animal, with fangs bared, snarling and snapping, struck at his arms, he swung it over his head and dashed it to the ground in the manner of a man fighting a fire with a wet sack. He had to repeat the operation several times before the beast was subdued.

Under most conditions the coyote is a slinking coward, but there are times when it will turn and fight valiantly. Ice tells of one instance when he encountered a coyote that was anything but a coward. Usually when the roaring plane swoops down the animals flee in a panic. This one, the largest killed during the season, started to run, too. But when the plane leveled off close to the ground the animal turned and charged the monster of the air, barking ferociously. The flyers declared they could hear it barking above the sound of the motor. Then, as the plane passed overhead, the coyote leaped into the air in an effort to pull it down. But it was all over a moment later, for the beast at bay made a good still target.

THE flyers found that coyotes hunted from the air act differently, according to whether they are alone or in groups. When alone they usually strike for cover at the first hint of danger and leg it at top speed until they are shot. But when several are together they frequently sit or lie still until the plane passes over them at low altitude. Then they scatter and flee in different directions, making it necessary to run them down one at a time. Sometimes a lone coyote is apparently overcome by fear and fawns on the ground as the airplane swoops down.

The aerial coyote campaign has now ceased and probably will not be resumed again until next winter, when the ground is covered with snow. It's a poor business when the snow is gone. Next winter the hunters expect to get started earlier and are looking forward to a profitable year.

Stone Age Relics or FAKES?

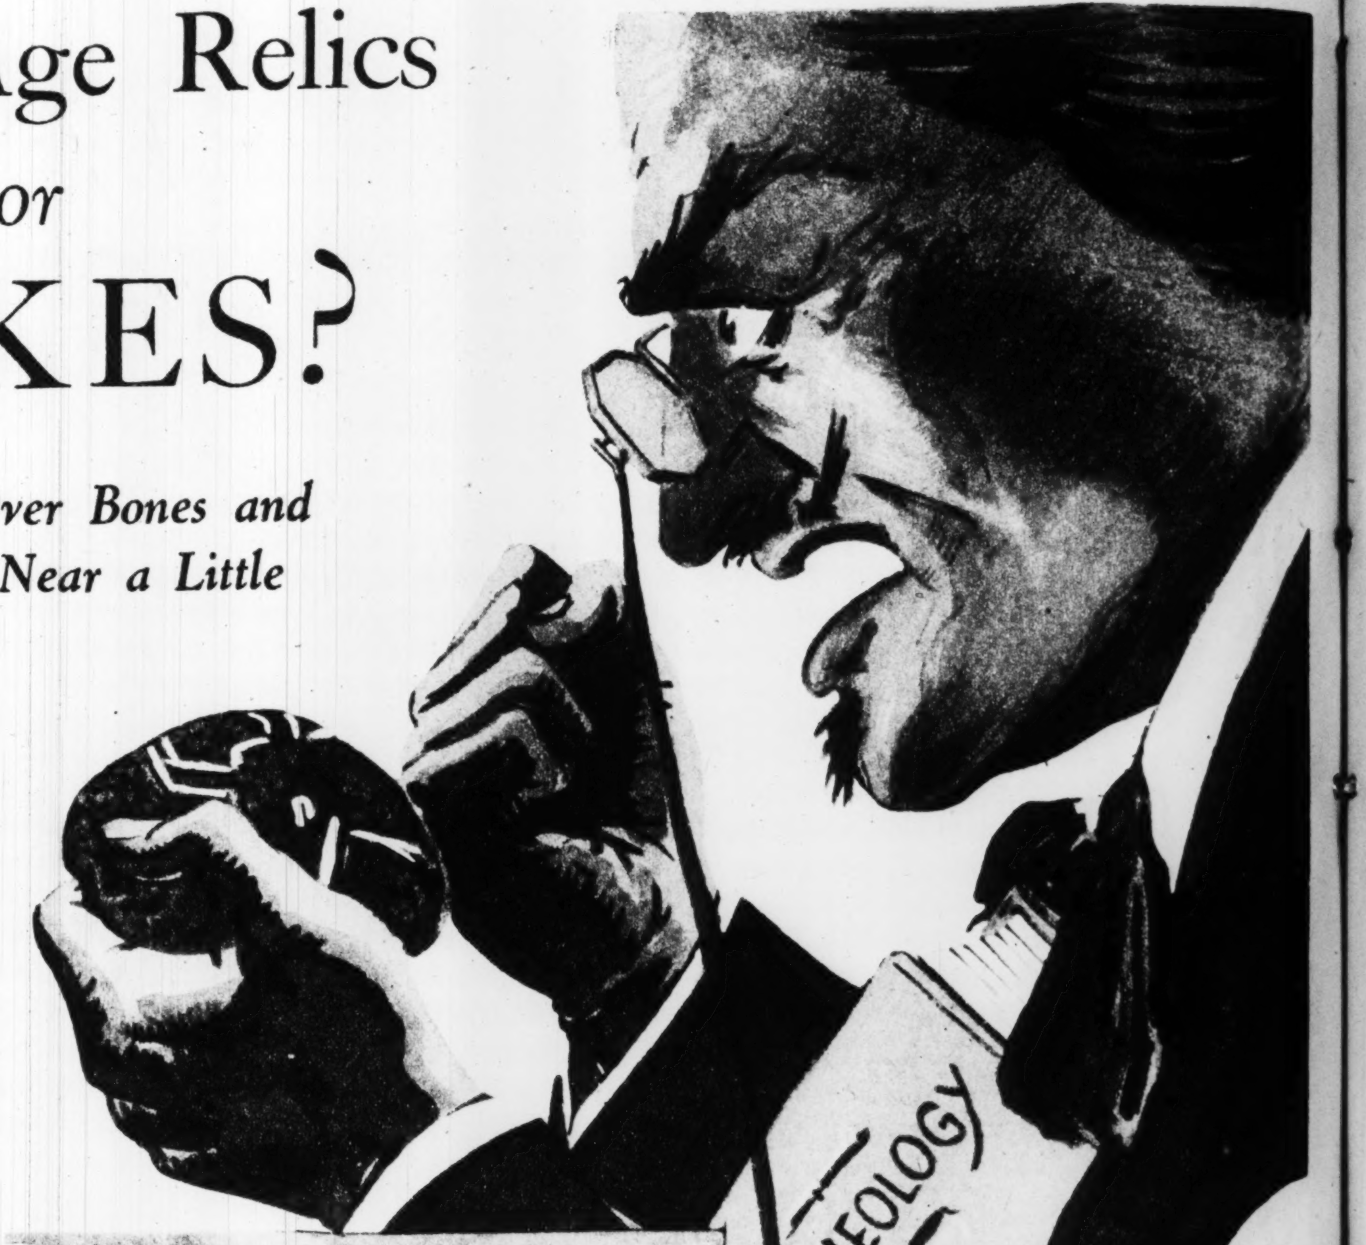
The Dispute Over Bones and Rocks Found Near a Little French Town the Most Sensational Controversy Since the Dreyfus Case.



By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

PARIS.

HERE has been no dispute like it in France since the Dreyfus case separated the French republic into two partisan camps. This fact is acknowledged by the most conservative observers.

Beginning as a mild scientific quarrel among a few learned men, it rapidly was transferred to the popular arena and now everyone in France is either Glozelist or anti-Glozelist. And passionately and belligerently so.

The outsider, particularly the American, is very much inclined to look on in amazement, wondering what it's all about. It is this: Near the little town of Glozel, in the very middle of France, several years ago, certain remains, supposedly ancient, were found—bones, engraved pebbles and other archeological trophies. A local physician first championed these finds as evidence of a new type of Stone Age civilization. By other local authorities they were pronounced frauds.

Then the dispute spread as though a little whirlpool had formed in the center of France and had grown ever wider and wider, creating larger and more important waves. Now two French academies are involved, the director of the Louvre Museum is being sued for libel, several near riots have ensued at the University of Paris and half the archeologists and anthropologists are issuing scathing denunciations of the other half.

But it has spread much farther than this and there are, literally, Glozelist and anti-Glozelist butcher boys, and they have been observed fighting in the street over the authenticity of the Glozel finds. In fact, just as at the time of the Dreyfus affair, when it was impossible to find anyone who did not believe either in the innocence or the guilt of Dreyfus, so in France today there are practically no neutrals.

The whole issue centers about a young peasant, Emile Fradin, who first brought to light the Glozel "antiquities." It was quite by chance that he precipitated this controversy that has grown to international proportions. Far from being the traditionally stupid peasant, young Fradin is a person of considerable intelligence and a certain artistic bent.

It was while working on his grandfather's farm on the outskirts of Glozel, not far from the much larger town of Vichy, that Fradin came upon the first "find." Of oval shape, with walls and floors of flat clay tiles, and not very deeply embedded, he believed it to be an ancient tomb or sepulchre.

NEWS of his "find" spread around Glozel and the immediate neighborhood. It was not long before a local archeological society delegated M. Clement to go to the Fradin farm and examine the "tomb." At first Clement agreed with Fradin that it was, indeed, a tomb, but on further examination he held it to be a glass furnace, similar to others which have been found in France, and which date no further back than the thirteenth or fourteenth centuries.

But the visit of M. Clement to the Fradin farm was destined to have a long sequel. Emile's interest in antiquities was aroused and he insisted that what he had unearthed was an ancient tomb. Clement wished to encourage the young man's interest in this direction and he gave him a pamphlet describing certain finds in a neighborhood not far distant from Glozel.

The French take their antiquities with passionate earnestness — as witness the present quarrel—and this pamphlet sepresented years of effort on the part of another amateur antiquarian. It contained illustrations of an ax on which were inscribed rude markings resembling letters. On another ax illustrated in the book were inscribed an arrow and three characters representing a Z or angular S, a T and an X, besides the Phoenician letters L and E.

Fradin did some more digging in the ground immediately around the spot at which he had found the "tomb." And he was rewarded by finding two polished axes and a rolled pebble, all engraved with distinct characters. This again aroused the local antiquarians and news of the new discoveries reached a certain Dr. Morlet in Vichy.

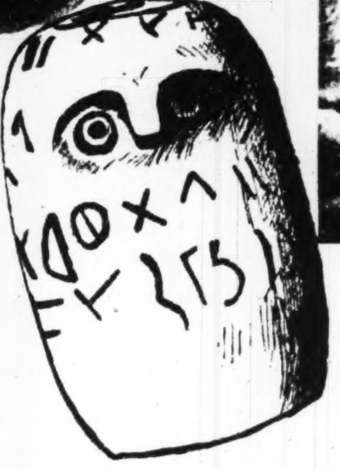
Dr. Morlet came to Glozel, saw the markings on the axes and the stones and very quickly convinced himself that it was the greatest find of the century—that here was evidence of a Stone Age alphabet which the Cave Man used for written communication. Now, this has long been a theory of certain archeologists—that there was such an alphabet. And the fact that here was apparent proof of it caused the wildest excitement among the fraternity that excites itself over this sort of thing.

DR. MORLET leased the site of the excavations—the Fradin farm—and he supplied money for further digging. Thanks to him, too, Emile was able to add new textbooks to his library. Many other finds began to come to light, pebbles with reindeers inscribed on them, pots engraved with human faces.

Two more tombs came to light, and it developed that the little terrace on which all the antiquities have been found—scarcely larger than a large drawing room—was a burial ground. Within these tombs were inscribed bricks, grotesque bi-sexual idols of clay, pebbles engraved with reindeer heads and rude, but sometimes inscribed, owl-faced pots. But—strangely enough—there were no skeletons. Although the engraved bones of animals were sufficiently well preserved.

As word of all this activity spread abroad, visitors to Glozel became more and more numerous. Anthropologists and archeologists came to view the finds, which were stored in a cottage on the Fradin farm that served as a rough sort of museum. And with the coming of these outsiders the dispute began.

Some said they were genuine. But a larger number held they were fakes. The newspapers took it up. There were editorials and counter-editorials. It came to be a source of dissension in the universities. And before long it had become the major point of contention in all France. While learned men in the Academy of Inscriptions and other academies marshalled their arguments, men at the little tables along the boulevards of Paris screamed "Fraud!" or "Authentic!" at each other. Dr. Morlet attracted several warm adherents among the learned men who were willing to rush to the defense of the Glozel finds on any and all occasions.



Inscribed pot with human face.

At the height of the controversy, partisans of both sides urged the appointment of an international commission of inquiry to settle the question once and for all. And such a commission was agreed upon.

Distinguished scientists from all over the world came to the obscure little town of Glozel. Representatives of nearly every branch of science and virtually every important European country made the pilgrimage to what was either the shrine of a great discovery, destined to revolutionize all major concepts of prehistory or—a colossal joke.

The commission went over the ground very carefully. They examined everything that had been hitherto dug up and stored in the Fradin cottage. They subjected the finds to the most exacting tests.

BUT, more important, they did some digging on their own initiative. They found many things—pebbles with reindeers engraved on them, inscribed stones and more inscribed pots. But, most important of all, they found two bricks engraved with the Phoenician L and E and the S T X characters. It was the way in which these bricks were found, however, that largely influenced them in the report which they made.

The bricks were found beneath a granite block and above that block the surface of the earth mold was humped up, obviously the result of someone's having removed some earth and then replaced it, the commission said. Furthermore, they discovered in the condition of the tree and grass roots reasons to believe the earth had been recently disturbed. And they were able to make an almost positive assertion that the bricks were of no great age.

Finding an inscribed brick.

Considering these things, it was inevitable that the commission should return a verdict of fraud in the report which the members compiled jointly. Another fact they took into consideration was that, though there were so-called "tombs," there were no traces of any skeletons. By implication, the commission accused Emile Fradin of having perpetrated an enormous hoax.

AND so the dispute was settled? Not at all. Quite the reverse, in fact.

The report of the commission was greeted with a storm of abuse. By this time Glozelist was a fighting cry and there were many noted scientists and academy members who refused to be shaken by the commission's decision. The three most noted Glozelists—or at least the most ardent adherents—MM. Salomon Reinach, Esperadeen and Loth of the Academy of Inscriptions — issued an indignant statement, comparing the commission to the inquisition which ordered Galileo to recant the scientific truths he had discovered and condemned him to prison.

"As to the commission and its inspiring agent," their statement said, "they will share, along with the inquisitors of 1632, the only immortality which is open to them—that of ridicule."

Moreover, the Glozelists brought forward other experts, who, in some instances at least, testified just as decisively to the antiquity of the Glozel finds. Dr. Morlet recently reported that he had received a telegram from Professor Mendes-Correa, who made a chemical analysis of some of the bones, stating that fossilization is very prominent, indicating great age.

"The report does not shake my convictions," Dr. Morlet asserted. "Only half of the Glozel field has been explored and the truth will come from the earth." Nor did it shake the convictions of a million or so lesser Glozelists, who, though they have had no active part in the affair, have just as passionate feelings on the question.

As for young Fradin, he and his father recently came to Paris to start suit against M. Dussaud, head of the Louvre Museum and one of Emile's accusers. The object of these two peasants, a few years ago utterly obscure and now world famous, is to clear the honor of the Fradin name. They ask for one franc damages.

At the same time that this suit was filed, the president of the Glozel Inquiry Commission, Count Begouen, professor at Toulouse University and a famous paleologist, announced his intention of filing a libel suit against Professor Loth, who is now delivering at the Sorbonne a series of lectures in favor of the authenticity of the Glozel finds. In the course of these lectures he has bitterly denounced the commission and its members. Under difficulties, however, for at every lecture the students have staged an uproarious demonstration, approaching the proportions of a riot.

THE latest impartial observer to survey the Glozel excavations and finds was Sir Arthur Evans, distinguished British anthropologist. He holds to the fraud opinion and traces out Emile's hoax from the point at which he first began to acquire some knowledge of archeology as follows:

"As the process of instruction progressed a distinct evolution becomes perceptible in the objects produced, and their variety increases. The inscriptions on bricks are no longer scratched, like the first, on the already baked material, but engraved on the soft clay, which was later partially baked. They multiply and become more voluminous. New signs appear, taken from a larger repertory; and M. Dussa has pointed out that the receipt—from a prominent academician—of a publication containing specimens of Iberic alphabets was promptly followed by the appearance of some characteristic Iberic letters. It looks, too, as if some specimens of Cretan linear script had also found their way here.

"The goal to which the directing spirit of the Glozel discoveries devoted all his zeal was the disclosure of a form of culture immediately fitting on to the Magdalenian or 'reindeer period,' though yet Neolithic in many of its essential products, such as polished stone axes, pottery and the querns of an agricultural population When the first engraving of a reindeer appeared on a pebble, the eminent authority on Cave Man, the Abbe Breuil, expressed the view that it might, after all, be 'a generalized representation of one of the Cervidae' (the family of deer, elk, moose, etc.). At a meeting of the Academy of Inscriptions (one of the most important learned groups in France) the chief protagonist of the Glozel finds is said to have exclaimed on hearing this: 'That is lucky, for if the drawing had been a reindeer it would have been necessary to conclude that it was the work of a forger!' Reindeer on French soil in a Neolithic medium might well shock a student of prehistory. Already in the later phase of Paleolithic culture it was becoming extinct.

"But the true believers of Glozel were not to be let off so easily. . . . These northern animals began to repeat themselves on stone and bone. It may be said, indeed, to have rained reindeers, and the commission itself was made to unearth a rolled pebble engraved with a fine specimen. This, like most others, had an alphabetiform inscription attached. The figures in textbooks on which some of these were based have been pointed out, but in one case the artist has allowed himself the liberty of giving a perspective rendering of a dead animal—a very non-Magdalenian touch. At the same time, to counterbalance, as it were, this Arctic species, another engraved fragment presents the characteristic outlines of a head of an Indian buffalo. About this Abbe Breuil had no doubt.

"Taken as a whole, the Glozel objects could not, one might have supposed, have deceived a novice. The engraved objects showed at times the rough knack of a copyist, and, indeed, in some cases quite clearly reflect the originals in textbooks. All else was as rude as it was impossible. The axes, of soft stone, were such as were never known to primitive man. A steatite arrowhead, with barb as well as a stem, represents an ungainly imitation of a Bronze Age type."

SOME of the French papers have come to treat the whole controversy as a joke. But the scientists—at least those who are Glozelists—are not taking it as a joke. For their reputations are at stake.

Sir Arthur concludes his report as follows:

"After a survey of the Glozel relics themselves I was unable to avoid the conclusion that they were all the work of the same hand—the 'hand of a bright lad, decidedly industrious, who has at any rate added to the gayety of nations."

And surely no one will deny young Fradin that tribute, even though another commission should decide that the Glozelists are right after all.

TALES OF REAL DOGS

Jack, the Newfoundland "Detective."

By Albert Payson Terhune

IN A RECENT article of this series I told how my champion collie, Sunnybank Sigurdson, unconsciously helped me solve a 30-year-old crime mystery. Today's story is of a giant Newfoundland dog, "Jack" by name, whose detective work sent a man to the penitentiary.

It is a good story, but, for various reasons, I am going to change the names and places concerned. As I have said before, this is a series of true stories about dogs, and is not designed to hold up any humans to ridicule or to shame. In such cases, I use other names for the humans who are concerned.

A Midwestern town—let's call it Midwestburg—had been terrorized for months by a succession of daring and atrocious robberies. Some of the victims were not only robbed but were tortured as well. Apparently, all the outrages had been committed by one person.

The climax of public indignation was reached when news came that an aged couple who lived in a cottage in the suburbs, and who were rumored to have huge sums of money hid somewhere, had been visited by the robber. He was masked and otherwise disguised.

Overcoming and binding the helpless old people, he had thrust their feet into the hot coals of their kitchen fire, to make them confess where they had hidden this nonexistent hoard of gold. The thief got nothing worth stealing, but the two victims almost died from their burns and from the shock of the experience.

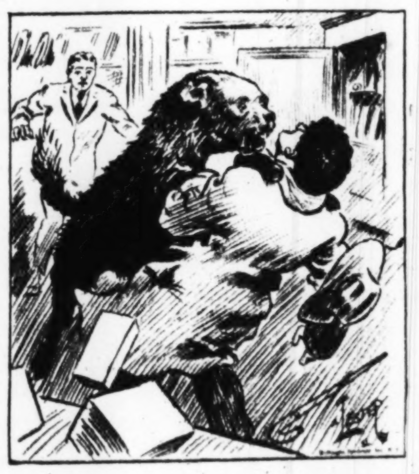
The local Sheriff swore in extra deputies. Detectives were put to work on the case. Rewards were offered. John Junken, president of the local Board of Trade, offered a personal reward, besides devoting his own time and services to the police. The injured old couple were acquaintances of his and he vowed to avenge them.

JUNKEN announced that the failure of the police to track down the robber was a disgrace to the community, and was also bad for business, as reports of the crimes tended to keep people from settling there. As president of the Board of Trade, he demanded that these business interests be protected.

The robberies kept on, and the Sheriff and the detectives were helpless. There was one man in town—Peter Pieters, a drygoods merchant—who declared his own store was safe from thieves, because his great Newfoundland dog, Jack, slept in the store every night and could be relied on to drive away any robber or gang of robbers.

One morning, Pieters opened the store as usual and found its safe door swinging. The safe had been cleaned out. Every other portable article of value in the store was gone. Jack come trotting forward to greet his master, as he always did. The big dog was wagging his tail and did not seem in the least excited. Neighbors testified they had not heard him barking during the night, when the thief was working.

Once before, sneak thieves had tried to enter the store. Jack had torn one of them badly, and his uproar had roused the whole street. Yet, this time, he had made no sound and, apparently, had done nothing to prevent the robbery. Pieters could not understand. Neither could anyone else. This added tenfold to the public excitement.



Jack gave one yell of fury and hurled himself upon him.

Curiosity seekers thronged the shop to look at the recreant watchdog. Pieters noticed that Jack would walk up to each of these newcomers and would sniff once or twice and then go back to his own corner and lie down. He seemed to be studying all strangers, though as a rule he paid no attention to people who came into the store.

Toward the end of the day, a newcomer entered the store. As this man crossed the threshold, Jack gave one yell of fury and hurled himself upon him. He bore the astonished man to the ground, ravening at his throat, and might well have killed him had not Pieters dragged him away. Then Pieters recognized the badly hurt man whom Jack had assailed. It was no stranger, but an old friend of his—it was John Junken, president of the Board of Trade; John Junken, who had offered a personal reward for the arrest of the thief.

Pieters chained Jack to the wall, while the huge dog still snarled and struggled madly to get at his victim. Then Pieters apologized humbly to Junken for the Newfoundland's crazy behavior toward a man with whom hitherto he had gladly made friends.

BUT after Junken left the shop, Pieters got to thinking. He was enough of a dog man to realize that Jack would not have made such an attack on an old acquaintance unless the dog had some fairly good reason to do so. The more Pieters thought of it, the more he began to believe in the dog. Yet it was absurd to think that the president of the Midwestburg Board of Trade could be a holdup man.

At last Pieters took his story to the Sheriff and to a County Judge. He expected them to laugh at him. They did not. Both of them were dog owners and both of them knew Jack. Secretly, they sent for two new detectives from a far-off city, and detailed them to "shadow" John Junken. Meanwhile, the three said not a word of their suspicions to anyone. They were backing a dog's actions against a human's high reputation.

In a little less than a week the two new detectives caught John Junken red-handed in an audacious hold-up!

Jack had been correct, and the community had been wrong. John Junken proved to be the scoundrel who had committed the entire series of robberies. Confronted by proof, he sought to shorten his penitentiary term by confessing everything. But, though he admitted robbing the store of his old friend, Peter Pieters, he did not tell—nor, for some reason, was he asked—how he had disposed of the big Newfoundland while he was committing the burglary.

Thus there still is a bit of mystery left unsolved in the story. Nobody knows whether Junken used his old acquaintanceship with Jack to chloroform the dog while he was robbing the store, or how he eluded the Newfoundland's vigilance.

Also, nobody knows why or how it was that Jack set himself, next day, to examining every person who came into the store; nor why he flew at Junken. If this were a fiction yarn, I could easily invent some plausible details with which to fill up this gap in its action. But as it is true (with the exception of names and places) I merely tell what happened, without trying to improve the tale by fictional additions to what is one of the most unusual incidents in all my experience of dogs.

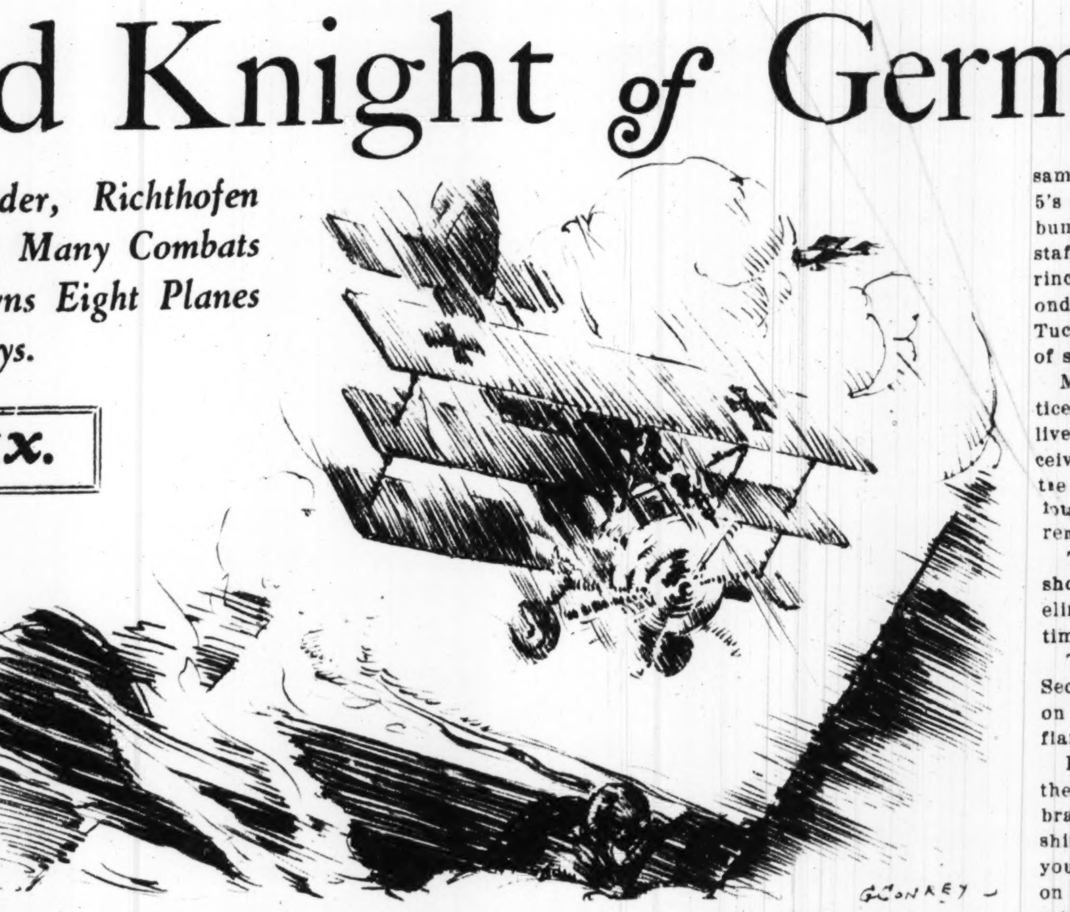
The Red Knight of Germany

By FLOYD GIBBONS
The Distinguished War Correspondent

As Squadron Commander, Richthofen Does Not Engage in as Many Combats as Before, But He Downs Eight Planes in Five Days.

PART IX.



(Editor's Note: The final year of the war, 1918, saw the growing power of the allied air service. Once again, as in 1916, the British asserted their supremacy in the sky. On the ground, the Germans were opening their spring offensive. Richthofen began his own spring offensive on March 12, when he won his sixty-fourth victory. The next day, Lothar, his younger brother, was shot down and injured severely.)

IN driving off the British planes which were in pursuit of the disabled German triplane piloted by Lothar, Manfred undoubtedly saved his brother's life. He killed one of the pursuing British pilots.

The victim was Second Lieutenant J. M. L. Millett, a fighting pilot of the Seventy-third Squadron, which had left its airdrome shortly after 9 o'clock that morning in speedy new Sopwith Camel scouts equipped with Vickers and Lewis machine guns.

Millett came from Windsor, Nova Scotia, where his father received a cable a week later notifying him that the boy had been shot down in flames behind the German lines.

At the close of this combat Richthofen led his staffels back to the airdrome and landed as quickly as possible to demand news of Lothar. He was told that Lothar was unconscious in a nearby advance hospital, to which place he sped by motor. The brother's head and legs were in bandages, but the doctors assured the ace that he would live.

Although he flew daily during the next five days, he did not bring down his next plane until March 18.

The victim of this fight, who survived without a wound but spent the rest of the war as a prisoner, lives today at McKay, Westminster, British Columbia. His name is William G. Ivamy.

His story of the fight with Richthofen follows:

"I MANAGED to survive until that day I came in contact with the jolly old Baron. It happened this way. A naval bombing squadron had been detailed to bomb the German airdrome at Molain on March 16 and 17, and to do it without escort. On the next day, the 18th, the day of my last fight, the bombers were given an escort of ten S. E. 5's and nine Camels.

"We crossed south of St. Quentin, following the D. H. 4's which carried the bombs.

"After we were about eight miles across, I could see the German planes getting into position to have a smash at us, they being about 3000 feet above us and seeming to number between 50 and 60.

"As we were following the bombers, the German planes were in position on four sides of us and above. Directly the D. H. 4's had dropped their bombs, they turned for home, and this evidently was the signal for the Germans to attack. The lot of them came down on us with a bang.

"Their plan of attack was to get any one with streamers on. As deputy flight commander, I flew these streamers and, being in the rear of the flight and highest up, I got it first. I can't say that I had much of a fight with his highness, the baron, as I was slightly handicapped from the start, having an explosive bullet in the petrol tank and the emergency tank being punctured.

"I have a faint recollection of the speed indicator going off the scale, but the old Sopwith hung together and I made the best landing I ever made, up the side of a hill among a bunch of German infantry."

How British flyers felt when brought down behind the German lines as prisoners of war is a matter of photographic record which the Germans did not fail to make. Their dejection is reflected in the looks with which they faced the cameras.

INDIVIDUAL man to man and plane to plane fighting was still the backbone of combat aloft, but the tendency to organization flying began to show itself more and more.

Organization air fighting increased on both sides as the zero hour for the great German offensive drew near. The onslaught opened early on the morning of March 21, and Picardy, the ancient cockpit of Europe, was the scene.

The general fighting, which is known as the first battles of the Somme, 1918, opened with the battle for St. Quentin, which the Germans won decisively in three days' terrific struggle over the area bounded by the River Oise to Chauny, then the road to Guiscard, to Ham, to Peronne, to Bapaume, to Boyelles, and thence to the River Cojeul.

Richthofen flew daily, but his new duties as commander of a bigger organization required that he stay aloft to observe and direct his fighting units rather than engage in personal combats.

The German advance on the ground seemed overpowering. The British retreat had begun, and by March 24 it had become almost a debacle. It might well have been, were it not for the heroic services rendered on that day by the allied air forces.

One English pilot who fought against Richthofen's circus broke all previous records by shooting down six of the forty-five German planes which were destroyed that day. His name is J. L. Trollope, and he is today a real estate agent in London.

One missing arm and a military cross with bar testify to his war record.

Richthofen commanded some of the planes that Trollope downed that day. On the previous night the German ace wrote a letter to his mother. It is the last of these epistles that has been found to date.

He knew the plans for the morning and the uncertainty that went with them. He felt that it might be his last letter home, but he managed to keep his feeling out of the words he sent to the gray-haired woman in Schweidnitz.

The letter read:

In the field. March 23, 1918.

Liebe Mama:

You will have received my wire advising you of Lothar's fall. Thanks to God, he is doing nicely. I visit him daily. Please, mother, don't worry about anything. He is really doing quite well.

His nose has already healed, only the jaw is still bad, but he will keep his teeth. Above his right eye he has a rather large hole, but the eye itself has not been damaged. Several blood vessels burst under his right knee and in the left calf.

The blood he spit out did not come from any internal injuries. He had merely swallowed some during his fall. He is in the hospital in Cambrai and hopes to be back at the front within a fortnight. His only regret is not to be able to be with us at the present moment. MANFRED.

It was a busy five days that Richthofen started the morning of March 24. The squadron commander, as the highest ranking officer in the air, had to keep in the closest possible communication with all of the planes under his control.

Nevertheless, in the five days that followed, the ace found time to down one plane on each of the first two days, two on the third day, three on the fourth day, and one on the fifth day of this eventful period.

Ten English planes failed to return to their lines on the opening day of the battle, and the German ace's brief report explains what happened to one of them. He wrote:

Requesting acknowledgment of my sixty-seventh victory.

Date: March 24, 1918.

Time: 2:45 p. m.

Place: Above Combles.

Plane: S. E. 5. Brought down behind enemy's lines.

During a very long fight between ten S. E. 5's and twenty-five machines of my own squadron I attacked an Englishman at an altitude of 7500 feet.

Both wings were severed from the English machine by my bullets.

The remnants were distributed in the surroundings west of Combles.

BARON VON RICHTHOFEN.

AMONG the "remnants" that took that mile-deep dive to earth was the body of one of the tallest pilots in the Royal Air Force. Second Lieutenant Wilson Porter Jr. of Port Dover, Ontario, Canada, was 6 feet 2 inches in his socks, with broad shoulders, slim hips and the belly of a greyhound. His 26-year-old eyes beamed perfect health and the quick perception of a dashing horseman.

That's the way Wilson Porter Sr. in Port Dover describes the son who never came back. About what happened, he knows only that the boy was reported missing on March 24, 1918.

The British casualty records show that young Porter's squadron of fighting S. E. 5's left the airdrome shortly after noon on that day, and that Porter was last seen in an engagement with German scout planes west of Peronne.

Porter's S. E. 5 was the only one of its type missing at that place and time, which coincides with Richthofen's report and is the basis for the conclusion that the young Canadian was his adversary.

During a longer fight on the same day, another group of S. E. 5's of the Forty-first Squadron bumped into one of Manfred's staffels while on patrol over Havrincourt, and, in the melee, Second Lieutenant Donald Cecil Tucker, 19 years old and just out of school, went down to his death.

Many months after the armistice F. J. Tucker, the father, who lives in Somerset, England, received Donald's identity disk from the war department. It had been found at Longueval on the charred remains of a flying officer.

The father believes his son was shot down in flames, which would eliminate him as Richthofen's victim for that day.

The next afternoon 19-year-old Second Lieutenant Donald Cameron went down in a wreath of flames and smoke.

Donald's major wrote a letter to the mother, whose home is Wellbrae Park, Strathaven, Lanarkshire. He mentioned that the young flyer was carrying bombs on the flight from which he never returned.

SECOND LIEUTENANT W. KNOX, a young Welshman from Cardiff and a fighting pilot of the Fifty-fourth Squadron, appears from an examination of all available material to have been the next adversary of Richthofen. Knox left his airdrome in a Sopwith one-seater in the afternoon of the day following the death of Don Cameron.

His orders were to "do a patrol," but his destiny was an aerial rendezvous with death at a quarter to five over the woods of Contalmaison.

Fifteen minutes later another funeral pall of black smoke went streaking down the afternoon sky and ended in a smoldering pyre just outside the same shell-splintered forest. The ace reported that "the plane fell burning and also burnt on the ground." Its two occupants were Englishmen.

There were two British R. E.'s missing that afternoon. The four men that flew in them were never heard of again.

From the available accounts it appears likely that Second Lieutenant Matt Leggatt and his pilot, Second Lieutenant V. J. Reading, were Richthofen's victims.

Armed with Lewis and Vickers guns, they had left the Fifteenth Squadron airdrome shortly after 4 o'clock in the afternoon to patrol the German line near Albert and return, if possible, with a report of the size and whereabouts of the German reserves. This would acoount for their flying at so low a height over so dangerous a part of the active front.

Leggatt had reached the front in France in 1916, won his "pip" as an officer in 1917, and was on flying duty in the air service in January, 1918. In the Scottish town of Ayr lives Mrs. Celia E. Leggatt. In response to my letter she wrote:

"Matt was 22 years old and we had just been married six months before his death. He went back to France on January 28, 1918, and from then up to the time he was killed was flying almost every day."

The pilot with whom he was killed was Second Lieutenant V. J. Reading and their machine was supposed to have been shot down near a place called Pasirlus.

Reduce Where You Want to Reduce

No Medicines
No Starvation Diet—
No Dangerous Exercise

Discovery of infiltrating oxygen reducing cream—quickly and safely banishes double chins, and slenderizes big hips, fat waists, legs and arms.

ANY woman or man who wants to take off fat on any part of the body can now do so quickly and safely. There is no question about this. It is a proved fact.

The discovery of oxygen reducing cream was purely accidental. A great New York doctor asked three of the ablest Colloidal Chemists in New York to try to find a remedy for chronic skin troubles. (Colloidal chemistry is one of the latest developments in chemical science.) These Colloidal Chemists prepared an infiltrating cream which would liberate oxygen when absorbed through the skin. They discovered that whenever the part to be treated was fat, this excess weight quickly disappeared. Reducing tests were then made on fat people with amazing results. One woman reduced her neck one inch in a few treatments; another two inches. Still another took off twenty-nine pounds in six weeks. Equally successful results were had in reducing fat waists, arms, legs, and big hips. So safe is Viaderma, as it is called, that it has the approval of chemists and physicians who oppose all other methods of quick fat reduction.

Viaderma is a golden brown cream, which is rubbed rapidly on the skin. You see the cream disappear at once, leaving a clean white foam on the skin surface. The penetrating cream carries oxygen to the fatty tissues and in a few days' time, this oxygen gradually melts away the excess fat. You get definite results from a single jar which contains an 18 days' supply. Get full information at once. Mail coupon today.

This purifying toilet soap guards family health

Removes germs from hands as well as dirt

AS A CAREFUL MOTHER—what better way to guard your loved ones against disease—than to warn them against germ-laden hands?

Your children may think you're too fussy about clean hands. But you'll find they can be made to realize the importance of removing germs from hands frequently—especially before eating—if the dangers are really explained.

A simple health precaution

Tell youngsters why our hands can't avoid picking up germs along with dirt. Show them how many times a day our hands must touch things where germs may hide—books, toys, door-knobs, money, telephones Much-handled, unavoidable things that may leave germs on our hands—to be passed into the mouth.

Name for your family some of the 27 germ diseases, listed above, that the Life Extension Institute says hands may spread.

And above all else, for greater safety, just see that everyone in your home always uses this delightful, purifying toilet soap that millions enjoy—Lifebuoy. Its bland and abundant antiseptic lather removes germs as well as dirt.

Millions enjoy its clean scent

Children, men and women too, quickly learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant clean scent—which tells you Lifebuoy purifies—yet which quickly evaporates after rinsing.

And the same gentle, antiseptic Lifebuoy lather that guards health by removing germs—keeps skins fresh and clear by purifying pores. Prevents embarrassing body odor, too.

ome is Knoddishall Lodge, Saxmundham, Suffolk, is the father of he pilot who died with Leggatt.

The other R. E. that fell in the fighting that day—probably sent down by some of Richthofen's Herren—was occupied by Lieut. C. E. Wharram and Second Lieutenant T. H. Buswell of the Fifty-second Squadron.

Wharram, whose father lived in Berkshire, England, was a student at Leeds University. He obtained a commission in the South Staffordshire regiment in 1915 and served at Gallipoli, where he was wounded. He completed his air training the following year and went to the hospital again from the effects of an incendiary bullet.

He returned to the front on March 21, and five days later made his first flight after leave. It was his last.

Richthofen's aim and ammunition were proving particularly disastrous in the big push. Having shot down two planes on March 26, he followed it the next day by bagging three more.

THERE'S a mother who lives in Hertfordshire, England, who knows more about Richthofen's seventy-first victim than anyone else in the world. Here is a summary of the boy's life, written by his mother.

Herbert William Ransom, the third son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ransom of Newlands, Hitchin, Hertfordshire, was born at Hitchin, July 6, 1896.

From his earliest childhood he had drawn and designed all kinds of engines and later on rather especially airplane engines. These were all original.

He enlisted as a motor dispatch rider with the armored car division early in October, 1914, when he was just 18 years old. In a short time he found himself in German Southwest Africa.

After the conclusion of that campaign, he, with five other motor dispatch riders, was sent around to the British East African fighting, and it was not until the close of hostilities there that he was able to return to England in 1916 and take up his commission in the Royal Flying Corps.

He passed his Flying Corps examinations and tests with great success and found himself, in February, 1918, in France with the Seventieth Squadron, R. F. C. They came in for the very worst part of the air fighting and, on March 27, he gave his life for his king and country.

Ransom's plane was the only Sopwith that failed to return that day. "Missing" is the only information on the English casualty lists.

FOR his second victim of the day the flying Baron jumped on a low-flying two-seater plane of the Bristol fighter type. He brought it down smoking, and described it as burning.

The English casualty records for that afternoon indicate that the occupants of Manfred's seventy-second plane were Capt. K. R. Kirkham and Capt. J. H. Hedley.

Nobody got hurt and a delightful time was had by all, according to Hedley, who, although he was born in England, has lived long enough in the United States since the war to know how to tell a story with an American twist.

Kirkham is somewhere in Burma, according to the best information obtainable. Hedley was run to earth in Chicago and interviewed by mail. Here's what he has to say about his fight with Richthofen:

"My military service, I am afraid, was not very commendable. I had a strong dislike for the traditional British army red tape and on several occasions was placed under both open and close arrest for doing things when they were required to be done, without waiting two or three days for the necessary orders.

"However, let me add, I never was courtmartialed; they always released me as mysteriously as I was placed under arrest. The reaction came along later in that all recommendations for promotion beyond the rank of captain were turned down when they reached the war office.

"Also, on the two occasions that I was recommended for British decorations, once for the Military Cross and once for the Distinguished Service Order, both were turned down.

"My military service started the moment war was declared by Great Britain; midnight, August 4, 1914. I was a sergeant in the Northern Cyclist battalion, a Newcastle-upon-Tyne unit, which was soon dedicated to home service.

"To cut a long story short, I deserted on December 31, 1914, and joined the Northumberland Fusiliers (Kitchener's Army) on January 1, 1915.

"AFTER many moons of a dog's life in the trenches and after two prior attempts to be transferred, I was released to take up my duties with the Royal Flying Corps early in 1917. My career in this unit ended when I was taken prisoner on March 27, 1918.

"It has just occurred to me: I was courtmartialed once. It was on my return to England in December, 1918, charged with having allowed myself to become a prisoner of war. About fifteen generals sat around the table, examining all the unfortunate Kriegsgefangenen (if I recall the word correctly).

"I must give those guys full credit—they exonerated me from all blame, and I was presented with a very nicely worded address of welcome from King George.

"I was confined in the famous prison camp at Holzminden, whose commandant was none other than Charlie Niemyer of Milwaukee, Wis., whom we called 'Milwaukee Bill.'

"Young Cecil Ball, brother of Capt. Albert Ball, V. C., was in prison with me, and my dearly beloved friend, Capt. W. Leefe Robinson, V. C., who brought down the first Zeppelin at Cuffley. He died shortly after his release from prison.

"I haven't any alibi to offer for the calamity which happened on March 27, 1918. I must admit I was outgeneraled by a better man than I, but if I could have had my choice in the matter I would have chosen none other than the great German ace, Baron von Richthofen, to give me a licking.

"We came down in No Man's Land and, after a bombardment from a field gun brigade which practically destroyed what was left of the machine, myself and observer were surrounded, manhandled, relieved of everything but our coats and shirts, and then made prisoners of war."

Hedley's commentaries on his experiences have a rollicking, carefree rhythm, as well becomes the stride of any man who can recount having fallen out of a plane nearly three miles in the air and having fallen back into it. One wonders whether there is any thrill left to which such a man can look forward.

FIVE minutes after the Baron had vanquished Hedley and Kirkham, he put down his third plane for the day. For this one the record on the English casualty list reads: "Never heard of again." It was a kill.

Much difficulty surrounded the identification of this adversary, but the closest examination of the records indicates that he was Capt. H. R. Child, a pilot of Squadron II.

Child's civilian address was the Royal Air Force club in London, but the records of the club show that he was never heard from again after that night when he lifted his glass in the club smokeroom and returned to his squadron in France.

Three in one day was a pleasant reassurance to the flying uhlan that he was getting back into his old form, but it could not wipe out the fact that the total German air losses for the previous three days had been much larger than those of the British.

On the following day he knocked out another home run for death and closed his books for the month of March.

His victims were another team of 19-year-old second lieutenants; Joseph Bertram Taylor and E. Betley.

Three English Armstrong planes were shot down that day, but two of them fell behind their own lines. The only one unaccounted for was that occupied by Betley and Taylor, who were reported lost over the enemy lines.

That day of Richthofen's seventy-fourth victory marked the opening of the first battle of Arras in 1918.

While the fighting on the ground continued with intensity, there appears a lull of four days in the records of the German ace's conquests.

ANOTHER decoration was the reward granted to Richthofen at the beginning of the last month of his life.

It was the Kaiser himself who signed the citation on April 1, 1918, by which the Red Knight of Germany added another and the last ribbon-hung bauble to the collection that adorned the breast of his dress tunic.

Manfred's last medal was granted in recognition of his seventieth victory—the late afternoon party on March 26, when he shot down Leggatt and Reading in flames. The citation did not reach him until after he had added five more to his bag.

The ace's seventy-fifth victory was paid for with the lives of 19-year-old Second Lieutenant E. D. Jones and Second Lieutenant R. F. Newton. It happened April 2.

Eddie Jones enlisted in the British army reserve when he was 17. That was in January, 1916. Another year and he managed to get into the officers' cadet wing of the Royal Flying Corps at Farnborough. He reached the front as a full fledged pilot before his nineteenth birthday, which he celebrated on March 6, 1918.

Richthofen killed him four weeks later.

The comparison of Richthofen's report of his seventy-fifth victory with the British air casualty lists for that day establish in the uniformity of time, place, type of plane, and other circumstances that Eddie Jones and his observer, Newton, both of the Fifty-second Squadron, were the victims. They left their airdrome at noon on April 2 in an old R. E. plane, engaged on a low-flying bombing expedition.

Newton, the observer, was highly praised, not by name, but by reference, on the afternoon of his death, when Richthofen sat over a late lunch at the squadron's advance quarters and related the story of the killing for the benefit of an unexpected guest, Lieut. Lampel.

Other members of staffel 11, including Lieuts. Weiss, Wolff and Gassman, had donned the coats of their gray service uniforms. Some of the flyers still had smears of oil on their cheeks. They were all young and tingling from the last flight over the line.

Lampel, the visitor, was meeting the famous ace for the first time. He was shy in Richthofen's presence.

LAMPEL asked what success the squadron had had in the air that day.

"I have just brought down my seventy-fifth enemy plane," Richthofen replied simply.

While Lampel babbled congratulations, Richthofen was looking silently out of the door. The obsession of the burning planes was again in his mind, refreshed by the hour-old memory of Jones' and Newton's plunge earthward in fire.

"Queer," he began slowly, "but most of the last ten I shot down burned. The one I got today also burned. At the beginning it was only quite a small flame under the pilot's seat, but when the machine dived I could see that the seat had been burned through."

"You almost touched him in the air," Gassman interrupted. "We all saw you fly so close to him that it seemed a collision was inevitable. You scared me stiff."

"Yes, it was close," Richthofen replied with a smile. "I believe that observer, whoever he was, was a tough party—a first-class fighting man. I flew within five yards of him until he had enough. But in spite of the fact that I believe I had hit him before, he kept shooting at me even to the very last moment. The slightest mistake and I should have rammed him in the air."

The tale was interrupted by the appearance of a slim young officer in the doorway of the hut. He held a telegram in his hand.

"Congratulations, Captain, I congratulate you!" he shouted.

THEN, drawing himself erect, he announced formally: "His Majesty the Emperor has graciously conferred on you the Third Class Order of the Red Eagle with Crown and Swords on the occasion of your seventieth victory."

He took the official telegram from the officer and prepared to leave for his quarters.

"Listen, everybody," he said, standing in the doorway. "I won't be with you in the air this afternoon, but I will be watching you from the ground, and I'll know whether you are doing your best or not. I must go forward and inspect a new flying field for the squadron. Good luck to all of you."

Under the spur of their leader's parting remarks, the flyers of the circus took the air that afternoon and brought down three more English planes.

One each was bagged by Wolff and Weiss, thus completing a credit of 250 planes for Manfred's original staffel 11. This record was the highest of any staffel in the German air service at that time. The third victim fell to another staffel under Manfred's command, making its total record 100 victories.

New Hair Mode Seen in New York
The most beautiful girls in New York are doing their hair the new way. It's so lovely, but so simple. That's why it appeals to popular girls, who need to save time wherever they can. One of the busiest of them is attractive Mary Chandler, for three seasons a member of "George White's Scandals" and now appearing in "Artists and Models." She says: "I am so busy, I don't know how I'd take care of my hair, if I hadn't learned the new way so many of my girl friends are doing theirs.
"All I do now is put a few dashes of Danderine on my brush each time I use it. This wonderful preparation keeps my hair looking so lovely that many friends want to touch it. I set my waves with Danderine, too, and it holds them ever so much longer. All dandruff disappeared with a few applications, and my scalp always feels fine. I shampoo just once a month, now. Danderine keeps my hair so clean."
Danderine removes that oily film from your hair and gives it new life and lustre. It makes hair easy to dress and holds it in place. It isn't oily and doesn't show. It gives tone and vigor to the scalp. All drug stores have the 35c bottles. A delicately fragranced necessity for the well-groomed girl.

WHITER CLOTHES

No Scrubbing No Boiling
YOU'LL never know how white and bright clothes can come from the washer or tub—until you've tried Rinso!
The secret is in the suds. Rinso suds are thick and creamy even in the hardest water. And they last until you're ready to rinse. These safe suds whiten clothes without boiling—sterilize, too!
Since Rinso is granulated, it dissolves completely. And it rinses off easily, carrying grime, grease and stains along. No "rubbed-in" soap remains to yellow your cottons and linens.
Rinso asks no help of bar soaps, chips or water softeners. It's all you need, no matter how hard the water.
And Rinso goes so far! A little makes a great tubful of soapy suds. Not empty bubbles, but real suds.

The AUTOMATIC TRAFFIC COP

Invention, Now Being Tried Out, Enables Autoist to Change Lights on Traffic Signal Merely by Sounding His Horn.

TRANSMITTER HORN
SOUND WAVES FROM HORN STRIKE TRANSMITTER, WORKING THE LIGHTS

Photograph with insets showing how new traffic device works.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

BALTIMORE, Maryland.

WHILE the automatic changing-light signal, or "silent policeman," has proven its worth to traffic experts all over the country, there are times when the motorist would like to smash its queer eyes with a jack handle.

You are driving, suppose, along a main artery of traffic, packed from curb to curb with automobiles traveling at a rate of from 25 to 30 miles an hour. You are in a hurry and, with "the breaks," will be able to keep your engagement by a matter of seconds. But there are, on your route, two side streets which are protected by automatic traffic signals, regulated by clockwork. As you approach each one, the soft green eye of the "silent policeman" flares into an ominous amber warning and then to a dangerous red. Brakes grind, tires leave black streaks on the pavement and everyone halts—and during the half or three-quarter minute delay not a single automobile takes advantage of the cessation of traffic to cut across the intersection. It just happens that nobody is using the side street just at the time and the moments of the delay become an absolute loss.

AN ACCESSORY to the automatic signal, now being tried out in an outlying district of Baltimore, may obviate this annoyance. In a few words, it amounts to this: that the signal shall show green, or "go," to motorists on the heavily-traveled highway until such time as someone on the side street wants to cut through. The man on the side street merely sounds his horn, causing the signal to change, the waves of traffic part and he proceeds through the opening and on his way. As he passes, the signal reverts back to normal and the flow along the highway resumes its previous pace.

Charles Adler, well-known signal engineer of Baltimore, has utilized sound waves and the microphone in an effort to solve the problem.

As the motorist approaches Charles street at a certain intersection in Baltimore, where the Adler experiment is being tried, his eye will first be caught by a microphone installed two or three feet off the ground on a pole, between himself and the pole on which rests the signal.

Following instructions, the motorist sounds his horn, which is about on a level with the microphone. Sound, of course, is a matter of waves which travel outward from their source. These waves, which are invisible, strike the diaphragm of the microphone, a delicate surface which is highly sensitive to vibrations, and hence to sound waves, which are vibrations in the ether.

The diaphragm vibrates, reproducing the sound waves within the microphone. Due to the fact that the microphone is connected with the signal by a wire, which is electrified, the sound waves now become electrical impulses. Before reaching the signal, however, the impulses pass through a device known as a "vibrating relay," which changes the electrical impulses into mechanical movement, that is, makes them capable of exerting a mechanical force, such as pushing or lifting.

Now the original horn sound, in the form of a mechanical movement, is ready to enter the mechanism of the signal and a few words on what makes the lights change in the signal will be necessary.

THIS is a matter of electrical contacts, governed by the clockwork mechanism. When north-south traffic is to be motioned ahead, for example, certain contacts are necessary to illuminate the green lenses on the north and south sides. When this period is up, and the east-west line is to be signaled "go," the contacts are mechanically shifted so that the amber lenses glow and then they are again shifted so that the red lights on the north and south sides glow and the green on east and west.

When the horn's sound, now in the form of mechanical movement, is ready to enter the signal, the contacts are so established that the green lenses facing north and south are illuminated, for the north-south traffic is in full swing, and the Adler experiment is to help the occasional driver on the intersecting street to get through. The rest is very simple. The mechanical force of the sound shifts the contacts so that the signal changes its colors in all directions, the general effect being as though someone had thrown a switch, shifting electrical current off its course and shunting it in another direction.

The clockwork can be so regulated that the motorist making the crossing may have any number of seconds which experience may dictate to get across the highway, when the mechanism will once more swing the contacts back to their original position and traffic will again resume its customary direction.

Obviously, this device will not admit of use at all intersections, but only at those where the proportion of traffic on the main artery is overwhelmingly larger than that on the intersecting street.

Charles Adler, in his laboratory, demonstrating with a motor horn.

"Every 3,000 Miles This Amazing Little Device Buys Me a New Tire...FREE"

"THE money I save on gasoline more than keeps me in new tires. Figure it out . . . I was getting 12 miles per gallon on my Nash. With gas at 18c plus 2c tax it cost me $46 to drive 3000 miles. Now I'm getting better than 26 miles per gallon. It takes just half the gas and I save $23 to $25 every 3000 miles—more than the price of a new tire."

No matter what make of car you drive, the Stransky Vaporizer is unconditionally guaranteed to give you 50% to 100% more miles per gallon or it costs you nothing. As a matter of fact, it is not uncommon for the Stransky Vaporizer to more than double gasoline mileage!

Note These Records

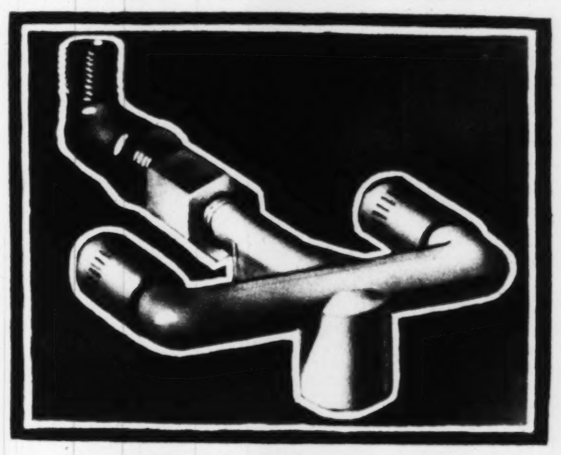
Forty-three miles per gallon from a Chevrolet, reported by F. S. Carroll. Fifty-seven miles on one gallon in a Ford, reported by J. T. Jackson, Michigan. Forty miles per gallon in a Dodge from Brownsville, Tex., to Tampico, Mex., reported by T. L. Brown.

Proved by Two Million Owners

Records like these are reported in every mail for every make and model car . . . from 72 different countries . . . the world over. More than two million Stransky Vaporizers have been installed.

43.8 Miles Per Gallon

Mr. M. E. Miller, Kansas City, writes: "You people claim a saving of 25 to 50% of Gasoline. I have subjected the Vaporizer to a severe and thorough test. After installing one on a Chevrolet, I found I was obtaining 43.8 miles to a gallon whereas formerly I had been getting only 19.5. That is not a saving of 25 to 50% but 124%, so you see that the actual test surpasses your claim."



FITS ANY CAR IN 5 MINUTES

Anyone can install this device in 5 minutes. Simply loosen one connection to the intake manifold with a wrench. You can do the rest with your fingers!

Easily Installed

No bigger than a dollar coin—no more expensive than a good wrench—no more trouble to attach than a fan belt! Attaches to the intake manifold of any car in five minutes. Anyone can do it.

Less Gasoline—More Power

The Vaporizer supercharges your gasoline after it leaves the carburetor. Completely vaporizes the gasoline. Under this ideal condition you get more compression out of less gasoline and a more complete explosion. Both power, pickup and speed are noticeably increased. Starting is not interfered with as the Vaporizer automatically shuts itself off when the motor is idle.

Make This Test

Test the Stransky Vaporizer on your car—and expect results that will amaze you! Double your mileage—get flashing pickup and power—forget carbon troubles, sluggish motor and fouled spark plugs from over-rich mixture—and save enough on your gasoline to more than keep you in tires. These results are guaranteed or the test costs you nothing.

A lovely skin
must have three things

THE three characteristics of a lovely, youthful complexion—firm muscles, smooth skin and clear color—depend, logically enough, on three things—a healthy circulation, thorough cleansing and lubrication suited to the needs of the individual skin.

This Dorothy Gray learned from her long experience in caring for the faces of thousands of women. The treatments which she evolved are therefore remarkably successful because they have as their basis the stimulation of the circulation into healthy activity, combined with preparations especially designed to supply the balanced cleansing, lubrication and protection suitable for each type of skin.

Dorothy Gray's special preparations—and a booklet with full directions for their ready home use—may be obtained at leading St. Louis shops.

His Winning SMILE ... makes many Friends

Mr. William Hamilton tells us he has protected his teeth with Colgate's for nearly 20 years

Drawn from a snapshot of Mr. Hamilton in 1908

MR. William Hamilton is considered a very attractive young man. Bright, interesting, full of personality.

Much of his popularity is due to a remarkable smile . . . . a smile that has made him many friends.

And since 1908 Mr. Hamilton has kept his smile flashing and healthy by brushing his teeth daily with Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream.

In this country, and in foreign countries the world over, you will find thousands and thousands of men and women who began using Colgate's ten, fifteen, even twenty years ago, and whose teeth today are exceptionally sound and beautiful.

There is nothing mysterious about these enviable results. The men and women fortunate enough to secure them did nothing that you cannot easily do yourself.

They visited their dentists for periodic inspections. And they used Colgate's. Choose your dentifrice on the basis of results.

Follow the lead of those who have kept their teeth sound for years.

Simply adopt for your own use the dentifrice most popular among people with well-preserved teeth. The one most dentists recommend.

On one hand you have Colgate's, the chief feature of which is thorough cleansing. On the other you have the fact that countless people who have used Colgate's for years now have exceptionally fine teeth.

In such a vital matter as the care of the teeth, could there be any safer guide than the actual experiences of thousands of people like yourself?

WHY DAINTY WOMEN
Demand Jap Rose

Two things dainty women insist upon in a toilet soap. First, that it shall be absolutely pure; second, that it have the power to remove every trace of grime from congested pores as well as from the surface of the skin.

Consider how perfectly Jap Rose Soap meets both these vital requirements. Its transparency proves its purity—every particle dissolves. Its precious oils, including refined glycerine, produce a silken lather that rids the pores of all dust and powder. Your skin tingles with new beauty and vitality. Try a Jap Rose Shampoo.

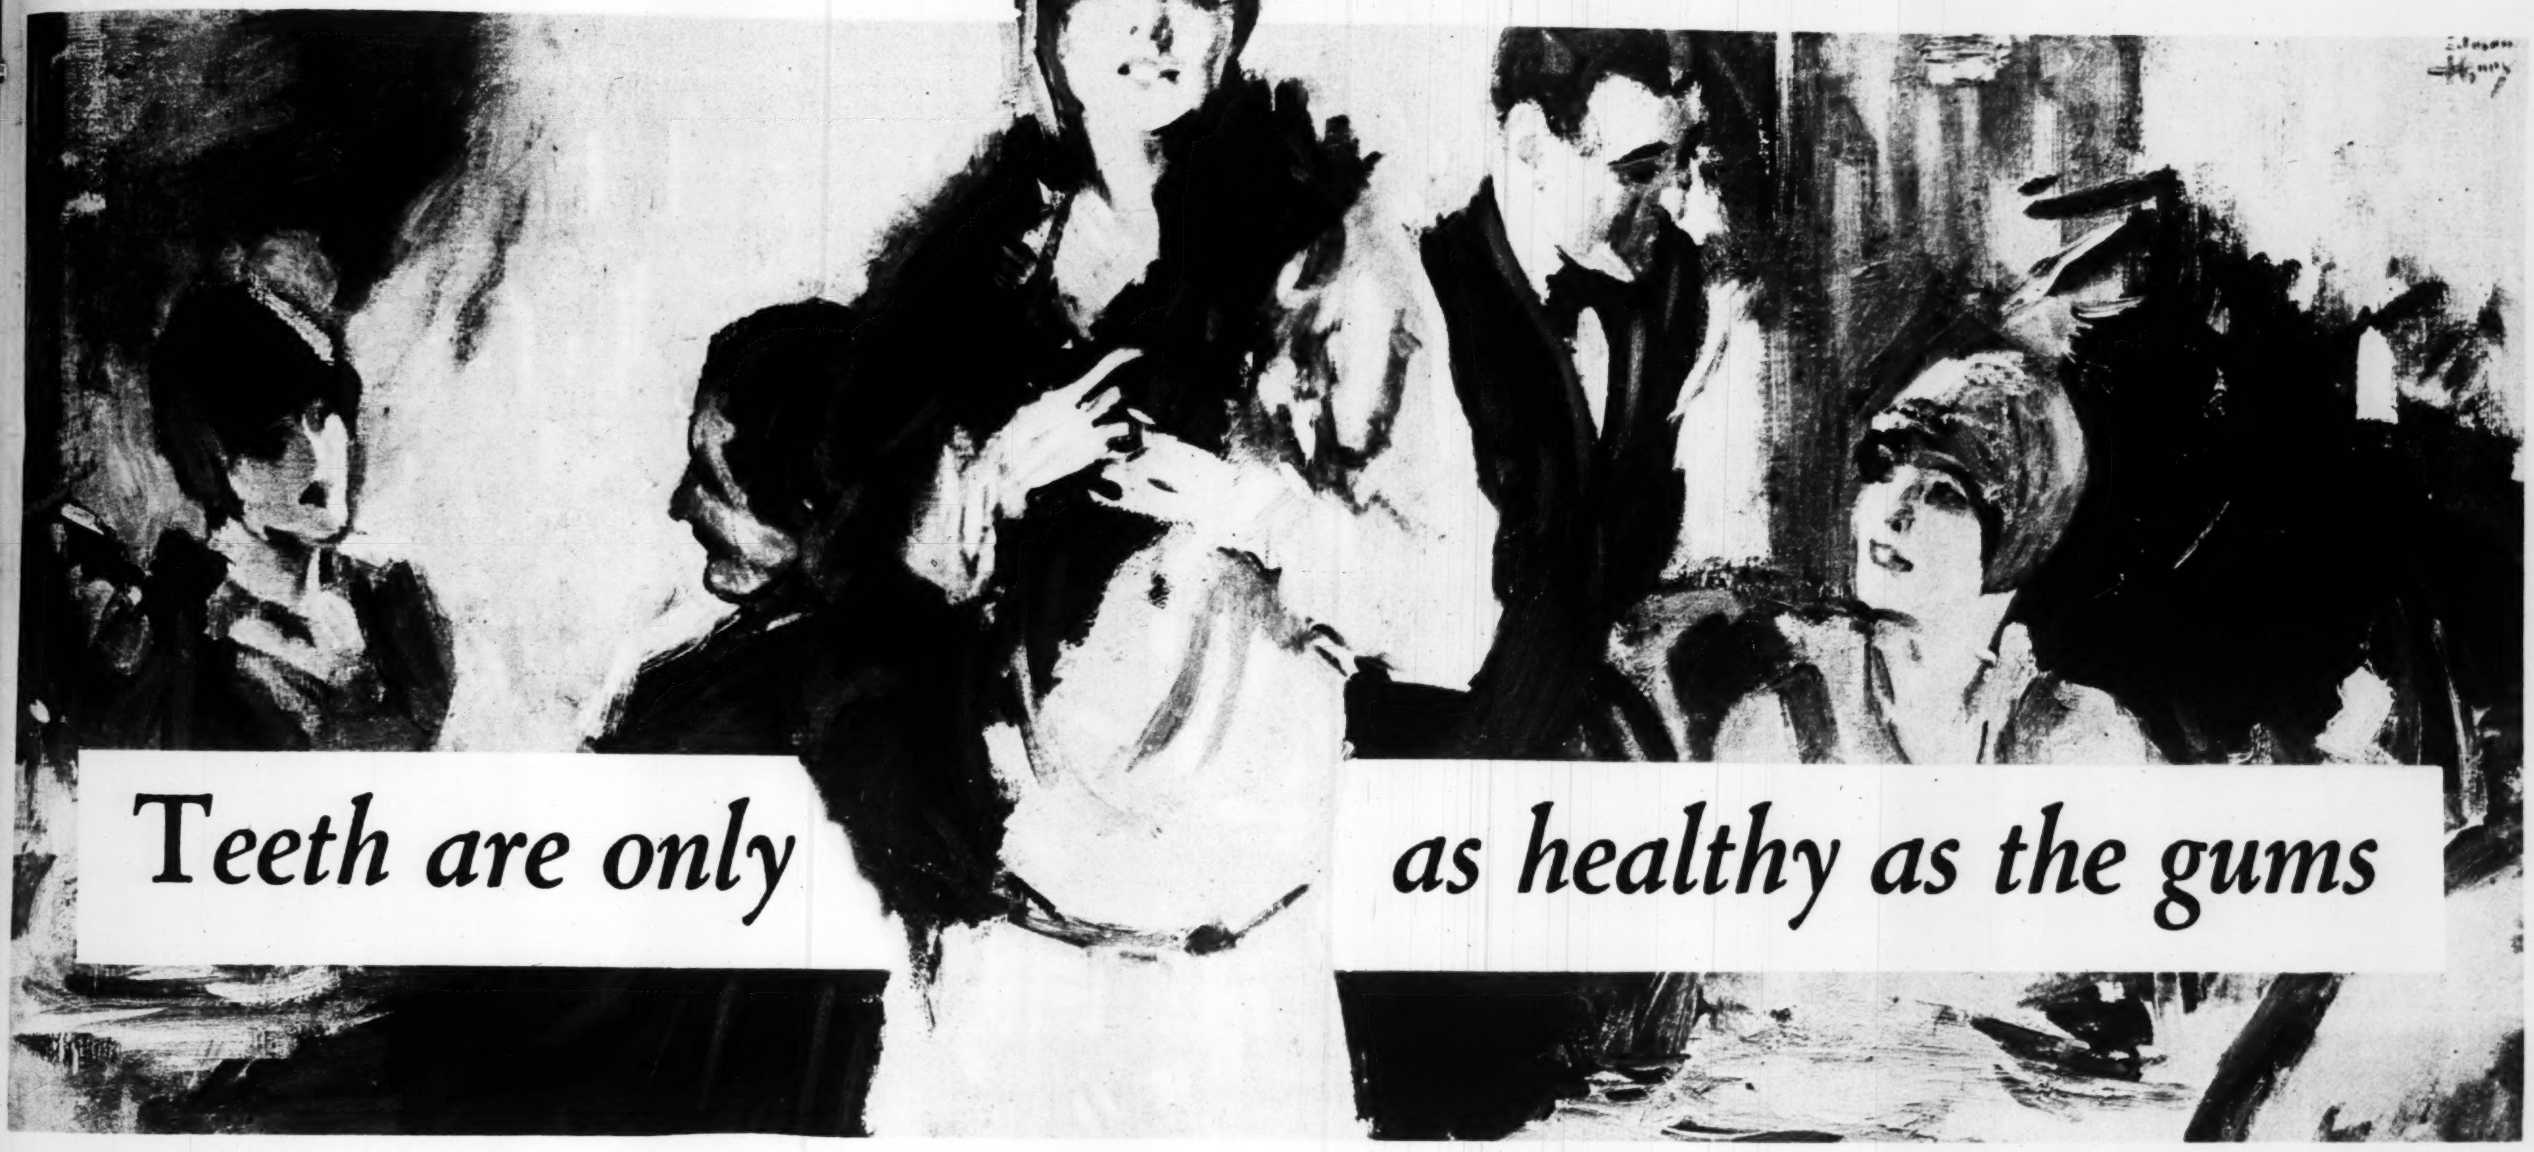
Apparently safe with teeth so glistening white YET...



Teeth are only
as healthy as the gums

WHEN the regular brushing of teeth keeps them as flashing as a pearl, all seems so safe.

Yet . . . there is an insidious foe which ignores the teeth and attacks the gums. Unaware of this fact, 4 persons out of 5 after forty and thousands younger sacrifice precious health. And needlessly too, because this sworn enemy of mankind—Pyorrhea, avoids firm, healthy gums.

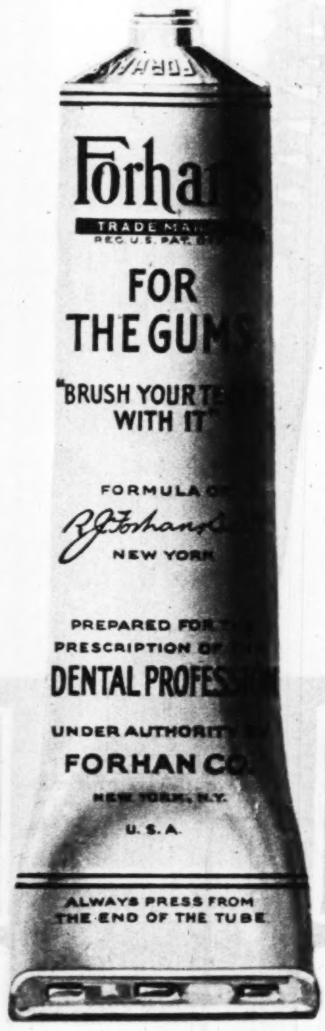
So take this precaution: Use a dentifrice that keeps teeth white and also helps to firm gums and keep them healthy.

Daily, every morning and every night, brush teeth and gums with Forhan's for the Gums.

Without the use of harsh abrasives it cleans teeth quickly and helps to restore them to their natural whiteness. It protects them from acids which tend to cause decay.

It is the formula of R. J. Forhan, D. D. S., for many years a Pyorrhea specialist. And it is compounded with Forhan's Pyorrhea Astringent used by dentists in the treatment of Pyorrhetic conditions.

Now take measures that will help to safeguard precious health, beauty and youth against the ruthless attack of Pyorrhea. See your dentist at least twice each year. Have him examine teeth and gums thoroughly. And start using Forhan's for the Gums, morning and night, every day. Teach your children this good habit. They'll thank you in later years. Get Forhan's from your druggist. In tubes, 35c and 60c. Forhan Company, New York.



If gums bleed easily, if they are tender, apply Forhan's. With the index finger vigorously rub with a circular motion the upper gums, both inside and out, until they feel invigorated. Then massage lower gums. Do this regularly and gums will soon become firm and sound.

With your thumb and forefinger massage the gums both inside and out and the roof of the mouth as well. Massage until you feel the pleasant tingle of increased blood circulation.

Your gums should always look like this—even, sound and healthy. Keep them so by exercising them. Twice daily, massage them with Forhan's for the Gums—the dentifrice that safeguards the health of the gums and cleanses teeth.

We Were Right. More and more people are realizing the importance of oral hygiene. Every morning and every night, they use Forhan's Antiseptic Refreshant. It protects mouth, nose and throat from infection. It keeps breath sweet and fresh. It is safe, effective and pleasant. Try it.

It's Easy to Lose Fat

Millions Are Telling About It

A great number of slender women are telling this story to others. They have done so for two decades. Now you see the results in every circle. Note how slenderness prevails. Excess fat is nowhere near as common as it was.

The story is this: "I took Marmola prescription tablets—four a day. No abnormal exercise or diet was required. New beauty came, new health and vitality. I ceased them when my weight came down to normal. Now I take Marmola only when I start to gain again."

Marmola contains a scientific discovery, based on wide research and thousands of experiments. Men thus found a substance which in the body turns food into fuel and energy, rather than into fat.

Marmola supplies that substance, plus other helps. The complete prescription is in every box, also the reasons for results. Thus you may know just why the good comes, and have no fear of harm.

Marmola has for 20 years brought priceless benefits to people over-fat. Those people have told the results to others, and the use has spread. Millions of boxes have been used to contribute to the slender figures of today.

Go try it for a little time and watch how the fat disappears. Then tell others about it, in kindness to your friends. It means a great deal to many. Go order before you forget it.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

Are you a Skinflint toward your Beauty?

The business of keeping Youth and Beauty on Tiptoe is one of the Arts of Life!

TO GUARD in all its unspoiled freshness that lovely gift called Youth; to look twenty until one is thirty-five—or more; to be fleet as Diana, racing with the years! What could be for any woman a more thrilling pursuit?

But you can't be a skinflint toward your beauty, taking care of your skin just now and then! You can't give yourself a furious facial today, neglecting it tomorrow. The cultivation of beauty must be recognized as one of the fine Arts of Life!

Strange as it may seem, however, few women have grasped these A B C's of beauty culture! Recently we asked hundreds of women in two average American cities to tell us how they take care of their skin. The answers were shocking!

Scores admitted they'd love to look young and pretty, but they just don't know how! Others declare they know, but admit they forget! They pursue an orgy of beauty-culture once or twice a month, but lapse spinelessly between.

WE WERE SHOCKED...

POOR dears, how short-sighted! Giving the skin some simple form of daily care is as important as brushing one's teeth! Almost as easy! Ten times as much fun!

And the woman who has a spark of imagination finds keeping herself in the bloom and freshness of an English garden, as inspiring as planning a new frock! Indeed, she even takes pleasure in devoting a few moments each day to this richly rewarding end!

FOLLOW for just a few weeks the simple program outlined here. If you haven't then acquired a soft, firm, beautiful skin, why—we'll send you the Moon or anything you like, parcel post prepaid!

Perhaps you think your face is really clean! But is it? Examine your chin and nose in a magnifying mirror.

You'll get a jolt that will send you skipping to the cold cream jar! At least twice a day your skin needs a thorough, fundamental cleansing with a pure cleansing cream to free the pores of their deep accumulations of oil, powder, perspiration and dust.

For this try Pond's. You will delight in the fragrant lightness of its touch and the purposeful manner in which its pure fine oils, melting and spreading, go after the dirt in the depths of your pores! Use it generously, applying with light upward and outward strokes.

AND for removing the Cream do you know about the perfectly exquisite Tissues you can buy now in any store?

YOU'LL GET A JOLT...

Pond's just simply had to make them. For the women we talked to fairly begged us for tissues soft and fine enough. And, goodness knows, they needed them—for they were removing cold cream with bath towels and washcloths and even their best linens!

We felt we must put a stop to that! So now you can buy Tissues of such good quality and so ample that they absorb all oil and moisture instantly, never rolling up into horrid little balls!

LIKE A DIP IN A POOL...

These same women we interviewed gave us still another idea. They said, "What can you tell us that feels as fresh to the skin as a dip in a mountain pool?" We couldn't answer that question then. But we can now.

Pond's new Skin Freshener, used when you first get up in the morning, gives you just this very sensation! There never was such a delicious awakening, such refreshment for the skin!

And you'll love it just as much, too, when you come in, weary, at the end of the day, with your skin feeling as thick and drawn as the top of a drum!

PATTING new life into your face with the delicious Pond's Cleansing Cream; removing the Cream with the new Pond's Tissues; giving your skin a final refreshment with the new Pond's Freshener—this will simply make your face over for the evening—and your spirits, too!

Another thing. This new Pond's Freshener contains a special healing ingredient quite its own, which prevents any little roughness or soreness of the skin. So you need not fear its frequent use.

Were you ever so lovely as now? You look and feel as smooth and fair as a lily. Oh! But wait! There's one more touch—the lily must be given an added pearliness, a frosty glow, before she faces the world and stoops to conquer it!

Brush your skin lightly over with that exquisite finishing Cream Pond's also makes. Of course you know it—Pond's Vanishing Cream. Feather-light, it gives your skin an alabaster glow, an almost miraculous fineness and smoothness.

WAKE UP YOUR SKIN...

Now for your favorite rouge and powder! Never did they go on so smoothly, so naturally—and cling so long!

Your skin looks perfectly lovely now, in its soft sheen of renewed youth. For these four products made by Pond's are all the most delicate skin requires to keep the fresh, firm, unlined quality that is given us with our youth.

Use them faithfully every day! These same youthful looks will be yours, just as surely, in your maturer years. Send for the new Pond's products.

"OFTEN SO TIRED I could hardly finish the program"

Philadelphia, Pa.

"In business all day—then, every evening well into the night, practising with our little orchestra . . . no wonder I began to feel continually tired!

"What sleep I could get didn't seem to do me any good. My weight dropped to 112 pounds, my face lost all its old healthy color.

"As our engagements became more frequent, matters became even worse. I was often so fagged that I wanted to drop out, but as part of the orchestra I was forced to see it through.

"This kept up till, on the suggestion of a young man in the office, I began eating Fleischmann's Yeast. I ate a cake before each meal, and in less than three months my color had come back and my weight was again normal. Today, instead of dreading our engagements I look forward to them with pleasure."

Edward T. Brown, Jr.

As fresh as the tenderest home-grown vegetables, Fleischmann's Yeast is a food, not a medicine.

Easily, naturally it cleanses the intestines of poisons—softening the intestinal contents and toning up the sluggish muscles. The result is prompter, more complete elimination—improved digestion—a clearer, healthier complexion.

Order 2 or 3 days' supply at a time from your grocer and keep it in any cool, dry place. Also at many leading cafeterias, lunch counters and soda fountains. And write for our latest booklet on Yeast in the diet—free. Health Research Dept. N-952, The Fleischmann Company, 701 Washington Street, New York City.

Enjoying her new-found health . . . Miss Margaret Berry of Chicago, in action on the basketball floor. Miss Berry writes:

"I used to be all tired out every morning before going to school. I was nervous and irritable, and even resented the fact that I had to eat.

"And I was bothered with a breaking out on my back.

"My friend told me about Fleischmann's Yeast and, though I doubted that it would do me any good, I began to eat it before every meal. In a very short time I began to enjoy my meals again. I now feel better in every way. And my skin is better, too."

Margaret Berry, Chicago, Ill.

RIGHT

"I have been a long distance runner for twenty-two years. Work hard all day, then go to the gym and run ten miles or more three times a week.

"When in training for a long run, as for my recent 70-mile endurance test, I eat several cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast every day around mealtime or between meals.

"I have eaten Fleischmann's Yeast regularly for twelve years. I carry a little case that holds three cakes, and I defy anyone to catch me when I haven't got at least one cake on my person. Fleischmann's Yeast tones you up and makes you feel fit."

Harry Duell, Minneapolis, Minn.

New health, new zest in life—this easy way:

Eat three cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast regularly every day, one cake before each meal or between meals. Eat it plain, or dissolved in water (hot or cold) or any other way you like. For stubborn constipation physicians say it is best to drink one cake in a glass of hot water—not scalding—before meals and before going to bed. Train yourself to regular daily habits. Dangerous cathartics will gradually become unnecessary.

All the features of the new Ford cars are brought to you in this new Coupe . . . smart low lines and beautiful colors . . . 40-horse-power engine . . . remarkable acceleration . . . 55 to 65 miles an hour . . . 20 to 30 miles per gallon of gasoline . . . four-wheel brakes . . . Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers . . . new transverse, semi-elliptic springs . . . Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield . . . typical Ford reliability and long life . . . low first cost and exceptionally low up-keep cost.

You ride in complete comfort when you ride in the new Ford car

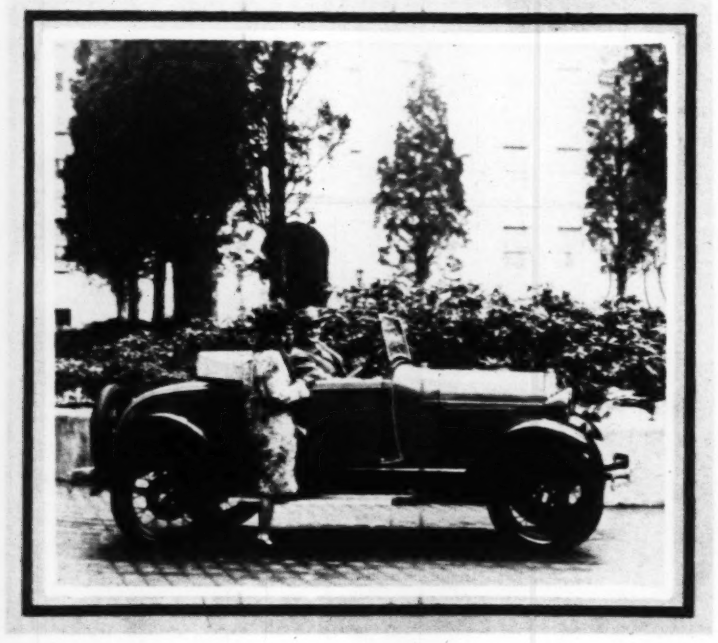
MANY factors have contributed to the unusual comfort of the new Ford.

First of all, you are comfortable in mind because you are sure of the mechanical performance of this car. You know it has been built to endure—to give you thousands upon thousands of miles of faithful, uninterrupted service.

Physical comfort is yours because of the roominess of all of the new Ford cars, the restful seat cushions set at just the right tilt, the low center of gravity, and the Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers.

But the most important reason for the easy-riding comfort of the new Ford is the low ratio of unsprung weight to sprung weight, due principally to the new transverse springs.



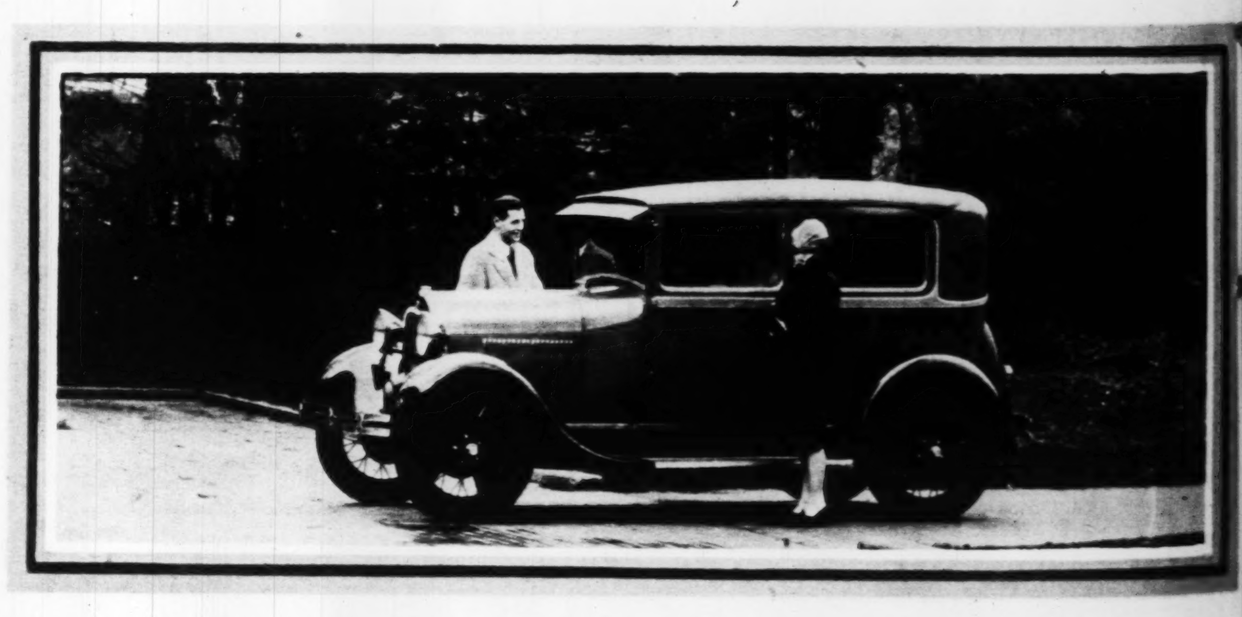
As speedy as it looks is the new Ford Roadster. And so comfortable and easy-riding that even rough roads may be taken at a fast pace.

The riding quality of any car, as you may know, depends to a great extent upon the ratio of the weight carried above the springs (the sprung weight) to the weight carried below the springs (the unsprung weight).

The less the unsprung weight in ratio to the sprung weight, the easier riding the car will be. If the weight below the spring is unusually heavy or out of proportion to that above, it imparts road shocks with greater force, thus lessening riding comfort.

In the transverse type of spring used on the new Ford, but one spring is used on each axle, the spring being bolted to the frame at the center, or heavy part, and suspended from shackles on the axle. By this principle of suspension the weight of the springs becomes part of the sprung weight of the car instead of the unsprung weight.

Road shocks are imparted at the outer flexible end of the spring. The most sensitive part of the spring thus receives the shock first, diminishing the effects of sharp impacts before they reach the sprung weight of the car. Rebound of the springs to such impacts is controlled by the Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers, especially designed for the new Ford car.



Restful riding comfort is an outstanding feature of the new Ford Tudor Sedan. A great family car because of the generous room provided for all five passengers.

These shock absorbers give the spring a free range of action when the car is being driven over smooth highways. There is instant shock-absorbing effect as soon as the car encounters any bump on the road.

Other factors in the low unsprung weight of the new Ford are the construction of the front axle and the new rear axle housing, which is made entirely of steel and is therefore lighter—and stronger—than rear axle housings made of malleable iron castings.

There are definite, understandable reasons, therefore, why the new Ford car is one of the most comfortable cars on the road today.

Prove this for yourself by arranging for a demonstration. Check up on comfort, on speed, on power, on acceleration, on hill climbing, on gasoline economy, on safety, on reliability, on low up-keep cost, and you will know there is nothing quite like the new Ford anywhere in design, quality and price.

The new Ford Roadster sells for $385, the Phaeton for $395, the Tudor Sedan for $495, the Coupe for $495, and the Sport Coupe, including a wide, substantial rumble seat, for $550. (All prices F. O. B. Detroit.)

MAURICE! SNAP OUT OF IT, MAURICE. HERE COMES A CUSTOMER!
HOW DO YOU DO SIR! SOMETHING FOR YOU SIR?
AH, LET ME THINK....? OH! YES, WHERE'S YOUR CITY DIRECTORY?
ROE.....ROE......ROE.... AH, MAYBE YOU CAN HELP ME BROTHER. I'M LOOKING FOR WILETTE ROE AND THERE'S A PAGE TORN OUT RIGHT WHERE —OH, OH! HERE'S TWO MORE OUT. OH WELL ACCIDENTS WILL HAPPEN!
AHEM! AHEM!
THAT'S ALL RIGHT SIR! YOU NEEDN'T APOLOGIZE FOR TEARING THE DIRECTORY. I'M SURE IT WAS AN ACCIDENT. AHEM! DID YOU WANT ANYTHING ELSE, SIR?
YES, I'D LIKE TO GET A DRINK OF WATER. COLD WATER!
MAURICE WAKE UP!
IS THERE ANYTHING ELSE SIR?
YES, I'LL TAKE ANOTHER DRINK OF WATER. AND WHERE'S YOUR PHONE?
I BEG YOUR PARDON AGAIN GIRLIE BUT I KNOW POSITIVELY THAT I DID DROP A NICKEL IN FOR THIS CALL....YES I KNOW I MADE TWO OTHER CALLS BUT....VERY WELL. I'LL SEE ABOUT THIS.
MAURICE SNAP OUT OF IT.
THE PHONE IS IN YOUR STORE. I DON'T WANT TO MAKE TROUBLE FOR YOU OR THE PHONE PEOPLE BUT I KNOW MY RIGHTS. THE NICKEL IS NOTHING. I'M THINKING OF THE PRINCIPLE OF THE THING. ALSO—
VERY WELL, SIR, WE'LL REFUND YOUR NICKEL. MAURICE, GIVE THE GENTLEMAN A NICKEL! QUICK!
OPEN THE DOOR QUICK! I'M SUFFOCATING IN HERE! THERE'LL BE A BIG DAMAGE SUIT OVER THIS!
I'M DOING MY BEST SIR! MAURICE! HERE QUICK! HELP ME!
I'M VERY SORRY THE DOOR STUCK. I'LL HAVE IT FIXED AT ONCE. AND NOW IS THERE ANYTHING ELSE SIR?
LET ME THINK...? HAVE YOU GOT ANY TWO CENT STAMPS?
I'M POSITIVE YOU GAVE ME ONLY A QUARTER SIR. POSITIVE. TO MAKE SURE I LOOKED IN THE DRAWER TWICE. I'M ALWAYS CAREFUL ABOUT SUCH THINGS SIR.
SO AM I, BUDDY. I KNOW I HANDED YOU A HALF DOLLAR. HOWEVER, WHY ARGUE? IF YOU THINK YOU CAN BUILD UP A BUSINESS BY GYPING CUSTOMERS, I'M SATISFIED! FURTHERMORE—
ALL RIGHT SIR HERE'S THE QUARTER. WELL SAY NO MORE ABOUT IT. AND NOW IS THERE ANYTHING ELSE.?
YES, I'LL TAKE ANOTHER DRINK OF WATER. AND I NOTICED A SIGN IN YOUR WINDOW OFFERING FREE SAMPLES OF SOMETHING. WHAT IS IT? I'LL TAKE ONE.
SO YOU WERE IN THE NEW DRUG STORE ON THE CORNER? IS IT A NICE PLACE?
IT'S TERRIBLE THE PROPRIETOR IS VERY INDEPENDENT. AN ACCOMMODATING DRUGGIST COULD MAKE A FORTUNE THERE BUT THIS BABY WILL LAST ABOUT ONE MONTH!
